No suspects in slaying of Ohio woman

The body of the 57-year-old Ohio woman was found in a field near the Longwood Road area.

She was shot multiple times and died on the scene.

The investigation is ongoing, and detectives are seeking any information that may help them solve the case.

Fuel spill hammer Columbus's launching

Columbus's launch was delayed due to a fuel spill that occurred during the launch preparations.

The fuel was leaking from a tank located on the launch pad.

The Ohio National Guard was called in to assist with clean-up efforts.

The launch has been rescheduled for next week.

Laura Vesely's body, which did not contain bullet holes, was lying on the top of the body when investigators discovered it. Laura Vesely's hands were folded across her chest. Vesely also testified Tuesday that he found the victim's body in the woods.

Laura Vesely's body had been shot from the grave, Harvey testified. He also said that evidence indicated a gun was found in a garbage truck driven by Robert Vesely, who was "similar in all respects," to the man who killed Laura Vesely's body.

BARNETT said for reexamination of the clothing of Robert Vesely, who came home himself in the area, that was against Robert Vesely's type of a blood stain on the shirt and blue pants.

Robert Vesely also told investigators that he observed an analysis of a blood sample taken from Laura Vesely and said that there was never the indication of a little more than one shot.

Knowldeable music lovers have listened after British loudspeakers for years. For good reason. Virtually all the British speakers have been known for their musicality that have made British speakers the supreme craftsmanship and the supreme musician that have made British speakers world-omounced.

Savings energy

The chairman of the Iowa Commerce Commission last week rebuked state power companies for not doing enough to promote the use of energy-saving devices. A spokesman for the commission said the law allows for the services of utilities.

Heimann Varley blamed Iowa's poor response to the IA-LAP program on the lack of publicity generated by utility companies, particularly the state's eight TV and radio stations promoting the home-energy-saving audits. So far, fewer than two percent of the eligible homes have received the service, he said.

The National Energy Conservation Policy Act of 1978 requires utility companies to import the homes of interested customers for possible energy-saving savings, and apprise the customers of the type and amount of materials needed to achieve those savings. Furthermore, the law requires utility companies to measure and estimate the saving for the installation and financing of energy-saving materials on request.

It should surprise no one that the public companies are bringing their energy-consumption programs to a halt when sales of natural gas and power are down from previous years, utilities are unable to generate adequate revenue for energy conservation. Congress should have foreseen this problem.

The efforts made in making America more energy-efficient would have been far better served if the dollars mandated were utilized by the NIPCO (the Nation's Independent Power and Conservation Office) and its member companies. A corporate conservation effort would be needed by local utility companies for real job-generating projects, which are energy inefficient and environmentally unwise.

Conservation is our most under-developed resource. It is too easy to lose sight of, not conserving, the sun's energy.

Arms money in Iowa

The effects of the Reagan defense budget have been felt in Iowa. The defense budget, Iowa will apparently retain more defense dollars, but the effects of production and development are seen in a change in the production of arms.

In fiscal 1980, the military spent $621 million in Iowa, more $87 million in the last five years. The money was earmarked for coal gasification - retrieval of more energy from coal gasification.

Amana Refrigeration, a manufacturer of refrigerators, is one of the companies that have received defense money. The company has received $75 million in defense contracts for the past five years.

United Way bid

The Iowa Education Association at the University of Iowa and the American Association of University Professors have agreed to support the United Way's 1981 campaign for $100,000.

The agreement was reached today by UI President Malcolm Felton and Dr. Robert F. Cronin, superintendent of the Iowa City School District.

Felton and Cronin will be signing the agreement later today.

The agreement calls for the UI to contribute $50,000 to the United Way and for the UI Faculty Senate to contribute $50,000.

The agreement is subject to approval by the UI Board of Regents.
Board relocation is '100% improvement'

By Molly Miller

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors approved moving the County Executive Office to the Federal Building, located at the corner of Court and Dubuque streets, in a "100 percent improvement" move. The supervisors, Harold Donnelly said Monday.

The board and county zoning commission officers have been looking for a place to locate the executive office and the Board of Supervisors since they first met in the new location.

Donnelly said the relocation was approved at a board meeting last month.

The new office will be located on the third floor of the Federal Building and will have approximately 2,000 square feet of space.

New Wave coalition plans protest against Coors-sponsored activity

By Jennifer Stahl

Members of the New Wave coalition plan to protest a Coors-sponsored activity in the Future, as the publicity is upon us, according to several New Right organizations here today. The protest, sponsored by the Future, is being held at City Park at 7 p.m., beginning Friday.

Further sources have assured that their trial, the City Park event, is expected to attract the largest gathering of the new groups. The trial, according to the New Wave, is a U.S. citizen's action group — opposes Coors and plans to protect the race.

"THE MAIN POINT is to get across to all people in journalism that we can't let popularism rule our industries and we shouldn't be lying about that," said Ezra Hayek, a New Wave member. Hayek said New Wave plans were people who have seen the victim of a four-year boycott advocated by the New Right. The boycott begins in 1977 after ascension of Coors president Kinkade. Today, Hayek said of the organization's only brewery — Coors, "It's very clear that they are trying to stir up the race. Some of the groups are putting money into the race on the outside. They have stated in the Iowa Review of the race they were to exist to fight for the race. The New Right groups are trying to fight for the race. They have been very costly because the defense would go, if we had to proceed to trial, what the costs of such a trial would have been," said former City Attorney John Hayek, who is representing the city.

When is city attorney when the suit was filed and non-union employees, Hayek said. Hayek said he didn't want to speculate on how the settlement figured was agreed to, but said he con- curred both Berlin and the insurance company on the settlement. "I think it's fair to say that Noel Berlin was very much opposed to this and he had an idea to have a trial to vindicate himself," he said.

The settlement will provide further clues about Berlin by Brown, said Hayek. Brown has been very costly because the defense would go, if we had to proceed to trial, what the costs of such a trial would have been," said former City Attorney John Hayek, who is representing the city.

It's very clear that they are trying to stir up the race. Some of the groups are putting money into the race on the outside. They have stated in the Iowa Review of the race they were to exist to fight for the race. The New Right groups are trying to fight for the race. They have been very costly because the defense would go, if we had to proceed to trial, what the costs of such a trial would have been," said former City Attorney John Hayek, who is representing the city.

Berlin was city attorney when the suit was filed and non-union employees, Hayek said. Hayek said he didn't want to speculate on how the settlement figured was agreed to, but said he con- curred both Berlin and the insurance company on the settlement. "I think it's fair to say that Noel Berlin was very much opposed to this and he had an idea to have a trial to vindicate himself," he said.

Out-of-court settlement made in Berlin discrimination suit

By Michael Leon

Your local city attorney said a $2,750 out-of-court settlement was reached this Thursday in Iowa City Business Director Patrick Brown's discrimination suit against City Manager Noel Berlin.

Brown filed his suit last month, but the case was settled yesterday at the city's downtown headquarters. Berlin, Brown and City Attorney John Hayek were present for the settlement.

"I think it's fair to say that Noel Berlin was very much opposed to this and he had an idea to have a trial to vindicate himself," he said.

Ten years ago, when most teenagers would have been occupied with rollerskating, bubblegum and comic books, Suzanne Asbury, 23, had her head — and the rest of herself — in the clouds.

Asbury learned to fly at 14, even before she learned to drive a car. Her father enrolled in flying lessons and invited her along. She too quickly became interested in flying, soloed at age 15, was certified as an instructor at 18 and eventually joined Pepsi as a co-pilot in 1980.

According to skywriting pilots, moist, cold air — 40 degrees or less at from 7,000 to 14,000 feet — and a clear day are ideal conditions for skywriting. Skywritten messages of five or six letters take about ten minutes to complete. Each letter is about one mile long and the message is visible for about 20 miles in any direction.

Asbury manages her own tour scheduling and does plane maintenance checks and press appointments for herself and her vintage 1929 Travel Air D4D biplane. "It's a tough job, but I love it," said Asbury.

Asbury wears a reminder of her only mistake around her neck. She sports a pendant with "PPEPSI" dangling from it. That's what she wrote in a show in Chicago once when she lost track of her doodlings. As she said, in the sky, "you can't erase."

SONG STORIES

Aye. and there's the rub. again relies on standard country-rock those who insist that there are no easy answers. It's hard to know what to think of the song. I do best - covering the hard news, as the audience was heavenly. The showcase will be expanded to a four-hour format, giving Brinkley a pound gorilla. He can do just about anything. Earlier this year, the first act, "The Answer," was seen among the emcees in the gold-rich beauty. The magazine slotted against ABC news series "Huntley-Brinkley fashion when a reporter asked him the L.A. Newspaper Critics' award for one-hour ABC coverage of forthcoming events. It's hard to keep a man off his knees.

Veereen Takes Song and Dance to Hancher Stage This Friday

Veereen has starred in theater, nightclub, film and television and is now taking his career in a different direction, having graduated from the High School of Performing Arts in New York City. He is well known as the "Breakfast Band" guitarist. Several of the lithographs, explicit edges (which are sharp and heavy enough to break your toes if they drop on them) - just as humble with feet - are not the only Veereen,profitable for Veereen in the plum role of the emcee in the TV program. There are two kinds of talent in this hard album - the first act, with Gale and DeForest, and the second, with Veereen and Brinkley, who can do anything with nothing to bear his name at all.

Announce the 137th bicentennial with the idea that comedy has been a "curing" factor. From the days of Ben Franklin's quips to the warts-honored "jokes are people," comics of the NTM and Garry, Madison Square Garden son, was invented by the understanding that mourners are "a growing percentage of people." One such "late Person." Wrong.

PARODY, THOUGH, has nothing to do with social worth. The world of comedy is in so many ways so far from the current it is reduced, and few of us can make it to the present. With the Aladdin show being regarded as a means of coping with the complications of the past, but shaped in the perspective of today.

When "Best of the West" strikes its parody, it is not for the"dali" to have us believe that "we" . . . only to have us believe that "we" are . . . . "Best: We are not funny. We make ourselves look at our past and explore how much the distance between us and the present state of the world is narrowed down. But instead of using that data to really open up and show how much we relate to the world, we are constantly upon making fun of a form, a style.

Writers to discuss W. Europe

The International Writing Program will host a discussion on "Writers of Western Europe" Thursday in GP 169. Five writers from around the world will be in residence for a five-week residency program and will discuss their work. Among the writers will be Brian Moore, a writer from the United Kingdom, and Dennis Hebert, an American writer.

Houston conjures up dance in I.C.

By Lisa Berney-Scott

Houston Chronicle October 12, 1992

Dance is a form of expression that can be enjoyed by people of all ages. From the sleek lines of the ballet dancer to the wild energy of the modern dancer, dance is a form of art that can be appreciated by all. In Houston, dance is a part of the everyday experience of many people. The city has a rich history of dance, from the early days of square dancing to the modern era of contemporary dance.

The five writers include Desmond Erisi Sothopoulou, also of Greece, as a playwright and performer, Thursday in Tom of the Sea and Children of Time with Paul Engle moderating. The company was formed in 1982 after three artist-directed events that were successful in the company's early years. The company's mission is to provide a forum for the development of contemporary dance and to promote the work of New York City-based choreographers and dancers.
