Aides say Reagan is not "unbending conservative"

By Donald N. Swanson

LOS ANGELES - Contrary to his weekly image as an unbending conser­

Adadan fight goes...

The people of Adadan continued Sunday to hold meetings to demand the release of their leader, Yousuf, who was arrested last week. The meetings, which were attended by thousands of people, were held in different parts of the city, including the west end of the main basketball court. The meetings were peaceful, with no incidents reported.

Court denies petition to halt house-moving...

By Ms. Lois Braun

A petition seeking the temporary injunction, submitted in Iowa City District Court, was denied by Judge Verna Vern. The petition, filed by a group of residents, sought to halt the house-moving that was scheduled to take place this week.

The court ruled that the residents did not have a legal basis for their petition. The court also noted that the residents had not taken the necessary steps to demonstrate that they were entitled to the injunction.

The management of the Lakeside apartments has been forced to make several changes to the building in response to the concerns of the residents. The changes include the installation of new windows and the addition of a new roof.
Reagan's win may delay hostage release

By Barry James

WASHINGTON - President-elect Ronald Reagan's victory could take longer than a result of Carter's victory, and again it_would be placed on trial if Washington does not meet the condition for a release.

In both cases, the hostages would have the same interest in

A loss of ideals

The most striking aspect of Tuesday night's election was that Ronald Reagan was carried to resounding victory on the shoulders of traditional Democratic voters. It is misleading to attribute this change in the behavior of traditional Democratic voters to sudden shifts in their opinions; the shift also represents the basic failure of the Democratic Party to maintain its long-standing ideological position.

Reagan managed to cut into almost every constituency traditionally associated with the Democratic Party. He made substantial inroads in the traditionally Democratic areas of the Midwest and the South. Even in traditional Democratic strongholds such as New York, the margin of his victory was significant.

Democratic Party leaders have already begun to analyze the reasons for their defeat. They have acknowledged that the party has failed to provide a clear and attractive liberal alternative to the conservative agenda of President Reagan. They have also acknowledged that the party has failed to address the concerns of traditional Democratic voters, such as the economy and national security.

The Democratic Party leadership is already considering how to respond to this election. Some are calling for a more aggressive campaign style, while others are calling for a more moderate approach. The party is likely to face a significant challenge in reuniting its diverse group of supporters.

James Earl Ray asks officials to pardon him

By Frank Dechert

United press International

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- James Earl Ray said he was a witness to the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and asked President Gerald Ford to pardon him.

Ray, 42, said he was employing a rank wherein he would be "not satisfied with the 2 percent, " but Ray did not say what he was "satisfied with" or "with the offer." Ray said the offer was expected.

Ray is accused of conspiracy in King's murder but has pleaded not guilty. Ray said he would not go to solitary confinement for years for murder.

In earlier negotiations the city challenged the city's position on a new contract.

Ray said that "the city would be locked into any contract that lasted for more than" but Ray did not say what he was "locked into" or "with the offer." Ray said the offer was expected.

Voyager One gets pictures of Saturn’s atmospheric features by J.C. B. Drake

The Voyager 1 spacecraft has returned its first pictures of Saturn’s atmosphere, showing that the planet’s layers are complex and varied. The images were taken by the spacecraft’s imaging system, which uses ultraviolet, visible, and infrared light to capture detailed images of the planet’s surface and atmosphere.

The atmosphere of Saturn is composed of hydrogen and helium, with trace amounts of other molecules such as water and methane. The images show the planet’s clouds and atmospheric layers, revealing the planet’s dynamic and changing weather patterns.

The Voyager 1 spacecraft launched in 1977 and continues to send back data about the outer solar system. The mission is expected to continue until 2025, when it will reach the limits of the solar system.

Male friendship is hub of 'Bodyguard'

By Michael Altmore

That's not quite the way it sounded when the headline appeared over the following byline: My Bodyguard, directed by Tony Hill. It isn't a story of a great friendship, or of the kind of two men who fight the battle of life. It is the story of a friendship between two men who are not only great friends, but who are also great processors of the world's greatest problems.

The friendship between two men is the foundation of all great processes. It is the friendship between two men who have something in common and who share that common something; it is the friendship between two men who are working together towards a common goal. It is the friendship between two men who are working together towards the same goal, and who are working together towards the same goal in different ways. It is the friendship between two men who are working together towards the same goal, and who are working together towards the same goal in different ways, and who are working together towards the same goal in different ways, and who are working together towards the same goal in different ways.

The friendship between two men is the foundation of all great processes. Injuries stymie Iowa golfers in disappointing fall season

Iowa's women's golf team has put away the long clubs and the mini clubs and is set to spring for greater fortunes in the spring.

On Oct. 16, the Hawkeye's had hoped for a successful fall, placing high in tournaments and bringing home a team title with a state title in the Betty Broughton Invitational, a state title in the Iowa Metropolitan Invitational and a Midwest Conference title.

"We planted some pretty good golf at the beginning of the season," Thomas said.

But October came, and so did injuries. In the Fargo, ND Invitational, Iowa's total score was beside the point. The Hawkeyes had three healthy golfers at the beginning of the season.

"I wasn't getting a lot of time, so I wasn't getting a lot," she said.

In the opening tournament of the fall, the Hawkeyes were again only two golfers competing from three healthy golfers at the beginning of the season.

"I won't play this fall," she said. "This was my getting to be a bit better so we did.

"I think the two were getting tired. They didn't want to admit it, but I think they were getting a little tired. It was like the lineup messed up of a baseball season," she said.

"It was just another problem, she said. "Some of them weren't playing so well, they should be far too on the meadow表达了．"

SERNISE ELLEN CALLAN and junior Sonya Balken, expected to be team leaders, suffered from back and shoulder problems in October. Callan had hoped to be back in time for the spring, but that didn't happen.

"She's not going to be back, she said.

Callan could not compete the rest of the fall season, but did make her golfing debut at the State tournament. "She's the only one who wasn't walking wounded," the Coach said.

Fisher connected on three conversions and added two conversions from the tee box twice for two trys and connected for one conversion.

Harry Fordyce is one of the most experienced players on the 1980s. Also starring Tony Mandela, Thelma Ritter and Nick Adams, winner of the 1980 Academy Awards for Best actor, the event begins Friday, Wed., 7, Thurs., 9

Women lose special focus for Bortz
By Jeff Micheli

Missouri southwestern officials are warning they haven't given Mark Bortz the ax. "We would have met with him first," Foster Int. Scott said. "He's a native of Parke County, and I think he's been especially respected by the residents." The Iowa State University board of trustees voted to fire Bortz from his position as women's basketball coach at the school on Wednesday, with the other stars of the team.

"Iowa's second Jacksonville, Wisconsin quarterback John fuelled the team's attitude," Bortz said. "We had a 1-1 record in the second half, which was right up to the top of the nation. But that touchdown really felt good." Bortz said. "Now we can focus on the remaining games and get ready to go to high school." Bortz admitted there were still tough games ahead, and that the team was nowhere near as strong as it had been last year.

"I guess I don't really know how to feel about it," Bortz said. "We've had a tough year, and I'm sure we'll have a tough season, too. But that's what we're doing in sports." Bortz added. "I'm not going to go on national television at a time like this. Bortz, like the rest of the team, believed he would make the Conference title game. "If he did, that's great," Bortz said. "But if not, I'm not going to be upset. We're not going to let that affect us."

Field hockey club involves ex-athletes

By Claudia Raymond

A field hockey player may not be the most popular sport in the Midwest, but two winter alumni of the Northwestern Iowa Club and the Iowa City Field Hockey Club have been more involved in competitive field hockey than on the Northwestern campus. Iowa City held its first women's hockey club earlier this year and players were looking for the right in the city.

Woolard, a native of Virginia, took to the high school in the 15 years and has been an avid participant in the sport. When she was in high school, Woolard was actually a participant in the Iowa City hockey club and went on to play at Iowa State University.

When I come home and look like I'm at the peak of my competitive ability, and I have fun playing field hockey," Woolard said. "We really need the Iowa City hockey club. For me, it was a great experience to be part of the team.

Sportsclubs

Division 6 has provided equipment, facilities, and help with organizing the Iowa City hockey club. The club has grown from 3 to 40 members in 15 years and has been involved in some regional and national tournaments. The club has a full-time director and is the only field hockey club in Iowa City.

Woolard has been the Midwest's No. 1 player, who guides two teams into the Midwest's second unit at the top position.

The two Iowa City players played for the national team last year. They used to be a key part of the team's defense and played a vital role in the team's success.

"Woolard was the key to a lot of our success," said the Midwest's second unit. "She was the key to our defense and had a lot of control over the game."

Coach develops cross country champs

By Mike Haslo

Hartford, Conn. (UPI) — Mike Hassard took over the head coaching job for the women's cross country team at the University of Rhode Island Monday. Hassard, a former assistant coach at the University of Vermont, was chosen to replace Coach Charles Arnold, who stepped down after six years of service to the program.

Hassard said his first priority is to build a strong foundation for the women's cross country team. "We need to establish a strong base and create a culture of success," he said. "We want to make the women's cross country team a national powerhouse." Hassard, who was born in Providence, R.I., and grew up in nearby Cranston, said he is excited to return to his hometown and lead the URI women's cross country team.

The women's cross country team at URI has had a history of success, but Hassard knows that rebuilding a program takes time. "We need to take it one step at a time," he said. "We need to establish a strong base and create a culture of success. We want to make the women's cross country team a national powerhouse."

Hassard said he will focus on building a strong bond between the team members and creating a culture of support and teamwork. "I want to create a family atmosphere on the team," he said. "I want the girls to feel like they are a part of something special." Hassard also plans to work with the URI administration to build a strong athletic department and create a culture of success at the university.
