United Way cannot get necessary funds

By Scott Gottlieb

A proposed economy and decreased federal aid have made it difficult for United Way agencies to meet the increasing demand for assistance, according to a United Way administrator.

The United Way of Johnson County has been unable to raise the funds necessary to provide the same level of services as in previous years. The agency has had to cut back on some programs, and some clients have had to be turned away.

The United Way of Johnson County provides services to more than 1,000 people each year. The agency has been in operation for 25 years, and it is the largest United Way agency in the state.

Some of the services provided by the United Way include food pantries, clothing banks, and financial assistance.

The United Way of Johnson County is a member of the United Way of America, which is a national organization that coordinates the efforts of local United Way agencies.

The United Way of Johnson County is supported by individual donations, corporate contributions, and government grants.

Policy makers and the public face a range of complex issues, from national security to economic policy. Public opinion polls indicate that the American public is wary of government spending and debt. In response, some policy makers have proposed budget cuts and tax increases to reduce the federal deficit. However, these proposals have met with strong opposition from some segments of the public, who argue that such measures would hurt the economy and job growth. The debate continues, with no clear solutions in sight.

In other news, the U.S. Supreme Court is set to hear arguments in a case that could have significant implications for healthcare reform. The case, King v. Burwell, challenges the law's mandate that individuals purchase health insurance or face fines. The outcome of the case could determine the future of the Affordable Care Act, which has been a major focus of political and policy debates in recent years.

Iowa City Transit gets $222,000 to buy buses

AMES, Iowa (UPI) - Iowa City Transit will receive $222,000 from the Federal Transit Administration for buying six buses, an assistant city manager said Thursday.

The money comes from the FTA's Transit Preservation and Operations special project.

The funds will be used to help finance the purchase of six 12-passenger transit buses to replace five older models in the city's fleet.

Iowa City Transit was one of eight transit agencies in Iowa awarded the money, said Thomas Goebel, an assistant city manager.

I.C. police ratify contract; demands set for next year

By Michael Karwin

Members of the Iowa City Police Patrolmen's Association Monday night ratified a two-year contract with a 4 percent pay raise, and the association president said police will be back in the bargaining table with some new demands made over the next two years.

James Linn, president of the association, and the bargaining team of six department members, said the 4 percent pay raise is "something that is, in my opinion, 13 to 13 percent per year that everyone feels is in its original definition."

Note that the association's president has ratified the contract with the Iowa City Council, which will consider it at its June 16 meeting.

BORA: City police have been working without a contract since the last one expired July 1. Negotiations progressed through mediation and fact-finding, and were held for the entire time.

The city and police said they are "very close" to an agreement that would call for arbitration in Johnson County District Court if a settlement cannot be reached.

Police and city negotiators reached tentative agreement Thursday, but the city had not yet filed the contract.

UI Iranian students oppose Islamic party

By Michael Karwin

A group of Iranian UI students has been pressing for the termination of the Islamic Republic Party.

The students say the IUPP needs more than cut in government and education to continue its goal.

"People are still living in the light of the new Iran," said a group spokesman who requested anonymity, "and we are living in the light of our culture and the need to continue our studies." The group said it would not oppose the IUPP's efforts to continue its goal.

O'Connor boasts strong credentials

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sandra Day O'Connor, a state appeals judge, is the leading candidate to replace retiring Justice Potter Stewart. The White House is expected to announce its choice in the next few weeks.

O'Connor is the first woman to be nominated to the Supreme Court and is likely to be confirmed by the Senate. She has been praised for her legal skills and her ability to work with both men and women on the court.

Senate allies said they had no qualms about O'Connor's appointment, which they view as a significant step forward for women in politics. They noted that O'Connor has already served as a judge in Arizona and has a strong record of accomplishments.

O'Connor's nomination has met with some opposition from conservative groups, who argue that she is too liberal on issues such as abortion and gun control. However, most legal scholars agree that she has a strong and balanced legal record.

The White House is expected to announce its choice for Stewart's replacement in the next few weeks, and the Senate is likely to confirm the nominee quickly.

Baseball owners make no decisions

By Peter Finch Jr.

NEW YORK—The chief negotiator for the Major League Baseball Players Association, Tony Clark, has directed his team of lawyers to prepare a new proposal for the owners. The new proposal, which is expected to be released on Thursday, is aimed at addressing the current impasse in collective bargaining.

Clark believes that the owners' refusal to budge on key issues, such as player salaries and revenue distribution, is a significant obstacle to reaching a deal. He has warned that the situation is becoming increasingly dire, with the risk of a work stoppage growing.

Clark's team is expected to present a detailed proposal that includes concessions on the part of the owners, such as a willingness to share more revenue with the players. The new proposal is also expected to address the issue of a reserve list for players, which has been a sticking point in previous negotiations.

Clark has also indicated that he is willing to consider new ideas that could help break the impasse, such as a revenue-sharing plan that would help smaller market teams.

However, the owners have not yet shown any interest in seriously considering the players' proposals. They remain steadfast in their demand for more revenue from the players, and have indicated that they are not willing to make any concessions without a significant reduction in player salaries.

Clark has urged the owners to show a more flexible approach and to work towards a solution that is fair to both sides. He has warned that the current situation is not sustainable, and that a work stoppage would have serious consequences for the game.

Clark's new proposal is expected to be met with a mixed reaction from the owners, who have already shown little inclination to make any concessions in previous negotiations.

Emphasis on infield in Banks’ recruiting

Emphasis on infield in Banks’ recruiting

By Rick Christopher

Banks, who recently returned from the College Recruiting Tour, said he believes that the emphasis on infield players will be a key to success.

"We want to focus on infield players because they are the backbone of the team," Banks said. "They are the players who are going to be the leaders on the field and they are the players who are going to be the heart and soul of the team."
