According to Davidson, the key to winning is "mental toughness. You have to be tough mentally." Davidson

Davidson added "the more I deal with this thing, the more I find it's mental toughness." With this in mind, the Hawkeyes will be using today's game for numerous purposes.

"We'll use this game to concentrate on the things we should be good at," said Anne Marie Thomas, Iowa's leading scorer last season. "As we begin to execute the basics properly, we should get progressively better." Another function of Iowa's game against Northern is a preparation match. ## Council hopefuls speak out on issues

Three incumbent Iowa City councilors are among the 12 candidates running for the three four-year council seats up for election this year.

Four of the 10 candidates in the Oct. 13 primary for the two at-large seats will be on the ballot in the November election. Deputy City Clerk Marian Karr said Thursday. Because there are only two candidates for the District B seat, there will be no primary, she added.

The two candidates for the District B seats are currently members of the City Council: Clemens Erdahl, a liberal and Robert Vevera, a conservative. Glenn Roberts is running for reelection to an at-large seat.

Also in the at-large race are: Larry Baker, James Barfuss, Kate Dickson, Jim Gaeta, John McDonald, Paul Poulsen, Gary Sanders, James Schwab and Richard Taylor.

ERDAHL, 33, 1218 E. College St., represents District B on the City Council. He received a bachelor's degree in General Studies, a master's in Urban and Regional Planning, and a Juris Doctor degree from the UI.

Erdahl, who did not announce his candidacy until Wednesday, turned in nominating petitions with more than twice the number of required signatures. "I think that's a formidable display of the organization I have behind me," he said.

Before joining the council in 1977, he helped organize the Ralston Creek Neighborhood Association, the Citizen's Housing Center and Tenants United for Action. He also helped to draft and pass Iowa City's Tenant-Landlord Ordinance.

ERDAHL DISAGREES with what he calls the "roads instead of people" philosophy of the present council majority. "The council majority of the last two years has made cuts that do not need to have been made." He said the majority has cut funds to human service projects, and instead favored road projects like the proposed Freeway 518 and the Scott Boulevard project.

Vevera, 61, 2839 Friendship St., is presently an at-large councilor. Vevera has been on the council since 1975 and was mayor in 1978 and 1979. He was a member of the Iowa City Police Department for 13½ years until he retired in May 1975.

Vevera ran unsuccessfully as a Republican for the Johnson County Board of Supervisors in November 1980 while he was still on the council.

VEVERA SAID the future shortage of funding facing Iowa City can only be solved by asking all segments of city government to "do an equal amount of belt-tightening." That means the city may have to cut personnel and increase city fees for garbage collection, he said.

Vevera said he favors raising bus fares to help compensate for the damage buses do to city streets. "I'm definitely in favor of an increase in bus fares. I don't think anyone can argue that with the present financial situation it's a necessary evil," he said.

He said he has not supported city funding of the Rape Victim Advocacy Program and the Iowa City Crisis Center because he does not feel the city has the money to spare these programs.

Vesely weeps, tells jury 'I loved her and I still do'

By Howard Hess
Assistant Metro Editor

"I made a jump at her. I grabbed the gun in my left hand and I shot her till it was empty. And she was standing up, then she fell down. And she was laying on the ground. I remember putting some more shells in and shooting her again."

On the verge of tears, Robert Wayne Vesely, 32, thus described the April 15 death of his estranged wife, Laura D. Vesely, 31. He is charged with first-degree murder for the shooting, and testified in his own behalf for a little over two hours in Johnson County District Court Thursday.

Vesely testified he never intended to kill his wife, saying, "I loved her and I still do." He said he was "pretty drunk" when the shooting occurred; he testified that he drank more than eight beers that afternoon.

Vesely testified that Laura provoked

Defense attorneys for Robert Wayne Vesely called a psychologist and a psychiatrist as the last witnesses in their case.

Richard A. Pett, a clinical psychologist, said he interviewed Vesely and gave him nine widely-used psychological tests.

Pett said one test indicated that Vesely's IQ was "a little above average," but added that some of Vesely's scores showed that Vesely lost his capacity to solve problems in stressful situations.

Pett said that Vesely had difficulty focusing his thinking, and loses his ability to think clearly when he becomes anxious.

Pett said that on the surface Vesely appeared to be doing well, but there was an indication of another — less overt — personality. Pett testified that Vesely's less overt level was moody, self-centered, immature, easily angered and had a poor self-concept. Pett said people like this may tend to lose contact with the world around them — especially when drinking.

Student enrollment to 26,464; a record

By Jackie Baylor
and Mary Schuber
Staff Writers

UI enrollment reached a record high of 26,464 this fall despite a projected decline in the number of students for this year, said Joe Brisben, acting director of the UI Office of Public Information.

The enrollment figure is 5.4 percent higher than last year's tally of 25,100, according to figures released Thursday by the public information office.

Brisben said although the number of registered students increased this year, the UI is still projecting a decrease for future years.

"We've said for a long time that we should be having a decline (in enrollment), although it hasn't come yet," Brisben said. The decline is projected because Iowa high schools are expecting fewer students "all the time."

In 1975, the UI projected the 1981-82 enrollment to be 23,425 students, according to Elizabeth Stroud, UI Institutional Data Coordinator. In 1978, the projection was 23,587.

THE NUMBER of freshmen is up 14.6 percent — from 3,326 last fall to 3,810 this fall. The figures show that enrollment of women increased from 11,955 last fall to 12,630 this fall. Enrollment of men increased only slightly — from 13,145 to 13,834.

Enrollment of new undergraduate transfer students decreased 4.2 percent, down 78 to 1,779, and the enrollment of new graduate students decreased 5.3 percent, down 58 to 1,049.

UI Registrar W.A. Cox said Iowans make up 71.1 percent of this fall's student body. Men comprise 52.3 percent of those registered and women make up 47.7 percent — about the same ratio as last year.

The largest enrollment increase came in the College of Liberal Arts — up to 15,518 students this semester from 14,096 students last fall.

Investigators begin to unravel events leading to murder victim

A state crime official said Thursday that law officers are "progressing very well" in their investigation into the shooting death of 31-year-old Joylynn Carol Leslie, whose body was discovered Monday in a ditch next to a gravel road outside West Branch.

Gerald Shanahan, director of the state Division of Criminal Investigation, said Thursday of the investigation: "I'm optimistic. You can't put a time frame on it, but it's progressing very well."

This story was written by Craig Gemoules, Scott Kilman and Cindy Schreuder

Johnson County Sheriff Gary Hughes said Thursday that his department is working with Springfield, Ohio, law officers to recreate Leslie's weekend visit to Johnson County. Hughes said investigators have responded to "hundreds of calls from the public" in connection with the investigation.

Officers have canvassed local bars, hotels, gas stations and restaurants since Leslie's partially decomposed body was discovered by farmers. An autopsy showed Leslie was killed by a single gunshot wound to the head. Authorities said the time of Leslie's death, which was ruled a homicide, has not yet been established.

Energy, education hit by Reagan plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan outlined Thursday night his latest plan to balance the budget by 1984 — a 12 percent spending cut for most federal programs, a tax crackdown and the death of the Energy and Education agencies.

In a nationwide address from the Oval Office, Reagan said he would ask Congress to cut outlays for fiscal 1982 by $13 billion, on top of the $35 billion reduction already approved. He said this was necessary to keep a lid on next year's deficit, now predicted to reach $43.1 billion. Reagan proposed cuts in defense spending, but only about 1 percent of the total budget.

And he disclosed plans to generate another $3 billion in government income — nearly $1 billion in fees charged to users of federal waterways and air services — in the fiscal year that begins next week.

While calling for the end of some tax loopholes, Reagan refused to tamper with the personal income tax cut that

Quebec official escapes

QUEBEC (UPI) — A young couple armed with handguns took Quebec National Assembly President Claude Vaillancourt hostage Thursday to demand a job, but he escaped unharmed three hours later. The couple was arrested.

They took Vaillancourt, 37, and a secretary hostage. Police said the couple demanded a job for one of them — which one was not clear — and a getaway car.

NEW YORK (UPI) — A news service that will relay the positions of the Polish trade union Solidarity opened in Manhattan Thursday.

Zygmunt Przetakiewicz, director of the service, Friends of Poland's Independent Trade Union "Solidarity" Inc., said he did not fear any reprisals for his activities in opening the service.

Troops back Polish police

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Poland's prime minister sternly warned Solidarity Thursday to moderate its policies and said the army will help police curb "anti-state and anti-Soviet excesses." Within hours of his warning, a small number of troops appeared on Warsaw's streets.

It was the second time troops have been called to back up police in the 13 months since Solidarity's birth.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — Space engineers said Thursday they were confident damage to the space shuttle Columbia from spilled rocket propellant could be repaired without a costly and time-consuming trip back to the hangar.

The optimistic assessment would mean a launch delay significantly less than some had feared. The launch already has been delayed at least two weeks.

Commission examines elderly housing

By Charann Davidson
Staff Writer

The Iowa City Housing Commission is in the process of examining congregate housing — an alternative to nursing homes for elderly persons who can do many things without aid.

The commission sponsored a Congregate Housing Workshop Wednesday to examine the feasibility of congregate housing in Iowa City.

Commission member Goldene Haendel said the workshop targeted specific problems — such as financial feasibility — of establishing a housing facility.

The commission also discussed the pros and cons of either building a congregate housing facility or renovating an existing structure, and concern about the need for greater medical care for the residents.

Haendel said the elderly should play an active role in the planning of such housing, and said the commission should meet with senior citizens to get their reactions.

HAENDEL SAID that after meeting with the elderly, a task force could be established to plan a housing center.

Leonard VanderZee, another commission member, said congregate housing facilities could serve 400-800 of the city's elderly.

VanderZee said a major concern is finding financial backing, and that "we'd shake the trees" for donations to the project.

Jim Hencin, Community Development Block Grant program coordinator, said the possibility of obtaining large loans or grants is remote. "The days of relying upon federal money are becoming short and few."

Financial backing for the project could be sought from local banks and savings institutions if the project were sponsored by a private, non-profit organization, Hencin said.

Another option would be to establish foundations with donors who would be attracted by the "tax incentive" of making a large contribution, he said.

THE CITY could aid the project by selling industrial revenue bonds. For such bonds, the city lends its name to the organization seeking funds and places the city name on the bonds so that buyers can receive a tax exemption, Hencin said. The city would be attracting new investors or residents through the agreement, he said.

Hencin said the Iowa City Council is considering purchasing and renovating an old building to house six to eight elderly persons. The estimated cost of that project is $130,000 to $150,000, and those figures could be used as a basis for computing the costs of future congregate housing facilities, he said.

But Hencin said the costs of purchasing land and constructing a new building have not been determined.

James Sykes, vice chairman of the Federal Council on Aging and the featured speaker at the workshop, said group homes could "meet a very desperate need" for the elderly who are independent, yet in need of minor assistance in with their daily activities.

Community members can provide meals and personal assistance to those in congregate housing, he said.

For many of the elderly who need help with some daily activities, a nursing home is the only alternative, Sykes said.

Sykes was instrumental in the formation of a congregate housing facility in Sun Prairie, Wis. The facility provides meals, social activities and other services for the elderly.

Board accepts bid for demolition of old county jail

By Molly Miller
Staff Writer

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors Thursday accepted the $18,187 bid from the Gee Grading and Excavating Co., Cedar Rapids, for the job of demolishing the old county jail.

Three companies each submitted two estimates to the board: one for demolition of the building and one for demolition and salvage of the foundation stones of the jail, which the county Historical Preservation Society want saved.

The bid accepted by the board does not include salvaging the stones because they are too old to be of any value, said Supervisor Lorada Cilek, after the board's formal meeting.

Dick Richards, spokesman for the Gee Grading and Excavating Co., said Thursday the paperwork for the demolition should be completed by Oct. 12. The company plans to begin tearing the building down shortly thereafter, he said.

The county plans to auction off salvageable furniture and equipment from the old jail including two refrigerators and some old chairs.

THE BOARD also approved the $103,000 purchase of a new six-wheel drive motor grader from John Deere Outdoor Equipment Inc. of Cedar Rapids.

The cost of the model 772A grader is $147,984, but the county is trading in an old four-wheel drive grader for a $44,484 deduction.

The grader comes with a buy-back option that guarantees that the company will buy the grader back in five years for $85,790 if the county is not satisfied.

Five are dismissed in Oppelt jury probe

Twelve persons were questioned Thursday in Johnson County District Court as jury selection for the first-degree murder trial of David C. Oppelt continued. Five of those questioned were excused from jury duty.

There are now 31 prospective jurors. Oppelt, 23, is charged with the May 27 stabbing death of 16-year-old Steven Scott White at the Quik Trip Store, 225 S. Gilbert St.

Defense attorneys Duane Rohovit and Philip Reisetter filed a motion Sept. 14 to interview potential jurors individually. The petition claimed that rumors about the case and the complexity of an insanity defense for Oppelt made the procedure necessary.

Jury selection will resume again Monday.

North Liberty man charged in assault

Iowa City police have arrested a North Liberty man in connection with the sexual assault of a UI student.

The assault took place at the Carriage Hill Apartments, 716 Carriage Hill, about 2:00 a.m. Thursday, police reports state.

Mark Gomez, 21, is being held at the Johnson County jail on charges of second-degree sexual assault and second-degree burglary. Bond has been set at $10,000.

According to police records, Gomez allegedly broke into the 29-year-old woman's apartment "with a pass-key or credit card" and threatened her life if she made any noise.

The arresting officer, Sgt. Ronald L. Evans, refused to comment on the incident Thursday night.

Extension of the Voting Rights Act is necessary to ensure equality, according to speakers at a forum sponsored by the UI Fraternal Thursday.

Each of the eleven speakers at the forum urged students to contact their representatives and write letters to newspapers and petitions to ensure that the act is passed.

Melvin Caldwell, a forum organizer, said he was disappointed that the act was not passed in 1970. He said the potential of the act is "not yet realized."

"I don't see how we can act against it," said Caldwell. "The act is a very important part of our voting rights. It is not negotiable."

Robert Morris, president of the UI chapter of the NAACP, said the act is a key to eliminating discrimination. He said the act is a key to increasing the number of black voters.

Voting act receives avid support

By Scott Sonner

Extension of the Voting Rights Act is necessary to ensure equality of all people, according to speakers at a forum sponsored by the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity Thursday.

Each of the eleven speakers urged students to contact congressmen, write letters to newspapers and circulate petitions to ensure the act's extension.

Melvin Caldwell, the rally's organizer, said he was unable to find forum speakers who oppose extension of the act.

"I don't see how anyone could be against it," said Caldwell in an interview after the forum. He said ensuring voting rights is "something that should be non-negotiable."

Robert Morris, president of the Iowa City chapter of the NAACP and a forum speaker, said the 1965 act not only eliminated poll taxes and literacy tests but was also a major reason for increased minority voter registration. He said the potential of the bill "has not yet been realized."

MORRIS SAID in an interview Wednesday: "The only people opposing the act are people who would like to see more discriminating controls over black voters."

Head of the Iowa Voting Rights Act Coalition, Kenneth Purcell, said two "key" sections of the act will expire in August 1982, unless Congress approves its extension this fall.

Phyllis Williams, a member of the Iowa City Human Rights Commission, spoke at a public forum on the Voters Rights Act in the Union Thursday.

The sections require:

- State and local governments with a history of voting discrimination to submit any proposed changes in voting or electoral procedures for Justice Department approval.
- State and local areas with a concentration of voters whose native language is not English to provide bilingual voting assistance.

Iowans should be concerned about the act's extension because Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, is one of 18 members of the Senate Judiciary Committee which will hold hearings on the bill in October, Purcell said.

Grassley has not taken a public position on the act, Caldwell said.

PURCELL SAID opponents of the act's extension claim it is no longer necessary to ensure voting rights.

"Don't let them put us back to pre-revolution mentality by saying the Voting Right Act is no longer necessary," said Steve Burrow, a member of University Democrats.

Morris said, "Equality for Americans is still a long way away. But by supporting voters' rights, legislation will go a long way to help."

Phyllis Williams, a member of the Iowa City Human Rights Commission, said discrimination still occurs in the United States. She cited two recent cases involving a re-registration program in Mississippi that invalidated all previous registrations and a Georgia county that changed poll hours without public notice.

Dennis Pearson, a member of the UI Black American Law Student Association, said the act "is the cornerstone, not only of voting rights, but of black representation and Hispanics and women... We need this act to get to the future."

UI STUDENT SENATE PRESIDENT Tim Dickson said winning the right to vote is only half the battle.

"People have to use the right to vote. It's like working to pay for your car, then letting it sit in the garage," he said.

Joe Iosbaker, speaking for the New Wave coalition, said Reagan's view of black rights is comparable to his view on South Africa. Reagan thinks blacks "don't have the intelligence to run their own country," Iosbaker said.

Representatives of the UI Student Senate Human Rights Committee and the Chicano/Native American Cultural Center also participated in the forum.

County jail

Cedar Rapids firm guaranteed the jail will not pay more than $1,500 for parts in the next five years. Any cost over the $1,500 will be paid by the county.

The county decides to sell the grader. It will have cost them $19,210 for the five years, County Engineer O.J. Gode said.

The 72A motor grader is larger than the one originally planned to purchase. The six-wheel drive design makes it ideal for Johnson County terrain and snow, a company representative said.

Consumer group lacks pay funds

By Martha Manikas
Staff Writer

The UI Consumer/Merchant Protection Service cannot afford to pay a full-time consumer advocate because efforts to raise salary funds have been unsuccessful.

When the Comprehensive Employment Training Act grant that paid advocate Sharon Smith's salary ran out in May, her choices were to "donate my time to do something I was trained to do, or go get a job to support myself." She is currently seeking other employment.

"If they could raise the money, there's no way I wouldn't go back," she said Wednesday. Smith was trained as a consumer advocate by the Iowa Attorney General's office.

Smith said if the organization folds, it would be "a loss to the community, because nobody in this community spends as much time on complaints and researching the laws as we do."

THE SERVICE was a branch of the Iowa Public Interest Research Group, but became an independent organization when Iowa PIRG disbanded in March. UI Student Senate President Tim Dickson said. The senate gave the service $1,684.34 for 1981-82 office space and supplies, he said.

Smith said the service has also been added to the optional student fee card this semester.

The organization has designed a consumer guide to raise money for Smith's salary, but advertisement sales to city businesses have been low. The guide will still be printed, but with few ads, Smith said.

The service helped consumers recover more than $13,000 from local and out-of-state businesses during Smith's 16 months there. The organization was able to satisfy 95 percent of the complaints it received, she said.

Lynda Raybourn, consumer director of the organization, and a volunteer, said she has not been in the service office during the past three weeks because she has another job and studies. "We need people... I don't know any student organization with too many volunteers," she added.

MONEY TO PAY a work-study student is included in the service's senate-allocated funds, but Raybourn said that she has not yet finished the necessary paperwork to hire one.

Keith Kafer, executive vice president of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce, said the Chamber of Commerce has handled consumer complaints for over 28 years. They receive about 150 complaints per month and 40-50 percent of them are resolved, he said.

"We have a person who handles the complaints," Kafer said. Kafer also serves as an additional consultant when necessary. The training for the city's consumer service is "by experience" — many of the complaints require common sense, he said.

Advertisements are "periodically put in the paper that the service is available through the Chamber of Commerce," Kafer said.

...I SLIPPED.

ense budget.

THE TRICK now is to get the deficit small enough so that interest rates will fall without sacrificing an anti-inflationary monetary policy. If this can be done—and there is no economic reason why it cannot—it is likely that the rate of inflation will continue to decline. More importantly, our real income will start to grow.

With a little bit of luck—such as political stability in the Mideast—the economy will do much better in the 1980s than it did in the 1970s. A number of shocks, including the dramatic rise in oil prices, the collapse of the old international monetary system and a change in the composition of the labor force, slowed the economy in the last few years. We have finally adjusted to most of these changes, and the stage is now set for a period of sustained, moderately non-inflationary growth. The missing ingredient has been the incentives that will allow our industrial system to do what it does best—create wealth. The Reagan program promises to supply this incentive. It should be given a chance.

Chile

Chile itself has one of the highest voter participation records of all the countries in the world. This is true of elections in general in Johnson County, including school Board elections. But even though it was a relatively high turnout, the 1981 Iowa City School Board election participation was just 61 percent of the registered voters.

Albrecht is especially unfortunate that he and his wife made a commendable effort to vote but were unaware that their precinct is combined into the Mann School precinct each year for School Board elections. In the future, they may wish to consult either their local daily newspapers, which contain news stories and/or official communications detailing the yearly combination, or they could call the clerk's office at 338-5428 for information.

As you know, last year was a census year. So reapportionment, districting and reprecincting exercises are occurring this year. School Boards will also be looking at precincts. It is their decision now whether to combine precincts.

If you readers have an opinion on cost-benefits or lack thereof in combining precincts, I'm certain that the School Board would be interested in your ideas. You should be aware, however, that a decision not to combine would be very costly at a time of significant revenue shortages in the schools.

Iranian students protest Khomeini

Eleven picketers, including some UI Iranian students, demonstrated against Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini on the UI Pentacrest Thursday noon.

The protest was organized by the Committee to Support Democracy in Iran, according to Nasseh Ghaffari, a member of the UI Moslem Student Society.

The anti-Khomeini demonstration apparently was the first that Iranian students have participated in at the UI. The Iranian students who oppose Khomeini support the Mojahedin, an Iranian underground resistance movement which promotes "democratic" principles, Ghaffari said. Iranians studying in the United States who oppose Khomeini's policies are being threatened by members of a foreign spy branch established by the Khomeini regime to snuff out overseas opposition.

Study: legal age has no impact

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — Raising and lowering the legal drinking age in four Midwestern states had no significant impact on alcohol consumption, a study showed this week.

The study of alcohol consumption in Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin was conducted by a private foundation headed by Michael M. Birkley, an aide to Wisconsin state Sen. Gary Goyke. Goyke is chairman of the state council on alcohol and other drug abuse, and Birkley is also on the staff of that group.

Birkley said the researchers compared alcoholic beverage revenues and population data in the four states during 1970-79. He said per capita adult consumption of alcohol remained constant, despite changes in the legal drinking age.

ILLINOIS LOWERED its drinking age to 19 in 1975 and raised it to 21 last year, while Michigan lowered its age to 18 in 1973 and then raised it to 21 in 1979. Minnesota lowered its age to 18 in 1974 and raised it to 19 in 1977, while Wisconsin lowered its legal drinking age to 18 in 1972.

Bills are pending in the Wisconsin legislature to raise the age to 19 or 21. Birkley has opposed raising the age.

"My opposition to raising the legal drinking age is based on the fact that it doesn't work," Birkley said. He said the study confirmed the futility of attempting to control alcohol consumption through the legal drinking age.

The researchers compared the number of persons who could legally drink with sales of absolute alcohol in the four states. Although changes in the age increased or decreased the number of persons who could legally drink, they found no corresponding change in alcohol sales.

"IT IS CLEAR from this study that ... lowering the legal drinking age did not result in more drinking, and raising the legal drinking age did not result in less drinking among the target population."

Proposed ordinance receives objections

By Cherann Davidson
Staff Writer

Area mobile home park owners voiced objections over proposed mobile home park standards and a proposed mobile home park ordinance Thursday in a meeting with a subcommittee of the Iowa City Planning and Zoning Commission.

The Iowa City Council returned the proposed ordinance to the commission after mobile home park owners complained that they did not receive enough advance response to learn about the ordinance. The commission then established a committee to work with area park owners to target specific problems with the ordinance.

The council must approve the recommendation before it is adopted into the city code.

CURRENTLY MOBILE HOME parks are zoned as commercial properties. That zoning classification allows for buildings such as convenience stores and gas stations.

City planners have proposed a mobile home park ordinance that would change the classification to residential and would upgrade park standards. It would set standards for open spaces around trailers, regulate street widths in the parks and impose other health-related restrictions, according to Doug Boothroy, senior planner for the city.

Ken Albrecht, co-owner of Forest View Trailer Court, said he objected to numerous provisions in the code. "I think we need an ordinance," he said, but the space requirements for street widths — 35 feet wide — are too great. "You can't take someone and order them out" of their trailer because more space is needed to widen the streets, Albrecht said.

Albrecht said the cost of making the improvements required by the proposals would be passed on to the tenant. "In the end, the tenant pays for it," he said.

ONE OF THE more controversial requirements calls for recreation space in the mobile home parks. The park owner would be required to give at least five percent of the total average mobile home space for recreational purposes, said Bruce Knight, a city planner.

For example, a park with an average mobile home space of 4,300 square feet would be required to have 1.3 acres of recreation space, he said.

Thursday's meeting was the first in a series scheduled by the subcommittee. The subcommittee members plan to work with interested park owners on revisions of the ordinance.

Candidates for Iowa City Council comment on the campaign issues

ROBERTS, 61, 21 Ashwood Drive, is presently an at-large councilor. Roberts, a retired Iowa City businessman, owned Varsity Cleaners for 25 years before selling it to his son in 1975.

He received a bachelor's degree in accounting from the UI in 1950, and has about 10 years' experience in construction.

"The next four years will see a lot of problems because of federal cutbacks," he said. "I certainly hope we won't have to cut basic services."

Roberts said if the city loses federal revenue sharing funds the council will be forced to raise bus fares. He said he opposes raising property taxes to support the bus system, but such an increase should be coupled with higher bus fare to compensate for lost funds.

ROBERTS SAID he is proud of his voting record. "I'm an incumbent, and I'm putting my record out on the line," he said.

Baker, 34, is a teaching assistant in the UI English Department. He has also taught at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill and the University of Oklahoma in Norman.

The contrast in noise levels between Norman and Iowa City was one reason Baker decided to run for council. Baker, who said he is tired of putting up with excessive noise, sent the council a copy of the Norman, Okla., noise ordinance on Aug. 17.

He has since served as a spokesman for Iowa City residents who favor passage of a noise ordinance. Baker said although the council has apparently recognized the need for an ordinance regulating noise, he is afraid the proposed ordinance will be exploited as a campaign issue.

BAKER SAID he is also very concerned about the preservation of neighborhoods and the acquisition of new park land. "Maintaining the integrity of all neighborhoods will be my top priority," he said. "I would also like to see a special fund set up whereby any money made by the city through the sale of park land will be set aside for the future purchase of replacement park land."

Barfuss, 26, 130 Grove St., works at Friendship Daycare Center. Barfuss was on the UI Student Senate from 1979 to 1980, has served on the Iowa City Committee on Community Needs, and helped draft the city housing code while on the Housing Task Force of the Iowa City Housing Commission.

BARFUSS WAS one of the founding members of the UI Observation Club, and although he is not a student, remains as the group's "Arterial Minister for Complimentary Procedures." He lives in the River City Housing Collective and is chairman of the educational and cultural committee there.

"My basic philosophy is to do as much as possible by doing as little as possible," he said. That means providing as many city services as possible without interfering with the natural order, he said.

Barfuss said he would rather see Iowa City government facilitate human services than provide them. "Government should facilitate instead of mandate," he said.

DICKSON, 60, 1215 Ashley Drive, is secretary to the director of the UI School of Religion. She served during the 1980-81 school year as a member of the Board of Trustees of Student Publications, Inc., the body that governs the financial affairs of The Daily Iowan.

Dickson was not available Thursday for comment.

Gaeta, 2NC Towncrest Ct., said he lived in Iowa City all his life and has had several small businesses in the city. He currently runs an advertising design and sign-painting business, he said. "I'm responsible for most of the 'Go Hawks' windows around town," he said.

"I'm in favor of having the government work for the people instead of the city dictating to us," he said.

McDonald, 37, 116 S. Dodge St., is a practicing optician at McDonald Optical Dispensary. He serves on the Iowa City Planning and Zoning Commission, the Board of Directors of Johnson County United Way and is one of 10 directors of the Iowa Opticians Association.

HE HAS been a member of the Iowa City Downtown Association since its inception in 1975 and has been a member of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce for 20 years. He currently serves on the chamber's legislative committee.

McDonald foresees hard times for Iowa City. "I think in the next few years that we're going to have to cut some of the things that have been proposed," he said.

MCDONALD SAID Iowa City will need strong financial planning to weather the coming years of reduced federal funding. The city will have to look for new sources of funding and will have to concentrate on providing basic services like police and fire protection, sewer service and street maintenance, McDonald said.

Poulsen, 525 N. Johnson St., an Iowa City businessman, owns Senor Pablo's restaurant. Poulsen ran unsuccessfully for the council in 1977, when he was eliminated in the at-large primary, and 1979, when he lost to Mary Neuhauser in the District C race.

Poulsen was not available for comment Thursday.

Sanders, 34, 728 1/2 Oakland Drive, is a teaching assistant with the UI External Affairs Program. He is chairman of the Iowa City Resources Conservation Commission and has served on that board for 1 1/2 years. He has been a consistent opponent of bus fare increases, and in February 1980 led a petition drive against raising bus fares.

"BUS FARES have been the whipping boy of this administration," he said. "They're constantly talking about raising bus fares."

Sanders said he opposes raising bus fares because "mass transit is the primary means of transportation for thousands of people in Iowa City."

Sanders said the present council has adopted a short-sighted conservation policy. "We (the commission) have been reluctant to propose much to the council" because of that policy, he said.

Sanders also disagrees with present council policy on city expansion. The council has approved subdivisions "scattered all over the city," he said.

Schwab, 703 Seventh Ave., works as a freelance political consultant for the Citizens Party in Wisconsin and Minnesota. He is a past local board chairman of the Iowa Public Interest Research Group.

SCHWAB said he is concerned about the present council's attitude toward women's and minority rights. The council decided to rescind a policy that prevented city employees from traveling on official business to states that have not ratified the Equal Rights Amendment, he said.

The council also decided to pursue a court case aimed at preventing Firefighter Linda Eaton from breastfeeding her son will on duty. Both decisions are an example of a poor attitude toward women's rights, he said.

Taylor, 118 Baculus Mobile Home Park, is a member of United Plumbers and Steamfitters Local 125. Taylor, who describes himself as liberal, said he is concerned about proposed bus fare increases and what he sees as unfair city housing and building inspections.

"I don't want to see bus fares increased unless absolutely necessary," he said. Taylor said he opposes raising bus fares to raise funds for street repaving.

"The Texas Instruments new TI-40 and TI-55-II calculators have angled displays for easy-to-see-answers."
The slanted display makes these calculators easier to use at arm's length—and that's just the beginning. The economical TI-40, with built-in functions like trig, stat, logs, roots, reciprocals and more, will help you through math and science courses—especially since it comes with the informative book, Understanding Calculator Math.
The book explains how to use the TI-40 to work through, and understand, common problems. If you're an advanced math or science major, you'll be more interested in the TI-55-II, which comes with the Calculator Decision-Making Sourcebook. The TI-55-II features 56-step programmability, multiple memories, scientific and statistical operations, conversion factors and much more—a total of 112 functions.
An extremely powerful calculator, at an excellent price. Both calculators have LCD displays, long battery life and fit right in your pocket.

Artful handling of Prokofiev piece highlights UI orchestra's concert

By Jeanne Goche
Staff Writer

A mix of Beethoven and Prokofiev got the UI Symphony Orchestra off to a promising start Wednesday night at Hancher Auditorium for its first concert of the semester.

The performance of Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 4 in B Major, op. 58, featuring soloist Kenneth Amada offered some fine musical moments. And the rendition of the massive "Alexander Nevsky" by Prokofiev was grand and dramatic, while remaining within the orchestra's complete control.

Amada's opening to the concerto was intimate and lyrical; he phrased carefully, yet seemed to do so leisurely. His embellishments, particularly in the first movement, were precise and comfortable and great fun to hear because they were done with such ease.

The entrances of the orchestra and the piano were generally excellent and even exquisite at points. There was always a good matching of dynamic level and tempo in the interplay of the piano and orchestra. The two, however, seemed a touch uncomfortable in a rambunctious section of the first movement.

THOUGH AMADA occasionally returned to the artfulness he displayed early in the concerto, from the cadenza in the first movement to the second half of the third movement, inspiration was lacking in the piano performance. The exact problem does not lend itself easily to definition. Generally, the phrasing was careful, the lines lyrical and the pedaling precise, but perhaps not as careful, lyrical and precise as Amada had led his listeners to expect in the first movement.

The audience was faced with a formidable mass of black as the 176 dark-robed members of the University Choir, University Chorale, Kantorei and UI Singers joined the symphony on stage for the performance of "Alexander Nevsky." In Prokofiev's piece, which he adapted from his film score for Sergei Eisenstein's film of the same name, Prokofiev pays tribute to Russian culture, telling of the heroics of the Grand Duke Alexander who stopped a Swedish invasion of Russia in the 1200s.

THE PIECE is massive, yet so technically demanding that the performers cannot hide behind the massiveness. The University Symphony, under the direction of James Dixon, did not even attempt to hide. The performers had the technique so well in hand, it was difficult to give any thought to it at all. Instead, one could happily become enthralled in the stirring story of the exploits of Alexander Nevsky.

The first movement tells of the Mongols' destruction of Russia, and in the second, the choirs join the orchestra in praising Nevsky's victory. The third movement envisions terrifying warriors invading Russia, which leads to the fourth movement's call for the Russian people to protect their homeland.

THE FIFTH MOVEMENT, entitled "The Battle on the Ice," sets the Russians against the invaders in combat. After battle, the dead are mourned and the brave are praised in a contralto solo. Finally, the Russian people sing of their victory over the invaders.

"The Battle on the Ice" was by far the highlight of the evening. There were no major technical problems and the orchestra and choirs dramatized the battling of the Russians and the invaders well. The blend and heavy rhythm of the brass were especially effective in the third movement in projecting the dread the Russians had of their invaders. When the choirs joined the orchestra in calling the Russian people to rise, the groups were forceful and inspiring, yet never harsh.

The performance of mezzo-soprano Jocelyn Reiter in the sixth movement was touching. She and the orchestra worked together, neither trying to overpower the other.

There was a moment of distraction between the sixth and seventh movements. The choirs had been sitting during the mezzo-soprano solo. Apparently, some singers missed the signal to rise and were left standing while the singing of the seventh movement began. It was, however, only a minor problem as the group went on to a grand and noble finish.

'Dynasty' star bitten by leopard

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Linda Evans, blonde star of the "Dynasty" television series, was knocked to the ground twice and bitten below the breast by a 200-pound leopard during a rehearsal for a TV special, it was disclosed this week.

Evans was treated for the wound after the accident Monday and was expected to report to work again Wednesday.

Jay Bernstein, her manager, said the actress was knocked down by a leopard named Sheba after the actress cracked a whip at the animal during rehearsal for the annual "Circus of the Stars" telecast.

"Linda went into the cage with a trainer," Bernstein said.

MIAMI (UPI) — A Miami entertainment magnate has sold a rare folio of John James Audubon's "Birds of America" — valued at more than $1 million — to the Historical Association of Southern Florida for $700,000.

Mitchell Wolfson, 80, president and chairman of Wometco Enterprises Inc., said he sold the set of 435 prints for a price under market value to keep the books in the state.

They had been housed in Key West, Fla., until earlier this month, when they were moved to Wolfson's air-conditioned Miami vault after marked deterioration was noticed by art experts.

The prints were kept in Key West's Audubon House in sealed glass cases, but the humidity still managed to seep in and drain the colors.

The Tubes big on visual live rock; can expect props, costumes, extras

By Jim Musser
Staff Writer

Area rock fans are in for a rare treat Sunday when the Tubes, one of the most theatrical and perverse bands in the business, invade Hancher Auditorium for an 8 p.m. show.

The Tubes gained their substantial notoriety in the San Francisco area after getting together as a group in Phoenix, Ariz. They have had seven LP's (including a double live set and T.R.A.S.H., a swell collection of hits and misses released by A&M this year) since their debut in 1975.

Although they are fairly mainstream in their musical approach, their propensity for twisted, even vulgar, lyrical subject matter has kept them from having any marked impact on Top 40 radio. For the same reasons, they have made their mark on FM radio over the years, making inroads with such warped "classics" as "What Do You Want From Life," "Don't Touch Me There," "Mondo Bondage" and "White Punks On Dope."

The Tubes give most of their attention to the foibles and mores of upper-middle-class suburbia, with sex, TV and trendiness as their primary topics. Trite as that may seem, the Tubes generally avoid the obvious pitfalls presented by such easy targets with a good-natured, "what, me worry?" bent that lets you know they realize they're not just taking the shots, but they're part of the target as well.

The band explores the visual aspects of live rock performance as well as any group going, employing a wide variety of props, costumes and extras to flog their tunes into submission. Standouts are front man Fee Waybill (as charmingly obnoxious as they come), guitarist Bill Spooner and ace drummer Prairie Prince. The entire group is accomplished and tight, able to effectively render the material even during the extravagant antics that take place on stage.

The Completion Backward Principle, the Tubes' newest, most consistent and biggest-selling LP to date, marks the beginning of the group's association with Capitol Records after six LP's for A&M. It shows the Tubes in a more commercial, poppy vein, eschewing their sicko bondage leanings for a businesslike, three-piece suit image that shouldn't fool anybody. The Tubes have taken their war on modern-day Americana to its logical conclusion — they intend to beat the system by joining it.

The show Sunday should be lots of fun. There will be no opening act — it is strictly "An Evening With The Tubes." Tickets are still available at the Hancher Box Office at $9 for students and $10 for non-students.

Art lecture

R.H. Marijnissen, head of conservation at the Institute Royal du Partimoine Artistique in Brussels will give a public lecture at 8 p.m. Monday in Room E109 in the Art Building. His topic is "On Method: Iconology of Bosch and Bruegel."

Cedar Rapids Symphony

Pianist Andre Watts will join the Cedar Rapids Symphony in the opening concert of the season Oct. 3 and 4. Watts first gained attention when he was 16 years old and Leonard Bernstein introduced him to CBS television viewers as soloist for a "Young People's Concert."

Since then he has performed all over the world and performed with major symphony orchestras. Watts will play Saint-Saens' Piano Concerto No. 2 in G minor in the Cedar Rapids concert. Sheldon Morgenstern, one of the four people vying for the position of conductor of the symphony, will direct. He is currently conductor of the Eastern Music Festival and the Eastern Philharmonic in Greensboro, N.C.

Other selections to be performed are Benjamin Britten's Variations and Fugue on a Theme of Purcell and Brahms' Symphony No. 2 in D major. The Oct. 3 concert begins at 8:30 p.m. and on Oct. 4 at 3 p.m. For ticket information, call 1-366-8203.

Jazz groups bring big band era back

By T. Johnson
Staff Writer

The Rosebud, under various names, has been a disco, a country/western bar and a rock'n' roll dance joint. Tonight its metamorphosis continues: the butterfly climbs into a time warp and heads for the 1930s, the era of the big band sound.

Big band music has been making a tiny comeback of late. Bette Midler bases a large part of her act on the likes of the Andrews Sisters — perhaps not big band proper, but close enough for jazz — and Manhattan Transfer has done massively popular re-creations of swing hits.

Johnson County Landmark, under the direction of Dan Yoder, is the UI's No. 1 jazz band and has earned a national, and to a degree, international reputation as America's finest college big band. The group has performed all over the United States and trekked to Europe last spring.

THE HUNTER FUERSTE ORCHESTRA is a relatively new and untested conglomeration of devoted amateurs. Fuerste, the leader of the 12-member band, is a med student at the UI.

Tonight's show is the result of Yoder and Fuerste's deep love for the big band era. In a time when jazz — particularly the sort of academic jazz taught in universities — is getting more and more experimental and inaccessible, Yoder and the Landmark have built their reputations on their straightforward approach. Often during their concerts, they feature one or two of the older hits from what Yoder calls their "dance book," as opposed to those pieces written by members of the band or contemporary artists.

It is rare to find top-quality jazz in Iowa City, which is not a big jazz market. A big band dance in a big hall is even more rare.

Johnson County Landmark and the Hunter Fuerste Orchestra will be performing tonight at 8 at the Rosebud.

Dorothy's slippers are for sale

NEW YORK (UPI) — The last of the three pair of ruby slippers that Judy Garland wore in The Wizard of Oz will be auctioned off at Christie's East in New York on Oct. 1. The slippers, used in closeups, and a blue gingham dress and white blouse Garland wore as Dorothy, are being sold as part of a two-day "collectibles" auction. Another pair of sequined ruby slippers went for $15,000 at an MGM auction, and a third pair is at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.

an argument with him, and, as he turned to leave, pointed a .22 caliber pistol at him. She told him she was going to live with her boyfriend. After hearing that, Vesely told the jury, "I don't know what happened. I just lost it."

OTHER WITNESSES had testified that the Vesely's marriage was troubled. Vesely told the court of his marital troubles and of his drinking problem.

Robert and Laura met at the Coralville Reservoir in 1978 and were married in May 1979, he testified. From the start, Antonette "Toni" Jolley, Laura's daughter from a previous marriage, seemed to cause conflict between the two. "Me and Toni never did get along and we'd fight a lot, and Laura and me, we'd fight a lot," Vesely said.

He said Jolley "wouldn't mind her mom or me," and said he and Laura often disagreed on how to deal with the girl.

DRINKING WAS a problem in the marriage. "I'd get frustrated and angry about things and I was drinking more and more all the time," he said. After he and Laura separated in December 1980, Vesely said he drank as much as a case of beer and a bottle of whiskey in a day.

When defense attorney Leon Spies asked if there were other problems, Vesely talked about the shoplifting he said his wife did. "She kept stealing more and more. And some of the friends of hers, I think, kind of encouraged her."

Vesely said his wife stole cameras, guns, clothing and tools, often returning the merchandise to stores for cash. Vesely said he tried to "run her friends away."

After an attempt at reconciliation failed in March 1980, Robert and Laura agreed to go fishing April 15. They left in the early afternoon, after Laura had exchanged for cash some stolen goods.

Vesely said they went to the Green Castle area of the Coralville Reservoir to fish, but the water was too high to do so. Vesely said "I was pretty drunk," but he and Laura were getting along "great."

Vesely had the pistol in his tackle box; he had taken it on a camping trip the week before. While sitting with Laura, he testified, he took the gun out and shot a tin can floating in the water.

Vesely said they decided to leave and started back to his truck. On the way back, an argument started when Laura asked him to take some stolen merchandise back to stores. He refused.

HE TESTIFIED that Laura said, "I ought to know better than to come out here with you." He continued: "She said that I was a no-good SOB just like my dad, and said that her brother and all her friends was better than me. And I said 'Fine. Let's go home; I don't want to argue.'"

Vesely related that Laura said her boyfriend had asked her to live with him. "She paused a little bit and said 'Yeah, that's what we're gonna do. We're gonna go up to Swisher and live with Dennis.'"

Vesely said it was then that he grabbed the gun and shot her.

After he shot her, "I sat down and talked to her a long time. I kissed her on the forehead. I told her 'I'm sorry this awful, awful, terrible thing happened.' Her eyes were a little bit open and I knew she was dead."

Homicide

and two male companions were seen Sept. 18 in Bart's Place, 826 S. Clinton St., and checked into an area hotel later that night. Hughes refused to release the name of the hotel. Investigators of several area motels confirmed that employees have checked motel registration records.

Hughes confirmed Thursday that law officers have removed two sections of asphalt from outside Bart's Place on which a substance, possibly blood, was found. The sections are being examined at the state crime laboratory in Des Moines.

Officers have questioned some patrons and at least one bartender who were in Bart's Place Friday night. A bartender at Bart's Place said Wednesday he had been interviewed several times since Monday night by law officers. The bartender reported that he saw Leslie and three companions Friday night.

ACCORDING TO Springfield Police, Leslie had recently been involved in a car accident, and her white Camaro was damaged. Police broadcasts monitored the night Leslie's body was found referred to a white Camaro with Ohio license plates believed to be in the Iowa City area.

Officers refused to say if they have located Leslie's traveling companions, and said they have not found the murder weapon. Hughes said they are continuing their search for physical evidence.

Leslie was described by her employer and landlord as pleasant, personable woman. "She seemed real nice," said Leslie's Springfield, Ohio, landlord, who asked not to be named. "I was really surprised that this happened."

The landlord said Thursday that Leslie had called him early last week and told him she planned to move. He said "as far as I know" she was living alone in the one-bedroom apartment on Springfield's Lagonda Avenue.

LAW ENFORCEMENT authorities, accompanied by Leslie's former husband, James Leslie, came to Leslie's apartment Sunday, according to the landlord. He said that all of Leslie's possessions, including furniture, had been removed from the apartment by that time. The landlord said he believes Leslie and her friends had auctioned off the possessions.

Ray Jensen, vice president of Teledyne Ohioeast, in Springfield, Ohio, said Thursday that Leslie was employed as a telephone operator, receptionist, and supervised the plant security guards at the plant. Jensen described Leslie as hardworking and conscientious and said that he had a long "face-to-face discussion" in August after Leslie stabbed a woman in a scuffle at a rural Springfield bar. He explained that at the time Leslie was upset because her daughter had recently been taken by her ex-husband.

"She (Leslie) was a good girl," Jensen said. "I warned her she was headed in the wrong direction."

ON SEPT. 14 Mark Eldrich, a person suspected of being one of Leslie's traveling companions, called Teledyne Ohioeast and said Leslie was quitting her job.

The last time Jensen saw Leslie she was with Eldrich at a Springfield bowling alley on Sept. 16. Jensen said he could tell Leslie had "got into some kind of trouble" because she appeared nervous and said she didn't have any money. "Something was really bothering her," he said.

The last report that Jensen had of Leslie in the Springfield area was Sept. 17, when a company employee reported seeing her, he said.

Leslie had worked for the firm for about nine months.

Enrollment

"WE'RE VERY concerned about being able to take care of them, but I think we can," said Hugh Kelson, associate dean of the College of Liberal Arts. "We've added more (class) sections practically everywhere. It's an increase, but not enough to harm the educational process."

The second highest reported increase is in the UI College of Engineering with 142 more students enrolled this semester. Last fall the enrollment was 875; this fall it is 1,017.

Enrollment in the UI College of Education increased from 1,217 to 1,246 students.

Charles Case, dean of the college, said the 2.4 percent increase is not consistent with a national tendency for fewer students to enter the teaching profession.

"SOME STUDENTS are becoming aware that if they are willing to move around a bit, there are positions open for teachers."

Enrollment in the Graduate College — the second largest college on campus — decreased by 119 students, bringing this fall's enrollment to 5,561.

Enrollment in the College of Business Administration declined 64 from 1,304 to 1,240 students.

Assistant Dean Ernest Zuber said he was "not at all concerned" about the decrease. The decrease is caused by a drop in the number of students considering a graduate program, he said.

The College of Law gained 16 students this fall, bringing enrollment to 626. The College of Dentistry gained nine students, bringing 1981-82 enrollment to 368. Enrollment decreased in the College of Pharmacy, from 373 last fall to 326.

COX SAID the small decline in pharmacy students followed a nationwide trend in that field.

Other enrollment figures include:

- The College of Nursing, 517 students — a decrease of two students from last fall.
- The College of Medicine, 1,291 — an increase of 25 students this fall.

Senate vetoes anti-Coors proposal

By Jackie Baylor
Staff Writer

The UI Student Senate voted Thursday against a resolution to protest a UI Recreational Services activity sponsored by the Coors Beer Co.

The senate voted 10 to 11 with one abstention against the resolution that the senate "encourages all UI students to join the boycott of Coors beer," and that it "encourages all UI organizations and departments to avoid co-sponsorship of events with the Coors corporation."

Coors is sponsoring a Recreational Services kinetic energy conveyance race — the first of its kind — beginning in City Park at 4 p.m. today.

Past allegations that Coors has unfair labor practices and is associated with several New Right organizations have spurred members of the New Wave coalition to organize the protest.

DAVE NICHOLS, vice president and general manager for the Cedar Rapids Coors Distributing Co., said he attended the senate meeting to "ask the senators to look at the facts before they vote and base their decisions on facts."

The "rumors" about Coors' labor practices have been started and circulated by union sources because Coors is no longer unionized, said Nichols. "Coors is above standard in business practices and in dealing with employees."

"I'm a man first; I wouldn't work for any company like that (as the allegations against the company claim)," he said.

SENATOR Bruce Hagemann, one of three sponsors of the resolution and a New Wave member, said, "We are not intending to attack Recreational Services. Coors Beer is trying to get cheap publicity out of the university and we shouldn't be taking part in that."

Witnesses

to premeditate Laura Vesely's death between the time she pointed the gun at him and the time he killed her, Pett said no. Pett also said he did not think Vesely could have controlled his anger enough to calm down.

"In my opinion, Bob reached a point where his ability to think was blocked," Pett said.

Dr. Vernon Varner, a psychiatrist in private practice in Iowa City, testified that Vesely was a "severe alcoholic and has been, probably since high school." His evaluation was based on three interviews with Vesely this summer.

Varner said he did not think Vesely could premeditate the murder in the time between Laura pointing the gun and her death. When Holland asked Varner if he thought Vesely felt an irresistible, passionate impulse to kill, he said, "I think he clearly did."

Johnson County Attorney Jack Dooley cross-examined both witnesses. Both said that much of their information came from interviews with Vesely.

Ragatz at home on diamond

By Steve Batterson
Staff Writer

Tammie Ragatz has lived in more places than most people and she still has time to be a pretty good softball player.

Ragatz arrived in Iowa City via Germany, Japan, Massachusetts, Alabama, Kansas, Nebraska and Arizona. Her father is a warrant officer in the United States Army and she believes she is fortunate to call Arizona home for the last seven years.

"I've moved all my life," Ragatz said. "Arizona is the first place I've settled down in. Before that I had to pack up and leave every three years. Moving around you meet people, but it's hard because you always have to say good-bye to your old friends."

The Iowa softball team travels to Lincoln, Neb., this weekend to compete in the Husker Softball Invitational. Iowa faces Northwestern and Kansas State on Friday and Oklahoma and Nebraska on Saturday.

DESPITE HER moving around, Ragatz has taken the time to become an outstanding softball player. She transferred to Iowa this fall from Pima Community College in Tucson, Ariz. where she was named a junior college All-American.

Iowa Coach Ginny Parrish, then coaching at the University of Arizona, watched Ragatz play in high school, and an Iowa assistant, Gail Davenport was a coach at Pima when Ragatz was a freshman. "Between the two of them, they got me here," Ragatz said. "I really can't wait until it snows. I haven't seen any for seven years. This is really a nice place, when I first got here I couldn't believe the grass and the trees. I miss the cactus and the mountains at home, too, though."

Ragatz, who is a member of the ROTC, has set her goals high. "I fulfilled my goals in junior college. I wanted to pick the team up and do as good of a job as I could," Ragatz said. "I want to do the same here and I'd like to become an All-American. I'm not a power hitter. I'm a singles hitter and I set out to help the team as much as I can."

IOWA OPENED ITS season last weekend, going 1-5 in the Cyclone Invitational at Iowa State. Ragatz was the lead-off batter in the tournament and she likes the challenge of being the first batter up.

"I'm a lot more comfortable in the lead-off position," Ragatz said. "That way I can get on base and the No. 3 or No. 4 batters can drive me in."

Ragatz, a physical education major, believes that Iowa has what it takes to be successful this season. "We look very strong," Ragatz said. "We had a lot of errors last weekend and I think that was just because the newcomers have to get used to playing with each other. I think a lot of us had first game jitters."

"It'll be a different story this weekend. I think we'll be able to pull together. We're all going to give 110 percent effort and hope that we'll come out on top."

Women golfers 7th at Ames

By Mike Kent
Staff Writer

Although two players broke 80 Thursday, the Iowa women's golf team is still trying to post four solid scores to put on the scorecard.

Iowa shot a team score of 323, putting them in seventh place after the first round of the Iowa State Invitational at Ames.

Iowa Coach Diane Thomason said the field had to play through a "good, steady rain for an hour-and-a-half." But she wasn't using the poor weather as an excuse. "It (weather) wasn't the best, but we've got to learn to cope with it," Thomason said.

IOWA NEWCOMERS Therese Ehrhart and Mary Kramer had no problems with the weather. Both carded a 79 on the par 73 Veenker Golf Course.

Thomason was especially pleased with the play of Kramer. "I'm tickled to death," Thomason said. "Mary played steady golf and missed only two fairways. That's excellent."

While Kramer was hitting the fairways, Ehrhart's approach shots were just as impressive. Ehrhart reached 12 greens in regulation. But once on the greens, however, Ehrhart wasn't as fortunate, as she had 35 putts. "But Therese made some important putts when she need to make them," Thomason said.

1st round results
Team scores: 1. Minnesota, 311. 2. Oklahoma 'A', 314. 3. Oklahoma 'B', 316. 7. Iowa, 323. Iowa individual scores: 1. Therese Ehrhart and Mary Kramer, 79. 3. Sonya Staibberger, 82. 4. Marcia Pekar, 83.

The Iowa women's tennis team started the fall season in winning fashion Thursday, as the Hawks beat Drake, 8-1, in Des Moines.

Iowa's lone defeat came in the No. 1 singles match. Karen Kettenacker, the Hawks' best player over the past three years, was upset by the Bulldogs' Kathy Jablonski in straight sets.

ladder with Iowa since trying out for the team as a walk-on three years ago.

There are two newcomers to the team this season who Wheeler will be relying on to contribute heavily. They are freshman Michael Clancy, a middle and long distance specialist from Oak Park, Ill., and Mike Dement, a sophomore out of Des Moines.

Listed as the third new face on the Hawkeye running scene is freshman Alex Green, from Sioux City, Iowa.

Wheeler, whose team had an overall record last year of 3-2, has been preparing the Hawks since Aug. 23. "The workouts have gone very well, but we won't know how well we do in actual competition until our first meet. Nobody has looked really outstanding in practice, but we hope someone will step forward on Friday."

The coach also believed that today's contest, which pits the Hawks against Northwestern and Wisconsin at Whitewater, will be a good indication of what to expect for the remainder of the season.

"We should compete well in the Northwestern-Wisconsin meet, but from then on it will be very difficult," Wheeler said. "There's a rocky road ahead of this, and the competition will get very tough. We'll have to see how things go."

BIJOU

Latin American Cinema Series

One Way or Another

A provocative study of relationships during the early years of the Cuban revolution, directed by Sara Gomez Yara. The story focuses on Yolanda, a schoolteacher who tries to put her revolutionary ideals into practice; Mario, a worker whose attraction to Yolanda challenges his old macho ways; and Humberto, Mario's friend, who has nominally accepted the revolution but still tries to live by the old customs. In Spanish with subtitles.

Fri. 7:00, Sat. 9:45

Women in Development and the Bijou will co-sponsor a discussion of One Way or Another in the Ohio State Room immediately following the Friday screening.

Walt Disney's Lady and the Tramp

State-of-the-art animation and anthropomorphism from Walt Disney's glory days. In cinemascope.

On the line

It's doubtful that UCLA fans have been sending in On the Line ballots to The Daily Iowan. But the Bruins are still the solid favorites to defeat Iowa Saturday in Kinick Stadium.

Of the 146 ballots received by the DI sports staff, 119 picked UCLA over the Hawkeyes. Even Northwestern, the Big Ten team that has lost 22 straight games, received more votes. The Wildcats were the choice on 52 ballots, but Utah is still the favorite with 78 votes.

The biggest favorite is Notre Dame. The Fighting Irish were circled on 130 entries, while Purdue was the pick of 16 prognosticators.

INSIDERS SAY THE Notre Dame pick may be a mistake. Purdue has won more football games than any Big Ten team the last three years. The Irish are also coming off an emotional high in the Michigan game.

The toughest game to pick was the Mississippi State-Florida contest. The Bulldogs were the pick on 79 entries, while Florida was marked on 67 ballots.

Drake, which has defeated Big Eight foe Colorado the last two years, was rated an underdog against Kansas State, another Big Eight team. The Wildcats were marked on 94 entries, while Drake received 52 votes.

Readers also say Southern California, the country's No. 1 rated team, will beat No. 2 Oklahoma. The Trojans have 104 votes and the Sooners 42.

NEBRASKA, A 10-7 loser to Iowa Sept. 12, should win its second game of the season. The Cornhuskers are a 103-43 pick over Penn State.

Wake Forest is a solid choice to beat VPI. The readers picked Wake Forest on 117 entries to VPI's 29. Another solid pick is North Carolina State. The Wolfpack is the choice on 102 ballots while 44 picked Maryland.

Texas should have no trouble defeating Miami (Fla.). The Longhorns were a 109-36 favorite. Someone couldn't decide and picked a tie.

This week's guest prognosticator is Iowa Men's Sports Information Director George Wine. He hopes to better Jim Zabel's 7-3 record last week.

The provider of this week's brew is Woodfields.

Volleyball deadlines set

Deadline for women's intramural volleyball registration is Sept. 25 at 5 p.m. in the Recreational Services office, Room 111 in the Field House. Nine teams have registered so far, and the season starts Oct. 5 at the Field House.

The intramural trap shoot deadline is Sept. 29 at 5 p.m. Men's and coed team competition as well as individual shooting will begin Sept. 30 at the Tiffin Gun Club.

Kinetic race held today

The "Coors Kinetic Energy Imagination Race" will be held Sept. 25 at City Park at 4 p.m. The race will be held at City Park with the finish line at the foot of the Union Bridge.

The race involves totally man-powered machines that can run on both land and water. The machines are designed and built by UI students. Color televisions and stereo cassette decks will be giving as prizes to first and second place finishers in the "Costume and Design" category as well as the race.

Coed golf tourney Sunday

The UI coed golf tournament will be held Sept. 27 at 2:30 p.m. on the front nine holes of the UI Finkbine Golf Course. Deadline for entries is 5 p.m. Sept. 25th. Cost is $3 per team and starting time is set for 2:30 p.m. Miller Beer will award trophies to winners.

Juli Kartel, the top spiker for the Iowa volleyball team, serves during a recent Hawkeye practice in the North Gym.

Kartel talented in volleyball, too

By Melissa Isaacson
Staff Writer

Juli Kartel, premier power hitter on the Iowa volleyball squad, hardly limits her talents to volleyball alone. Spiking and "killing" aside, Kartel is also a talented cheerleader.

But let's not stop there. Kartel, a senior, was named Burlington High School's female athlete of the year in 1978, playing basketball, volleyball and cheerleading.

Kartel also competed in gymnastics through the local YMCA, placing second in the state in all-around competition.

AMONG THESE DIVERSE talents, Kartel still remains loyal to one of her first loves, cheerleading. She is employed during the summer months by Dynamic Cheerleader's Association, located in Cedar Rapids. Kartel travels to clinics around the United States during the summer, teaching junior high and high school students the art of cheerleading as she knows it.

During her junior year in high school, Kartel was invited to cheer at the nationally televised Senior Bowl in Mobile, Ala. She was the youngest cheerleader ever asked to perform at the event.

When Kartel arrived at Iowa as a freshman, she tried out for cheerleading and did not make the squad. "I'm really glad now that I didn't make it," Kartel said.

She's glad because it enabled her to play volleyball. The amazing story is that Kartel barely knew what a volleyball was until her senior year of high school. "Right now, I'm disappointed that I didn't have more volleyball experience in high school. I didn't even learn to play until my senior year (the year when Burlington High School started a volleyball team)."

TO WATCH KARTEL in action now, it is hard to believe that she is a virtual newcomer to the game. As a freshman, Kartel did not compete because she was deciding whether to play basketball or volleyball. But her sophomore year, Kartel finally chose to go out for volleyball as a walk-on.

"I was going to go out for basketball, but someone invited me to play volleyball on an Iowa City club team and I liked it, so I thought, why not try out? I'm glad it worked out. It was fate."

It is not fate that is responsible for Kartel being one of the driving forces of the volleyball team. It is sheer talent.

Kartel and her teammates hope she can put some of that talent to use this weekend when the Hawks face stiff competition in the Purdue Quadrangular, Illinois and Indiana join the Hawks and Boilermakers in this year's tournament.

THE HAWKS MUST face perennial power Purdue in their first match Friday night. According to Iowa Head Coach Mary Phyl Dwight, the Hawks are not planning on springing anything new, strategy-wise, on the Boilermakers.

"When you're having trouble doing the things that we do well, struggling with basic errors, you can't worry about making complicated changes," Dwight said. "We're going to approach this as a single game-type thing."

Looking to the Purdue game, Dwight emphasized the Boilermaker's size. Of their nine players, six are returning lettermen, four are over six-foot-tall and the remaining five are 5-9 or taller. Dwight also pointed to the fact that Purdue only carries nine players. She looked at that as an advantage, citing less bench warmers and thus less dissension on the team as a whole.

Freshman Tina Steffen, a junior varsity player for the most part, will be making her first away trip to West Lafayette. The Hawks are still without Liz Jones who has been sitting out because of a question of eligibility, but Dwight is hopeful that she will be back in action next week.

This will be Iowa's first appearance in the Purdue Quadrangular and Dwight said that this should help the Hawks in the Big Ten Tournament later this season at Illinois. "Last year, going into the Big Ten's, we were not exposed to any of those teams before," Dwight said. "This year, we can be more specific in our preparation."

Sentencing for Brown set for today

By Melissa Isaacson
Staff Writer

Iowa football player Jeff Brown, who pleaded guilty to a charge of second-degree burglary Aug. 19, will face sentencing in Johnson County District Court at 10:30 a.m. today.

Brown's playing status for Saturday's Iowa-UCLA game is still in question. According to Kevin Struve, assistant Johnson County attorney handling the case, Brown faces a maximum sentence of 10 years imprisonment and a fine of not more than $5,000.

ALSO POSSIBLE, would be a suspended sentence, in which case, Brown would be placed on probation for a period of two to five years.

The best Brown can hope for is a deferred judgement, in which case, he would likewise be placed on probation for a period of two to five years, but when the probation period is over, the charge would be eliminated from his record.

If Brown gets a deferred judgement or a suspended sentence, in all likelihood, he will be in an Iowa uniform Saturday afternoon.

That decision will apparently rest on Hayden Fry's shoulders.

It will not be Fry's decision though, whether Brown retains his scholarship or not. Confusion over who makes the scholarship decision remains.

ACCORDING TO Big Ten Assistant

Commissioner John Dewey, a UI chief disciplinary officer or committee, is in charge of such matters.

Athletic Academic Adviser Fred Mims said that there is one of two ways such a matter can be handled.

"The university itself could bring disciplinary action against the student or the athletic board could rule on the situation."

The athletic board Mims is referring to is made up of central administrators, faculty members and one student. Their job includes approving appointments, increasing ticket prices, etc.

Mims explained that the Big Ten requires such a committee to exist.

CONCERNING THE Brown case Mims said, "I can't foresee anything coming out of our department unless he receives the maximum sentence (imprisonment)."

Mims also said that when a scholarship is put into effect, it belongs to that student unless he is investigated by the athletic board for some reason. He said that Brown committed the crime before he signed his tender (making the scholarship official for this year). Mims added that "makes a very big difference."

Where does Hayden Fry come in? The head coach does not have the power to grant or take away aid. He does, however, have the power to keep or dismiss an athlete from his team.

Wheeler anticipates higher league finish

By Mark Ballard
Staff Writer

After a ninth place finish in the Big Ten last year, Iowa's Cross-Country Coach Ted Wheeler is trying to build his program back up to respectability. But the 1981 schedule shows no signs of helping the Hawkeyes.

The Hawks have only one home meet this season, Oct. 24, when they entertain Minnesota. One might expect adverse reaction from this. But the coach seems to be taking it all in stride before the first meet today, at the Northwestern triangular.

In fact, he doesn't see the schedule as a big disadvantage at all.

"THE ADVANTAGE to traveling is that you've got the team in a controlled situation," Wheeler said. "The element of traveling is the disadvantage itself, but I don't think it will be a tough pyramid to climb."

This year's roster shows plenty of up perclassmen, six out of 10, which should provide Iowa with some leadership capability. Heading the returning harriers are last year's captain Tom Korb, a junior from Burlington, Iowa, and Matt Trimble, a junior from Iowa City. The lone senior on the squad is Nathan Spencer, a Lake City, Iowa, native.

Field hockey team wins big after hot second half

By H. Forrest Woolard
Assistant Sports Editor

It may take the Iowa field hockey team a little while to warm up, but once the Hawkeyes get going, they're tough to stop.

Just ask any Northern Illinois team member. At halftime in Thursday's game, Northern held Iowa to a respectable 1-0 margin. But in the second period the Hawkeyes exploded for six goals to pick up their sixth win of the season, 7-0.

"They were too tight to begin with," Iowa Coach Judith Davidson said. "We always relax after we're one or two goals ahead."

IOWA'S ONLY first half goal was put in by Ellen Egan, seven minutes, 30 seconds into the period. Anne Marie Thomas brought the ball to the top of the circle before passing off to Egan, who fired in her shot from the right outside corner of the field.

Thursday's rain may have slowed things down a bit in the first half, as neither team was able to mount a threatening attack thereafter.

But the second half was a different story. In fact, Davidson said, she couldn't remember if any of her other teams had ever scored six or more goals in one half.

To start the six-goal scoring spree,

United States squad member Sue Bury powered in a drive off a penalty corner 9:10 into the period. Thomas was credited with the assist.

WITHIN 90 SECONDS, freshman Vickie Sach fired another shot past the Northern goalie. It was obvious from this point on that the Hawks were out to reinforce their No. 8 national ranking.

Sach, still ignited from her last score, pushed in Iowa's fourth goal of the day. Bury was responsible for the assist.

But the freshman from Vestal, N.Y., didn't stop there. Rushing the goalkeeper's pads four minutes later, she recorded her 10th goal of the season, as the Hawks took a 5-0 lead.

Next it was time for the veterans to prove themselves. Thomas, Iowa's leading scorer last season, accounted for the Hawks' final two goals.

This weekend Iowa travels to Toronto where it will face four highly-ranked Canadian teams. Davidson said she is going into the games expecting to win, but that Toronto and York should give the Hawks all the competition they can handle.

York boasts the expertise of the Canadian national coach. "You have to expect them to be tough. Good players usually go where there's a good coach."
