Murder attempt fails; president to recover

Press aide Brady and 2 others wounded

By William H. Geist of The New York Times

WASHINGTON — A young man who identified himself as President Reagan at a high school and from there was escorted to the White House, was shot and wounded.

Three hours later, the President, who was released from the hospital, joked with bystanders.

"Well, I'm back and I'm pretty well," he said.

"I'd rather not discuss that," he said.

"All I'd say is that we're going to get back to it," he said.

"That's my problem," he said.

Limiting auto imports

American auto manufacturers and the Reagan administration must be breathing a sigh of relief this week. The problem of how to impose import quotas on Japanese auto sales was decided — for the nonce, at least — by the Reagan government almost exactly what it will encourage a voluntary reduction of auto exports. The results are predictable and consistent with the Reagan administration's stand on a light touch approach towards international trade. Although Reagan has expressed his belief in free trade and the dangers of "protectionism" in the marketplace, U.S. auto manufacturers have been increasingly vocal in their demands for government protection or a "voluntary" reduction of imports from Japan. The president's stand on this point has been pretty clear. The findings on his feelings would boost the economy by encouraging the importation of foreign automobiles. Of course, the controversy surrounding Iowa's decision to reconsider its auto import restrictions probably has made more noise and created a greater awareness of the issue than the group's funding problems. The negative solution to the group's funding problems is simply free enterprise. It was not intended to be a vote for or against the organization. It was intended to be a vote on the right to protest a law that it will encourage a voluntary reduction of auto exports.

Complaint against Bijou rejected

By Craig Genestus

The Iowa Human Rights Commission has rejected a complaint against the Bijou Theatre that alleged the center committed gender discrimination in violation of the Iowa Civil Rights Act of 1965.

The commission’s decision determined that the Bijou Theatre did not violate the Iowa Civil Rights Act of 1965.

The commission’s decision was based on the fact that the Bijou Theatre did not discriminate against any person because of their gender.

The commission’s decision was not appealed.

Reagan tells public ‘don’t worry’

Reagan’s Wound

The bullet that struck President Reagan entered his chest below his left arm, ricocheted off a rib and lodged in his lung. The president was in a serious condition at the time of the shooting.

The bullet hole is visible on the left side of the president’s chest. The doctors later called the puncture wound a “really tough” one to cover the president’s appearance at the White House.

Recovery seen for agent and policeman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The two law enforcement officers wounded in Monday’s assassination attempt on President Reagan were recovering well, doctors said.

City police officer Thomas Delahanty, 45, was in serious condition Monday night with a bullet wound in his neck. He was described as being alert and talking.

And Secret Service agent Timothy McCarthy, 32, the wounded Secret Service agent, was recovering well.

The Springfield (Ill.) Journal found Delahanty and McCarthy to be the same officer.

McCarthy was described as a “heckuva nice guy.” He is the son of a retired suburban division chief.

Two unsuccessful attempts were made on his life by John Hinkley, 25, and an unidentified man.

Haig takes over at White House following shooting of president

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Alexander Haig took charge of the government after President Ronald Reagan was shot outside a Washington hotel on Tuesday.

"As of now, I am in control here," the White House spokesmen outside the hotel said. "We have been informed that the Washington, D.C., police are in control here."

President George Bush, who was on the radio in a speech he was giving when the shooting occurred, said the president was taken to a hospital.

RICHARD W. HARRISON, a former aide to the White House and a former press secretary, was asked Monday night by President Reagan's press secretary, who was asked Monday night by President Reagan's press secretary, to assume the post of acting White House press secretary.

Bentler cited for battle bravery

This is the account of a three-part series on the人生 of John Bentler, a veteran who served in Vietnam. After his time in the service, he became a warrior when he returned home from the war.

---

Most of Bentler's combat time in Vietnam was spent on helicopters, flying missions over the South Vietnamese. He says that the helicopters were key in his role as an advisor to the Vietnamese forces.

FAA to eliminate controller jobs

Washington (UPI) -- The Department of Transportation is considering eliminating nearly 7,000 air traffic controller jobs because of an expected reduction in air traffic. The FAA is in the process of negotiating with the Federal Executive Board for a contract to replace one that expired March 31.

Bentler said Newell told the Southeast Airports Association that the FAA was a good citizen to the public and that the FAA needs to be able to operate in a more efficient manner.

The FAA was not available for comment.

It pays to upgrade your insulation to today's new, higher standards.

Even if your home was built recently, it may not meet today's, new, higher standards for insulation. The more energy you can save, the more you pay to insulate. Iowa Illinoise Gas and Electric Company now recommends 90% standard insulation in attic. That's the equivalent of 1.0 inches of blankest fiberglass insulation. The new standard calls for full insulation in your attic.

You probably have some questions like:

• Should I try to do it myself?

We have answers to these kinds of questions and we can make suggestions which will help you choose an installation contractor.

You'll also find that many leading firms will offer loans for energy-saving home improvements.

To learn more about these new energy and money-saving insulation standards and how to improve the energy efficiency of your home, contact Iowa Illinois Gas and Electric Company office, or write our customer with your utility bill and we'll be in touch.

Energy, efficiency, savings,

We're here to help!

Please complete the coupon and return with your utility bill.

A mind-blowing experience not much fun in 'Scanners'

By Craig Wysock

When there were 447 people in the world who could turn their minds into matter, why was there such a commotion in The Final Conflict?

The reason, of course, is simple: you can't really be scared of a bunch of things that don't exist.

Stephen Lack plays a detached hero who doesn't believe in heroics or anything very much. He's only interested in turning his mind into a thing of flesh and blood, which he can then use to control the other scanners.

But when we meet him, he's still working on the project with the help of a young girl he's attracted to, and he seems to be building something bigger and better than before.

Eventually a couple of experiments go wrong, and Lack has to face the girls and people with questions who get their way after having to put up with a few more bloody theories.

If film lives up to promise, this conflict is finally over.

Films

"I am not sure if the camera moves or is it to the camera," he says.

"The Final Conflict" is a movie about Scanner wars.

"In this film, we see the best of what is good about scanners and the worst about what they have to offer.

"If scanners are the future, then the future is bleak.

"Scanners are a threat to the world because they have the ability to project their minds into matter.

"But if we let them, they could turn things into a mess.

"This is the question: What if there were 237 people in the world who could turn their minds into matter, and only one was left alive?"

"Not a good thing for扫描s, but a good thing for everyone else.

"In the end, we see the good things about scanners and the bad things about them.

Fry prepares troops as spring football starts

By Ray Christensen

Iowa State Coach Jerry Fry had just had a fight in a bowling alley with a reporter yesterday, ending spring of football practice and taking Iowa on a chance for the Big Ten.

With 41 veterans returning from last fall's 1-9-5 season and only six with less than two years of experience coming back from the winter, the Hawkeyes and the other Big Ten teams are in line to improve their overall record of 3-7-1 this year.

"It's a long season, and we have a lot of work to do," Fry said. "We expect to improve." He continued, "I expect that if we play our best -- and we have the depth and experience to do so -- we should make some noise in the conference."

Lewis, DeAnna win Courageous, MVP awards at annual banquet

By Ray Christensen

The Iowa women's 1-9-1 tennis team, coached by Ardelle DeAnna, was honored with the Most Valuable Award at the annual banquet Thursday night in the McFarland Hall.

DeAnna, a senior, was named the Most Valuable Player for the Iowa women's tennis team, a team that reached the NCAA tournament.

"Ardelle's the best," said team captain Mary Ann Mommens, who was also honored at the banquet. "She's a great tennis player, a great person, and a great leader."

Wrestling

In the end, though, she remembers the way it was for her.

"I'll be a challenge," she says. "But the players I've got here were waiting to work hard enough for it."

Berkemeyer attended several area basketball games this year, but would be easier to evaluate from the sidelines that night.

"We're not the same team," she said. "And we got along really well. We just don't seem to have a lot of people who can do it. The team was so good because we probably would be able to work together, but not with a lot of people."

Berkemeyer, who was also looking for John Halstad, Russell and Duda, said to anyone "the kids" from Cypress team about her choice. "I think everything else is good, but if you were to see their concerns, they would do it. But the kids would have been really disappointed if I had gone out of state."

ALTHOUGH Berkemeyer will not officially sign a national letter of intent until 15 years, he has chosen to forego the rest of his prep career and focus on the next four years at the Big 12.

"I kind of knew all along that Iowa was the best place to go," she said. "The coaches are the best and the players play some great basketball. But I'm not sure if other kids who are talented and want to play at a high level, you can stay out of Iowa."

"There's not much in my view where I want to go," Berkemeyer said. "I've been there before, and it's too hard."

Berkemeyer said that she also had some concerns about her own family life. "We're not the same team," she said. "And we got along really well. We just don't seem to have a lot of people who can do it. The team was so good because we probably would be able to work together, but not with a lot of people."

RECRUITS

The NCAA allows only 18 players on scholarship at one time, Iowa has 11 scholarship players returning next season. The only other scholarship available is for connecting with recruit Greg Overton.

Iowa's long-term goal is to enroll 18 players, but that's not likely to happen this season. "I know we're going to have a lot of problems," coach Harrelson said. "We're not going to have a lot of talent, but if we can get better, we can get back to where we were last year."
