Wagner pleads guilty

Vazquez, Hobbs arrest

After reaching a plea- bargaining agreement, 24 year-old University of Iowa forward Armando Wagner has pleaded guilty to the fourth degree assault in connection with the alleged beating of one of his teammates, soccer player Christian Vazquez. Wagner, who was one of three UI football players charged with assault, will be on probation for three years. The three were charged and Wagner and Hobbs were released on $300 bail for a third time — April 10 after they were found to have violated the terms of their previous release.

The trio was arrested March 29 for the beating after they were found engaged in a shouting match with the victim in a shop.

The verdict was announced Tuesday during a pre-trial conference, but since no further action was taken, the player has yet to be called to answer.

Having asked for another delay in the case, Wagner, 17, a Spanish resident, was taken to a Correctional Center before being released. The case was defended by the University of Iowa law school's legal clinic, which had been defending the player since the incident.

The defendant will be required to move to a residential treatment center in addition to the probationary period. The case was defended pro bono by the law school's legal clinic.

In the case of the three defendants, the trial was continued until May 17.

However, the University of Iowa law school has announced that they have agreed to defend the player for the upcoming trial.

Plans for a proposed 24 hour parking garage that was presented to the Iowa City council on Monday have been changed, the city attorney said.

Lawsuit threatened the parking garage project was due to the political issue of the proposed project.

The proposed alterations, which were due to the political issue of the proposed project, included removing the plans for the parking garage and placing them in a new parking lot.

Lawsuit described the alteration as an "unlawful" act for the growth and political of the city.

"There's been a lot of confusion about the alterations," Lawsuit said. "Some people think we're going to make a great service here and that's not the case." Wagner and the city attorney have agreed to bring the project forward and determine how much reasonable damage they may cause.

"You don't know what the consequences of doing this will be, so you must plan to do what you must plan to do.

The baseball will be developed at a "low, steady pace," Lawsuit said. "The project and the budget will determine what we may do, what we may not do." Wagner and the city attorney have agreed to bring the project forward and determine how much reasonable damage they may cause.

Once more into the breach

For the second year in a row, Dormitories at the University of Iowa is unhappy for president of student government, but this time it's more than just a quip. In its previous meeting this past Monday, Dormitories passed a resolution asking for the resignation of the current president, Frank Dedy.

The resolution was passed by a vote of 7-3, with 2 abstentions. Dedy is the third president in three years, following the departure of last year's president, Paul Hunkeler, and the previous president, Scott Kilmann.

The resolution's language was direct and pointed, calling for Dedy's resignation due to "inability to lead." It also noted that Dedy "has not demonstrated the ability to work cooperatively with other student leaders, particularly in the Senate." The resolution further stated that Dedy has "failed to address the concerns of the dormitory residents and has not shown a commitment to their welfare and safety." The resolution also cited Dedy's "inability to communicate effectively with the students he represents." The resolution concluded with a call for Dedy to step down immediately. Dedy was reached for comment but did not respond.

The resolution is the latest in a series of events that have rocked the student government. In addition to the recent departure of Hunkeler, the student government has also faced criticism for its handling of the parking and budget issues. The parking issue has been a particularly contentious one, with students demanding better enforcement and more parking spaces on campus.

The budget issues have also proven to be a challenge. The student government has struggled to balance the budget and provide adequate funding for student organizations. This has led to a number of protests and demonstrations in recent months.

The student government is currently in the process of selecting a new president. The search is ongoing and the new president is expected to be announced in the coming weeks.
Seduction by a bare wall: UI graffiti

Anyone with felt-tips has an equal voice
by Butterfly Creek

Unlike the graffiti at the art center, this UI graffiti is more than an image. It's meaningful, emotional, and a response to the same basic desire for attention and connection. The artist's message is clear: "I feel like I'm trapped in a bad check charge resulting in a broken relationship, but I'm not the only one. It's tough to find love and trust in the modern world."

Music

"And a new message from our resident musician, "You want to be beautiful. It's not just a job. It's an adventure."

Paycheck is more than an image

Johnny Paycheck's quote, "In the nation, a twenty-two-year-old escapist can rise to command of thirty people. By the time he makes his name, age 28 or 29, he can have more managerial experience than most civilians do at thirty. Ask your neighbor about Army officers, or send your inquiries to M. Gary S. Hartley, 747 N. University, Suite 261, Peoria, IL 61614, or call collect (309) 671-7338."
Bilandic tries to hold Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Mayor Richard M. Daley has decided to hold special sessions of the city's independent election board to decide his fate Tuesday morning, two days after a Chicago Federal judge ruled that he was ineligible to run for third term, his lawyer said.

Daley, whose candidacy had been questioned since last Wednesday when a federal court in Chicago ruled that he had failed to meet a 72-hour residency requirement, will hold the hearing to determine his eligibility to run for another term.

The Democratic mayor has been under pressure since last week's ruling by a federal judge to resign, but he has refused to do so.

The hearing is expected to last all day, with testimony from experts on the issue of residency.

Bilandic, a former Chicago police officer, is seeking to challenge Daley's eligibility to run for a third term.

The Chicago Federal judge ruled that Daley had failed to meet the residency requirement, which requires that a candidate live in the city for at least 3 years before the election.

Bilandic has been a controversial figure in Chicago politics, known for his role in the 1971 Chicago school board election, where he challenged the incumbent mayor, Richard J. Daley, who was seeking a third term.

Bilandic's candidacy was ultimately rejected by the Illinois Supreme Court, which ruled that he had not met the residency requirement.

Bilandic is expected to speak at the hearing, where he will argue that he meets the residency requirement.

Daley is expected to address the court at the end of the hearing, where he will argue that he should be allowed to run for a third term.

The hearing is expected to be broadcast on local television and radio stations.

In other news, President Donald Trump has announced that he will hold a special session of the U.S. Senate to discuss the appointment of his new Supreme Court nominee, who is expected to be announced next week.
CIA post in Iran still irks Soviets

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Gary Hart, D-S.D., and Robert K. Dickey, D-Mo., have introduced a bill to stop the CIA from continuing its covert operations in the Islamic Republic of Iran.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Gary Hart, D-Mo., and Sen. Robert D. Byrd, D-W.Va., would prevent the CIA from engaging in any covert operations in Iran, including the training of Iranian spies and the provision of funds to support their activities.

The bill would also require the CIA to provide a detailed report to Congress on its operations in Iran, including the number of agents in place, the amount of money spent, and the nature of the intelligence gathered.

The bill has the support of a number of Senate and House members, including Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Rep. Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y.

The bill was introduced in response to the recent disclosure that the CIA had been secretly training Iranian spies in the United States and providing them with funds to carry out their missions.

The CIA has denied that it is involved in any covert operations in Iran, but has not provided detailed information about its activities there.

The bill is expected to go up for a vote in the near future.
