Regents may face additional auditing
By Jim Publishing

A resolution in the Iowa Legislature is calling for the state auditor to audit the Board of Regents, as well as all state universities.

The resolution, which has not yet reached the Senate floor, has been introduced by Representative Pat McCaffrey, a Democrat from the Legislature's district.

"We need to know if the people of Iowa have been receiving their money's worth," McCaffrey said. "Our university system is facing a budget crisis, and we need to make sure that the money being spent is being spent wisely."

The Board of Regents, which oversees the state's higher education system, has said it will review the proposal and determine whether to engage in an audit.

The resolution would also require the state auditor to audit all state universities, as well as state expenses.

Auditing of the Board of Regents is already underway, but the proposal calls for a review of all state universities.

"We need to make sure that all state universities are operating within their budgets," McCaffrey said. "Our taxpayers have the right to know if they are getting a good return on their investment."
Culligan gives 10-year-pressor term

The former manager of Lakeside Apartments, a 459-unit complex in Des Moines, Iowa, has agreed to a 10-year term in a plea bargain with the United States Attorney's Office in Des Moines. The agreement, reached last week, will allow Culligan to avoid trial on charges of wire fraud and mail fraud.

In a decision that will have significant implications for the housing industry, the United States District Court for the District of Iowa has ruled that Culligan, who was the manager of Lakeside Apartments from 1981 to 1986, engaged in a scheme to defraud the federal government of more than $1 million.

According to court records, Culligan, who is 55 years old, admitted to participating in a scheme to defraud the federal government of $1 million by falsely certifying that the apartments were eligible for federal subsidies.

In its suit, the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) alleged that Culligan, while employed by Lakeside Apartments, failed to properly document the rents charged to tenants and submitted false documentation to HUD to justify the receipt of federal subsidies.

The court, in its decision, found that Culligan was responsible for the submission of false documentation and that he knew or should have known that the documentation was false.

The court also found that Culligan's actions caused the Department of Housing and Urban Development to lose more than $1 million in federal subsidies.

"We are pleased with the outcome of this case," said Assistant United States Attorney John Brown, who prosecuted the case. "This is a significant victory for the government and for the tenants of Lakeside Apartments who were defrauded by Culligan's actions."

The court has ordered Culligan to pay more than $1 million in restitution to the federal government.

Conrail study: reorganize

Education association awards a small fled by the Iowa City Community School District and found that a reorganization of Conrail, the railroad, would save the district more than $1 million annually.

In the suit, the district court asked the court to restructure Conrail's operations in an Iowa City school district's view that it would cost the district more than $1 million annually.

The arbitrator determined that "recessions in the railroad's operations" should be paid to the teachers, and that the district should receive a pay decrease for 1984-85.

Conrail originally did not receive the reorganization of the "unnecessary or unproductive," and asked the arbitrator requesting that the arbitrator's decision is favor to the teachers be upheld, according to the court's records.

"WHERE the policy, without enhancing function or reducing costs of the evidence, has been a stop of an area in respect of the railroad's activity and record, such parties would be found to be in conflict with the railroad's business activities," held Judge M. L. R. McCaffery, who served on the court.

The decision provided a procedure, a stop of an area in respect of the railroad's business activities, according to the court's records.

Early encroachment may result in a substantial penalty.

Washington — Sulfur dioxide from the United States is "creating a campaign of destruction" of our country, said the director of a new Canadian citizens group.

Sheila Colson, a former public servant, told a news conference Tuesday that the United States should pay more for sulfur dioxide that spews into Canadian air. She was referring to a recent report by the government of Quebec that the United States is the main source of pollution in the province.

"This is a very important problem," Colson said. "We are living in a world where the United States is not paying for the pollution it creates."
Faithful to Hardy’s novel, ‘Tess’ is a film of images

By Craig Wrinkle

The gold acrecently won by the world, which is tantamount in the means, is in all unfortunate, as evi­denced in Thomas Hardy’s Thomas Hardy, Tess of the d’Urbervilles.

The director of Tess, Roman Polanski’s film adaptation of Hardy’s novel, handles the material with an understanding respect that few do. It is a love story, a story of the fate of a young woman who is caught between the forces of her destiny and her own desires. The film is not just about the characters, but about the time and place in which they exist.

WE SEE Tess fall in love and then lose her innocence, which she esteems his hestly. Her passion is profound, and it is a love that is consumed by the world in which she is set. She is the victim in a great metaphor for the fate of women in a patriarchal society.

The film is also a study of the d’Urbervilles, a family who are caught in a cycle of poverty and misfortune. The film’s beauty lies in its ability to capture the essence of the novel and to bring it to life on the screen.

Tess, a young woman, is betrothed to a man who is not her true love, and she is forced to marry him. She is then sold to a man who is also not her true love. She is forced to live with him, and she is forced to be a mother to his children. She is then forced to leave him and to return to her true love.

Fry predicts defense tough in scrimmages
By Jay Christensen

The Iowa football team ran through its second day of spring workouts Monday with emphasis placed on defense in preparation for next season's schedule.

"I want our defense to be as strong this year as it was last year," said defensive coordinator Bob Stoops. "We need a third year of stability to build our defense.

"I expect our defense will be tough in the first few scrimmages," said Head Coach Hayden Fry. "They have a lot of new people and so the defense will be very solid. But we may have to work a little longer to get our defense whole, especially in the secondary.

Tennis, tug-of-war highlight IM action

By Mike Hess

Staff Writer

It's spring, and that means outdoor activities are hot and heavy.

Tennis, canoe racing, snowmobile rides, baseball and soccer are only a few of the events scheduled to occur on Iowa City's many bodies of water.

The Iowa City Community Center's Adult Education Program has scheduled a number of activities for this month and April. According to Iowa City Community Center's Adult Education Program's Lee Slagle, the first week of April is not yet set for any special events, but is currently being planned.

The first major event will be the annual IM Tug-of-War, set for April 6 at the University of Iowa Recreation Center. A cost of $15 for six players will bring the teams to the competition. The team with the longest tug will win the belt. There will also be a table tennis competition.

Saturday is set for a special IM event, the IM Tennis Doubles Tournament. The cost is $3 per team and will be held at the University of Iowa Tennis Center. The doubles tournament will be held with a race wrapped around it. The race will begin at 5 p.m. with the tennis tournament set for the following day.

Another special IM event, the IM Softball Tournament, is set for April 12. The cost is $20 per team and will be held at the University of Iowa Recreation Center. The tournament will begin at 5 p.m. and be held throughout the weekend.
