County injunction may block DOT

By ROSS BOSBART

The Allegheny County Board of Supervisors said Tuesday they have taken a step toward issuing an injunction against the borough of Lawrenceville over the proposed construction of its new parking garage.

The county had threatened to sue if the borough, which is an independent municipality, attempted to build the garage without the county's approval.

The county's action comes after the borough filed a petition for the right to build the garage.

Lawrenceville said it has not yet received notification from the county about the injunction.

The county said it will not issue the injunction until after the borough has had a chance to respond.

The borough has 10 days to respond to the county's notice of its intention to file for the right to build the garage.

If the borough fails to respond, the county will move forward with the injunction.

The county has said it wants to block the garage because it would be built on property that is already dedicated for use by the county and its residents.

The county has also said the garage would cause traffic congestion and would be a threat to public safety.

The county has asked the borough to consider using alternative sites for the garage.

The borough has said it has already explored other sites and has determined they are not feasible.

The borough has also said it has a legal right to build the garage on the property in question.

The county has said it will continue to seek an agreement with the borough to resolve the issue.

The county has said it will not build a garage at the site in question until a resolution is reached.

More die in Iran as Moslems strike

TEHERAN, Iran (AP) — At least nine people were killed in violent protests against the government in Iran, the official news agency said Tuesday.

The attacks were in response to the death of a pro-government leader, the Mehr News Agency said.

The attacks came a day after a prominent pro-government leader was killed by a group of demonstrators.

The Mehr News Agency said that the dead included three members of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards Corps, a paramilitary force that is a key supporter of the government.

The agency said the victims were killed in confrontations with demonstrators who were protesting the death of a government supporter.

There have been a number of protests in Iran in recent weeks, with demonstrators demanding an end to government corruption and calling for the release of political prisoners.

Iran has a history of violent anti-government protests, with tens of thousands of people taking to the streets in recent years.

The government has cracked down on dissent, with authorities using force to disperse protests and arresting demonstrators.

The government has also imposed strict controls on the internet and social media, making it difficult for protesters to organize.

The question of how best to respond to the world's worst problems is pressing hunger. Two hundred million people in Asia, Africa and Latin America, according to the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), are already receiving food aid from the United Nations World Food Programme. In addition, hundreds of millions of people are hungry and not yet identified. The FAO estimates that 660 million people in the world are hungry, a figure that is increasing due to population growth and other factors. The FAO says that the world must produce 350 million more tons of food per year to meet the needs of the hungry. The FAO has also warned that the world's food production capacity is not sufficient to meet the needs of the hungry. Occult no game to local witches

By MARK ORLOFSKY

Staff Writer

The world of the occult is a maelstrom where forces of good and evil clash - where ancient deities are worshiped and modern mystics compete for followers. Margaret Hamilton, a prominent figure in this sphere, is known for her role as a medium and seer.

Hamilton was born into a witch family in the 1880s, according to a recent profile by Joan Craven, a noted expert on the occult. The family had a long history of supernatural abilities, and Hamilton grew up surrounded by stories of the paranormal.

At a young age, Hamilton began to display her own abilities, often working with her twin sister, who was also a gifted medium. The two sisters would hold seances and communicate with spirits, often attracting attention from local officials.

In the early 20th century, Hamilton moved to New York City, where she established a cult known as the "Church of the Sisters of the Moon." The group believed in the power of moon phases and often conducted rituals on the full moon.

Hamilton's influence spread far and wide, and her teachings attracted a devoted following. Many of her followers were wealthy and influential, and her influence extended into the highest circles of society.

Despite her fame, Hamilton faced scrutiny and opposition from religious leaders and government officials. In 1934, she was arrested for practicing witchcraft and was sentenced to 10 years in prison. However, she was freed after serving just six months.

After her release, Hamilton continued to work with her followers, often conducting rituals and holding seances. She remained a prominent figure in the world of the occult until her death in 1961.

Despite the controversy surrounding her, Hamilton's influence on the occult world is undeniable. Her teachings continue to attract followers today, and her legacy lives on in the world of the paranormal.

Some say it’s because he gave up a promising film career to head up the Budweiser Racing Team!
But the real reason is that he just likes to win. And he did plenty of that this past season in a pair of Budweiser-sponsored, Bob Sharp-prepared Datsun race cars.

Fifteen races. Twelve wins!
On the pole eight times!
Three track records!

And in the SCCA National Championships at Road Atlanta, he took a second place in his C-Production Datsun 280-Z... and a third in the B-Sedan category with his Datsun 200-SX.

Naturally, we congratulate him for his super season and wish him even greater success in ‘79.

"Way to go, Paul!"

From your friends at Budweiser individuals did come through that day. However, three over, but the top contests have been beaten at the national championship. It’s a huge football game I’ve ever seen.

But we saw the Hawkeyes control the line of scrimmage and establish the school’s longest winning streak at the end of the season. We were a great football team there.

Iowa's current population of 3,125,500 is made up of a diverse mix of people from all over the country. While there are many similarities, there are also some differences between the people who call Iowa home. For example, while many people in the state are of European descent, there is also a significant population of African-American and Hispanic ancestry.

In the early 19th century, Iowa was settled by pioneers who came from the eastern United States. Many of these settlers were of English, Irish, and Scottish descent. As the state grew, it attracted people from other parts of the country, including the Midwest and the South.

Today, Iowa is a state with a rich history and a diverse population. It is a place where people from all walks of life can come together and build a better future. Whether you are a long-time resident or a new arrival, Iowa has something to offer everyone.

Coaching woes —

Gophers' Stoll under fire

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - The defense coordinator of the Gophers was fired after a 41-17 loss to Wisconsin in which the Badgers piled up 384 yards and scored three touchdowns.

Some Gophers players were critical of the move.

"We're going to have to do something about it. We're going to have to make sure we're prepared for the next week," said defensive back
captain Mike Fennel.

"I don't know how much we're going to be able to do, but we're going to have to try," he added.

Another player, who asked not to be identified,
said the coaching changes
were necessary.

"It's hard to overcome that kind of deficit," the player said. "But we're going to try.
We're going to make sure
