Carter vows ’81 tax cut to aid economy

WASHINGTON (CQN) - President Carter Thursday proposed a $4 billion in 1981 tax cuts as part of a broad economic “revitalization” plan. The cuts would be aimed at stimulating demand and create a million jobs in the next two years.

Anchoring the program just before the House Ways and Means panel, Carter pressed his threat to veto any legislation that didn’t meet the administration’s goals. “We can’t afford to let this program be held hostage, or ever be held hostage,” the president declared.

Ronald Reagan, who has been calculating the strategy of a “tax cut” policy, has been advocating a “tax cut” policy. Carter’s proposal is to be presented to Congress as a “two-step” plan.

The president’s plan includes a $4 billion tax cut for 1981 and a $4 billion tax cut for 1982. The $4 billion tax cut for 1981 would come from a lower tax rate on personal income. The $4 billion tax cut for 1982 would come from a lower tax rate on corporate income.

Boyd's annual address asks for better UI, state cooperation

By Cindy Shrader

Boyd continually cited statistics in support of his need for more state funding to support the University of Iowa. He also noted the recent surge in the number of applications, which has increased by 75% to 10,000 for 1981. Boyd said he would like to see this trend continue and that the university should make every effort to accommodate these students.

UI Hospitals nurse shortage is easing

By Lisa Witte

By BOYD described how members of the UI Hospitals Management Committee increased patient satisfaction and improved services by focusing on quality and efficiency. He said the committee is working to improve the patient experience by providing state-of-the-art facilities and equipment.

For example, the committee is working on improving the patient care experience in the Emergency Department. They have increased the number of nurses on duty, improved the layout of the facility, and implemented new technology to help assess patients more quickly.

The committee is also working to improve the patient experience in the Outpatient Clinic. They have increased the number of appointments available each day, improved the scheduling process, and implemented new technology to help patients navigate the facility more efficiently.

Overall, Boyd was optimistic about the future of the university and the state. He said the university will continue to work with the state to improve the patient experience and provide the best possible care to its patients.
Melrose Court debate

The Iowa City Council is planning to rezone Melrose Court, which was closed about a year ago. Melrose Court, a small premature area, would endanger the bicyclists and pedestrians currently using the area.

The city closed Melrose Court because of increased use by pedestrians and bicyclists. Since the area was closed, traffic on the parallel streets of 4th Avenue and Bluff Road increased. Melrose Court residents were assured that the city was not planning to accommodate the traffic flow, but construction plans for this year have been extended to include a summer. The city wants to rezone Melrose Court until that time. It does not make sense to rezone the street when the conditions that led to the rezone are still there.

Budget cuts, more students mean closed courses

By Craig Semrow

The first week of school brings with it last-minute cutbacks, trying to enroll students in a large number of classes, and many of the courses out of their major. While Hills were trimmed from 15, 18, and 19, the department in English was led by Lew, Legowicz, and Robert Van Dyke. It was the final 2nd semester.

The number of freshmen applying for the fall semester 21 percent since last year, but final enrollment figures will be released for several more weeks. Lew, Van Dyke, and Legowicz have announced the number of students that will be accepted into the college.

There is an insufficient number of freshmen and a shortage of funds to pay salaries for new classes. The department has announced that enrollment figures were not high enough, and The 12.4 did not have enough money to meet enrollment needs.

The result, Van Dyke said, is that "we're trying to do some last-minute development." Bernard Hamilton, UI vice president for finance, said that "we're going to be looking at some options," and that "it's going to be the department's responsibility to make sure that the departmental quality is maintained." Cox elected Democratic chairman

By Stephen Hodge

The Democrat Party chairman at Thursday's Johnson County Democratic Party Central Committee meeting, Carl Cox—the party's former vice chairman and former state representative—was unanimously elected to the top job in a move that could be a prop to an eventual run for governor.

"We have enough to pay our bills for at least another six months. That's something that's important to us," Cox said. "It's going to take having the resources to run a campaign. That's financially important to money."... (continued)

Johnson County DA Gary Hughes made no bones about why he was there. Hughes brought a hurrah before the start of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce, as he often does when he too was seeking office, he said this time he was just there to eat. But they also said the reduced yields would also probably mean farm prices would be higher than 15 percent shortfall in his crop this fall.

"It's an unprecedented situation. United Church of Christ will have a major crop this fall," Hughes said. "It's going to take having the resources to run a campaign. That's financially important to money."... (continued)

Many politicians came to visit and make an appeal, others campaigned in a small group at the Johnson County Extension Center and the Johnson County Republican Party has raised more than $8,600 in federal and state contributions in Johnson County state and federal races.

Suit dismissed against Reagan funding groups

WASHINGTON (20TH) — A federal district court Thursday dismissed efforts by Colorado and the American Civil Liberties Union to prevent the Reagan administration from raising millions of dollars to help politicians.

The ruling allows the independent groups to raise and spend as much as they want in Reagan's behalf. They may accept contributions of more than $49,500 from individuals, who are barred from giving more to any one candidate. This year, a major presidential candidate in the fall election, former presidential candidate George McGovern, raised $2.2 million for his campaign.

They have not been able to raise enough money to pay our bills for the county.

Cross-country bicyclist is pedaling for Anderson

By David Kirtner

Kirtner has been battling the heat of the mid-American sun and the hills of the Midwest throughout his cross-country trip. He started his journey in California on Aug. 5 and hopes to reach Washington, D.C., by Oct. 15.

"I've been cycling through the heartland," Kirtner said. "It's been a mix of flat plains and rolling hills, with temperatures ranging from 90 degrees to the low 40s at night.

"I've faced some challenges, like flat tires and mechanical issues, but I've also had great moments, like meeting new people and exploring new places.

"The people I've met along the way have been incredibly supportive, and it's been amazing to see how far Anderson's campaign has reached.

"I'm proud to be cycling for John Anderson, and I hope my journey can help bring attention to the issues he cares about."

Nothing ‘red hot’ about sex in movie ‘The Blue Lagoon’

By Michael Allenwhere

In the current breathless avalanche of globe-trotting, tall-tale types of movies, “The Blue Lagoon” comes as a breath of fresh air. It is a quiet, beautiful, thought-provoking story of a young man and a young woman who fall in love and marry in a deserted island, and then go on to build a life together.

The story is told in flashbacks, and the actors are excellent. The man is played by Sam Neill, and the woman by Julie Christie. Their performances are natural and convincing, and they bring the characters to life in a way that is both realistic and moving.

The island is a beautiful place, and the filmmakers have done a wonderful job of capturing its natural beauty. The colors are rich and vibrant, and the landscapes are breathtaking.

Overall, ‘The Blue Lagoon’ is a film that is worth seeing. It is a story of love, adventure, and survival, and it is told in a way that is both compelling and emotionally satisfying.

Brilliant Career’ disappointing despite a promising plot idea

By Michael Allenwhere

For several reasons we want our Brilliant Career’ to be a success. It is a sequel to a highly popular novel by Douglas Stuart, and it is directed by John Huston, who has directed many of the great films of the last 50 years.

Unfortunately, the film does not live up to the expectations we had for it. It is slow-moving and sometimes confusing, and the characters are poorly developed. The acting is competent but not outstanding, and the direction is flat.

The plot is based on a novel about a woman named Ilse, who is married to a wealthy, cultured German man. She is bored with her life, and she begins to dream of adventure. She meets a young man named Harry, who is a dashing and handsome一点也不差, and they fall in love. They decide to leave their boring lives behind and escape to an island where they can be together.

The film is a story of adventure and romance, but it is not very well told. After much talk and planning, the couple decides to go on an island adventure. They arrive on the island, and they begin to build a life together.

Dear John,

I am writing to inform you that this summer I will be working as a counselor at the Beta Theta Pi national convention. The convention will be held from July 15th to July 20th and will take place at the University of Missouri in Columbia. As a member of Beta Theta Pi, I am excited to be involved in this event and to have the opportunity to assist in the planning and implementation of various activities and programs.

During the convention, we will be focusing on several key areas. First, we will be working on developing new fundraising strategies to support the organization's mission. Second, we will be conducting outreach programs to promote awareness of the importance of philanthropy and community service. Finally, we will be facilitating leadership workshops to help prepare our members for their future careers.

I am confident that this convention will be a success and that we will be able to achieve our goals. I look forward to working with you and all of the other counselors to ensure that the convention is a memorable and meaningful experience for everyone involved.

Sincerely,

Little change marks 300th day of captivity in Iran

Since the hostage situation began, no one has been as closely identified with the rescue attempt as Reagan. He has been the face of the rescue operation, often seen on television screens in his White House Press Room briefings. And as the crisis dragged on, his popularity has soared.

In the early days of the crisis, Reagan was roundly criticized for his handling of the situation. He was accused of being too passive, too徘徊, and even of being indifferent to the plight of the hostages.

But as the crisis dragged on, Reagan's popularity grew. He became the symbol of the American people's determination to rescue the hostages. His daily briefings became must-see events, and his approval ratings hit the roof.

But as the crisis dragged on, Reagan's popularity grew. He became the symbol of the American people's determination to rescue the hostages. His daily briefings became must-see events, and his approval ratings hit the roof.

By the time the hostages were finally freed, Reagan's popularity had reached an all-time high. His presidency was firmly in place, and his administration was poised for a landslide victory in the upcoming election.

As the nation celebrated the end of the crisis, Reagan's legacy was secure. He had become the unifying figure in American politics, and his legacy would continue to shape the country for years to come.

Rugby no longer a sport for men only

By Clifford Hayden

I have been in a rugby club now for the past twelve years. It was in Iowa City that I met the first rugger women. There was a group of women from the University of Iowa who were playing once a week and they were looking for more women to come down and play. I was interested in the game and decided to join the team. I started playing with them and then I was asked to become the team captain.

At that time, there were only a few women’s rugby teams in the United States. We played against other teams from different cities and universities. The sport was growing in popularity and we were able to attract more women to join our team. Eventually, we were able to establish a women’s rugby club at the University of Iowa.

The game itself is fast-paced and intense, with a mix of physical and strategic elements. The team dynamics and the camaraderie among the players made it an enjoyable experience. As a captain, I was responsible for leading the team, strategizing, and ensuring that we remained committed to the sport.

Throughout my time playing rugby, I have seen the sport evolve and become more inclusive. The number of women participating in rugby has increased significantly, and there are now many more opportunities for women to get involved and play at various levels.

In conclusion, rugby is a sport that has the potential to bring people together and promote inclusivity. As a former rugby player, I am proud to have been a part of the movement that has helped create opportunities for women to excel in this sport. The experience of leading a women’s rugby club was a rewarding and meaningful part of my life.

Californians lead at B.C. Open

BRECKENRIDGE, Colo. - Californians Mark Lee and Art McNickle led the large-grossing charges into the first round of the $25,000 B.C. Open gold medal golf tournament here, both with even scores of 70 the second and third holes.

Lee, who has not yet won a tournament since his 1973 victory, shot his round in good company alongside golfing legend Jack Nicklaus and Hawaii's John Taylor, who were tied for third at 71.

McNickle, a former Northwestern State star, played with former NCAA champion Tom Kite and had the strong showing of the day. He was the low amateur with a 74.

The tournament continued through Wednesday with the top 60 professionals and the top 30 amateurs playing for cuts.

Moore released by Vikings

Dave Moore, the only Iowa football player currently on the practice squad, returned to the Minnesota Vikings Wednesday. Moore, a former linebacker for the Hawkeyes, was one of the last to be cut from the 34-man squad.

The second string inside linebacker was released by the Vikings after being cut by the San Francisco 49ers this season. Moore, a second year player, was cut with the San Francisco 49ers Wednesday.

Fry: Team showed "courage" in practice

Iowa State Coach Larry J. Moore, a former linebacker for the Hawkeyes, was pleased with the way the offense performed in its first scrimmage of the season tying a school mark with 15 points. Monday, Wednesday and Thursday at 5:35 p.m.

The defense, led by former Iowa State standout Larry Brown, was not as impressive as it had been in previous years on the field. Fry said that if his team is in good condition, they will have a good chance of making the Super Bowl. However, if his team is not in good condition, they may not have a chance of making the Super Bowl.

The offense features guard Troy McMillin, tight end John Allman and third-string quarterback Tom Killebrew. Fry said that Allman is the team's most versatile player.

Fry said that the offense is not as good as it was last year, but that he is proud of his team. He said that the offense is a "hard hitter." According to Fry, the offense is also the 1980 national champion.

New quilting society stitches for festival
By Linda Green
The three quilts to be raffled off at this weekend's Fall Festival were designed and stitched by a nine-woman quilting society formed this weekend. The quilting society will be one of the highlights of the festival.

The quilting society was started by a group of friends who have been quilting for many years. They decided to form a society to keep the craft alive and to share their love of quilting with others.

The group met at the home of one of the members, a retired economics teacher, to work on the quilts. They started by cutting and sewing the fabric pieces together, and then they added the batting and backing. The quilts were then quilted with a variety of stitches and designs.

The quilts will be raffled off at the festival, and the proceeds will be donated to a local charity. The quilting society hopes that the festival will help to keep the craft alive and to share their love ofquilting with others.
Louisiana police sing for safety

ALEXANDRIA, La. (UP) — Central Louisiana drivers on their last summertime trip last Labor Day weekend may be surprised to hear Christmas carols on the radio, but state troopers hope the out-of-season pitch will make a point.

These police cars that played festive serenades were on duty as the state entered "12 Holy Night," an early Christmas greeting to "those of you who won't be with us at Christmas."

Garlic lampshades of people will die in auto-accidents nationally during the weekend, and troopers in Central Louisiana try to entreat traffic lovers to reduce the number of fatalities.

"We'll arrive at your local police department, pour you a cup of hot coffee and perform the 15 mph speed limit, with a special emphasis on looking for the drinking driver," the semiconductor says.

"Each hour of the Labor Day to stay alive," Garlic said. "And if for those of you who won't be at Christmas, Merry Christmas once last time."

"I've heard so many women describe childbirth as the worst experience of their lives," Frankel said. "Women want to be full participants in their own health care, and that's a big step in the right direction."

If we fail to listen to the patients, the Emma Goldman Clinic now offers an on-site gynecology problem clinic, with referrals otherwise only for major surgery and hospitalizations. "We'll do everything we can, including abortion," Frankel said.

According to Frankel, the self-help clinic is unique in the area, not only in its size but in its influence beyond the walls of the clinic. "Since we're a community clinic, we are committed to bringing the health care delivery system down to earth," Katz said.

...Helping it reach two goals

By Lea Chlizon

"Women who want soothing and protection when they give a traditional gynecologist," said Dr. Adele Franks, a former lay health care worker at the Emma Goldman Clinic for Women, "are coming to our clinic." According to Dr. Franks, her clinic is the only one in the area that provides preventive and educational health care to women free of charge.

"If you look at the numbers of women who could be served, we're so far,” said Paula Klein, the clinic's director. "We're a little bit more confident, but we deliver!"

"We're not just trying to bring health care to women who don't have health care," Klein said. "We're trying to bring health care to women who do have health care, but don't get it."

"The clinic's waiting area, the staff, the workers, everything is committed to bringing the health care delivery system down to earth," Katz said. Week-long Greek rush ends...

By Judy Bowie

"All right women, you can dig out your problems, raise your vocal chords and get some sleep. Rush is over."

Friday, August 29, 1980 — Iowa City, Iowa

The end of greek rush marks the close of the annual membership drive. Neatly dressed and wearing their grubbies, rest your vocal chords and plan to move around the UI this fall. About 300 rushers dropped out of the system this fall because of sorority life. Rush is over; men and women can start to enjoy talking and living with active members. Rush is over, and new fraternities will be founded.

The UI Women's Panhellenic Association, which includes 13 women's sororities, scheduled Rush week this fall. About 300 rushers dropped out of the system, but the rush is over. Rush is a time of new friends and new houses. Rush is a time when rushers can choose to join or to drop out of the system. Rush is over; the system will continue to work.
