Debts may limit student options

Although students reported that UI, the College of Medicine and the University Law School increased the number of students and that financial aid increased, an analysis of the student's financial aid revealed that the effective financial aid was not enough for many students to continue to finance their education.

Uncertain career goals, money lead students to drop out of UI

Making the decision to drop out of UI is not easy for many students. The decision to drop out can be influenced by financial considerations, career goals, and financial aid. However, financial aid is not the only factor that influences students to drop out of UI.

Rev. Moon pleads innocent

CITY, Iowa—The Rev. Sun Myung Moon, the controversial Reverend who has been described as a "cult leader," was found not guilty in an Iowa court on Wednesday for his participation in a protest against the Vietnam War. The Reverend had been arrested in 1969 for inciting a riot and was later convicted on conspiracy charges.

City, police at odds over pay hike issue

By Elizabeth Flamberg

City and police negotiations were at a standstill on Thursday as both sides failed to reach an agreement over a proposed pay hike. The city council passed a resolution earlier in the week calling for a pay increase for police officers, but the police union has refused to negotiate.

MIA information sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A State Department official on Thursday described the latest update on missing American military personnel in Southeast Asia.

The official said that information on American MIAs is still being gathered, and that efforts are ongoing to locate and recover any remains of American servicemen who may have been killed in action.

Liddy questions juror choice

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Roger Liddy called into question the selection of a juror in a recent federal trial, alleging that the juror did not speak English and covered up for the defendant in order to avoid being dismissed.

Columbia fueling completed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States’ newest fueling facility, located on the Washington National Guard Base near the city of Vancouver, was completed on Thursday.

The facility, which will service Washington National Guard aircraft, is the first of its kind in the state and is expected to help reduce costs and increase efficiency for the Guard.

Grounds to be named in honor of Vietnam War veterans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs announced on Thursday that it will establish a new memorial to honor Vietnam War veterans.

The new memorial, which will be located in Washington, D.C., will feature a statue of a Vietnam veteran and a plaque with the names of all who served in the war.

The UI has invited a U.S. Army spokesman to campus Monday to discuss a new program available for unidentified military personnel.

The official will meet with a variety of faculty members, students and administrators of the University of Iowa, the Iowa City Police Department and the Iowa City Fire Department before taking questions from the media at 4 p.m. Monday in the Union.
Building on floodplain

It is said that every city has a little rain that must fall, but in James A. Clark's case, the city may be too long in being watered.

Clark, a local businessman who owns dozens of Iowa City apartment complexes, last week asked the city to help finance construction of an urban flood plain. Development of the site would force the city to spend $75,000 to move his property.

Because the apartment would be on a flood plain, they would be built an air high. A ton of the lot could be flooded when the creek overflows; the city has stated that it would require that warning sign be posted in the lot.

The Iowa City Council should seriously consider whether it wants to be flooded for the sake of a few investors - by making the move, the city would lose a number of housing complexes, a plan which in turn would force numerous tenants to lose their homes.

Many of the tenants who have lived there for years are not happy with the idea, and the council should try and find a better solution for the problem.

Pressure on Watt

The New York Times

"Watt is what?"

"Aren't you forgetting the word 'American'?

"Well, as for the word 'America,' I never once mentioned it.

"But what about the word 'America?'

"Oh, that's a good point. The word 'America' is used in the song 'America the Beautiful.'

"Can we continue the conversation about Watt now?

"Sure, let's talk about Watt.

IOWA STATE BANK IS OFFERING A TAX-FREE CERTIFICATE

WHAT IS A TAX-FREE CERTIFICATE?

The ALL SAVERS CERTIFICATE will be issued in minimum amounts of $100. Interest on this one-year instrument will be equal to 70% of the average yield for 52-week U.S. Treasury Bills. The current rate is 12.54%.

Interest is tax-free. If you are in the 15% bracket, you will benefit.

WHAT IS THE BENEFIT?

The tax-free interest aspect of these certificates could help you retain more of your earnings. However, depending on your particular tax situation, your result on this investment may not be comparable to the after tax yield on other traditional money market instruments.

Generally speaking, if you are in the 15% bracket or higher, the ALL SAVERS CERTIFICATE could benefit you.

Our Investment personnel would welcome the opportunity to assist you in making this decision.

STILL HAVE QUESTIONS?

Just call your banker at Iowa State Bank. We'd be glad to answer your questions. After all, we're going to be your bank, if we aren't already.

The All Savers Certificate is issued by the I.S.B. and is subject to substantial penalty for withdrawal of the principal before its maturity date. If you do not wish to be bound by the term of this instrument you should not purchase it.

Reagan praised, jabbed at summit

CASUUS, Mexico (UPI) - The president of Mexico expressed deep concern yesterday at a meeting of oil ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) about the oil price slump.

In a press conference here, Mexico's President Adolfo Lopez Mateos said the falling price of oil was a matter of concern to all who depend on it for their livelihoods.

He said that OPEC must take steps to restore the balance of the oil market and that Mexico would support any action necessary to achieve this goal.

The Mexican leader also called for increased cooperation among oil-producing countries to ensure stability in the oil market.

Secretary General of OPEC, Dr. Ahmed Zaki Yamani, said he appreciated the concern expressed by Mexico and other countries but emphasized that OPEC was determined to maintain its production levels to protect the interests of all member countries.

Yamani said that OPEC was committed to the principles of supply and demand and that it would continue to monitor the market closely to ensure that oil prices remained stable.

He also stressed the importance of non-OPEC producers in maintaining the stability of the market and called for greater cooperation and dialogue among all producers.

Lopez Mateos agreed with Yamani's views and said that Mexico would continue to work closely with OPEC and other countries to ensure the stability of the oil market.

The press conference concluded with both leaders emphasizing the need for continued cooperation and dialogue to address the challenges facing the oil industry.

UI Symphony delivers well-defined interpretation of Mahler's "Bolero" characters submerged in the strangeness of swampy life

By Janette Groce

Orchestra music director Jerry Black Boxer often describes his upcoming programs to students who are new to the world of symphonic music. He once said, "Mahler is a great composer, but he is a difficult one to understand."

As the UI Symphony prepares to perform Mahler's "Bolero," one of the most iconic pieces of 20th-century music, Black Boxer is excited about the challenge. "Mahler was a master of creating music that is both familiar and strange," he said. "His use of repetition and his manipulation of orchestral sounds are incredibly innovative."}

The performance will feature several of Mahler's "Bolero" characters, who are "submerged in the strangeness of swampy life," according to Black Boxer. The characters, which include a young, crazy boy who has a better grip on reality than others, a young woman who has lost her memory, and a wise old man who has seen it all, will be brought to life through the use of orchestral soundscapes.

"Mahler's music is a journey into the depths of the human psyche," Black Boxer explained. "It is a journey that is both uplifting and terrifying, but ultimately hopeful."
Disputes settled in football playoffs

By Thomas W. Jorge
Staff writer

Staff members of the UPI football analysts and coaches made decisions concerning the two biggest disputes in college football's first night of the international flag football playoffs. One person has been suspended, and the other has been disqualified.

The first dispute involved the players of the Big Ten who were to play the Big Eight in boots. The Big Ten annulled one of the players on the two teams. Thus, the Big Eight decided to play the game.

According to Mike Warner of the Associated Press, the Big Eight's protest was upheld because "the case was if a player has played with another team, it's an automatic letter.'

Our guest prognosticator this week, former Iowa basketball star Ed McCullough, has a hunch that the Iowa Hawkeyes will be victorious over Minnesota. Of our也许 you'll think the newscaster in the middle of the frame is singing while studying the state map, but we assure you it's not the case. The analyst is simply highlighting the key areas of interest.

Saturday Losing

McCullough said he has heard from Iowa fans that the Hawkeyes will not be allowed to attend the game this weekend and that the fans will not be allowed to attend during Saturday's game.

Saturday Winning

McCullough said he heard Iowa State's coach had seen signs and banners because of "fanatical language" exhibited on the ISU page. The football game was the only one that McCullough mentioned.

Saturday Losing

Another note from McCullough was that he heard Iowa fans would be allowed to attend the game on Sunday.

Harriers hurt by Doak loss

The Daily Iowan

The Iowa women's cross-country team was topped in the Big Ten meet last Saturday by the Indiana Hoosiers. The Hoosiers took three of the top five places, including the first two, in the meet, which was held in Bloomington, Indiana.

Don Sutliffe, head coach of the Harriers, said that the team's performance was not up to par. "We had some good runners, but we just couldn't put them all together," he said. "We were too spread out and couldn't maintain the same pace." He added that he was disappointed with the overall team effort.

Hawks narrowly lose to Purdue

Iowa State University's men's basketball team lost to Purdue University in a tight game on Tuesday night. The score was 73-75 with the Hawkeyes losing by two points.

Coach Bob Knight praised the team's efforts, saying, "Our guys played hard, but we just couldn't get over the hump." He added that the team had a few key players out due to injuries, which may have affected their performance.

Hawk hockey team
defeats Michigan State

The Iowa State University men's hockey team defeated Michigan State University on Saturday night, winning 4-1. The Hawkeyes were led by a solid performance from goalie Tom Smith, who made 29 saves.

Coach Joe Slevin said that the team was pleased with their win, but they know there's still work to be done. "We have a lot of potential," he said. "We just need to focus on our fundamentals and improve our overall play." He added that the team's next game, against Minnesota, will be a big test for them.

Hawk football team concludes season

The Iowa State University football team ended their 1961 season with a 4-6 record. Although the team did not have a successful season, coach Bill Knapp said that he was proud of his players and the hard work they put in.

"We had some ups and downs this year," he said. "But I'm proud of the effort they put in and the way they represented our university." He added that the team would be back in the spring to prepare for the upcoming season.

Iowa hockey tested
doing 12 team

Iowa State University hockey coach Bob Knight said that he was pleased with the performance of his team in the 12-team test.

"Our guys played well," he said. "We had a few close games, but we were able to come out on top in the end." He added that the team had a tough schedule and was glad to get some experience playing against top college teams.
Mudville playoff victory convincing

By Mike Conder

Mudville's 10-0 win over West was the most convincing of the two teams' three meetings this season. Mudville rolled to a 10-0 lead after two quarters and never looked back.

The key to Mudville's victory was their ability to dominate the field of play. Mudville's running game was on point, with their star running back breaking through tackles and making long gains.

Mudville's defense was also a key factor in their victory. They held West to just 32 total yards of offense, including just one first down.

Key players for Mudville included quarterback Mike Seashore, who threw for 120 yards and a touchdown, and running back Steve Dale, who rushed for 130 yards and two touchdowns.

The win sets Mudville up for a possible run at the state championship. They will face top-seeded Delta in the next round.
The offense follows the action of "playing the percentages," then the defense can expect a run play. And since a touchdown is very costly, a defense has a clear advantage when deciding on a play. Therefore, the situation becomes a guessing game for both offense and defense. The more the offense can gamble and make decisions, the better the chance of success.

Since defenses have to either repair Memorial Stadium or build a new one, in turn, they would lose is impossible. The offense is in a clear disadvantage. The only way the defense can stop the offense is to guess.

Since, a running play up the middle is in the best way to go, the defense may gamble and make decisions. The only way the defense can stop the offense is to guess.

Minneapolis officials want a new stadium. It would cost $55 million, which is more money than the state has in its fund-raising projects. The Gophers' athletic director, however, is not sure the state will help fund the new stadium. It is impossible for the state to build a new stadium. The only way the defense can stop the offense is to guess.

Bowls, not Floyd take emphasis

By Bob Daily

For the past 20 years, the Iowa-Minnesota football rivalry has been one of the greatest in college football. The traveling bronze pig that goes to the winner of the game has become a symbol of the rivalry's intensity and tradition. But one could argue that the Floyd running backs in 1957 had more to do with the game's intensity than the traveling pig.

The Hawkeyes, led by Floyd Ten, with a 2-4 record, had begun to lose to the Gophers. Minnesota was the nation's No. 1 team and had already defeated the Gophers by a 20-7 score. But Floyd Ten's 3-2 was the game of the year.

This past week, the Floyd running backs were held in check. The Gophers defense was expected to prevent the Floyd running backs from gaining much yardage.

"We're going to try to run, but we're not going to run as much as we did last week," said Floyd Ten. "We're going to try to pass more, but we're not going to pass as much as we did last week."

"Minnesota's offensive attack is led by quarterback Mike Holmgren. Through six games, Holmgren has passed for 1,849 yards and 12 touchdowns. He has passed for 535 yards on 40 attempts."

"Minnesota's defense is led by safety Fred Yang. Yang has been a key player in the team's success."

A cluster of athletes have followed the high school to junior college route to land on a collegiate football field. Jacobs is one of those athletes, but he did not travel by way of a mid-year visit or a recruiting trip. He tookout staff writer John All and Dave Alt, a 6-foot-7, 243-pound tight end behind junior Larry Ellsworth didn't make him the great player he was. He made him work at becoming a great player

ONE COMMON MISCONCEPTION

When discussing his decision, Ellsworth doesn't make him the great player he was. He made him work at becoming a great player.

Frank Jacobs

have a time. Jacobs said "I think it makes a great difference. Ellsworth has been a lot. A lot of the college athletes have been around with outstanding credentials. All of a sudden, he's wearing a number. He was all over the place, all over the place in Iowa. He was also selected for the 1986 Minnesota state football team.

As a COLLEGE Institution.

All action is all 115 varsity games at right end or on the special teams. Last spring.

John All

When the Hawkeyes and the Gophers square off Saturday in Kinnick Stadium, two key players will be on the field, and they will be watching each other with great interest. The Battle of Iowa 1986 will be a key game for both teams. All of a sudden, he's wearing a number. He was all over the place, all over the place in Iowa.
