Regents reject UI request for financial aid hike

By Scott Klinken and Greg Langford

The Iowa Board of Regents rejected the University of Iowa's request for an increase in student aid, effective next academic year.

The 3-1 vote came after the board heard testimony from university President J. Robert Brown and several student leaders.

Brown presented the university's financial aid package, which includes a 4 percent tuition increase and a $1,000 increase in the budget for grants and scholarships.

The proposal was met with resistance from student leaders, who argued that the increase was not enough to meet the financial needs of students.

Student reaction:

"I don't think the board fully considered the needs of students," said John Smith, president of the Iowa Student Association. "The increase doesn't go far enough to help those who need it most."
Police use dogs, gas on S. African blacks

Police have been using tear gas and dogs to break up demonstrations of about 500 black South Africans who were attempting to march to the Union Buildings and Colaba House in downtown Cape Town on Saturday afternoon in protest at the recent shootings by police of black students at the University of Cape Town.

Police said 20 students were arrested in the attack, which lasted about an hour, and at least one was injured.

Police at the Union Buildings said they had used tear gas and dogs to disperse the crowd and arrest the demonstrators.

Mass starvation seen by Algerian rescuers

Algerian student-led rescue missions have provided food to about 400,000 people in the Tlemcen and Biskra regions, according to a new report by the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR).

The report, released on Thursday, indicates that many people in the region are facing a severe food crisis due to the ongoing conflict in the country.

The report also highlights the challenge faced by the Algerian government in providing food assistance to those affected by the conflict, which has caused widespread displacement and disruption of livelihoods.

Iceland transit service corrected

Icelandic police have made a correction to the transit service they provided on Monday, following an incident involving a member of the public.

The incident occurred during the early morning hours, when a member of the public accused police of not providing enough assistance during a transit disruption. The police corrected the service, stating that they had provided the necessary assistance.

American Society Cancer

The American Cancer Society is hosting its annual fundraising event, featuring a 10-Kilometer Run in support of the organization's mission to save lives.

The event will take place in Coralville, Iowa, on October 18th, with registration starting at 6:00 a.m. and the race beginning at 8:00 a.m. Participants are encouraged to wear pink or black attire to show support for the cause.

Robertson said it would be physically difficult to go there today with all the heavy work to be done, especially when the state is still recovering from the recent flooding.

The event is open to all age groups, with participants running, walking, or biking to raise funds for the American Cancer Society.

The race will feature both a 10-Kilometer Run and a 5-Kilometer Fun Run, with prizes awarded for the top finishers in each category. Participants are also invited to wear costumes to add to the festive atmosphere.

The event is expected to attract hundreds of people from the surrounding communities, with proceeds benefiting the American Cancer Society's mission to find effective treatments and cures for cancer.

South Korean President to ease full martial law

By Paul Brier
United Press International

SEOUL, South Korea — President Chun Doo-hwan said Monday he will transform martial law into a "special state" on August 15, the first anniversary of his inauguration, to allow police more freedom to quell civil unrest.

The United States has criticized the military government of Chun for its crackdown on demonstrations and civil rights groups on Friday, the day after the government imposed martial law in six provinces over the week's influx of 15,000 pro-democracy demonstrators to the capital.

Economist Klein awarded Nobel

By Leslie Taylor
United Press International

PHILADELPHIA — Dr. Lawrence R. Klein, winner of the 1980 Nobel Prize for economics, has got a bouquet of multi-colored balloons and said, "That's enough money to eat on for a million years."

With the same honor bestowed, Klein said Sunday that he will give his share of the prize money to educational institutions and charities. The award was presented to Klein by King Gustaf V of Sweden.

Klein's work on probability forecasting led to a new approach for estimating the future.

Nutrition expert questions infant formula misuse abroad

By Christine Kirk

The marketing of infant formulas in developing countries is a "moneymaking racket," said Paul Van Ert, a research associate with the Division of Nutrition Research of the American College of Nutrition in Chicago.

Van Ert, in a speech Tuesday at the U.S. said he is concerned that many developing coun-dies have exaggerated infant health concerns in order to sell their infant foods.

Van Ert said that corporations have already profited from the mania for infant proteins, and is afraid they will do it again.

People, he said, "They see the need and they are not creating a need. They say that infant medicine is needed, but it's not. They are creating a need by坑ing women into the work of providing baby foods."

UI spends $500,000 filling holes

For the cost of $500,000, UI is repairing 10,000 holes at the north end of the Iowa Memorial Union and the student union area on the Iowa City campus.

The holes, formed by water and ice action, make walking a perilous task. People are encouraged to wear boots and use caution.

UI Engineering has come up with a new method of filling the holes which involves the use of a new seed mixture that will fill the holes and be better for the university grounds.

The money, donated by the UI, will be used to fill the holes and repair the area.

The area, known as "the big blue hole," will be back in business after the holes are filled.

The RFK Lecture Series presents

The RFK Lecture Series is a non-partisan Student Senate committee that offers a forum for political candidates. This is the first in a series of speeches the RFK Lecture Committee is sponsoring this fall prior to election time.
The controversy surrounding Campus CableVision's evolution as a student-run operation and the Senate's creation of the Campus Cablevision Oversight Committee as a result of the senator's decision to fund the cable is remarkable. The Senate, CAClA, and the student body's representatives are all stakeholders in the situation. The Senate's role is to fund the cable service and establish oversight, while CAClA is responsible for managing the cable service and its operations. The student body's representatives serve as the liaison between the Senate, CAClA, and the student body to ensure that the student's interests are represented.

The Senate's decision to fund the cable service, as proposed by CAClA, is significant. Funding the cable service is necessary for the campus community to have access to a diverse range of programming, including news, sports, and entertainment. Additionally, the cable service provides a means for students to express their creativity and showcase their talent by producing their own programming.

However, the Senate's decision to create the Campus Cablevision Oversight Committee raises concerns. The committee's role is to oversee the operation of the cable service, including budget and personnel decisions. The committee's composition includes members from the Senate, CAClA, and the student body's representatives, ensuring a diverse perspective and representation.

It is important for the Senate and CAClA to work together in a collaborative manner to ensure that the cable service is successful. Both parties should view the committee as a means to achieve this goal, rather than as a source of conflict. Open communication and transparency are crucial to maintaining a positive relationship between the Senate, CAClA, and the student body.

The Senate's decision to fund the cable service and create the Oversight Committee is a significant step towards ensuring that the cable service is successful. Both parties should work together to ensure that the service meets the needs of the campus community and achieves its goals.
Interest leads CAC executives to postings

Dennis Devine, VP

Dennis Devine, vice president of the Collegiate Associations Council, said that he made the postings because of "the best interests of students and our budgetary concerns." Devine is also involved in the development of a course in the management of advertising, and a current issue of the CAC's magazine, "Marketing the Collegiate Associations Council," will address the topic of advertising.

"I always had a good job in recruiting the student organization contractors earlier this year," Devine said. "I think the contractors were better able to understand the importance of the issue."

The CAC also has a project in place to support the student organization contractors, who are responsible for recruiting and training students to fill positions in the organization. Devine said that he hopes to "get more students involved and excited about the program."

By Tom Daykin

Steve Bissell, ex-council member

Steve Bissell resigned last January for personal reasons. He was appointed to the student council by the president of the student council as a "liaison" between the student body and the administration.

"I believe that our CAC-funded image through more effective advertising and through a LOGO campaign will be increased," Bissell said. "We're going to be more effective in our advertising and through a LOGO campaign, and we're going to be more effective in our advertising and through a LOGO campaign."
Flaherty: May appeal job ruling

By Kevin Kane

The Des Moines Register

Iowa County's clerk of courts is asking the Iowa Supreme Court to review his decision in a case involving the job of point clerk at a county jail.

State Supreme Court Justice M. Kenton Parker granted a temporary restraining order on Monday night against point clerk Conklin, preventing him from being put on administrative leave.

Flaherty said he wanted to appeal the court's decision.

Parker ruled that Flaherty's grounds for removing Conklin, said that Flaherty's grounds for removing Conklin, were "unrelated to the point clerk's job, but instead related to his job performance as a street supervisor.

Flaherty said that he had given Conklin two written warnings before removing him from his job.

Conklin, however, said that he had not been given any written warnings.

The case has been appealed to the Iowa Supreme Court, which will hear the case on Tuesday.

In the meantime, Conklin has been placed on administrative leave.

Romantic love portrayed in 'Hearts' novel

By Farzad Johnson

Hearts by Thea White

Uhna Wolitzer, in her new novel Hearts, creates a sensuous, attractive couple like no one in recent fiction, and allows us to enjoy the sensuousness and attractions. The novel is both sensuous and intellectual, a combination that is rare in contemporary literature.

Our hero, Michael, is an attractive and sensitive man who is not afraid to show his love and passion for his partner, Rhoda. He is also a character who is not afraid to challenge the conventions of society and the expectations of his family.

Rhoda, on the other hand, is a woman who is not afraid to be herself, even if it means going against the expectations of her family and society. She is a strong and independent woman who is not afraid to speak her mind and to make her own decisions.

The novel is set in the 1920s, a time when women were beginning to gain more freedom and independence. The novel explores the lives of the characters and how they navigate the challenges of their time.

The novel is a love story, but it is also a story about the struggle for freedom and independence. It is a story about the power of love and the importance of following one's own desires.

The novel is written in a style that is both sensuous and intellectual, and it is a story that will appeal to both men and women.

The novel is available in hardcover and paperback, and it is a book that will be enjoyed by a wide range of readers.

Mary Tyler Moore's son killed by gunshot

By Vincent Scott

HOLLYWOOD — Mary Tyler Moore's youngest child, 18-year-old Peter, was found dead today in a Los Angeles apartment, apparently killed himself.

By coincidence, Moore says the mother of a son with suicidal tendencies in the latest movie, "Common People." Two years ago, Moore's 15-year-old son, Matthew, also died of apparent suicide.

Peter Moore was found in the bathroom of his apartment in Los Angeles, apparently shot himself.

Barricaded man commits suicide

By Janet Walsh

CINCINNATI — A man armed with an AK-47 automatic rifle shot and killed a girlfriend — a former nun — and then barricaded himself into a television station for nearly 11 hours Wednesday, then shot himself.

The body of Janice Houston, 41, an attorney from San Francisco, was found by members of a police SWAT team in the early stages of the operation Wednesday night after a 10-hour standoff. Nearly 12 hours earlier, the man had barricaded himself in a television station for about 1½ hours.

Houston included in conversations with police and television station personnel that both she and the body of her girlfriend had been armed with explosives. Then he was heard.

The shooting, broadcast Houston was talking, started coming into the building early Wednesday, and formed her to talk to police.

Informed with an AK-47 automatic rifle and free hand grenades, Houston said: "I know you're out there tonight." Houston, who is white, said she knew she was on the side of the police by the time.

Police found the body of a woman in an apartment. In the studio, the man was a furmer nun and was apparently breaking the eighth grade at "The Artisit's Wharf" section of Cincinnati.

The man has been called the source on the choice of body was being sought.

Edward A. Shottelkotte said devices were not found to be the gun's.

We said an armament of handgrenades, a "sh jogging" and mis­placed precautions centered in the apartment.

A spokesman, new director of Worle, WCPO­ TV, said: "All of our people came out of this thing.

They handled themselves like ticket professionals, " said Shottelkotte.

Anderson will be reassessed this week.

The league is hostages, but there has not been one shooting.

Since the early stages of the situation, Iran ignored two demands. It has been set for the next debate, in exchange for concessions. Secretary of State Henry and Ronald Reagan again barnstormed the states, speaking in Massachusetts and Connecticut.

In Lima, John Anderson said Wednesday a legal memo is "a real possibility - a possibility that in light of the pending trial that is in state, that they might accept."

"Carter and Kennedy were upstaged in Boston as we had anticipated," he said.

He said there is "real possibility - a possibility that in light of the pending trial that is in state, that they might accept."

Ahmed Fino Tesor, Carter supporter Patrick Hammadi said reports "The Artisit's Wharf" pre­ ferred to the president in the industrial state as Anderson, Erskine reports. He said Carter has gained in Massachusetts because of the Anderson state.

UI soccer club rallies to tie Marycrest, 2-2

By Claudia Modified

The UI soccer Club failed to win its 13th straight game against Marycrest College.

The UI Club refused to give the ball away, bringing down 5 goals at one point. The Marycrest Eagles have teams that are strong and are not afraid to attack. The game was fast-paced and exciting until the last minute, but the UI Club was able to hold onto the lead.

On the other hand, the Marycrest goal was scored with a great move in the final minutes of the game. The UI Club will look to improve their defense in the upcoming games.

Sportsclubs

The Eagles were first to get on the scoreboard, kicking in their initial goal early in the second half. Marycrest continued to control the ball and added a second and a minute later.

The UI Club seemed to get into trouble with a defensive foul, but the ball was pulled inside and back together. The UI Club began exploiting the space and quickly narrowed the ball gap, scoring for the Marycrest goal.

Marycrest had a build-up in the Marycrest defense and kicked the ball forward, making the trip. Jeremy continued to build and the play between Denman and a Marycrest player was called for a dangerous foul but no penalty box.

Marycrest's last two goals both had pressure in the box which could have led to a penalty kick. Marycrest's last two goals both had pressure in the box which could have led to a penalty kick. Marycrest's last two goals both had pressure in the box which could have led to a penalty kick.

Big time ahead in Madison for field hockey team, coach

By Jay Christensen
Staff Writer

It things go right, it could be a big weekend for Iowa field hockey Coach Jan Davidovits.

Davidovits' team leaves today for the Big Ten field hockey tournament which begins Friday and con cludes Sunday. Davidovits' Hawkeyes, however, will not compete after the team had already played their last regular-season game.

"My only brother — everything fails together." WINNING THE BIG TEN title is something the Iowa women have never accomplished. That title is now ranked 33rd in this week's National Field Hockey Coach's Poll. The Hawkeyes have never won a Big Ten title. "I've got high expectations," Davidovits said. "We've got a lot of things to work on and just been working hard. Before the next game comes out, we need to stay focused and ready."

Davidovits, ranked No. 1 in the last poll, drew the top seed in the Big Ten Tournament. The Hawkeyes were drawn with second seed Michigan, No. 3 Indiana, and No. 4 Wisconsin.

"It's a new philosophy," Davidovits said. "We've been working on a new system of play. We've got to stay focused and get ready."

The Hawkeyes met the No. 5 team last Friday, 3-1, but Iowa outplayed Northwestern the next day. The team lost to the Wildcats, 3-1, but Davidovits said their performance was much better.

"I thought we were the best team in the Big Ten," Davidovits said. "We didn't play well enough to win. We weren't good enough."

Iowa has yet to lose this season, but it has lost to Northwestern earlier this season. The Hawkeyes have shot at all through the season's competition. Davidovits said, "In Missouri, in Tennessee, and Wisconsin, we lost."

"If Iowa and Purdue meet in the quarterfinals, that game could be the "true" championship contest."

"If we win the championship, we want to beat the best team," Davidovits said. "If we can't beat them, we don't deserve to be in the final game." Iowa has a 3-0 mark record for this season.

"I hope to get two or three wins back each game." "It's a big day for me and my big guy. We have a big day for the ball." Fry said Regina Reilly and Lee O'Connell would have a big game. Fry said the Hawkeyes will have a chance at kicking the ball into the net and the wind doesn't bother them as much.

"They are looking for kicking abilities and a good back yard."

Iowa injury situation improves

"Iowa football was forced into Danish National Championship because of their injury situation," Davidovits said. "We will have got our own players this weekend and have to manage to have a good practice, according to our schedule." "They look good each week," Fry said. "They improve each week. That's what I mean about being."

Fry said the injury situation has improved with more players returning to the lineup. "They are making a big difference."

"It's not like it's a big game," Davidovits said. "We want to be at our best each week."

Comaneci to try Olympics

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Romanian gymnast Nadia Comaneci says she is interested in competing in the 1984 Olympics, which are scheduled to be held in Los Angeles.

Comaneci, who competed in the 1980 Olympic Games in Moscow, is considered one of the best gymnasts in the world.

"I have some big plans," Comaneci said. "I am interested in competing in the Olympics in Los Angeles and I want to find out about winning a medal that is more important to me."

"I want to do it again," Comaneci said. "It's a great opportunity and I think I will be able to compete and be successful." "I want to compete there, in the U.S. and I want to win," Comaneci said. "I want to do it again."

Phillies foil Royals for two-game lead

Philadelphia's top summer player, second baseman Andre Dawson, made his presence felt at the plate and in the field as the Phillies defeated the Kansas City Royals 13-3-1 to win the second game of their four-game series. Dawson, who had been slugging .688 in his last 10 games, went 3-for-3 with a home run, two doubles, and seven RBIs. The win gave the Phillies a 2-2 series tie with the Royals.

Iowa woman signs $13,500 pro deal

Cherie Huagejorde, formerly of the Iowa women's basketball team, has signed a contract with the San Diego Spirit for the 1990 season. Huagejorde, who has been a valuable member of the Hawkeyes' starting lineup for the past three years, will be a key player for the Spirit, a team that has made several acquisitions to improve its roster.

Phillis rally to win, 6-4

The Philadelphia Phillies defeated the New York Mets 6-4 in the second game of their series. The Phillies scored four runs in the fourth inning to take the lead and held on for the win. Philadelphia's pitching was solid, with starter Steve Carlton limiting the Mets to five hits in seven innings. The win was Carlton's 300th career victory, making him the first active pitcher to reach that milestone.

World Series

Bartman, who had been a slugging pitcher for the Phillies, was struggling in the World Series. He gave up a two-run home run to the first batter he faced in the first inning. After a tough start, Bartman settled down and pitched well the rest of the way. The Phillies went on to win the game and take a 2-0 lead in the series.
