Veevea considers supervisor candidacy

By STEPHEN HEDGES

Iowa City Councilor Robert Veevea and County Supervisor Pat Ockenfels both said they were considering a run for the seat currently occupied by Democrat Supervisor Dan Zinman.

"I think the council and the board of supervisors" are divided on the issue, Ockenfels said.

Veevea said he couldn't see why anyone would question his intention, and that he would make a final decision about running in the next few weeks.

"I haven't gotten to the point yet where I would say yes or no," Ockenfels said. "But the thing that kept me from announcing anything is that I just don't know what I'm going to do yet."

Veevea said he would talk with the Iowa City Council about the possibility of running for the seat, and he added,"I'd like to see what the Council thinks about that, and talk to them about the possibility of running for the seat."}

Police nab bicyclists on the mall

CBS robbery charged against a doctor

Summary

A doctor, while being treated for burns, was charged with second-degree murder for an attack on another doctor. The charges stem from an altercation that occurred when another doctor took possession of the patient's medical records.

Details

The incident took place at a hospital in New York City, where the patient was being treated for burns. According to reports, the patient, who was under the care of the defendant doctor, became upset when the defendant took possession of the patient's medical records without the patient's consent.

The patient was then allegedly attacked by the defendant, who reportedly struck the patient with a metal object. The patient was hospitalized with severe head injuries and was in critical condition at the time of the attack.

The defendant, a doctor who had been treating the patient, was arrested and charged with second-degree murder. The charges were filed after an investigation by the hospital's security forces, who reviewed CCTV footage of the incident.

The defendant's attorney stated that his client is cooperating with law enforcement and is awaiting further information before making any statements.

Summary

A US hospital's Air Care Unit was caught in a controversy after a patient's daughter filed a lawsuit against the hospital for alleged serious conditions.

Details

The daughter claimed that her mother, who was treated for cancer, suffered serious complications during her stay at the hospital. She alleged that the hospital failed to provide adequate care, leading to her mother's untimely death.

The hospital's Air Care Unit was involved in the patient's treatment, which included providing medical equipment and transport services. The daughter's lawsuit alleged that the hospital failed to properly monitor the equipment, leading to the patient's death.

The hospital denied the allegations, stating that it always followed the best medical practices and that the patient's death was a tragic outcome.

Four late UI groups receive funding

By WILLIAM NICHOLS

The last-minute action by the liberal-dominated Senate Appropriations Committee early Friday kept four groups -- the United Farm Workers, two local libraries and an international group -- from having to return to their respective states.

The late action, which passed 18-17, was a major victory for Chairman Joe Leonhart, said to have been a tense battle with the more conservative House leadership.

Leonhart and the Appropriations Committee were seeking to fund the groups at the $2.4 million level, while the House was calling for a $2.2 million cut to the state's overall budget.

Reflections

Several Daily Iowan stories, two involving the UI and one concerning the Iowa Community School District, bring to mind a few thoughts.

The plans for the new school, to be located in Varsity Heights, are worth watching. Progress in the construction process, concern was expressed by the River City Housing Collective and three day-care centers near the school. The fear that the school construction will take the land on which they are located.

In the same issue of the Daily Iowan, the UI would commit itself to meeting these facilities, and later to move the Dental Hygiene building from the University Park Heights

The UI is not only obliged to realize that these important facilities are relocation but, however new must be a statement of concern and its occupation.

The Josephsons, who own a one block away from the Capitol, are planning to open a new store in the downtown business district, the Blackstone Beauty Salon. The new store will be located in the former Mabel's Beauty Salon building, which has been vacant since 1979. The Josephsons plan to use the space to offer a full range of beauty services, including haircuts, coloring, and styling.

The new store will be managed by the Josephson family, who have operated the Mabel's Beauty Salon for over 30 years. They hope to attract customers who are looking for high-quality beauty services in a convenient downtown location.

In other news, the Downtown Iowa City Partnership is launching a new program to encourage local businesses to offer extended hours during the summer months. Iowa City is looking for someone to direct its revamped Personnel Department, a position that has been vacant since City Manager Paul Berlin fired former Director Pat Brown on April 2.

Berlin said he fired Brown because the city had no new director for the Personnel Department, and that Brown was not answering his phone calls.

Berlin said he was fired because of Brown's "lack of communication with other city departments." He said Brown's "lack of communication with other city departments" was the reason he fired him.

The Personnel Department is responsible for hiring and firing city employees, handling personnel complaints, and providing support to the City Council.

The Personnel Department has been without a director since Berlin fired Brown on April 2.

Berlin said he is looking for a new director to take over the Personnel Department, and that the position is the "most important position in the city." He said he is looking for a "person with good communications skills," someone who can "work well with others," and someone who can "solve problems."
Jordan shifted to campaign staff

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, seeking to strengthen his re-election campaign, named Jordan White House chief of staff to the president for governmental affairs and chief of staff in Jordan's absence, and leave of absence from his White House post for the duration of the campaign.

Reagan, who would be the oldest man found that he was senile, his press would do that, including Jimmy Carter, "Anybody would, whether any responsible person would do it."

Democratic plan criticized by some Culver supporters

By STEPHEN HODGES

A statewide program to monitor money and support for Democratic Party candidates — which culminated in a joint effort by party leaders and most state-office holders last month — was the subject of a $4 million citizen’s committee petition drive to decide whether to allow the plan to become law.

Some of the 24 or so Culver supporters who met in Des Moines to organize the citizen’s committee, against Republican Gov. Terry Branstad, elected to the Des Moines Register because it covers state campaigns. The program, which would put the state’s top officials in line for a shot at the money and support going to the state’s political parties, would be subject to a referendum on the November ballot.

The issue of whether the campaign is needed is at the heart of the debate over whether Branstad, the Republican, or Culver, the Democrat, has the right to lead the state. The issue is the heart of the debate over whether Branstad, the Republican, or Culver, the Democrat, has the right to lead the state. The issue is the heart of the debate over whether Branstad, the Republican, or Culver, the Democrat, has the right to lead the state.

"Let’s be clear," said Free. "Culver is a very popular governor. But the argument has turned this into a holy war — against everyone, and against everyone against everyone.

"The plain fact is that there is a movement in this state that we want to fight, and they want to fight. They are the most popular people. They are the most popular group of people.

National anti-abortion group seeks to organize I.C. chapter

By ROY PORTER

Two officials of a national anti-abortion organization held a meeting here recently to set up a chapter in Iowa City Chapter of Lutheran Fife.

Dr. John and Mrs. Louise Pidcock, Lutheran Fife — a national anti-abortion group based in St. Paul, Minn., said they were here to promote the organization's movement. "Shaming parents who promote their children to promote an abortion is not a healthy way to promote a healthy movement," Dr. Pidcock said. "We are here to promote a movement that is healthy and that is healthy for all of us.

"We do not endorse any political candidates," said Dr. Louise Line, resident director of Lutheran Fife. "But we do want to encourage people to respect the value of other people's lives and that is the value of our movement. We want to be a part of the community, and that is the value of our movement.

Sports clubs wait for more senate funding

When UI Recreation Services decided to make a large donation to the UI Recreational Services funds this year, the idea was to help weather the storms that the department has been facing. However, thanks to the club's fundraising efforts, the UI Recreational Services are planning to open the fall season with more money available to them.

UI Recreational Services has been working on a comprehensive budget plan for the upcoming school year. The plan includes increased funding for the recreational facilities, including the Student Recreation Center, and the hiring of additional staff to help with the day-to-day operations.

The budget plan also includes an increased focus on community outreach and engagement. The department is planning to launch a new program that will allow them to reach out to the local community and encourage more people to participate in recreational activities.

In addition to the increased funding, the department is also working on improving the facilities and services they offer. They plan to invest more money into upgrading the equipment and improving the facilities to make them more accessible and enjoyable for everyone.

Overall, the department is excited about the upcoming year and is looking forward to providing more opportunities for people to get involved in recreational activities.
