Dingle charges 'inordinate delays' in oil investment

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A congressman charged Thursday (October 30) that the Department of Energy (DOE) has been making 'inordinate delays' in oil production, especially in Alaska. John Dingell (D-Mich.), chairman of the House Energy and Commerce Committee, said the DOE has been 'slow in allowing' the Alaska Oil Administration to begin testing for oil. He said the federal government should be more proactive in encouraging private investment in the Alaska oil industry. He said the DOE should be more responsive to the needs of the Alaska oil industry and the American people. City, UI propose jail-site land swap

UI legislators discuss funding

The Iowa City Council will probably accept a proposal to give the UI 12 acres of land for a new jail. Councilor John White said Friday night that the council will probably approve the deal, which would be good for the university, if UI officials agree to construct a jail on a site that would not block the view of the Capitol from the south. White said there are a number of options to make the land available, but the council has to look at all of the options before making a decision. The council would also have to know the cost of the jail before they can make a decision on the matter. The council is not sure how much the new jail would cost, but the proposal includes a site for a new jail. The council is not sure if the new jail would be a part of the project or if it would be a separate project.

The UI also has plans to develop the land for housing, commercial and general use. The UI has been working on the project for several years and has already spent approximately $10 million on the project. A sacred cow speaks on the subject of Trojan horses

In viewing the opening debates between the energy crisis and exploring the feasibility of alternative energy projects that do not depend on Shortly depleted or finite fuels, those who want to control energy needs to go for brake nuclear generator projects predict that the impasse of the latter group doesn't actually exist. An earlier acclimation is there but it is not a matter of disagreement over nuclear energy or wind. The impasse is resolved by the American Chairman of the Energy Board, who recognized that the debate is as much about the future viability of nuclear power as it is about the environment. The point is that the debate should be driven by the energy crisis, not the other way around.

According to Chairman Daze, those who oppose nuclear power are not only scientists, but also the "sacred cows.", and need to be used by mankind to liberate the land. Further, those scientists effectively want non-renewable water utilities, to enable their liberty to "...staff position in the agencies that currently regulate the water." It is not according to the point of the "hate". The why has also that, "even after the nuclear power to make their hazardous ideas, speaking to the public, whose red toad is currently occupied also by an early version of a local water crisis. In this case, the debate is as much about the future viability of nuclear power as it is about the environment. The point is that the debate should be driven by the energy crisis, not the other way around.

In looking for the sustainable future, the "hate" of Chairman Daze and the environmentalists are not alone in the debate. They are joined by those who believe that nuclear power is the key to a sustainable future. The debate is not about whether nuclear power is a solution, but about how to make it a sustainable solution.

Dance Company concert best in years

Judy Akers/Courier

The UI Dance Company presented an expanded concept of dance by dance faculty members in December. This concept included the safest, handiest, simplest, most comfortable and refreshing encounter energy, "the heartbeat of their past and present" as they work in growing up. It never ceased to amaze and stimulate.

Dance

The UI Dance Company presented a new concept of dance that was dramatically alive. This concept included the safest, handiest, simplest, most comfortable and refreshing encounter energy, "the heartbeat of their past and present" as they work in growing up. It never ceased to amaze and stimulate.

Dance was playful, cheerful, and a delight to watch. The dancers moved gracefully and with great precision. They performed a variety of different styles, from the playful and carefree to the dramatic and emotional. The music was well-chosen, perfectly complementing the dancing. It was a joy to watch as the dancers moved in unison, their movements synchronized and graceful. The costumes were colorful and vibrant, adding to the overall visual appeal of the performance. The stage design was simple yet effective, allowing the focus to remain on the dancers and their movements. Overall, it was a fantastic dance performance that left the audience captivated and thrilled. The UI Dance Company truly excelled in their presentation, making it a memorable and enjoyable experience for everyone who attended.
Unity, thrt mark Democratic midterm

Demons endorse service cut inflation fight

NORFOLK, Tenn. (UPI) - Democrats hurled insults at fellow Democrats and ended their six-day nation-wide convention at the close of their second session here Friday, June 11, with a vote for the president's ticket but with a declared lack of enthusiasm for it.

President Carter, declaring that the party's fight against inflation was "useful and necessary..." ended the six-day convention, which had been largely contentious Democrats and other political philosophy and party leaders gather together to argue the alllterative....

"We have never had a more critical time. The resolutions the delegates adopted - including establishment of a new federal energy corporation..."

"I don't view Brown as a serious contender..." - "Carter already does entertain the idea of a presidential campaign..."

"...But he stopped short..."

Carter's anti-inflation platform, which he had used to win the nomination, was defeated on a roll call vote of 1,111 to 1,054. He had opposed the roll call vote, but his aides said he was "strength of party" in the vote for the ticket.

Iowa comeback bid falls short

By JEFF FRISTON
sports editor

Iowa's comeback bid fell short as the Hawkeyes were unable to overcome a 15-point disadvantage in a 70-63 loss to Drake Friday night at the Field House.

"We did everything but score," said Coach Bob Ortegel. "This was a tough game, but we learned a lot. We'll be better next time.""We have to learn how to finish games," Ortegel added.

Iowa's loss was their second straight and the fifth in six games. The Hawkeyes are now 2-2 in the Big Ten Conference.

Coach Digger Phelps said the Hawkeyes were unable to overcome a 15-point deficit as they fell to 6-7 overall and 2-2 in conference play.

"We fought hard, but we just didn't have enough," Phelps said.

The win was Notre Dame's fifth in six games and their second straight over Drake. The Irish are now 11-3 overall and 4-0 in conference play.

Schantz said the search for a head coach is still ongoing.

"We are still looking for a head coach," Schantz said. "We are making progress, but we still have a long way to go."
