How I hate to be late

The Smarter Bridge walkway and roadway are paved for those wanting to get their nose work in the sun and walk yesterday afternoon. The big dip in air temperatures after a power plant explosion caused smoke and dust in many parts of the city and helped the baby oil seeday syndrome. See story on page 18.

Ian Johnson holds no grudges, but limelight still plagues him

After hundreds of phone calls, three appearances on national television and countless interviews with major and local press, Ian Johnson would be thinking more about personal life and not trying to expand the role that he has been given.

In the five years since he introduced the reformer, he has been a major player in the Civil Law Reform. The case has been tested in the court of law, before the Superior Court of Iowa. The case has been tested in the court of public opinion, and has been found to be valid.

The Ron Delworth, who lost his battle for the seat in 1988, but who remained strong in the race against the incumbent, was able to maintain his seat in 1988.

NOW THAT the information has been presented, the battle for the seat in the Iowa Senate is heating up. The seat is open and both parties are eyeing it for the 1990 election.

Honesty

Honesty was part of the American Way of Life. It was exemplified in the way the sheriff gave his prisoner a ride to help him off the Indian attack on the prisoner's home. "A man who's word is his bond," the sheriff would say sincerely.

In the context of modern military support of Israel and the recent military operations, Macho foreign policy can be a means to an end. Reagan, in contrast, comes across as an American-first ideologue. According to some, the American President is more of a political showman than a statesman.

However, the recent events show that even in the context of old Hollywood westerns, when the sheriff gave his prisoner a ride to help him off the Indian attack on the prisoner's home, there was a moral code that stood for integrity and honesty. The law encourages them to take care of their vehicles, as good citizens.

América's nancy new fashion: kicking the old folks around

By James M. Truesdell

The United Nations has never been a very good place to go. Most of my high school classes were taught by Betty Ford. In 1984, I served as a delegate to the United Nations. I am not a politician, but I have seen some interesting things.

However, the recent events show that even in the context of old Hollywood westerns, when the sheriff gave his prisoner a ride to help him off the Indian attack on the prisoner's home, there was a moral code that stood for integrity and honesty. The law encourages them to take care of their vehicles, as good citizens.

Sadan assails media, reporter

MTT KNEF-ROJ, EGYPT (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat assailed the American media Wednesday for its coverage of his visit to Moscow and said his meeting with Leonid Brezhnev was of a "very positive" nature.

Sadat said he had met with Brezhnev in an "elective" atmosphere, which he described as "zero politics." He added that both leaders agreed to work closely with each other to solve the "crisis" of the Middle East.

Sadat's visit to Moscow came at a time when the Egyptian leader is trying to improve relations with the Soviet Union, which has been critical of his peace efforts with Israel.

Sadat's visit to Moscow also came after a meeting with Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, where the two leaders discussed the issue of Israeli withdrawal from Egyptian territory.

Sadat's visit to Moscow was seen as a significant step in improving relations between Egypt and the Soviet Union, which has been a major source of support for Egypt in its struggle against Israeli aggression.

Sadat's trip to Moscow was also seen as a way of raising Egypt's profile on the international stage and increasing its clout in the region.

Sadat's visit to Moscow was also seen as a way of showing that Egypt is not isolated and that it has friends in the international community.

Sadat's visit to Moscow was also seen as a way of demonstrating that Egypt is not afraid to take risks and that it is willing to engage in meaningful dialogue with its neighbors.

Power outage blackens New York

NEW YORK (AP) - An explosion and fire at a power station blanketed large sections of Lower Manhattan Wednesday, leaving thousands of people in the dark and disrupting traffic at the height of the evening rush hour.

The cause of the explosion was not immediately known. However, it was believed to have been caused by a gas leak.

The blast occurred at a power station on the west side of Manhattan, near the site of the World Trade Center.

There were no immediate reports of injuries, but some people reported feeling a shock wave.

The power outage blackened parts of lower Manhattan, including the Financial District and the Battery area.

The area was dark for several hours, and some people were forced to use candles or flashlights.

Chicks dig top rooster; hen-pecked birds suffer

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) - Dominant roosters rule "harem ladies" while hen-pecked males suffer in a study at the University of Maryland poultry research station.

Dr. W. A. Ottinger, who conducted the study at the University of Maryland's poultry research station, said the harem ladies tend to be more potent than the hen-pecked males.

The study also showed that the roosters are more likely to engage in fights with each other.

Dr. Ottinger said that the new findings could have practical applications in poultry and livestock management.

Efforts to save whales hampered

Some of the 100 beached pilot whales are seen on the Island of Tasmania after efforts to save them failed.

Johnson

"A couple of callers pined at my voice, but I was able to keep them from becoming too upset," the 42-year-old legislator said.

Johnson, of the small southeast Alaska community of Kake, said he would oppose abortion legislation because he would consider it an attack on the family, which he described as "the bedrock of society." But he would oppose a bill because, in her view, it added to the service last year, the new majority leader, who opposed another bill.

When she called, "cKL, cKL, cKL," to class Sept. 2, the day of the vote, Johnson said she believed the service because they follow a leader, or "cKL, cKL, cKL, cKL, cKL," Class members were joined in their efforts to save whales because they got lost.

Laurie Levy, spokesman for Project Unicorn, told the Whale Watchers she didn't know where the whales were beached, and all the others were inappropriately attached as a project to save whales.

"Some of them probably lost their way and were lost, but all the others would follow it to try to help," Levy said.

Reagan discusses budget deficit, military power

The president met with Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and White House press secretary Larry Speakes Friday at the White House before leaving for an evening with Republicans in California. He also said he expected to meet with the general public to discuss the budget deficit in coming weeks.

Shula prepares for Steelers

MIAMI (AP) - White Coach Don Shula is looking forward to his 16th season as coach of the Miami Dolphins, but he's not planning to retire anytime soon. The 68-year-old Shula, who has been with the team since 1970, said he's happy to be back and looking forward to another successful season.

"I love the game," Shula said. "I love coaching and I love being with the players. I love the atmosphere and the passion of the fans. It's a great job and I'm honored to be able to do it."

Miami is coming off a 10-6 season last year, which included a Super Bowl appearance. The Dolphins have won five Super Bowls, the most in the NFL, and have been a dominant force in the league for decades.

"We're coming off a very good season and we have a lot of guys returning," Shula said. "We have a lot of offensive and defensive ends who are coming back, and we have a lot of young players who are ready to step up and play."

The Dolphins will open the season at home against the Buffalo Bills on Sunday, Aug. 31. It will be Shula's 16th season as coach of the Dolphins, and he's looking forward to another successful year.

"I'm excited for this season," Shula said. "We have a lot of young talent and a lot of experience on our roster. I think we're in a great position to have a good season."
