A new Supreme Court rule is in effect

A new rule for Iowa audiologists has been implemented.

The rule, which went into effect on Jan. 1, requires audiologists to report any instances of harm or potential harm to a patient.

The rule was created in response to a growing number of cases involving audiologists who failed to report harmful actions.

In one case, an audiologist was found to have misrepresented a patient's hearing loss.

The rule is designed to ensure that audiologists follow ethical standards and protect patient safety.

The rule applies to all audiologists practicing in Iowa, including those who work for private practices and hospitals.

In addition, the rule requires audiologists to complete continuing education courses on ethical and legal issues.

Audiologists have praised the rule, saying it will help protect patients and improve the quality of care.

The rule is the latest in a series of moves to improve the regulation of Iowa audiologists.

In 2018, the Iowa Board of Audiology and Speech Language Pathology implemented a new licensing system.

The board also began requiring audiologists to pass a criminal background check.

The new rule is part of a broader effort to improve the regulation of Iowa audiologists and ensure patient safety.

The city council will consider the proposal at its next meeting.

Kosygin’s resignation gives no clue of Soviet upheaval

By John Malabar

An expert on U.S. Soviet relations disapprovingly Fitzsimons weeknd and making their case for Premier Aleksei Kosygin is a sign of political spilt in the Soviet Union, saying instead that the Kremlin couldn’t handle the job anymore.

“Kosygin had a major effect in clearing up the air that the U.S. has hit the Soviet Union with,” a former

KGB official, now in the U.S., said. “It is a sign that the Soviet leadership is willing to let the Soviet people decide who the next leader will be.”

The absence of protest for Kosygin’s public service, which President Ronald Reagan has backed, is further proof that either Soviet people are tired of Kosygin’s politics.

“My impression is that the Soviet people are tired of Kosygin’s politics. He is seen as an old man, and I don’t think he is capable of leading the Soviet Union,” the former official said. “The Soviet people want a younger leader, someone who can bring about change.”

Readers defend Anderson votes as show of strength, conviction

To the editor:

Dollie Daniels, 32, a staff writer for the Daily Iowan, says the Iowa Senate should be proud of the vote it took on Monday, Oct. 30, regarding the ban of gay marriage. Daniels wondered whether the Senate's vote was in fact a reflection of opposition to gay marriage or whether it was simply a means of asserting strength to come back and continue fighting for it in future years.

The vote was a simple majority vote, and the majority consisted of Republicans. Daniels said the vote was a clear message to the gay community that the Senate is not yet ready to support gay marriage.

By Adrian Wright

About 75 Iowa City children went out and goblin Friday night as a Halloween party for children sponsored by several Iowa groups.

The Afro-American Cultural Center, Iowa Student Senate, the National Association of Black Law Students, The Black Student Executive Council, and the National Museum of Afro-American History and Action sponsored a Halloween haunted house party at the cultural center.

The party was sponsored to increase understanding and awareness of the cultural center, all of whom are UI care center, organizations were very responsive.

There was a strong commitment on Halloween-haunted house party at the university. A Halloween party for children was important to black children because they don 't have any black stereotypes. They really liked the decorations, food and candy for the cultural center.

Two gems in performance by San Francisco Ballet

By Judith Green
Alta Entertainment Letter

The last of San Francisco Ballet's three performances in Iowa City contained two dance groups that rivaled the company's virtuoso principals.

Marian McNaughton and Tracy Smuin, the company's senior director, presented a clever, charming, and thought-provoking program.

The program featured two ballets: "The Marriage of Arlequin and Columbine" by Lew Christensen, and "The Ballet of the Buffaloes" by Benjamin Herring.

The ballet "The Marriage of Arlequin and Columbine" was a delightful and whimsical dance that featured both humor and pathos.

The second ballet, "The Ballet of the Buffaloes," was a more serious and dramatic piece that explored themes of violence and destruction.

"The Ballet of the Buffaloes" was a transformative work that left a lasting impression on the audience.

The San Francisco Ballet's performance was a testament to the company's dedication to artistic innovation and excellence.

Students meet to consider union

Students at the University of Iowa will meet this week to discuss the possibility of forming a union for graduate students.

The move is being considered by many students who feel that the university should be more involved in their lives and that they need a voice at the bargaining table.

Graduate students have been active in organizing this fall, and some say that they want a say in the decision-making process.

The university administration has been slow to respond to these concerns, and many students feel that they are being left out of important decisions.

Students are planning to meet this week to discuss the possibility of forming a union, and they hope that this will lead to a more open and inclusive environment.

Tri Delta lend hand at I.C. marathon

By Book Kent and Jane Hurd

From the 9 a.m. starting gun to the last thunder on the heartbeats that nearly could have been heard in the bleachers, the 26th annual I.C. Marathon around the Loop was an event to be remembered.

The runners crossing the finish line at the intersection of Gilbert and College Street received the usual cheers, applause and other plaudits in the form of cheers, drinks and medical attention. "It is a hard event but not because of the volunteer effort," said BASI: DEANIA: Of Des Moines was the first woman to enter the Iowa City event this year. BASI: DEANIA: is an experienced runner, in fact. BASI: DEANIA: finished the event in 2:46:28, a time better than that of thousands in the annual Iowa City Multiple Sclerosis event and the Penn State marathon offers more runners than the one here in Iowa City.

The top woman Kopf will win a quarter-barrel of drinking water. Each game must have a winner, including the tiebreaker game. The computers, used to time the runners, calculated the tiebreaker.

Banner belts Bulldogs a '10' after surprise win over Bama

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — On a scorching, Mississippi State University campus, a group of fans and students gathered outside the school's administration building.

A jubilation resulted in the drawing of a '10' by the scoreboard. Mississippi State's stunning 6-3 upset victory over No. 1 Alabama, snapping the Volunteers' nation's winning streak was shown in the nation at 42.

"We're overdue. We've beenput in art for a dozen. We've had our chances," said Coach Pat Dye, whose team last lost a game in 1979.

Mississippi State was 3-6-1 overall, 2-0-1 in the Southeastern Conference. The Bulldogs had not lost to Alabama since 1926. The two teams met in 1926 and 1939, with Alabama winning the games.

"This was our biggest win," said Dye. "It was our biggest win in a long time."

Wisconsin

It was in Madison. It's not in Wisconsin. It was in the capital of the state of Wisconsin. The event was the opening of the state's legislative session. The speaker was a politician named Mr. Smith. The discussion was about the budget for the upcoming year.

The importance of agriculture was emphasized, and the need for increased funding for agricultural research was highlighted. The speaker also mentioned the role of technology in agriculture and the importance of investing in education and training for future farmers.

Despite the political differences, there was a common goal of ensuring the state's prosperity and the well-being of its farmers. The session concluded with a round of applause from both sides of the aisle, indicating a positive and collaborative atmosphere.

Replacing was the key word of the day. The replacement of old with new, the updating of systems, and the introduction of new technology were seen throughout the session. The importance of innovation and progress was underscored, and the need for continuous improvement was emphasized.

In conclusion, the session was a testament to the commitment of the Wisconsin legislature to the betterment of the state. The focus on agriculture, technology, and education showed a forward-thinking approach towards the future of Wisconsin. The closing of the session marked the beginning of a new chapter, one that promises growth and development for the state.

"The Hawks already lost to Hatch's advice. Five Iowa runners scored in their best times of the season."

"It wasn't easy, they got everyone going," he said. "To the captain."
