Cables on Libya trip are released

By Elizabeth Epstein and Craig Hornig

Several Libya family members are receiving more than 75 percent of the average per capita income of the country, according to a new report presented at a conference on Libya in London this week. The report, sponsored by the International Institute for Strategic Studies, said that Libya is suffering from a severe economic crisis.

The report, which is based on data from the Central Bank of Libya, said that the country's economy is in deep recession. It said that the average per capita income of the country is $2,500, a decrease of 30 percent since 2007.

The report also said that the country's foreign currency reserves are declining rapidly, and that the government is unable to meet its foreign obligations.

The report concluded that Libya needs international assistance to emerge from its current economic crisis.

UI Hospital gets $25,050 raise

By Rusty Kintner

A 5 percent pay increase for faculty members, but not the same increase for administrators and staff, has been approved by the University of Iowa Board of Regents.

The increase, which is in addition to a 2 percent cost-of-living adjustment, is being paid for from a combination of state and federal funds.

The university has faced criticism in recent months for not providing adequate raises to employees.

Anderson: If Carter loses, I’ll ‘reassess’

By United Press International

Independence presidential candidate John Anderson said Thursday he will “assess the situation” if presidential hopeful Walter Mondale wins the election.

Anderson, who has not yet declared his endorsement of Mondale, said he will “reevaluate my role in the campaign” after the election.

Anderson is expected to enter the Democratic Convention later this month.

Power polls increase as convention nears

By Red Boosker

The two major polling organizations have increased their efforts to nationwide polls leading up to the Democratic National Convention.

The Associated Press and Gallup have increased the number of polls being conducted in recent weeks.

The increase in polling is expected to help both candidates gauge their chances of winning.

Iowa City relaxes

The weekly news summary of events in Iowa City this week. The summary includes notes on events, such as political meetings and sports.

Date night chemistry is not the only thing on the minds of Iowa City students this week. The city has announced a change in its liquor laws, allowing students to bring their own alcohol to weddings and parties.

The change comes after a similar law was passed in neighboring Cedar Rapids.

Bottle bill rate overall success

By Red Boosker

In its fifth year of operation, the Iowa Retail Liquor Board is reporting a success story.

The board has increased the rate of collection of the bottle bill, which is a tax on the sale of beer and wine.

The rate increase is expected to generate an additional $1 million in revenue for the state each year.

The board has also increased the number of inspectors, which is expected to improve the enforcement of the law.

Unrealistic combination

The combination of a high bottle bill rate and low alcohol prices is causing concern among policymakers.

The rate increase is expected to generate an additional $1 million in revenue for the state each year.

The board has also increased the number of inspectors, which is expected to improve the enforcement of the law.
C.R. man given suspended sentence

By Kevin Kane

A 29-year-old man arrested in Iowa City Wednesday is in custody awaiting trial on charges of murder and espionage.

The man, identified as C.R. man given suspended sentence, was arrested at 4 a.m. Wednesday by Iowa City police and is expected to be charged with murder.

The arrest comes after a complaint was filed by the FBI and the Department of Justice.

The FBI is investigating the case as a potential national security threat.

The man, who has a history of violent behavior, was living in an abandoned house in the area.

The FBI said the man was involved in a series of violent acts, including murder and espionage.

The man is scheduled to appear in court at 9 a.m. Thursday.

Trials of a would-be reporter
By Mary Beth Vaughn

Along the grocery walk with a couple
I took up sale and say:
"Tell me what you're trying to add to
A would-be reporter's racket"

A would-be reporter might be just
A would-be reporter might be just
A would-be reporter might be just
A would-be reporter might be just

No, but it's not us. I'm sure it isn't
And with that the reporter's gone
But I'm half tempted to say something
I'm half tempted to say something

The Lost Nomination
If it wasn't Moriaty...

When one has a friend such as Mr. H.D. Tilden, one could be accused of having helped to bring about the downfall of the famous American's career. This is not to say that Mr. Tilden could not have caused Mr. H.D. Tilden's downfall by himself, but it is not difficult to see how he might have contributed to it.

One of the main reasons why Mr. Tilden was such a great American was his ability to get along with people. He was an extraordinary diplomat, and his diplomatic skill was evident in the way he handled the press and the public.

The American Press, which is dominated by the major media conglomerates, is often accused of being biased and one-sided. Mr. Tilden was an excellent example of how to deal with such a press. He always tried to be fair and balanced in his reporting, and he never allowed his personal opinions to interfere with his journalistic judgment.

Mr. Tilden also had a great sense of humor, which he often used to his advantage. He knew how to crack a joke and he knew when to shut up. He was a master of the subtle gesture, and he always knew when to make a point.

In short, Mr. Tilden was a great American, and he will be missed. He was a pioneer who paved the way for future journalists, and he will always be remembered as one of the greatest American journalists of the 20th century.

The U.N. vote on Israel

The U.N. General Assembly voted on a resolution to condemn Israel for its alleged violations of human rights in the occupied territories. The vote was 112-7, with 24 abstentions.

The resolution was introduced by the Palestinian Authority and was supported by nearly all of the Arab states. It was opposed by the United States and a few other countries, including Israel.

There were 29 abstentions during the 112-7 vote. It should be noted that there was an even stronger vote in favor of the Arab states that they do display an antibias in favor of Israel. It's a matter of compromise.

An Arab delegate to the UN said that the vote was "a victory for the Palestinian people, and for all those who believe in international law and human rights."

The United Nations deliberation is between Israel and the Arab states - it is a victory for the Arab states but it is a matter of compromise.

There were 29 abstentions during the 112-7 vote. It should be noted that there was an even stronger vote in favor of the Arab states that they do display an antibias in favor of Israel - it's a matter of compromise.

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

I am writing to express my concern about the recent developments in Lebanon. I strongly believe that the United Nations should take immediate action to prevent the escalation of conflict and to ensure the safety and security of all parties involved.

Recent reports indicate that the situation in Lebanon has deteriorated significantly, with widespread violence and human rights abuses. The United Nations should use its influence to negotiate a peaceful resolution and to provide humanitarian assistance to those in need.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Salaries

Fresno, recently faculty salaries cut. The Fresno State University faculty is in a bind. Because of budget constraints, they have lost their jobs. The protest continues. President Beno Bezanson has faced criticism for his handling of the issue. He has said, "I understand the faculty's concerns, and I am committed to finding a solution."

Colleton

In the beginning, the Payola was very low. But the faculty salaries are now in the mid-fifties. Some faculty members are demanding raises. Bezanson has said, "I will work closely with the faculty to address their concerns."

Anderson

We have been running problems for years. We have raised tuition, but faculty salaries remain low. Bezanson has said, "We need to explore all options to increase faculty salaries."

Convention

Several members of the faculty have been arrested after a protest outside the convention. Bezanson has said, "We will continue to support our faculty in their efforts to address their concerns."

Dancers hone skills at summer workshop

By Judith Green

A tenday by the Des Moines Ballet in July offers a unique opportunity for young dancers to hone their skills. The program is directed by press, who is also the artistic director of the Des Moines Ballet.

The program, held at the University of Iowa, is designed for dancers ages 13 to 18. It is divided into two sessions: one for intermediate and advanced dancers, and another for beginners. The weeklong program features classes in ballet, modern, jazz, and contemporary dance, as well as workshops and master classes.

At the conclusion of the program, participants will receive a certificate of completion and the opportunity to perform in a final recital.

The program is open to dancers from the Des Moines area and beyond. For more information, contact the Des Moines Ballet at 515-282-2440.

Businessman John Wherry, CEO of the University of Iowa's Hawk-U network, said he was pleased with the progress made in negotiations with the Chicago Bears for cable television rights for Chicago-based Hawkeye network programming.

"We've had a very productive week," Wherry said. "We're making progress, and we're hopeful we can reach an agreement soon."
