Blaze strikes Vegas Hilton

11/19/1976 8:00 PM - What the fire department called a "major" fire swept out of control Tuesday night and spread up a portion of the east facade of the $250 million hotel.

The blaze occurred at about 3:35 PM in the hotel's lobby area. The fire was reported to the hotel by a guest who saw smoke coming from the area.

The fire was reported to have started in the hotel's lobby area and had spread to the third floor by the time it was extinguished.

The cause of the fire is under investigation.

White out

Tuesday's relentlessly continued brought about local conditions of snow and 25-mile-per-hour winds. Many of the pedestrians buried their heads and hands over the impact of the wind and snow.

The implementation of school closures has been the main topic of concern in the area.

School board okays budget cuts

School board okays budget cuts

The Iowa City School Board Monday voted to approve $2.2 million in budget adjustments that include staff cuts, student fees and cuts in school programs.

The adjustments, which were recommended by School Superintendent David Cook for the district's fiscal 1982 budget, include cuts for faculty, staff, and cuts in school programs and building projects.

The board members favored the cuts and approved the proposal.

Council to review funding requests

The Coralville City Council will consider funding requests for various community programs at its meeting Tuesday night.

The requests will be reviewed by the council's Finance Committee, which will make recommendations to the council.

Further details are available elsewhere.

HERE'S OUR TEST!

Today you want to be sure you're getting the most for your food dollar. The best way to be sure is to compare. And the best way to compare is to look at total savings, not just a few prices. That's how our test works!

1. YOUR LIST:
   - Make out your own shopping list.
   - Note the price for every item on the list at Eagle and any other store you choose.

2. YOUR TEST:
   - Add up the prices and compare your total savings.

3. YOUR PROOF:
   - Compare Eagle, total for your family's daily needs, with any other store you choose.

HERE'S WHY IT WORKS!

When you compare, you may find an occasional "special" that's lower than a price at Eagle. But we're confident that our storewide low prices will reduce your total food bill at the checkout stand. That's where savings really count. And that's why our test works!

OUR TEST WORKS!

Don't take our word for it. Take our test. You'll prove that discount works to save you more!

Exploiting Frenchmen?

To the editor:

I was shocked to read my favorite columnist, Eric Greставad, implying that the French are being exploited in the film industry. I feel that, from the information presented, it is inaccurate to assume that French films are искусствен

Eric Greставad

Letters

The earth, sometimes and that is thatmill.

The French government wants their French film industry not to become a victim of Hollywood (or American) films. The reason behind this "trend" is to save the French Franc and make the French less dependent on the American dollar. It is being said that if all the French government does is to spend their money in the French film industry, they will be able to increase their Francs.

To the editor:

I am writing to express my disagreement with your column "Exploiting Frenchmen?". I feel that your article is misleading and misinformed. I believe that it is important to understand that the French film industry is facing many challenges and that the French government is working hard to support it.

The student voice

Representatives of the Student Theater Arts Guild today met to discuss the possibility of producing a national theater competition for a newspaper by a unanimous vote of the faculty members. This competition decision to be announced shortly. Registration is open now, and interested students are encouraged to register soon.

The theater department has been criticized in the past for its lack of diversity in casting. This year, however, there are several productions that are both inclusive and diverse, and they are encouraged to attend these events.

Linda Schupparen

Supporting Campus

Rising operational costs have forced Campus to consider reducing service levels. Greater student support is needed to sustain the university's efforts.

Campus announced that it would consider cuts to its services. Unfortunately, this move comes as all American campuses are facing difficult times due to rising operational costs and decreased state funding.

The students are encouraged to support Campus by contributing to its fundraising efforts and by attending events that help to sustain the university's operations.

Faculty group offers support in effort to gain higher pay

If faculty members learn that their spring # hikes will not be followed through next year, a faculty group's executive director said yesterday, the group will keep fighting on the issue.

The Faculty Group for Action was formed by angry faculty members after the legislature rejected an additional 2 percent pay increase for state employees and approved a 1 percent hike for Municipal Employees. The legislature voted 50-48 to reject an additional 2 percent for Municipal Employees and approved a 1 percent raise for state employees and approved a 1 percent hike for Municipal Employees.

The Faculty Group for Action was founded in response to the legislature's action in rejecting an additional 2 percent increase for state employees and approved a 1 percent hike for Municipal Employees.

Seniors who joined the group after the legislature voted to reject the 2 percent increase said they would support the group's fight for a higher pay raise.

"We are very disappointed with the legislature's action," said Diane Dwyer, president of the Faculty Group for Action. "We are committed to fighting for a higher pay raise and will continue to support the group's efforts."
Dealing with family problems may be subject to being UI conference

By Elizabeth Hamberg

How families cope with stress, technology and sex will be discussed at the 9th Annual College Family Conference to be held today through Friday at the UI Union.

"The social atmosphere is shifting, and the way the family and young change the way we look at the family," said Glenda Thach, director of the University of Iowa Counseling and Development Center for the UI Continuing Education Division.

"We are trying to help parents to understand how they can set up healthy environments for their children," she said.

The conference will include discussions of family patterns, the role of parents and the role of technology in parenting.

"Sauers, speaking at the conference on Thursday at 9 a.m., will be discussing the role of parents in technology and how it affects their children.

"At the conference, parents will be asked to discuss their experiences and show how families are changing," said Elizabeth Filbert, director of the UI Continuing Education Division.

"The speeches will cover cable TV and home computers and how they affect families, Johnson said.

''393rd hostage'' Dwyer leaves Iran, will arrive in New York City today

KING Dindal Abdul Fattah (Sahirian) announced today that he was leaving for the United States, and will arrive in New York City on May 5th from Dubai. Dwyer, 35, returned to the United States after spending nine months in Iran as a hostage. He has been in Jordan for the past two months, where he was held by Jordanian authorities.

Dwyer's return is scheduled for Wednesday, May 5th. He will be met at the New York City airport by officials from the American Consulate in Jordan. The American Consulate has been providing assistance to Dwyer and his family since he was detained in Iran.

Dwyer's case was made public by American consular officials. The American government has been working to secure his release since he was arrested in Iran in August 1980. Dwyer was accused of spying for the Iranian government and was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

He spent his day in Dubai undergoing a medical examination, which revealed that he was healthy. Dwyer was not allowed to speak with his family during his detention in Iran.

The American government has been demanding his release from Iran's prison systems. The case has been closely followed by authorities in the United States and the international community.

In his statement, Dwyer thanked his family and friends for their support during his captivity. He also expressed his gratitude to the American Consulate for their tireless efforts to secure his release.

Dwyer's arrival in New York City will be a significant moment for both him and his family. He will have the opportunity to reunite with his loved ones after spending nine months in Iran as a hostage.

Senator Jesse Helms, a Republican from North Carolina, is planning to introduce a bill defining life as a simple act of reproduction. The bill, which would nullify the 1973 Supreme Court decision allowing abortion, would effectively nullify the right of women to choose whether to have an abortion.

Sen. Jesse Helms, as a spokesperson for the Republican party, has been vocal in his opposition to abortion. He has consistently voted against legislation that would expand access to abortion, and has called for the reversal of the 1973 Supreme Court decision.

The legislation would nullify the 1973 Supreme Court decision allowing abortion, and would effectively nullify the right of women to choose whether to have an abortion. The bill would be introduced in the Senate, where it would need to be passed by a simple majority before moving to the House of Representatives.

The bill is expected to face strong opposition from women's rights groups and pro-choice advocates. The pro-choice movement has been fighting to protect the right of women to choose whether to have an abortion, and has been successful in blocking similar legislation in the past.

However, with a Republican-controlled Senate, the bill is likely to pass and become law. The bill would effectively ban abortion in the United States, and would have a significant impact on women's reproductive rights.

The bill is expected to face strong opposition from women's rights groups and pro-choice advocates. The pro-choice movement has been fighting to protect the right of women to choose whether to have an abortion, and has been successful in blocking similar legislation in the past.

In 'The First Deadly Sin,' the plot sickens — and dies

By Doug Wyllie

Sometimes one can tell which movies you'll like and which you won't just by reading about the plot. The First Deadly Sin is one of those flicks, as shown by its plot.

We see the victims killed first. It was a "good" cop, and it was the "good" cop's gun that killed the victim. The gun, and with it the gun's owner, the "good" cop, was killed by the "bad" cop.

The Kevin Boyle answer story began after the 1978 Big Ten Tournament loss to Iowa State's St. Lawrence High and focused on one of the last touches of the game. Iowa State's Kevin Boyle9 jumped on his back for a foul at midcourt and he was called for a technical foul. Boyle was sent to the line to take his free throws, but he missed them all. Iowa State ended up winning the game, 1413 , and the team lost the Big Ten tournament.

Boyle's technical foul was assessed for "Delays of Game," making him ineligible for the NCAA Tournament that season. In the 1979 Big Ten Tournament, Boyle was active and helped the team win the championship. In the Big Ten Championship game, Boyle was named Most Outstanding Player for his performance, and he was a key contributor in Iowa State's 82-72 victory over the University of Illinois. Boyle's technical foul was later overturned in the 1979 Big Ten Tournament.

Boyle became a three-time All-Big Ten selection and was named to the AP All-American first team in 1980. He finished his college career with 1921 points, which is still the second-most in Iowa State history. Boyle later played professionally in Europe for several seasons before returning to Iowa State as an assistant coach in 1985.

In addition to his basketball career, Boyle also holds degrees in Business Administration and Coaching Education from Iowa State University. He has been a coach at various levels of basketball, including his current position as an assistant coach at the University of Iowa. Boyle is known for his passion for the game and his dedication to helping young players reach their full potential.
