Where do we tie the ribbon for Latin America?

In the political performance, designed as a "plebiscite" against U.S. involvement as we now express ourselves, the waves of military advisors to El Salvador to help maintain the ongoing assurance.

For as it stands by its people, only the effort to be continued, that effort is the attainment.

Baker: Salvador needs U.S. aid

By Jim J. White

WASHINGTON — Senate Republicans said Wednesday that they were "very concerned" about the chances of a "military" situation developing this week in El Salvador. They expressed their concern during a news conference with the leaders of the Senate.

The Senate Republicans said that they would continue to make efforts to stop the military actions taken by the Salvadoran government.

"We are concerned that the military actions may lead to a situation where the United States would be put in the role of mediator," said Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole (R-Kan.). "Our goal is to prevent a military conflict and to find a peaceful resolution to the crisis in El Salvador."

Student lobbying plan

The Student Senate and the Collegiate Association Council have taken the initiative in the Student senate and have groups that have been active in fighting for educational improvements. The student senate and the College Association Council have formed a coalition that is working for more money for student services and for the education of students. The student senate and the College Association Council have also been working to improve the facilities of the university, such as the student center and the library. Military aid to Saudis

The sale of F-111s to Saudi Arabia in 1979 was based on the belief that they would be used for defensive purposes. However, it is now believed that the planes will be used for offensive purposes. The sale of the planes has allowed the king of Saudi Arabia to increase his power and his influence in the region. The sale of the planes has also allowed the king of Saudi Arabia to increase his power and his influence in the region. Consumer advocate Ralph Nader will speak today at Union

\[\text{By Mary Schumacher}\]

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader will speak today at 7 p.m. in the Union Main Lounge to observe National Engineers' Week. Nader, who is being sponsored chiefly by the Associated Students of Engineering and the Theta Tau, will deliver a speech on "Professional Responsibility of the Professional." He speaks will probably focus on "alternative answers" to a question last summer who told the public about defective products, even though they may work for the company that manufactures the product.

NADER WILL arrive in Iowa City at about 3:30 p.m. today and hold a press conference before delivering the speech. Nader will deliver a speech on National Engineers' Week at 7 p.m. in the Union Main Lounge.

The presentation is to the 15 chapters of the Iowa Public Interest Research Group. A press conference before the speeches will be given at the Union. Nader will deliver a speech in 25 minutes before leaving for D.C. at 11 p.m., and New Hampshire on Thursday. Nader by his office in Iowa City.

Appealing before the Senate Committee on Post Office and Civil Service, Nader defended governmental officials of reflecting a double standard that bulls restrain their pay demands and profits "because 25% of the population greatly increased their salaries,宣传教育 and benefits," Nader told.

"In the struggle against inflation, top government officials should set an example to the rest of society by exercising pay restraint," Nader said.

Farfisa organ rediscovered by New Wave rock

Music

There is a richness in New Wave that has yet to be fully explored. The music is often referred to as synth-pop, but it has not yet reached its full potential. The technology of today is changing rapidly, and music is evolving. As the capabilities of synthesizers improve, new sounds can be created. This has made it possible for musicians to experiment with new ideas and create unique sounds. The Farfisa organ is one example of this innovation.

Fery or pl'Opert, veterans, Maines) will never forget the all too brief world of the Farfisa or its sudden death. The Farfisa, who have inexplicably ceased nothing about early rock, has brought the Farfisa sound back into vogue. The farfisa organ is a very interesting instrument. It is a combination of a piano and a Hammond organ. The Farfisa sound is like nothing else, in a distinctive and danceable sphere.

There is no one who remembers Farfisa, or its resurrection. "Light My Fire" will be a hit, this is a fact.

Sesame Street Live treat children and adults will enjoy

You're in charge in the Sesame Street Live event that kind of fun has. But the show was spectacular! The scene, buttery-soft, productive and headliner of "Sesame Street." Children love has never allowed his Muppets to be used for anything tasteless. The show was a hit. The scenes of it's all that does it: music, the organ is a tool, it's that they can be for sale. Greater helps, not, so to Beeth and. But it's the Cookie Monster who precisely solves the problems.

Sesame Street Live is directed and hosted by Alec Wilder, who also choreographed the soon-to-be-released Muppet Show. The show is scheduled for 7 p.m. tonight and Friday, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, and 2 and 3 p.m. on Sunday, at the Louisville Palace.

CBs win IM game and beer

By Mike Hais

Some CBs got together to win a monetary Tuesday night beer game, through a very strong effort in the intramural basketball "Consolation" game.

CBs' All-Stars and Blue Motorcycle met in a non-elimination化妆 round. Both teams entered the game with 42 minutes, with the winner getting a beer, and the loser getting a drink. CBs' All-Star, after losing in the regular season game to Blue Motorcycle by a 33-0 margin, took the game to overtime, with a final score of 44-40. CBs' All-Star was led by Pete Lollar, who scored 12 points, and Leon Shoemaker, who added 10 points, including a three at the end of the game.

CBs had things fairly under control in the first half. They used a 12-4 lead, and forced Blue Motorcycle to come back to the game. CBs' All-Star was led by Pete Lollar, who scored 12 points, and made a three at the end of the game.

Iowa to swim in Big Tens

By Steve Bartelsman

Writing a Big Ten title can be the highlight of any athlete's career.

The Iowa women's swimming and diving team is hoping to bring home the title of Big Ten Team of the Week, in just the third meet of the season. The award is based on the team's performance in nine events, including swims and dives, and the three events that the team had the best performance in.

Morgan Brandes and Andrew Knoll were the competitors for the team, with Brandes taking third place in the 100 backstroke, and Knoll taking second place in the 200 butterfly.

Stakes high in Big Ten cage contest

By David Market

Now that the Big Ten season is approaching its end, the pressure is on for teams to prove themselves worthy. Last Thursday's No. 1 topic was "Big Game" with Illinois, Minnesota, and Iowa all taking turns at the top. The Big Ten is the pinnacle of the College Basketball season for many teams, and the stakes are high. The pressure is on for teams to prove themselves worthy.

Not only is the pressure on for the teams, but also for the coaches. The coaches have to make sure their teams are prepared and ready for the Big Ten season. The coaches have to make sure their teams are prepared and ready for the Big Ten season.
