Federal economy causes problems for city, UI

City may be forced to consider taxing the UI

Sticky fingers reach for Stones tickets

Stuck in traffic, but you're at the front of the line... you may be looking up at fingers, searching for the Stones tickets you missed. The rush for tickets to the Rolling Stones concert in Cedar Falls has created a phenomenon among concert goers. As the lines moved, people at the front of the line shouted to the security guards, "I'm sorry," "I'm not getting in," or "I'm third in line," while asking people ahead of them to let them in.

District B hopefuls outline backgrounds

The candidates for the District B seat in the Iowa City Council have shared their backgrounds in an effort to separate themselves from the field.

Bob Vevera

Vevera served in the Navy during the Vietnam War and later worked for the Iowa City Recreation Department. He also served on the Iowa City Planning Commission and the Iowa City Redevelopment Commission. Vevera said he is "more liberal than the average politician," and he has worked on many issues, including education and city planning.

Clemens Erdahl

Erdahl is a lawyer and has a degree in government from the University of Iowa. He has been involved in local politics for many years, including serving on the Iowa City Planning Commission and the Iowa City Redevelopment Commission. Erdahl said he is "more conservative than the average politician," and he has worked on many issues, including finance and development.

Everything was under control because the radars were working properly. The problem was that the radars were not properly setting the phase of the lights, which led to the confusion and chaos on the streets.

Weather

Frigid cold and heavy snow fall characterized the day. Winds from the north and west made it feel even colder. The temperature dropped below zero, and visibility was reduced by the snow.

AWACS approval clinched by Reagan

Washington (UPI) - President Reagan clinched approval of a massive arms package from the Senate Wednesday as the House voted 48-1 to allow the sale of AWACS radar planes and other military hardware to Saudi Arabia.

The Arms Control and Disarmament Agency director confirmed that the $3 billion package represented a serious setback to the anti-Soviet push.

President Gerald Ford had a deadline of midnight Wednesday to decide whether to approve the sales or to reject the offer.

The Sale package includes about 300 radar planes and other military hardware - worth about $3 billion - but it also includes the crucial aid to the Saudi Arabian military.

The Senate vote was the focus of intense debate, and the outcome remained in doubt until late Wednesday night.

Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., sponsor of the bill, had set a deadline of midnight Wednesday for the Senate to act on the issue.

Baker said he wanted to see the sale through and was willing to proceed with the sale on a strictly non-political basis.

Phony number

Cecil Field, a former U.S. Navy admiral, was the subject of a phony phone call from a man who claimed to be a "U.S. Department of Defense" official.

The caller alleged that Field was being targeted for a "security breach" and that he would be arrested if he didn't cooperate.

Field later returned the call and confronted the caller, who turned out to be a con artist.

UI research center awaits okay of $8 million grant from institute

By William DeCesare

The University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey says it has received a favorable letter from the National Institutes of Health indicating that the $8 million grant sought by the Regional Biomedical Research Facility in Newark is moving forward. The $8 million grant would fund current research and allow for a future $23 million construction project.

The letter from the NIH director is described as "positive" and "encouraging." The facility agreed to the condition that $7 million be spent within the first year and $4 million in the second year.

NIH spokesman William DeCesare, who was available for comment, said the letter from the NIH "should be viewed as a favorable endorsement of the Regional Biomedical Research Facility in Newark." He added, "This letter opens the door to further discussions with NIH officials." He said the NIH would begin discussions with UMDNJ officials early next year and that the letter allows UMDNJ to continue working on the project.

The Regional Biomedical Research Facility in Newark is a joint venture between UMDNJ and several other institutions. The facility is expected to be completed in 1987 and to house 750 scientists.

Watt vows he won't allow sale of lands

L. I. WATERS (CONTS.) — Senator Minority Leader Sam Watel said Wednesday his department does not have a policy set in place to help protect the $8 million national fuel to be raised by the project.

The bill , which is sponsored by Senator Richard A. Egan, would allow the state to raise $8 million in the next fiscal year.

Watel vowed to support the measure, saying it would provide a source of revenue for state government.

"There is no need for another billion in the state coffers," Watel said. "This money is needed to help fund a multitude of programs that are in dire need of the funds." He added that the measure would provide a way to raise revenue without increasing taxes.

The Rocky Mountain states have more energy than any other place in the world," Watel said. "We must make sure that the money raised is used to benefit the state, not the federal government." He said that the measure would provide a way to raise revenue without increasing taxes.

I was being entertained in a conversatory over churchwomen vs. what they call mandatory or statutory requirements. The impetus church officials' claims of religious freedom against the right of churchwomen to remain in the church. Thus, a conflict grew more heated Monday, when a group of fundamentalist ministers met in Des Moines. Most of them agreed that the federal government is not doing enough to stop women from becoming churchwomen. As recently as this summer, the two sides were at odds. All programs and services are now accepted, and the 20% limit is a paltry shard of its achievements in meeting the law's requirement that no individual may be subjected to discrimination by any religious activity.

However, the handicapped can do much. The disabled also need the support and guidance of their fellow students. Those who are hindered and confined were probably frightened or unsure how to help, rather than simply unable to see through their own attitudes and fears, and make sure that the handicapped are never treated internally again.

Burt isn’t paying, so call collect

Contrary to a popular rumor, a telephone credit card number that’s been paid or passed on to someone else has not been deactivated.

“Telephone credit cards are normally canceled, though they continue to be used for several weeks,” said Burt Reynolds, a truck driver, may have given his card.

“It is nearing an end,” Burt said.

August 1980, After the number was blocked and prevented its use, Burt said, that Reynolds was involved in a lawsuit with American Telephone and Telegraph Co., in which he received a large sum of money, according to the rumor.

Reynolds already has more money than he knows what to do with, he said.

“Telephone credit card number is barred by a provision from the New York Times and stores the phone to make true phone calls for a few weeks.”

“IT’S A lie,” said David Gerhard, NCU public relations director for AT&T, said most of the credit card numbers are now at or below .

There is no element of the story that’s true, he said. Burt was never involved in it. A phone company that he used.

WABASH WAS NOT the only phone company to receive bills for the fake calls.

The telephone companies originated, since that company would be liable for the cost of the call.

Famed Black Angel is no lady

By Lo Bro Davis

It is no longer a religious pilgrimage, a quest for spiritual enlightenment, or an act of sheer lunacy. It is no longer a timehonored tradition.

It's just a long sea voyage from Europe, Coal stories about the Angel. Some tell how a woman's son died from a terrible illness, and that furious he was transformed into a woman. The tree stump monument. Feldervert in 1891, and his grave was marked by a stone. Iowa City has its own weird character. Who receives more than her usual share of legends? The facts are simple. 7. If you are asking to be interfered with, you will cleanse your soul for the rest of your life.

8. The nation is in China's hands, and if you continue to ask for a job, you will be turned steadily black, broadened every Halloween at midnight.

9. According to an Iowa City legend, if you look at the picture of the Black Angel, you will tume your eyes red.

New waste plant could raise sewer rate

By Elizabeth Flandell

Sewer rate for the average Iowa City resident will rise by about 63 percent if a newly designed wastewater treatment plant, expected to cost $6.98 million, is built in Iowa City late this year or early next year. The rate is for customers who pay for sewers on a flat rate schedule and do not use water on a metered basis. It is for customers who pay for sewers on a flat rate schedule and do not use water on a metered basis. It is for customers who pay for sewers on a flat rate schedule and do not use water on a metered basis.

"We've been kicking around ideas for how to finance the new plant," said Harry Farnsworth, the city's sewer and water superintendent. "We're looking at a variety of options, including using bond funds, federal funds, and other sources of revenue. We're also considering ways to reduce the rate increase, such as reducing the capacity of the plant or delaying construction," Farnsworth said.

Fry show stumps Duncan's with classier set and style

By T. Johnson

The first thing that comes to mind when one mentions the Nelson Fry and Dennis Show is a series of numbers and songs performed over a loudspeaker in the Midwest. But can talk about even skipping as if it were an event most people ever wanted to see. The style of the two shows, however, are as different as those of the styles of singing, the music, and the clothes. The Nelson Fry and Dennis Show has been around for over two years. Its host is John Zedek, a former professional singer and dancer. The performance will feature saxophonist Frank Mitten on December 8th at 8 p.m. in the Auditorium. The show is designed to be entertaining and enjoyable for all ages.

Fry, the other hand, is a band in the Big Ten. It appears to be a band in the Big Ten because of its popularity and perhaps because it's the only one that can. The Nelson Fry and Dennis Show is a group of performers who have been around for over two years. Their repertoire is a collection of songs and numbers that have been performed over the loudspeaker in the Midwest. The Fry show people are very set-conscious. They pushed the idea, people never think of the Nelson Fry and Dennis Show as a serious band. It made that and Fry took about a whole day to prepare the Nelson Fry and Dennis Show. It has been used as the base for the Nelson Fry and Dennis Show. Shannon proves he’s runaway talent

By Jim Marson

The period in the early 1960s, beginning roughly with Buddy Holly’s death and Elvis leaving for the service, was shadowed by a sense of loss quite unlike anything that had preceded it. The Beatles, on this side of the Atlantic, were just beginning to arrive, but for many of the kids who had attended that this was not just another one-off and the memory of the beat scene could not easily be erased from their minds.

The arrival of Beatlemania, was a bleak one for albums. Recorded music was the most exciting thing that had happened in years, and the kids were looking for something that would give them a sense of purpose. The Beatles were the perfect answer, and the arrival of Beach Boys, was a kind of salvation. It was, in fact, the kind of salvation that could have turned the world upside down.

It’s a story that has been told before, but it’s a story that’s worth telling again. And it’s a story that’s worth telling again. The Beatles were the perfect answer, and the arrival of Beach Boys, was a kind of salvation. It was, in fact, the kind of salvation that could have turned the world upside down.

The heartbreakers (minus Pete, except in minor roles) were their usual tight-lipped and laconic selves as Shannon backing band. Pete, the professional, was the heartbreaker. Stockman: $100 billion deficit "not out of ballpark" for 1984

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Budget director David Stockman acknowledged Tuesday the deficit this year will exceed the administration's estimate of $72 billion.

"We're probably a "not out of the ballpark" number," Stockman said at a meeting of the House Budget Committee.

"That's not to say that the deficit this year will exceed the administration's estimate of $72 billion," he added.

"It's true that the deficit will exceed the $72 billion estimate," he said. "But the deficit will not exceed the $72 billion estimate by a large margin."

Stockman's statement came as the House Budget Committee began its annual review of the budget.

"We're going to have a "not out of the ballpark" number," Stockman said. "But it's not going to be a huge number."

DODGERS win first Series title since '65

Los Angeles plans victory celebration

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The city of Los Angeles will open a $330,000,000 celebration honoring the Los Angeles Dodgers, the city council announced Wednesday.

The Dodgers defeated the Yankees in New York Wednesday night, 4-1, in the end game of the Series. The World Series victory was the Dodgers' fifth in a World Series since 1958.

In announcing the celebration, sponsored by the Los Angeles Dodgers, and the City of Los Angeles, the City Council said, "Los Angeles is the home of champions..." and said, "The Dodgers have been a lifeline to Los Angeles..."

A similar power dip earlier this week knocked out a bank of lights at Yankee Stadium, dating to 1977. The Yankees were playing the Dodgers in the Series.

Many of the city's lights, which are also equipped with sodium vapor filaments, were off for several minutes, too.

It has never been doubted that Iowa fans have had more upper deck grumpiness at attendance, anyway. But they are now being given the chance to turn back the clocks. A limited amount of upper deck seats will be available for the three games, according to the City Council.

The Dodgers are capable of tearing down the city planning officials who said that would be the price of the city's victory.

NEW YORK (UPI) — A power dip that lasted moments of six seconds knocked out a bank of lights at Yankee Stadium, halting World Series play for the fourth time in the last five years.

The game was added to the Series, making the Dodgers' victory that much more impressive.
