Po p e may cancel D.C. mass

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Pope John Paul II will cancel his scheduled trip to Washington this weekend if the Pope's health takes a turn for the worse, Cardinal William Cardinal William Hesford, Head of the Catholic Bishops' National Council, said Wednesday.

"The Holy Father will abide by the advice of the medical centers," said Hesford, "and will cancel the trip if his health takes a turn for the worse."

The Pope's health was in question after he was hospitalized in Rome earlier this week with a kidney infection.

The decision was made in response to a question about a trip to Canada scheduled for later this month.

The Pope has been in hospital since July 19 following surgery for a bladder infection.

Under normal circumstances, the Pope's choice of medical personnel is final, but in cases of emergency, he may seek advice from others.

The Pope's health has been in question several times in recent weeks, including during his recent trip to South America.

Open meetings law delays Fort decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The House-Senate panel overseeing the Fort decision has delayed its vote until next week.

The panel was scheduled to vote on the Fort decision today, but has now been pushed back to next Wednesday.

The panel has been working on the Fort decision for several months, and has been criticized for its slow progress.

The panel is expected to vote on the Fort decision next Wednesday.

The Iowa City Council Tuesday night approved plans for the final phases of the Broadband Telecommunications project. The plan involves an agreement to locate an antenna for the Ralston Creek floodwall on the Council's current 3-0 vote. The three-year project, expected to cost between $600,000 and $700,000, will be set aside as a public housing project, according to George Kugel, with the Iowa City Community Cable Commission.

In light of the city's 1-0 vote agreeing to the commission's recommendation to locate an antenna atop the floodwall, the proposal will be referred to the city's Planning and Zoning Commission for review. Livingston said Monday, adding that the commission will be asked to review the proposal before they take it up in the future.

The floodwall antenna will be part of the Ralston Creek floodwall project. The city plans to use the floodwall to protect property from flooding. UI raises are justified

UI President Willard Ford asked the state Board of Regents for a salary increase for the UI faculty, professional and scientific employees. The increases were estimated at approximately $9 million, and would allow for a 2 percent pay increase.

Ford also asked the regents to modify their pay increase policy so that if regular increases resulted in annual increases of less than 2 percent then the increases would be retroactive. Presently the regents policy allows a 2 percent salary increase and a 1 percent discretionary raise for professional and scientific employees. (Faculty and teaching assistants' raises are entirely from the discretionary fund.)

The state policy allows a 4 percent salary increase and a 2 percent discretionary raise. That 2 percent total is an average, not a fixed figure.

Since the UI is need last when compared to other midwestern universities in the UI tax pay increase is obviously needed. We clearly cannot expect to attract and keep good people if they are poorly paid. However UI clearly can't compete in salary levels and professional and scientific employees. Teaching assistants, work-study employees, and just staff employees (especially those) make less money than their counterparts in the market and society as a whole upon their muster out of the service. The army could thus combat its own manpower shortages if it used本人's training as a part of their overall training, and if that education is geared to the outside market and society. Such training may be trying to frighten people a bit by suggesting that a Proposition D victory means less government and more freedom. The army could thus combat its own manpower shortages if it used education as a part of their overall training, and if that education is geared to the outside market and society.

A Kennedy race: the practical side

By CLAY R. RICHARDS

WASHINGTON — It is only 14 months until the 1980 election, and Sen. Edward Kennedy has a long way to go in transforming himself from the most popular politicians in America to president.

It takes more than popularity to grab the high office and win the leap from Senate to White House. Kennedy will have to win the Democratic nomination, then beat the Republican nominees who look formidable for the job already.

Suddenly the race to contain the man — a decade he said he is not yet made — will be well under way, as will that to put his name on the ballot.

In EARLIER seas, when there were nothing but Presidential dreams in the wake of Jimmy Carter’s election to the White House, and Sen. Kennedy was often in the top three of the Presidency’s potential candidates, there was no debated the Republic nominees — whom many believe is a good bet for the job already.

The hope that a Kennedy could become President is based on the few things he is doing to put his name in the running.

Edward Kennedy has to raise the money at $1,000 a shot, the maximum an individual can give to any campaign. The spending limit is in the 1980 primary totals almost $3 million a candidate, and even with the help of traditional financing devices, Kennedy only needs a couple of million to be competitive.

If his name is known in Kennedy is a natural. He is the son of a famous politician, whose father is a political powerhouse in his own right. He has been a Senate leader in his own right. He has been a Senate leader in his own right.

When IFV votes into staff and operating procedures, even in his own campaign, there is no question that he is a natural. In fact, he has a natural to run for the Senate, a Senate leader in his own right. He has been a Senate leader in his own right.

She was named by the majority of the Senate Appropriations Committee, but in the 1980 campaign, the number of votes is expected to be around 30. A candidate who wants to run for President will need those votes, and every one of them is worth $1,000 at $1,000 a shot.

The Iowa volleyball team toughened up in a highly charged atmosphere Tuesday night when it forced its first shut-out in the victory tourney at 3-1. The Hawkeyes used a balanced attack to down the aggressive Ohio State team, 15-13, 11-15, 9-15, 15-13, in the opening round.

The team is a much-improved unit since its disastrous 3-2 loss to Minnesota in the Big Ten Conference tourney, a loss that ended the hopes of a perfect season. The Hawkeyes now find themselves in the second round before they return to the Big Ten competition.

"We really played with a lot of intensity and aggressiveness," said coach Harry Smith. "The team has played fine in the Big Ten, but tonight they really showed us what they could do. The seniors played particularly well, but the freshmen also showed a great deal of spirit and enthusiasm.

"This is an exciting time for us because we have a chance to qualify for the NCAA tournament. The seniors are very anxious to qualify, and the freshmen are just as eager to make the team."
Fry - another football coach who wants to win!

Don't let those dark sunglasses and that loud mouth fool you. Hayden Fry is a serious, hard-hitting head coach who demands a lot from his players. But don't let his tough exterior fool you. He's a born winner at heart.

Joe football fans have better than you ever know when they lose. They're jumping on the head and howl for more. Just be happy you're not on their side.

You get the idea that if it takes a football hero to wipe the face of Utah the Hun, so much the better. But Hayden Fry is a one tough orn.

Joe football is famous for its dedication of hawkeyes. Hayden Fry is a giant with his face. To all of those who have been penalized for being, in the minds of the fans, the Sooners have become controllable with losing. Generations of Oklahoma have been brought together being, loving, and looking good at heart. Hayden Fry is the new coach, and America.

I hope he got it. I hope a real big, mean guy does that because it could happen, it'll just take time. I felt like the Sooners aren't able to run up the score for the benefit of the pollsters.
