I.C. schools will receive energy conservation grant

By Lee Malone

The Iowa City School District will receive $89,000 in matching federal grants to encourage energy-conservation programs, including the construction of a solar energy collector at West High School, the U.S. Department of Energy announced this week.

"This project will allow local children to learn about energy-saving techniques, which is especially important at a time when energy costs are increasing," said Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger, who was on hand to announce the grant.

The grant will be used to install solar panels on the roof of West High School, which will generate electricity for the school's heating system. The project is expected to save the school about $10,000 per year in energy costs.

"There's no slob" policy proposed for dormitory dining areas

By Joanne Rayher

Students living in UI residence halls who enjoy good food but dislike empty plates may soon be surprised when they check out the dining halls and discover their plates are empty.

The UI Housing Council has approved a policy that bars students from eating without shoes or wearing any kind of clothing. The policy is aimed at preventing students from eating in public areas.

The policy has been in place for some time, according to UI Housing Council Chairperson Mary Sullivan. She said the policy was established in 1978 when UI officials determined that the policy would be in the best interest of the community.

Religious, ethnic struggles snarl Iraqi-Iranian territorial dispute

Analysis

The fighting in the Iran-Iraq war has often been aimed at destroying "cities that have virtually no military or strategic importance being fought over.

The situation in the Middle East is tense due to the ongoing conflict between Iran and Iraq. This conflict has caused significant displacement and suffering for many people in the region. The United Nations has been working to mediate the conflict, but so far without significant progress.

Despite the efforts of international organizations, the conflict continues to escalate, posing a serious threat to regional stability and peace. The international community must continue to work towards a peaceful resolution to this long-standing dispute.

Letters

To the editor:

Dear Daily Iowan:

The article on the Iran-Iraq conflict was very informative. It provided a comprehensive overview of the ongoing conflict and its various aspects. However, I was surprised to see that the article did not mention the role of international organizations such as the United Nations in mediating the conflict.

I believe that the involvement of these organizations is crucial in finding a peaceful resolution to the conflict. By working together, they can help to create a conducive environment for negotiations and promote dialogue between the parties involved.

I hope that the Daily Iowan will continue to provide us with valuable insights on this important issue.

Sincerely,

Hawkeye State Bank cancels rent escrow account program

By Ann Milliken

Associated Press

Hawkeye State Bank has informed the Iowa City Housing Authority it will no longer accept rent escrow accounts, leaving the UI Credit Union as the only financial institution handling the escrow in the city.

But Michael, executive vice-president of Hawkeye State Bank, said the bank was canceling accounts to reduce the level of risk involved in the program.

The bank continues to service the accounts, but no new accounts will be accepted because of a "anticipated increase of liabilities,"

Hawkeye State Bank and the UI Credit Union were the only two lending institutions in Iowa City that handled escrow accounts when rent escrow was added to the Iowa City housing code.

Residents can choose to handle their own rent, or their renter and landlord can agree to deposit money into an escrow account managed by the banks.

The Iowa City Housing Task Force has been trying to set up a rent escrow account system that may be more efficient. That revised system may only include a "minimum level of service," according to Milliken.

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Procter & Gamble Co. Chairman Edward G. Hurnan said shareholders Tuesday the company would deduct $75 million from 1985 net earnings to recover substantial cancer among the women contracted the disease which primarily affects young women.

The $75 million amount was calculated after an in-house investigation of the 158 syndrome, which is a rare but sometimes fatal disease which primarily affects young women.

HARRIS said Tuesday described the $75 million after tax charge for "research and development" and cited it as the company's perspective way to address the issue.

"By taking this action in our tough side," he said, "we are making management and you, our shareholders, that we all have every reason to believe that the business will from this point move forward in its historic manner — that we have no bad news up on our sleeves." 109 E. College

Although final figures for the July through September period are not available, the destruction of the 158 syndrome is estimated to be $75 million.

Hurnan estimated Procter & Gamble's position that the company is cautious to the regulatory evidence that it made it and that the fine would not reduce their reputation. The company is looking to move to city managed accounts.

"It all the way around rent escrow is a better system for everyone," he said.

Cross said under a revised escrow plan the tenant might and the rent payments to the city much like the same way the city now move on.

Field campus offers recreation, education; UI may not keep site

The Lake Macbride Field Campus is a little known, but well utilized area.

The area is open to the public from 9 a.m. until dusk, and has well-marked nature trails and picnic areas, which overlook the Coralville Reservoir, and cross-country skiing in the winter, according to Manager Ed Wainwright.

General expenses and fuel costs, Mather said, and patrons cannot use the facilities.

Larew: Leach reversed himself on position concerning new right

By Stephen Hendon

First District congressional candidate Jim Larew Tuesday accused Republican incumbent and candidate for re-election, Tom Leach, of flipflipping on a key issue during his campaign.
"I have demonstrated, and I think Leach is confronting himself in this situation that he has not good faith and an honest campaign," Larew said.
"I think Tom Leach is contradicting himself by saying one thing and doing another, and I think the public is entitled to know the truth about what he is say­ing.
"I think Leach has an obligation to his constituents to tell them the truth about what he is doing," Larew

continued. "I think the public is entitled to know what Leach is saying and doing, and I think he should have been truthful with his constituents." Larew was quoted as saying that Leach had "given him a hard time," and that he had "been very difficult to work with." Larew also accused Leach of "denying facts and refusing to take responsibility for his actions.
"I think Leach is engaging in a disingenuous campaign, and I think he should be held accountable for his actions," Larew said.
"I think Leach is running a dishonest campaign, actions," Larew said.
