lowa City sewage project delayed; bleak outlook for federal funding

By Michael Leon

Iowa City's $54 million sewage project will be delayed several years by federal budget cuts - and it may not be constructed at all.

The city's present waste treatment plant was overloaded for periods in April and June. Without the new treatment plant the city may face prosecution for failure to meet federal pollution standards.

Joe Obr, a state Department of Environmental Quality official, said Iowa City's funding problem is twofold: the state may not receive any federal funds for sanitary sewage projects, and Iowa City is 28th on the state's funding priority list. The Reagan administration cut $3.4

UI Taiwanese: spy tactics used by Kuomintang

Three of 15 Taiwanese UI students interviewed in late August by The Daily Iowan say their campus activities are being watched and reported to Taiwan's ruling party, the Kuomin-

"To ask if it's here is an unnecessary question. It's here. It's on every campus," one Taiwanese student said Thursday. This student claims to know of two Taiwanese students paid to file reports on fellow students.

U.S. Rep. Jim Leach, who represents Iowa City, said he, too, believes Taiwainese students are being monitored at the UI. Leach testified before a House subcommittee in July that a network of Taiwanese students at American universities spy on their . ever been spied on.' fellow Taiwanese students.

The three UI Taiwanese students said their safety, and that of their families in Taiwan, would be in jeopardy if they discussed the spying claims with the DI. They all asked that their names not be used.

THE FIRST STUDENT said that reports include the names of students involved in "enemy activities," along with the students' academic status, political stand and major activities on The reports are sent to Taiwan by mail or through loyal Kuomintang members in America, the student said. Another student said Friday that while Americans may consider the information gathering as spying, such surveillance activities are an accepted part of the Taiwanese social structure.

We know such things exist. We grew up in a kind of society that we know to be cautious not to talk in public. We can't say anything good about communist or independence elements," the student said.

ANOTHER TAIWANESE student at the UI said Sunday: "I am talking with you under risk of my life and the safety of my parents in Taiwan. If I feared just for myself, I would make my name known. But I fear for others."

There is no doubt in this student's mind that surveillance activities are taking place at the UI. The student said that a Taiwanese friend studying at the UI was approached by a Taiwanese student working for the Kuomintang and was asked to give information on a student from the People's Republic of

The student's parents in Taiwan can tell that the mail sent to them has been opened, the student said. The student said information gathered in the United States is used in Taiwanese courts against people who sympathize with communist or independence elements.

TAIWANESE STUDENTS are often trapped into spying because the Taiwan government believes one either cooperates and files reports on other students or is subject to being reported on, the student said.

Leach said that this summer two UI students from Taiwan contacted him with information indicating some Taiwanese students at the UI are gathering information on others.

Some Taiwanese students at the UI. however, said they did not think their activities were watched by other Taiwanese students.

Seven of the 15 students refused to comment on the possibility of spying at the UI. The remaining five students said they were not aware of any spying CHI-REN CHANG, a UI engineering student, said: "There's not much of that as far as I know. I don't think I've Heng-Chu Yin, secretary of the UI Chinese Students Club, said he has never heard of spying at the UI.

Leach, however, said he has evidence that some Taiwanese students at the UI are spying on their fellow Taiwanese students. Leach said one student told him that the identity of one person at the UI who compiles reports and sends them to a Chicago office run by the Taiwan government is known by all Taiwanese students.

LEACH SAID last week that his investigation of student spying was not sparked by activities on Iowa campuses. A Leach aide said Tuesday that the information Leach received from UI students came after the investigation had begun.

His investigation and his statement before the Asian and Pacific Affairs Subcommittee of the Foreign Affairs Committee were prompted by the death of Chen Wen-cheng, an assistant professor at Pittsburgh's Carnegie-Mellon University.

Chen's body was discovered July 3 on the lawn of the National Taiwan University. Chen's death came shortly after he was interrogated by the Taiwanese Garrison Command in Taipei, Taiwan, Leach said.

Leach said some Taiwanese college students feel reporting a fellow student's activities is a patriotic duty and protects their country from "seditious elements," while others are attracted to the work by offers of scholarships, cash payments and promises for career advancement.

All Taiwanese students who study abroad are briefed by the Taiwan Ministry of Education on the seditious dangers of independence movements that challenge the Taiwan government's authority, he said.

"Taiwanese in the U.S. live in terror that they are being watched and that they or their families back in Taiwan will be harassed if they speak out in favor of expanded civil rights or democratization of the political system in Taiwan," Leach said.

Central Africa taken over

PARIS (UPI) - The army seized power in an apparently bloodless coup in the Central African Republic, it was reported Tuesday.

President David Dacko was reported to have handed over the power of his office to the military, citing reasons of health. French troops stationed in the former French colony were ordered to stay on their base.

U.S. warns North Korea

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UPI) - U.S. Rear Adm. James G. Storms III, who heads the United Nations Command, vowed Tuesday to "react against the source" of any future North Korean missile attacks on U.S. spy planes. North Korea issued a warning of its own while still denying it had fired on a U.S. reconnaisance jet last Wednesday.

Khadafy calls for holy war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) - Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy called Tuesday for a holy war against the United States and said he would retaliate if Washington tried another "stupidity" like last month's dogfight over the Mediterranean.

He also warned that Washington was trying to take over control of the world's nuclear plants and criticized Americans for their hatred of Islam.

Japan Reaffirms U.S. ties

TOKYO (UPI) - A Japanese government report released Tuesday reaffirmed Japan's close diplomatic relationship with the United States and applauded the U.S. military

Our country has highly evaluated the U.S. defense efforts which have contributed to peace and security of industrial democracies," said the report.

Four F-16s arrive in Israel

WASHINGTON (UPI) - U.S. Air Force crews flew four F-16 Falcons to Israel Tuesday in the first delivery of the fighter-bombers to the Jewish state since President Reagan ended a two-month embargo.

Air Force spokesman Mike Gallagher said the first four of 14 bombers lifted off from Pease Air Force Base, N.H., at midnight Monday (Iowa time) and arrived at an undisclosed Israeli air base 11 hours later.

Saudis reduce oil production

JEDDAH, Saudi Arabia (UPI) - Saudi Arabia, which engineered the global oil glut, has cut its production by 1 million barrels a day as a "gesture of goodwill" to its OPEC partners, industry sources said Tuesday.

Saudi Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani predicted world oil prices would decline because the OPEC failed to reunify prices at the Geneva summit last month.

Job seekers at Ul find tight job market

By Martha Manikas

If you don't already have a job, chances are you'll have a difficult time

There are more students looking for jobs than there are jobs available, said Dave Bayless, an interviewer for Job Services of Iowa in Iowa City. About 75 percent to 80 percent of those who apply for work through the placement service are UI students, he said.

The UI personnel office has seen about 25 people for each job opening it has, said Lyra Dickerson, an employment supervisor. "We're seeing a lot more students and a lot more people in general" applying for jobs. The personnel office, which helps fill UI positions, processes a minimum of 7,000 applications per year.

Dickerson said that one morning last week 65 people were waiting in line for the office to open.

Students' schedules make it difficult for the personnel office to place them, Dickerson said. Getting a job through the office "depends entirely on how flexible a student's schedule is," she said. Of 50 clerical jobs that were available Monday, only seven were part-time positions, she said.

40th in line" at the personnel office one morning last week. "There are not that many part-time jobs for students, and it makes it hard. My school hours seem to limit me," he said.

Manpower Temporary Services does not place many students with Iowa City businesses unless students can work from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, said office manager Kathy Kammeyer. The service primarily supplies workers for employers who need temporary help during busy times of the year or when regular employees are on vacation, she said.

Students employed through Manpower Temporary Services work during UI vacations, she said. "We employ a lot of students during the summer and a lot during school breaks." It is hard to employ students during the academic year, she said.

Pat Brokaw, co-owner of Snelling and Snelling employment service, said, 'The overall job market is tight, even for permanent jobs, and particularly for part-time jobs. If people have the part-time job, they are not getting rid of it." she said.

Bayless said that alternatives to applying with job placement services include looking for want ads, and applying at businesses personally.

Initial donation for ambulance received from insurance agents

The first donation for a new ambulance for Johnson County came Tuesday from the Independent Insurance Agents of Iowa City, Inc. The $2,000 donation will be used to help buy a $40,000 ambulance to replace a six-year-old ambulance that cannot be fitted with modern emergency care equipment. Since July the Johnson County Emergency Ambulance Service, in conjunction with the Johnson County Council of Governments, has been trying to raise the necessary funds through grant applications to nonprofit foundations that have branch offices in Johnson County. There have been no positive responses.

In an effort to increase public awareness of the service's function, service representatives will make a presentation at the Sycamore Mall Health Fair Oct. 3 and 4.

The ambulance service uses trained personnel rather than volunteers and notes that it is an emergency ambulance service rather than just patient transportation.

'We used to be working out of the back of a station wagon," said Dennis Langenberg, chairman of the Johnson County Board of Supervisors. "Now we have the best emergency ambulance

The Union Station, formerly called The Meal Mart, has an expanded menu, a new design and a new director, but some students question whether those changes are an improvement.

New additions to the restaurant include a self-service salad bar and a submarine sandwich area. Take-out orders can be prepared in the sandwich shop, but call-in orders are not available, said Greg Black, who became Union food service director in July.

Servings at the salad bar are sold for 14 cents per ounce, Black said. A edium-sized salad, about 12 ounces, would cost $1.68, he said.

The submarine sandwiches - meat, cheese and toppings on various breads - cost $1.95. Vegetarian sandwiches are also available.

Sandwich fillings for ready-made ounter sandwiches are now made in restaurant, Black said. Before he became director the restaurant used anned fillings, he said.

THE UNION STATION has retained ts burger grill, soda fountain, selfservice sandwich area and its ice ream fountain. Black said.

Hamburgers from the grill are now quarter-pounders costing $1.20. Last year burgers weighed about two ounces d cost about 70 cents, he said.

The new salad bar at the Union Station, formerly the Meal Mart, in the Union is one of the recent changes in the food service.

Black said the new sandwiches are priced like the rest of the restaurants

The restaurant layout was changed to make the customer flow less congested during peak times, Black said. Business for the restaurant is "considerably higher" - about 30 percent - this semester, he said. "We hope it's a trend toward our service.

The restaurant has also expanded its hours to include Sundays, Black said. The Union Station is open 4-8 p.m. Sundays in addition to its regular weekday hours of 9 a.m.-4 p.m. The restaurant is closed Saturdays.

JEAN KENDALL, director of Union Services and Campus Programs, said the quality of food has improved at the director.

'It needed some work but we're not done by a long shot," she said. Sheldon Schur, UI Student Senate vice-president, said the recent renovation is "a real good effort," but the quality of the food has not noticeably

For instance, with the hamburger, lot of people still think that it tastes pretty poor, and I agree," Schur said. Students with complaints about Union food service should talk to senate $$\frac{1}{2}$$ members, he added.

Dan Ayers, a UI sophomore, said that although he has eaten at the Station only once, the food is poor.

"I'm not pleased with the food. The hamburgers don't even come close to tasting like a hamburger," he said.

Eating at the Station is not a bargain for students, Ayers said. "I was kind of surprised to see that for $1.45 for a cheeseburger, I could get a better deal at a McDonald's or a Hardee's. That's not good for the students who have a hard time anyway," he said.

Jim Brandt, another UI sophomore, said: "I don't think the food quality has changed. As a matter of fact, I know it "But I like the place," Brandt added. UI senior Dennis Finnegan said, "It seems like they got people over the barrel. They can charge whatever they like, and people will buy it."

Students charged in loan defraud case

Federal marshals arrested 15 students from three African nations Tuesday and sought 12 others on charges of defrauding the U.S. government by obaining student loans and grants. Special Assistant U.S. Attorney

Peter Robinson said the investigation was the first of its kind in the country. He said it began when someone in the S. attorney's office noticed random cases in which people falsely claimed they were U.S. citizens when applying for Basic Educational Opportunity Grants (currently Pell Grants) and Guaranteed Student Loans.

Such loans are reserved by law for itizens or those who have applied for Permanent residency.

U.S. ATTORNEY Paul F. Murray said the 27 were secretly indicted last Thursday on charges of mail fraud and obtaining money under false pretenses for allegedly obtaining $92,950 in guaranteed student loans and grants by falsely claiming they were U.S.

The 15 suspects arrested early Tuesday at their Providence and North Providence homes were residents of Liberia, Nigeria and Ghana. They were arraigned in U.S. District Court and released on personal recognizance pending further action.

The indictments followed a twomonth computer investigation in which

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) - loan applications were compared with immigration records.

U.S. hypocrisy

The United States was the only country to veto a United Nations Security Council resolution presented by Third World countries condemning the South African invasion of Angola.

The explanation offered for the veto was that guerrillas of the South-West Africa People's Organization using Angola as a base to oust South Africa from Namibia, as well as the presence of Soviet advisors and Cuban troops in Angola, only fuel the violence in the

That explanation is faulty and insufficient for three reasons. First, the South African government is in Namibia (the territory of South-West Africa) illegally. South Africa was allowed to administer Namibia under a mandate from the League of Nations, a mandate that was revoked fifteen years ago by the United Nations.

Second, no country has the right to invade another country. In particular, it does not have the right to invade another country in order to perpetuate an illegal occupation of a third country. That is what South Africa has done: it invaded Angola in order to maintain its illegal control over Namibia.

And third, if the Reagan administration wishes to apply the principle of non-intervention to the Soviet Union it must be prepared to support it for itself and its allies. The United States cannot criticize the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan while supporting the South African invasion of Namibia.

Such a position stinks so strongly of hypocrisy and expediency that it erodes whatever moral authority the United States might have. American protests about Soviet behavior or Libyan behavior become only self-serving political hyperbole if one set of standards is used for allies and another for enemies.

The Reagan administration should reconsider its position and vote to condemn the South African invasion. It should also use its influence to pressure South Africa to get out of Namibia

Gay rights judge

Gov. Jerry Brown of California last week appointed Mary Morgan, a San Francisco attorney, to a position on the San Francisco Municipal Court. This would not be remarkable, except that Morgan is a prominent advocate of gay rights, and with her appointment will become the nation's first acknowledged lesbian

Brown is to be commended. Many governors might have preferred to avoid such a potentially controversial appointment by choosing another qualified applicant instead. But Brown, who in 1979 named the country's first openly homosexual judge to the Los Angeles Superior Court, has shown that he is not afraid to be identified with the promotion of gay rights. This gesture should help gain public acceptance for the rights of gays.

Morgan commented that, "it's important to have more lesbians and gays visible in our society so people can see there's not an enormous difference between us and we don't have anything to fear from each other." Her point is well taken. There is no reason to assume that Morgan's homosexuality will in any way compromise her ability to perform her duties. If anything, she should bring to the court a heightened awareness of the problems of minorities in asserting their civil rights, and that is good.

The appointment of Mary Morgan brings one step closer the day when job applicants will be considered solely on the basis of their qualifications, and when the naming of a lesbian judge need not rate national news coverage.

Unclear foreign policy

The Reagan administration's apparent lack of any clear cut foreign policy is beginning to tell. The administration seems to confuse talking and acting tough with clear foreign policy plans

The Reagan administration has adopted a pragmatic rather than a principled stance on such matters as human rights. (Remember the flap over Jacobo Timerman, the Argentine editor, whose book called into question the subsequent American decision to sell F-16's to the repressive, "authoritarian" rather than "totalitarian" government there).

The Israeli attack on the Iraqi nuclear reactor was apparently approved when more F-16's were released to Israel this month. The Israeli bombing of Palestine Liberation Organization offices in Beirut, resulting in more than 300 civilian deaths, was criticized but nothing more substantial was done. Are these instances to be viewed as signposts of Reagan pragmatism, or simply as special cases, taken as they arise?

Similarly, what is to be done now that the Mexican and French governments have recognized the right of leftist guerrillas in El Salvador to have a voice in a civilian government there? Where does this put the United States with regard to the French, whose armies in Africa are a possible counterbalance to the Cubans also there, and the Mexicans, to whose oil the U.S. would like to have access?

Or what about the decision to implement the neutron bomb without consulting the European allies, whose countries would most likely feel the effects. The lack of any apparent principles other than a "get-tough" stance, most recently manifested by the downing of two Libyan fighters, may have long term consequences that are being overlooked in the rejuvenation of American

Like muscles, brains must be exercised; the Reagan administration needs to exercise the ones it has available now. It needs to define its principles and its goals clearly, and explain why and how the methods it chooses will accomplish those goals.

Sad season for opening schools

WASHINGTON - "School Days. School Days" is not a happy song this September for the nation's teachers. school administrators and the millions of youngsters whose pursuit of learning and achievement is tied to the fate of our public schools.

This is the time when Americans who gave passive consent to a panoply of budget cuts will begin to face the reality of what a $3 billion reduction in federal support of public education will mean to their children.

In many cities, parents are going to have to tolerate their children longer than they expected, because financial crises will prevent school openings at the scheduled times.

WHERE THE SCHOOLS do open. there will be fewer teachers trying to meet the special needs of too many youngsters. The National Education Association says 40,000 to 70,000 teachers will lose their jobs this fall a development almost lost in the publicity about the layoffs of airline employees

1) Funds to help deprived children from low-income families, kids who lack basic skills in reading and mathematics, have been cut by at least $111 million for the 1981-1982 school year. This is a special tragedy, because the record is clear that over the last decade "compensatory education" has benefited poor and minority children greatly. Even greater cuts in this program are planned by the Reagan administration.

2) With child nutrition support cut by more than $1.5 billion, a lot of parents will discover that the school lunch program has been abandoned in their school, or that their children will be asked to pay 15 to 27 cents more per lunch. The NEA says almost 27 million The poorer children of America are children will be affected by the curgoing to find school a less promising tailed nutrition programs.

Capital punishment misguided and immoral

Recently the Senate Judiciary Committee passed Senate Bill 114, which seeks to establish guidelines for the use of capital punishment. Passage of this bill would mean a change in the present criminal code. The bill specifies crimes, such as homicide and treason, and aggravating factors would permit a recommendation of the death penalty by a jury or court.

The bill provides that jurors, when considering the imposition of the death penalty in a capital crime, need not come to a full agreement on the grounds for its imposition. Yet the Supreme Court has ruled that unanimous verdicts are required. No jury is infallible. Mistakes are made, and innocent people have been executed due to miscarriage of justice. A law which provides for the irreversible possibility of putting innocent people to death cannot be justified. Senate Bill 114 should be rejected on constitutional grounds.

ON MORAL GROUNDS-I question the right of anyone to take the life of another. This includes legalized killing by a state. Killing another human being is wrong whether it be a murder or in retribution for that murder.

Capital punishment is often invoked in cases where the defendant is poor or a member of a racial minority. No law should be enacted which would discriminate against minorities.

No evidence exists to support the misguided reasoning that capital punishment acts as a deterrent to crime. There is no evidence proving that those states with the death penalty have lower murder rates than those

Our senators are about to cast a crucial vote which will be decisive in determining the fate of a bill authorizing capital punishment. If you feel as I do, I urge you to write your senators; your letter can make a difference. Explain to them how you object to Senate Bill 114 on practical. moral and legal grounds. We cannot condone legalized killing and the power it grants the state. The practice of killing people to display that killing people is wrong, is a misguided Lawrence Hadden

Hera Info

To the editor:

I appreciate most of the information you presented (DI, Aug. 26) about Hera Psychotherapy. We are a feminist alternative to traditional psychotherapy, offering primarily individual and group counseling to women and men in the Iowa City area. Well over half of our clientele are UI students. One of the main things that has kept Hera going for over seven years is the energy and support we get from these students.

There are two points I would like to make. First, a student senator stated that we are an Iowa city business with other financial sources. The implication that we are a profitmaking "business" with access to that have outlawed capital funding from any organization other than the UI is not true. Hera is a nonprofit corporation. We do receive some fees, but they are charged on a sliding scale, according to income.

Dr. Chen's death

Who killed Dr. Chen-Wen Chen? I'm really eager to know about that. So does our government of The Republic of China.

. I am a graduate student just from Taiwan, Republic of China, this fall. As Chen was, I am also graduated from the National Taiwan University. Losing such a promising senior surely depressed me for some time.

Why should Chen have fallen off the library building? As Hoyt Olsen pointed out in his article, "Spies in Academe" (DI, Aug. 28), "The facts surrounding Chen's death raise suspicions that he was murdered for political reasons." Yes, I agree with him, too. After Chen's death this June, I read a lot about his background from local newspapers. Our government did not ever try to hide the unpleasing fact that Chen had been doing some antigovernment activities in the United States. Moreover, it announced most of the details during the investigation, including the records of Chen's talk with security agents that day and his following tracks. But that did not work much toward the solving of this riddle. We still do not know just what happened to Chen that night

To my surprise, the article said, "He was detained - and possibly killed for his activities in the United States." I do not know where Olsen got his information. As I am well informed of the whole happening. I surely have the right to correct it.

The first daycare center in Johnson County designed specifically for handicapped children will officially open its doors Oct. 1.

Ann Riley, a registered nurse, will be the director of Handicare, 1918 12th Ave., Coralville. Riley decided to open the private center while working as director of a group home for handicapped adults in Iowa City.

This is the first of its kind in Johnson County," said John Kramer, District 10 daycare consultant with the Johnson County Department of Social Services. Kramer said this may be because most people aren't aware of the number of families in the county needing such a facility.

Fast-food tested for vitamins cereal and other processed foods. 'With the increase in processed foods, this can help us determine what processing does to vitamins," said Dr. Tomas R. Guilarte, research associate at the school of hygiene and public health. Dr. Henry N. Wagner, head of Guilarte said he wanted to test the methodology of the technique, not foods currently on the market. But he did study food samples purchased at the supermarket to verify the methodology.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) - The those children as token whites. school district that gained international attention for its desegregation battle in 1957 may again segregate its classes to prevent "massive white flight" from schools that now are 65 percent black.

As a result, the School Board has ome up with a plan that ideally would following the district's overall 65-35 percent black-white ratio

Iranians protest killings, embassy to Vatican held

ROME (UPI) - A group of 21 Iranian students occupied Iran's embassy to the Vatican for two hours Tuesday to protest the executions in their country of opposition leftists by the regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

The occupation ended when the students, their hands raised, walked out of the embassy complex in single file between two lines of police armed with submachine guns. An embassy spokesman said there was considerable damage to the building. The students, who were taken into police custody, were later released. A spokesman for the students said in a telephone interview earlier that they carried out the operation to call attention to the wave of executions in their home country.

"THE TERRORISTS smashed windows and furniture and beat up two embassy employees and wrote slogans on the walls," said Hassan Ghedin, chief of the Iranian mission, describing the students as "fascists."

"We are the Mojahideen of the people and we have occupied the Iranian government offices here," spokesman for the students said earlier. "We are protesting the executions in our country and we consider the present regime illegitimate.

'We decided to do this to direct world attention to the massacre of militants that is happening in Iran," the spokesman said.

Police said those taking part in the occupation were Iranian youths studying at Italian universities.

Military spending may be revised for benefit of balanced budget

WASHINGTON (ÚPI) - The Pentagon said Tuesday the armed forces have been ordered to revise their spending priorities for 1983 and 1984, the first indication the administration may slow the pace of "rearming America" for the sake of a balan-

"The original (funding) projections are now being revised," Pentagon spokesman Henry Catto said. "I think it's fair to say, yes, that this is a look in the light of new

While Catto emphasized repeatedly to reporters that no decisions on budget cuts have been made. White House spokesmen in Los Angeles were saying defense spending would be reduced by up to $30 billion in fiscal years 1983 and 1984 as part of a $75billion cutback in the federal budget.

DEFENSE THUS FAR has been spared the budget cutting that has sliced into social programs in efforts to reduce taxes and achieve a balanced federal budget at the Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger has programmed a 7 percent yearly growth in defense spending, after inflation. He confidently told Congress earlier this year that he would ask for more money if the inflation rate exceeded the administration's optimistic predictions of 8.7 percent for fiscal 1982 — the financial year beginning Oct. 1.

But Catto said Weinberger may have been forced to change his thinking because "new circumstances require a new ap-

THE DEFENSE BUDGET for fiscal 1982 is $222.2 billion in spending authority. A 7 percent real growth rate would bring it to $254.9 billion for fiscal 1983 and $289.3 billion for fiscal 1984.

"The services are now being asked to look at various levels of spending and to collate their priorities with various levels of spending," Catto said.

Pentagon officials have said the services pared their "wish list" budgets by 5 percent to prepare for lower defense spending. Presumably, it would be that list of items that would be cut if President Reagan decides to axe some military spending.

Other Pentagon officials said it did not mean spending would have to be reduced from an annual real growth of 7 percent. But, they said, a higher than projected inflation rate would mean less could be bought with the same money.

Catto said the "full range" of defense spending was being explored — from Weinberger's No. 1 priority of money for combat readiness to funds earmarked for the procurement of new weapons.

'We're talking about the full range of what the services would like to be able to spend as postulated against what might be available," he said.

"If 7 percent becomes a goal rather than a given, then we will do the best we can within that limit," Catto said. "Certainly, Weinberger is going to do whatever he can to maintain the optimal position for rearming America.

Unions rap Reagan's pay hike plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan's proposal to limit federal employees to a 4.8 percent pay raise is an "insult" to workers and will eventually hurt the quality of services they perform for the public, union officials said Tuesday.

Officials of two federal employees' unions said the workers have been underpaid for years and the Reagan plan will push them even farther behind private industry employees in comparable jobs. 'Federal employees view the 4.8 as an insult to them," said Jim Peirce, president of the National Federation of Federal Employees, which represents 136,000 workers in various departments and agencies.

Greg Kenefick, a spokesman for the 700,000-member American Federation of Government Employees, said the small increase "drives home the message that federal employees should have been getting all along - that there's no sensitivity, no real concern for their outlook or welfare."

HE SAID the policy is "chasing good people out of government service" and the effect will be felt by people like veterans and Social Security recipients who are served by federal workers.

The president formally proposed the 4.8 percent increase Monday in Los Angeles, almost six months after he originally suggested holding salaries to that level.

It is less than one-third the amount authorized by the 1970 Pay Comparability Act, designed to allow federal workers to keep pace with private sector employees. Reagan said he was setting into motion the lower pay increase "in accordance with our economic recovery program."

THE COST-OF-LIVING raise goes into effect Oct. 1 for 1.4 million white-collar employees now receiving less than $50,000 per year. It will take effect for 490,000 bluecollar employees at various times in different areas of the country.

A formula in the Pay Comparability Act calls for a 15.1 percent pay increase for the workers. They received a 9.1 percent raise last October, which also was less than recommended under the formula.

Congress can reject the president's proposal within 30 days, but both Peirce and Kenefick said there appears to be no sentiment for such action.

Federal law tested in child-custody case

HOUSTON (UPI) - A family judge, the courtroom without comment. in what a lawyer called the nation's first case under a new parental kidnapping law, Tuesday ordered two boys who had allegedly been smuggled to Texas by their mother returned to their father in New York.

Judge Bruce Wettman said Texas law and a new federal law effective and his brother Mark, 7, be returned to Rochester, N.Y., school principal Dale Berne, 43, who was awarded custody of the boys after his divorce.

The boys broke into tears at news of the habeas corpus writ and angrily rejected their father in their first meeting with him in nearly two years. Scott said. "Why won't you let us be with our mom? We asked her to take

The father charged his ex-wife, Harriet, 37, stole the boys and turned them against him after moving to Texas in November 1979.

Dale Berne, who wept and hugged his lawyer at the ruling, said he would take the boys back to New York immediately. Harriet Berne sat stunned, hugged a friend and then hurried from DALE BERNE'S LAWYER, Paul Cooley, said the boys were tracked to Houston after a former baby sitter recognized their photographs in a child-stealing article in the August issue of Ladies Home Journal.

Harriet Berne, who authorities said July 1 required that Scott Berne, 11, was working as a school teacher under the name Judy King, was arrested last week on a federal warrant charging federal flight to avoid prosecution for custodial interference in New York.

She was fighting extradition to New York for prosecution and was free on $5,000 bond pending an extradition

Harriet Berne and her lawyer confronted her ex-husband and his lawyer in Wettman's court. She took the stand to accuse her husband of harming the

He vehemently denied the charge and expressed joy at the decision. 'There are too many child-stealing cases going on in the United States,' Berne said. "And the losers are not the parents but the children. They become

Bank worker held in FBI sting

NEW YORK (UPI) - A Citibank messenger who claimed he "lost" $50 million in negotiable bonds that he was supposed to deliver to another bank was arrested by FBI agents Tuesday as an accomplice in a scheme to sell the securities on the black market.

Three men who attempted to sell the bonds were arrested Saturday in a "sting" operation in which FBI agents bought $500,000 worth of the bonds from the men for $65,000.

The messenger, identified as Michael Beckford, 23, of the Bronx, was arrested at the Citibank where he worked in Manhattan

Lee Laster, assistant director of the FBI's New York office, said Beckford was charged with bank fraud and embezzlement and arraigned before a federal magistrate in U.S. District Court in Manhattan.

Northwestern Bell asks $76 million hike

DES MOINES (UPI) - Officials of Northwestern Bell have asked the Iowa Commerce Commission to grant a $76.7 million increase in phone rates including a $28.6 million interim increase to take effect by Dec. 1.

The proposal would boost the monthly one-party residential bill by

The 15.4 percent rate increase, the largest ever requested by the phone company, is needed to help the company through "the most dramatic change" in the history of the telephone industry, William Stauffer, company vice president, said Tuesday.

Northwestern Bell is seeking a 5.8 percent interim increase which will allow the company to place interim rates in effect, subject to refund, by Dec. 1, Stauffer said.

The request effects billings to about 750,000 residential and business customers in 229 Iowa cities.

THE COMMISSION has 90 days to act on the interim request and 10 months to decide on the entire rate proposal. If no decision is made within the 10-month period, the interim rates would become permanent and the overall rates could be collected subject to refund. Stauffer said.

The phone company plans to increase basic one-party monthly residential service by $1.05, two-party monthly residential service would go up 75 cents will increase $2.65, Stauffer said.

In-state long-distance rates will not change under the interim request, he said, but would increase if the overall request is approved.

"This is the largest total increase Northwestern Bell has ever requested," Stauffer said. "However, the telephone industry is undergoing the most dramatic change in its history.

For the first time, we are faced with the full effects of deregulation and competition," he said. "And these factors, coupled with continuing high inflation and interest rates, are having a direct impact on our company's financial picture.

Court review asked of drunken-driving law

DES MOINES (UPI) - The Iowa Supreme Court has been asked to determine the constitutionality of a new state law that requires the suspension of drivers licenses for persons given deferred sentences for drunken driving.

Washington County District Court Judge Dick Schlegel ruled last month that the automatic suspension is unconstitutional because a deferred judgment ends court proceedings before a determination of guilt or innocence is

The recent decision questioning the new law stemmed from the case of Gary T. Sueppel, 19, of Washington, who was arrested in May for drunken

Judge Schlegel originally granted a request for a deferred judgment, but also suspended Sueppel's license for 30

The judge then accepted a motion from Sueppel's attorney, Bradley Kiesey, that the suspension be revoked.

In addition to saying that the deferred judgment had fallen short of proving Sueppel's guilt, the attorney noted his client was arrested on the charge before the new drunken driving law went into effect July 1.

The prosecuting attorney in the case, the law this year to require at least the Supreme Court to review the ruling. He said he appealed at the request of the state Department of

Rising energy import cost will hinder lowa growth

MILWAUKEE (UPI) - Gov. Robert D. Ray said Tuesday the Midwest's energy import bill, in four years, will more than double the 1979 tab, placing an obstacle to economic development in Iowa and other Midwestern states.

Ray, in opening remarks to a session of the Midwestern Governor's Conference, said the energy import bill will be more than $120 billion by 1985. He led a discussion on the impact of energy on economic development in the Midwest.

'The Midwest is placed in a very precarious position since industrial capital is flowing to the energy-rich states, while competitive industries in Japan and Western Europe are more energy efficient than ours.

Ray said 60 percent of the fossil fuel used in the Midwest is imported from other states and nations, including 90 percent of the Midwest's petroleum supply. He said Midwestern states now are spending four times as much of their gross state products for energy as they did prior to the Arab oil embargo.

MOST OF THE MONEY spent by Midwestern states for energy will go to Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and New Mexico, Ray said. The economic drain from the Midwest could cost the region as many as one million jobs by 1985.

"It is clear that the Midwest, if it is to retain its historic economic viability and vitality, must expand its initiative in energy production and efficiency,'

Two ways the region can improve its energy production, Ray said, are to increase development of the coal industry and to further develop alcohol fuels from corn.

In closing the conference, the governors voted to hold a session in Des Moines next year. It will be the first time the conference is held in Des

John McCarroll, Ray's press secretary, said the conference probably will be held next July. A joint conference was sponsored in 1971 by Iowa and Nebraska and held in the Sioux City, Iowa-Nebraska area.

The 13 states in the conference are North and South Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Kentucky.

Waterloo murder trial moved

WATERLOO, Iowa (UPI) - The first-degree-murder trial of James Michael Taylor, 27 - accused of killing two police officers last July - has been moved to Pottawattamie County District Court in Council Bluffs.

Black Hawk County Circuit Judge Peter Van Metre Tuesday ordered a change of venue in the trial of the man accused of fatally shooting police officers Michael Hoing and Wayne Rice

Van Metre slated the trial for Oct. the trial moved out of the state.

Taylor is being held in Black Hawk County Jail in lieu of $2 million bond. The judge agreed with Taylor's attorney, who argued the trial should be moved as far away from Waterloo as possible due to news coverage of the shootings of two police officers earlier this summer as they answered a noisedisturbance call.

Taylor's attorney earlier had indicated he might even attempt to have a couple of days beforehand. Members of the council, the city clerk and the city administrator have received notices that court action is being initiated, it was learned Tuesday. Fuel tax rise may reduce funding backlog

Tuesday a fuel tax increase will help the state Department of Transportation make "significant" reductions in a funding backlog, but inflation will still whittle down road funds.

The fuel tax increase means an extra $20 million will be collected for state roads and bridges in the coming 10 months, the state Transportation Commission was told. As a result, commissioners learned, the DOT will have about $307 million in the coming year for highway projects. Fuel taxes will account for $177.5 million.

Funding is expected to grow to $347 million by 1987.

Although estimates of income were raised because of the fuel tax increase, the DOT faces some familiar problems: gasohol and in-

Construction costs are expected to go up 13 percent in the coming year. Increases will run at least 10 percent a year until 1986.

Gasohol will cut into road funds because it is taxed at one-half the rate of gasoline, but holds a 10 percent share of the market.

ONE PLANNER estimated the DOT will lose $35 million in the next two years because of the low tax on the fuel. Gasohol is a 9-to-1 mix of unleaded gasoline and ethanol.

"We will still continue to have a loss," said Don Anderson, comparing the estimate of $12.8 million in gasohol taxes in the coming year with the $27.4 million that might be collected if gasohol was taxed at the same rate as gasoline.

The review of funding helped commissioners prepare their new fiveyear highway program. A preliminary list of projects for the next five years was released during

Interstate 380 was a major item in the list, along with a new Mississippi River bridge at Keokuk, Highway 520 near Fort Dodge, Freeway 518 near Iowa City and Highway 561 near

LAST YEAR, DOT officials estimated they needed an additional $140 million a year just to keep state roads in good shape.

"We see that $140 million figure reducing down to $115 million," said DOT Planning Director Ian MacGillivray. "We've made a significant reduction but face an even greater struggle to assure ade quate funding.'

MacGillivray said "more income and less cost" were reponsible for the brighter outlook. He listed the fuel tax increase, reductions in adminstrative budgets in the DOT and lower than expected bids for DOT

The DOT's projected inflation rates mean that work that cost $1 million this spring will cost $1.8 million in 1987.

As in the past couple of years, DOT officials are placing emphasis on preserving roads rather than building new sections of highway.

A series of seven public meetings will beheld around the state in the coming week to review the list of proposed projects.

Was (Not Was) sounds like nothing ever heard before

Was(Not Was) is the unlikely name of one of the most unlikely and remarkable bands to emerge this year. The group's first LP, hot on the heels of the single "Wheel Me Out," is a delightful collection of curveballs, screwballs and line shots to and from leftfield simply entitled Was(Not Was).

Was(Not Was) hails from Detroit — arguably one of the country's most "American" cities, the city that in the 60s supplied us with large doses of our very essence: the Motown sound, automobiles, racial unrest and even the birth of heavy metal. Such a strange brew was not lost on the participants of this project - they were born of it and they play out

Chief instigators of this seamless blend of funk. jazz. Euro-disco. heavy metal, rhumba, "beat" poetry, psychedelia, soul and spaghetti western themes are a couple of former White Panthers named Donald Fagenson and David Weiss. To make such diverse elements come together, the "Was Brothers" have drawn upon the talents of Detroit nusicians from the many styles incorporated here.

MOST NOTABLE of these are former Ray harles' trumpeter Marcus Belgraye, guitarist Navne Kramer, from the legendary proto-punk roup the MC5, and assorted members of the Dramatics, the O'Jays and George Clinton's P-Funk

There's a lot going on in this record, so some of it may not be immediately accessible to ears acstomed to FM radio's formulaic offerings. That's ot to say it's inaccessible, nor "highbrow" or elitist, only that pop forms have never been put

Listeners even slightly familiar with Funkadelic (particularly "One Nation Under A Groove") will have no trouble hearing where "Out Come The Freaks" is coming from - it is a piece of pure. joyous, rambunctious funk which features slightly twisted, yet excellent, lyrics (which are wacky throughout the record). "Tell Me That I'm Dreaming" explores similar territory to a different effect. as does "Carry Me Back To Old Morocco." although the latter adds a slight rhumba feeling and licks of heavy metal guitar from Kramer.

LEAD VOCALS are passed around from song to song, yet this has the effect of pulling the record together rather than giving it a disjointed feeling. Particularly outstanding are the vocals of Sweet Pea, who handles such diverse tunes as "Where Did Your Heart Go?" (a ballad that draws its musical inspiration from Sergio Leone spaghetti movie themes and its lyrical inspiration from Zippy the Pinhead and works!), "It's An Attack" (a jumpy soul strut with a slightly warped horn part by Belgrave that's lifted from the Drifter's "On Broadway") and the funk-menace of "Go ... Now!

The production and arrangements are clean and dynamic. Was(Not Was) is not a perfect record. but it is an exhilarating attempt at a new synthesis of modern sounds. Like it or not, you've never heard

New daytime talk show offers exercising, cooking, comedy

By Jeffrey Miller

Isabel Archer defines life in Henry James' The Portrait of a Lady as "people's feelings and rows." Nowhere in modern America is this finition so well exemplified as it is by daytime TV's "Donahue." The mop-topped talk show host has nade "feeling" the sine qua non of human activity — New Wave hairdos, herpes and the neutron bomb are Il somehow given equal force by his cool and autious "How do you feel?

A challenge to Donahue's world of feeling and orrow, however, is coming from an unlikely source "The Richard Simmons Show" (4:30 p.m. weekdays, KWWL-TV). Simmons, a diet-exercise author hose fame stems from his semi-regular role on General Hospital." performs a comedy skit, talks his audience, cooks and leads exercises in a halfour show that is already beating "Donahue" in ead-to-head competition in New York.

olain. His loud personality conveys the charm of erry Lewis and the grace of Chuck Barris. His chats with the audience more resemble those done by Dick Clark on "American Bandstand" than those by onahue, and the comedy sequences occasionally work only because of the chutzpah of doing drag tines on television.

SIMMONS' SHOW does have several things going or it. Producers Woody and Nora Fraser (the forner has produced every major syndicated talk show Television except "Donahue") have juiced up the program with state-of-the-art video technology. The show moves fast and looks good. It sounds good, too. The use of popular songs during the exercise segments is a welcome and necessary relief from the usual grunting "one-two" of most calisthenics shows.

More important, though, especially in the Donahue era of good feelings, is Simmons' attitude toward his audience. For the first time on television, fat is treated as neither leprosy nor a source of cheap jokes, but rather as a state of mind and body which those in that state find uncomfortable. Simmons acknowledges fat as fact, not metaphor. Fat people are included in the studio audiences; they do the exercises with no less joy or expertise than most thin

Jimmy Connors powers a shot against John Lloyd in the U.S. Open before winning 6-0, 6-0, 6-2.

Crowd, rain annoy champ in first round of U.S. Open

NEW YORK (UPI) - John McEnroe, showing traces of the temper that's been heard around the world, overcame two rain delays, a hostile crowd and a poor start to defeat little-known Juan Nunez of Chile in four sets Tuesday to begin defense of his U.S. Open Tennis Championship.

It was supposed to be an easy exercise for McEnroe, seeking to become the first man to capture the Open three consecutive years. But he blew a 5-0 lead in the first set tie-breaker, then sat out two rain delays totaling more than 2 hours and 20 minutes before disposing of Nunez, 6-7, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2.

Nunez, ranked 193rd in the world and a professional for only three years, won the tiebreaker 8-6, taking eight of the last nine points. He played McEnroe even until the eighth game of the third set when the 22-year-old Wimbledon champion achieved the only break of the set to move ahead.

MCENROE, WHO heard the usual taunts of the crowd following several verbal outbursts, was in complete control in the fourth set as he broke in the third and fifth games, and wound up the match by winning nine of the last 11 games.

McEnroe had several run-ins with the umpire, Ken Slye of Alexandria, Va., protesting calls. He received one time delay warning and one conduct warning, and when the rain picked up in the sixth game of the second set, he protested to Slye to call time, screaming, "I don't want to kill myself."

Jimmy Connors, given the honor of opening on Center Court to begin the two-week national championship, showed little patience for the man who married his former sweetheart as he trounced John Lloyd of Britain, 6-0, 6-0, 6-2.

Connors dropped only seven points in the opening set, which he raced through in 15 minutes. He swept the first 12 games of the match before Lloyd finally

THE START OF the match was delayed almost an hour because of rain, but once Connors got to work he required only 79 minutes to advance to the second

Lloyd is the husband of Chris Evert, who once was engaged to Connors.

'Today is just the first day," said Connors, a three-time Open champion, refusing to lend extra significance to his romp. "I just take it one match at a time. I don't worry about anybody else and I don't let anybody worry about me.'

No. 3 men's seed Ivan Lendl of Czechoslavakia also had an easy passage to the second round. beating Hans Simonsson of Sweden, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Tracy Austin, no longer bothered by the back injury that sidelined her for five months this year, also wasted little time in disposing of Britain's Anne Hobbs, 6-1, 6-2, in an hour.

AUSTIN, NOTED for a relatively weak service, was particularly excited about two aces, saying, 'that has to be a sign of something.

"I feel like I'm there," said the third seed, who won the 1979 Open. "The win in Toronto (last week) really helped me. Little by little I'm getting back. I didn't realize it would be like that. I thought everything would be where it was the way I left off. The mental part was the toughest.'

The first seeded player to fall was Australian Dianne Fromholtz, No. 16 among the women, losing to Anne Smith of Dallas, 6-3, 6-3. Fromholtz was guilty of 31 unforced errors in the 61-minute match. Peter McNamara, seeded 11th, defeated fellow Australian John Fitzgerald, 7-6, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3, and among the women, seventh seeded Wendy Turnbull of Australia overcame Zina Garrison of Houston, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, while 12th seeded Bettina Bunge defeated Marcie Louie, 6-2, 6-1.

Fry hints at changes in schedule

By Jay Christensen

The Big Ten skywriters, a collection of Midwest reporters who cover the conference football teams, heard Iowa Head Football Coach Hayden Fry emphasize the importance of easing the Hawkeyes' non-conference football schedule Tuesday

Iowa has already switched two nonconference dates with UCLA in 1985 and 1986, replacing the Bruins with Kansas. But the way Fry talked, more changes may be coming in a few

FRY SAID he had spoke with Penn State Coach Joe Paterno, an Iowa opponent in 1983 and 1984, about a possible switch. Any official announcement on new schedule changes won't be made for a couple of weeks.

"I would say Bump (Elliott, Iowa's athletic director), may make an announcement in three or four more weeks," Fry said. "I'm not trying to run from anybody. I'm just trying to turn the program around.

Another possible change in the Iowa schedule may occur in 1985 and 1986. Iowa is slated to play Miami (Fla.) in a home and away series. "I don't want to go down there and play before 25,000 people," Fry said.

The third-year Iowa coach pointed to cross-state rival Iowa State's nonconference schedule.

'Iowa State is extremely smart; Fry said. "They can point to us thi season. They open up with West Texas State and can point to us. Then they play Kent State and can get ready for

"PEOPLE IN America understand two things in sports - when you win and when you lose. That's why I'm trying to get the intersectional schedule lightened. Rockne did it at Notre Dame. So did Frank Broyles at Arkansas and Darrell Royal at Texas. It takes a total package and our stick has to be as long as the others."

Fry said he has tried for the past two vears to instill a "winning attitude" in Iowa fans.

When I came here and played Oklahoma, we played a great game but lost." Fry said. "But the players would walk across campus, the students would give them a pat-on-the-back. I'm trying to change that.

Fry did not get specific on replacements but said that the three military academies, Army, Navy and Air Force, are among possibilities.

"If we could play teams like Army, Navy and Air Force," Fry said. "we probably wouldn't come out as physically beaten-up. Our nonconference schedule is murder.

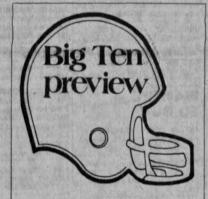

Big Ten football elite threatened by Minnesota

By Mike Kent

CHICAGO - Idealists trying to figure out which teams have the best chance of breaking into the strangle hold of Michigan, Ohio State and Purdue at the top of the Big Ten conference have a new team. This year, the so-called "experts" have given that distinction to Minnesota

'Smokey" Joe Salem, who is in his third year as the Gophers' head coach, certainly has the experienced personnel to give Minnesota a chance. The Gophers have 15 starters returning, second only to Michigan in the Big Ten. And as a team, the Gophers' return 33

OFFENSIVELY, THE Gophers boast seven returning starters who average 6-foot-4 and weigh 250 pounds.

"Our offensive line should be one of the best around." Salem said.

Anchoring Salem's "rough and aggressive" line will be 6-4, 274-pound tackle Ken Dallafior, also the team captain. "He's a Big Ten performer in my eyes," Salem said of Dallafior, a second team All-American in 1980.

as a freshman last season, and es- should help the Gophers ground attack. tablished himself as the top signalcaller for the Gophers. "Tim played well at times, and he played badly at times," Salem said. "He never had what you called a 'great' game.'

Mike Hoehonsee, a transfer from Mount San Antonio Junior College, is backing up Salem. "The quarterback position should be much better (in depth)," Salem said.

THERE WILL be one big gap to fill in the Minnesota offense, however. Gone is the Gophers' one-two running punch of Garry White and Marion Barber, who combined for 1,728 rushing

To fill those big shoes, Salem is counting on Frank Jacobs, a transfer The backfield will be led by Salem's from Ellsworth Community College in son. Tim, at quarterback. The Iowa Falls, Iowa. Salem said Jacobs sophomore was given a chance to start has "good speed and good size," and

> As for fullbacks, returning Duane Gregory and Virgil Thomas head the list of unexperienced players who are competing for the job. However, Salem still hasn't decided who to go with. "We'll have to wait and see how they come along.

> The receiving corps is led by Ron Weckbacker, the only letterman returning at split end. However, Salem said he will have a "good receiving team, but we don't have an Anthony Carter (All-American from Michigan).

THE STRENGTH IN the 1981 Minnesota team is defense, with eight starters returning. The Gophers, fourth walk-ons and everyone else.' best defensive team in the Big Ten last year, will count on inside linebackers Jim Fahnhorst and Glenn Howard. "I kicker Jim Gallery showed signs of rank them with any pair in the league," Salem said. The top players on the line kick went 63 yards, according to will be tackles Kevin Kellin and Steve

The Gophers should do well against the pass. Rick Witthus and Mike Robb, who intercepted four and two passes. respectively, return to the safety positions. Salem believes Robb is destined to receive post-season honors. "He's got a chance to be a possible All-American in 1982." Salem said.

A problem from last year which seems to be corrected is punting. In 1980. the Gophers were "the worst punting team in the country." Salem said. "We didn't have anyone who could kick over 30 yards. We tried

It took a lot of sole searching to come up with this boat shoe.

We did a lot of soul searching before we decided to make boat shoes. We were already up to our ankles, you might say, making the best boots and hand sewn shoes

We tried a lot of soles that missed the boat before we came up with a specially designed Vibram® sole. One that holds fast and really lasts. And after we'd gone overboard making such a fine sole, we made the whole rest of our shoe

Ve took fine waterproof leathers that stay soft water. We added nylon stitching to resist rot, mildew and stress. Eyelets that were all solid brass. And a padded ther collar that really snug-New Timberland boat shoes. Now ne folks who make the best handewns on earth make the best
