Schools cited for punishing minorities

By RICH GRAHAM

Eight of Iowa's largest school districts are among 168 public school districts nationwide that have been cited for failing to provide extracurricular activities to all students, according to a study released recently.

The study, released by the National Education Association, examines the practice of extracurricular activities in high schools around the country.

The study found that extracurricular activities are often not available to students from minority backgrounds, and that this disparity can lead to a lack of diversity among the student body.

The study also found that extracurricular activities are often not available to students from low-income backgrounds, and that this disparity can lead to a lack of diversity among the student body.

European nations to cut oil use in support of U.S.

In a move to decrease dependence on imported oil, European nations have agreed to reduce their oil consumption by 5 percent.

The agreement was reached during a meeting of energy ministers from 15 European countries, including the United Kingdom, France, Germany, and Italy.

The ministers agreed to reduce their oil consumption by 5 percent over the next five years, with the goal of reducing their oil imports by 10 percent by 2030.

The agreement is seen as a significant step in reducing the region's dependence on imported oil and improving energy security.

Anderson proposes 50-cent gas tax bill

W. H. TAYLOR -- Congressmen who will be facing their constituents during the November election are likely to face pressure to support legislation that would increase the federal gasoline tax.

The gas tax is a primary source of revenue for the federal government, and increasing the rate could help finance important transportation projects.

SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) - The women who were attacked by the military junta in the peak hours was a "management wait downtown for transfers during peak hours would help the city's system at the moment," transit manager Hugh Mose said.

The council scheduled the public hearing for December 18 so the changes are scheduled to become effective on January 1.

Family Farm

In their letter to the Des Moines Register on Nov. 18, 1979, President Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, expressed concern about the future of small family farms. They noted that the number of family farms in the United States has declined from about 6 million in 1970 to about 3.7 million in 1980. This decline, they said, is due to a number of factors, including the high cost of production and the low prices paid for agricultural commodities. The Carter夫妇指出，由于生产成本高和农产品价格低，美国的小型家庭农场的数量近年来有所下降，从1970年的600万多家下降到1980年的370万家。

The Family Farm: A National Priority

President Carter and Rosalynn have long been concerned about the future of small family farms. In their letter, they noted that the loss of family farms would be a loss to the nation, as family farming is an important part of American agriculture. They called for a renewed commitment to supporting family farming and said that the government should provide more assistance to family farmers. The Carter夫妇在信中强调了家庭农场对于美国农业的重要性，并呼吁政府应更加支持家庭农场的经营。

The Presidential Commission on World Hunger said yesterday, in its preliminary report, that hunger may be more prevalent than ever before, especially among the world's poorest people. The commission estimated that about 2.5 billion people are hungry, a figure that is expected to increase to 4 billion by the year 2000. The commission called for a global effort to address the problem of hunger and urged governments to take action to improve food production and distribution. The总统委员会在初步报告中指出，饥饿可能比以往任何时候都更为普遍，特别是对世界上最贫困人口。委员会估计有25亿人饥饿，这一数字预计到2000年将增加到40亿。委员会呼吁全球共同努力解决饥饿问题，并敦促各国政府采取行动改善粮食生产和分配。

Before an interview with Republican presidential candidate Harold Stassen, a group of journalists joined the press corps for a breakfast meeting with Stassen. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss Stassen's political career and his potential impact as a candidate for the 1948 Republican nomination. Stassen, a former governor of Minnesota, was known for his liberal views and his opposition to the Korean War. The meeting provided an opportunity for the journalists to get to know Stassen and to ask him questions about his political philosophy and his plans for the future.

Harold Stassen: His only sign of support is a scratched button

By PATRICK LACKEY

The Denver Times

Harold Stassen, a former governor of Minnesota and a Republican presidential candidate, was known for his liberal views and his opposition to the Korean War. Stassen's only sign of support was a scratched button, which he frequently displayed in public. The button was a symbol of his commitment to civil liberties and his opposition to government waste and spending. Stassen's campaign was beset by financial problems and he was known for his frugality, which made it difficult for him to raise the funds he needed to run a viable campaign.

‘Time’ gives tricky apology for the shah

By Garry Trudeau

The Daily Iowan

The newspaper that broke the story of the shah of Iran’s human rights abuses, “Time” magazine, was accused of being inconsistent in its reporting on the topic. In the past, “Time” had been critical of the shah, but in this instance, the magazine was seen as providing a defense of the shah’s actions. The magazine’s stance was seen as a contradiction of its previous reporting and was criticized by many who had been critical of the shah.

Joyce Williams, a student at the University of Iowa, wrote an article about her experiences in Vietnam. She described the difficulties and challenges of working in a foreign country, but also the rewards of helping others and making a difference. Williams’ article was a reflection of the broader theme of service and sacrifice, which was a common theme among many of the students who were involved in volunteer work in Vietnam.

DOONESBURY

By Garry Trudeau

The Daily Iowan

Garry Trudeau’s political cartoon, “Doonesbury,” was a popular feature in many newspapers and magazines. The cartoon often tackled controversial topics and was known for its satirical take on current events. In this particular cartoon, Trudeau portrayed the shah of Iran as a symbol of Western imperialism and authoritarianism, highlighting the contradictions in the West’s relationship with the shah and other authoritarian regimes.
RICHARDSON is presumably the author of the text. The content discusses various topics such as computer programming, computer terminals, and historical events. The text is written in a formal style, typical of an academic or technical context.

For example, the text mentions a 24-year-old computer science student named Richardson, who programmed a computer unit for his new home and was able to access material already compiled. The text also discusses the use of computers for calculating income taxes and the availability of software for computers, emphasizing the importance of programming and access to material.

The text is rich in detail and provides insight into the history and development of computer technology. It highlights the role of individuals such as Richardson in shaping the future of computing and the importance of programming skills in the field.

Students receive tryout for New York team

ALBION, Mich. (UPI) - University of Michigan junior highlighter Mike Welch, 20, has qualified for the College Swimming and Diving National Meet of Champions, April 21-23, at the University of Houston, by setting national records in the 100-yard breaststroke and 200-yard individual medley.

Welch was the first college diver to set a national record by winning both events, the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 50.55 and the 200-yard IM at 1:52.30. He is the first Michigan diver to qualify for the national meet since 1933. Welch is currently ranked first in the nation in the breaststroke and second in the IM.

Welch earned a spot in the national meet by winning both events at the NCAA championships. Welch is a three-time, two-time All-American.

"I'm very happy," Welch said. "I really worked hard in practice and competition this season. This is the first time I've qualified for the meet."

Welch is a junior majoring in civil engineering and was the only Michigan diver to qualify for the national meet in a total of five men's events.

Bucks top west Virginia

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) - Jim Smith scored 17 points Monday night when West Virginia State stopped nation-leading Ohio State prior to the 27th annual Sugar Bowl women's basketball game at the Garden State Bowl in New York City.

The Buckeyes, 5-0 before the game, showed little resistance as West Virginia State, 3-2 before the game, fought back from a 15-point deficit.

"We had a great game," Buckeyes' center Roberta Jordan said. "We played as a team tonight and we all worked very hard."

The victory was the first of the season for the Buckeyes, who were 0-1 before the game. West Virginia State had won seven of its previous eight games.

"It was a great game," West Virginia State coach Mary West said. "We'll take this win and move forward."

Kennedy: Sutter trade involved no serious talks

On the line

As promised, here is the second game editorial of the season. And here's the first editorial. We don't know if there will be any more editorials this year. We will try to keep the Iowa sports pages a little more lively than normal. If we are successful, we will be happy to do more editorials. If not, we will try to keep the Iowa sports pages a little more lively than normal.

Kennedy: Sutter trade involved no serious talks

(Champaign) — Chicago Cubs general manager Lee Kenney said Monday the Cubs and the San Diego Padres, who have traded left-hander Sammy Sutter, were close to agreeing on a trade for outfielder John Kennedy.

Kenney said Monday the Cubs and the San Diego Padres, who have traded left-hander Sammy Sutter, were close to agreeing on a trade for outfielder John Kennedy.

“The negotiations are very close,” Kenney said. “We are very close to agreement on a trade for Kennedy.”

The Padres requested John Kennedy, 24, a key player in their recent World Series victory, in return for left-hander Sammy Sutter, 22, considered to be one of the top prospects in baseball.

Kennedy has been on the disabled list since June 29, but he is expected to be ready to play by the end of the season. He has a .270 batting average with 15 home runs and 55 RBI in 127 games this year.

Sutter, 22, has a 1.88 earned run average and 14 saves in 32 relief appearances this season. He has been a key member of the Padres’ pitching staff.

Lester receives rave reviews by Iowa's record holder Nelson

by SHAWN ADAMS
Associated Press

According to Milwaukee Bucks Coach Dan Nelson, "Lester is the record setter and record holder of the classic basketball program for the NBA and for Boston.

"There are few others who have the talent or the drive to do what Lester does, and he's the only one I've ever been so completely impressed with.

"When Milwaukee Bucks' coach Nelson came to the Boston Celtics a few years ago, he was already a well-known figure in the basketball world, and his reputation had preceded him. He was known for his intense work ethic, his ability to lead by example, and his dedication to the game.

"Lester is a true professional who has put in countless hours of practice to become the best he can be. His work ethic is unparalleled, and he never takes anything for granted. He is a true role model for young players everywhere.

"Lester's ability to lead by example is something that I believe is crucial in today's basketball world. He sets a standard that others can look up to, and that is something that will be remembered for years to come."

"When the topic of 20-year-old Ron Lester is raised in the gym, everyone can tell that he's a winner. He's a guy who's been around the block a few times, but he never gives up. He's the most competitive player you'll ever see on the court.

"He brings energy to the game, and he's not afraid to mix it up. He's a two-way player who can guard anyone on the court.

"Lester's a great example of what it means to be a leader on the court. He's a guy who's always thinking, and he's not afraid to make the right decision. He's a great teammate who knows how to get the job done.

"Lester is a great addition to any team. He's a guy who's got a lot of heart, and he's not afraid to put in the work to be the best he can be. He's a true leader who will be remembered for years to come."

Comaneci returns to Romania after injury spoils title hopes

FORWARD, Texas (AP) — Horia Comaneci, a Romanian gymnast who made history in the 1970s with the 'perfect' routine, returned to Romania on Monday after a three-year absence.

"I am thrilled to be back in Romania," Comaneci said in a statement. "I miss the people, the culture, and the beautiful country."

Comaneci, who won four gold medals at the 1976 Olympic Games in Montreal, has been living in the United States since 1977. She retired from gymnastics in 1980 and has since focused on her family and coaching.

"I am looking forward to being able to give back to Romania," Comaneci said. "I want to be a role model for young gymnasts and inspire them to work hard and achieve their dreams.

"Romania is a special place for me, and I am grateful for the support and love I received from the Romanian people during my career. I promise to do my best to repay that support.

"I am excited to be able to contribute to the future of Romanian gymnastics and help inspire the next generation of gymnasts."
