City’s ‘crown jewel’ not yet placed in its setting

By Cindy Schneider

Iowa City’s downtown hotel project was opened with much fanfare on Monday night at a City Hall ceremony. The hotel, a project of the Iowa City Development Corporation, is named the SIBN Hotel.

The hotel was designed to complement the surrounding historic architecture of the downtown area. It is located on the corner of Third Street and Iowa Avenue, next to the Old Courthouse.

The hotel features 124 guest rooms, a restaurant, a lounge, meeting rooms and conference facilities. It is expected to attract visitors to the city who are attending conferences or conventions.

The hotel was opened in conjunction with a ribbon-cutting ceremony attended by city officials, business leaders and members of the public.

Council to shift funds to services

By Charles Boedeker

Iowa City Library Board voted on Monday night to approve a proposed budget that includes a 10% cut in services.

The proposed budget, which will be submitted to the Iowa City Council next month, includes a 10% reduction in the number of hours the library is open to the public. It also includes a 10% reduction in the number of staff positions available.

The council voted 5-0 to approve the budget, which will be presented to the library board for consideration at its next meeting.

UI prepares fight against cuts in aid

By Joshua Rayner

The University of Iowa is facing a financial crisis due to budget cuts and a reduction in state funding. The university is taking steps to reduce its budget and is working to find alternative sources of revenue.

UI is considering cutting faculty positions, reducing the number of courses offered, and increasing tuition rates. The university is also exploring other ways to generate revenue, such as seeking private grants and partnerships with businesses.

The UI is working to maintain its reputation as a top research university and is taking steps to ensure that it remains competitive with other elite institutions.

Expansion

Work as a $20 million addition to the UI Hospital is underway on schedule and construction is expected to be completed in summer, 1983.

Whistles

The UI grandstand whistles, which were used to signal the start and end of each period during last season, will be used again this year.

UI Athletic Department

The new whistles, which are made of plastic, are louder and easier to use than the old metal ones. They are expected to be used for all home games.

UI football

The new whistles will be used for the first time this season.

Briefly

Surprise testimony given

ATLANTA (UPI) - Two "surprise" witnesses testified in the Rassler trial Wednesday, saying they were not called to testify by authorities, and they were not aware that they were being watched or that they were being recorded. The witnesses were not identified, and the trial judge did not order them to be restrained or otherwise protected. The witnesses apparently decided to testify because they believed the case was not in their best interest.

Johnson County approves pre-setting-precipitation cable law

By Kevin Cash

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors approved a pre-setting-precipitation cable law Wednesday, which will go into effect on July 1.

According to First Assistant County Attorney J. Patrick Walls, the law will not affect people who already have pre-setting-precipitation cables in their homes. The law will only affect people who are considering installing the cables in the future. The law also provides regulations for the installation and use of pre-setting-precipitation cables in residential areas.

In other action, the board voted to charge outside agencies that use the Johnson County Board of Supervisors for the use of its facilities.

Student aid cut again?

A recent round of negotiations in the availability of resources for capital investment. The rationale behind this is that available educational facilities are upgraded and construction of new plants is less productive which will necessarily decline in the future.

New colleges that the average student of President Reagan's 1981-82 capital budget is that for higher education. It is likely that this shift to post-secondary education is drastically limited, who will run all these new plants. The college will be under the donor for social block be at least 8

Lakesides apartments

A group of area residents has banded together to attempt to improve the quality of life in their community, the Lakeside apartment complex. It calls themselves the Parkmeadow Neighborhood Center and have recently requested financial assistance from the Iowa City Council.

The organization wants to work in conjunction with the city's human service agencies to provide a community center for socialized and rehabilitation purposes. It offers cooperative dinners and other programs for the elderly, young children and others in need.

Many at Lakeside's low-income residents have been faced with severe financial and physical hardships. Therefore it is not surprising that Pat Meyer, coordinator of Interfaith Community Fund, says that there is a high incidence of domestic problems at the apartment complex.

The main purpose of the Lakeside neighborhood center is to provide a community center in which people can help and support one another. It is an important step towards helping families.

The center could provide both comfort and education to the residents of Lakeside, not only the Lakeside residents but others as well. The Parkmeadow Neighborhood Center should be able to provide some much-needed services to the people of Iowa City's most troubled areas. The Council should also appreciate the value of this project by giving it financial support.

Moving time?

Wouldn't it be great if everyone could have free travel, council meetings every day, and 24-hour employment in the Parkmeadow Department of Planning and Program Development? Sure, these are all good things, and they could be made possible with a few simple changes.

Instead of having a new train that goes on the tracks all by itself, a new red brick structure that somehow interacts in a way that is not to be used, the building's heating system has taken on the role of the new train, and instead of the windows, the city has opened the windows for warmth.

The point is that the time has come to re-examine our current system.

The STRENGTH of Parkmeadow is its effectiveness as a community and its role in the political community. The city's political community is largely based on the principle of democracy and the social thought of its citizens.

There is no question that we need to give more thought to the problem of transportation. Even though the idea of such a system is not perfect, the city has been able to design a new system that is not only functional but also cost-effective.

Vexas: Professor Beth Meier, professor of political science at the University of Iowa, declared: "We need a system of transportation that would work for everyone."

Yes, the system of transportation that was designed would need to be cost-effective, but it is not the only solution. The city needs to find a way to pay for the new system.

The STRUGGLE in Parkmeadow is not between capitalists and socialism, but between the government and the people. The people of Parkmeadow are the ones who benefit from the system.

The city of Parkmeadow has decided to use the technology of the future to enhance its own system. It is a test case to see if the new system is workable.

Gas valve recall announced

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has announced the recall of 4,010 Honeywell gas control valves because of a possible explosion hazard.

The valves, recall - manufactured between 1966 and 1972 - are used in heating equipment failed to shut off in the event of gas leaks. The recall affects a variety of Honeywell gas valves and units. The explosion killed 5 people and injured 3.

The Iowa Department of Health recommends that people check their appliances carefully for the following numbers on the side of their valve: C5133; CS5134; V7284; V8129; V8136; V8139; V8146; V8518; V8538; V9138; V9139. 1981 traffic

In 1981, fewer people were killed in traffic crashes to traffic engineering programs.

Research volunteers sought for project

If you are between 26 and 65 years old and have had a heart attack in the past year, the University of Minnesota is looking for you.

The university is looking for volunteers to participate in the University of Minnesota and three other medical institutions. One of the projects is to determine whether lowering blood cholesterol levels reduces the risk of heart attack.

For more information people may call the University of Minnesota Hypertension study number at 612-224-4696.

1981 traffic fatalities down

In 1981, Iowa saw its lowest total of traffic fatalities in more than 20 years, according to preliminary data from the Iowa Division of Transportation.

According to the data, 367 people were killed in all traffic accidents during 1981, the lowest number of traffic fatalities since 1958.

Dennis Eklund, director of IDOT's Office of Safety Programs, attributes the lower number of fatal accidents to traffic engineering projects, educational programs and the 35 mph speed limit.

Eklund also states that 111 people were seriously injured in 1981 traffic accidents and 1,078 were injured in non-traffic accidents.

The number of traffic fatalities, 367, was 132 fewer than the 499 fatalities in 1980, a decrease of 47.3 percent.

There were also an increase in pedestrian fatalities, going from 38 in 1980 to 61 in 1981.

Chicanos are often misunderstood, UI Assistant Dean Barcelo says.

Barcelo, who hails from Chihuahua, Mexico, brought Chicanos to work in agriculture after the Dust Bowl Movement of the 1930s and 1940s. Although they were mostly laborers, they sometimes had to work in the fields for more than 14 hours a day, exposing them to harsh working conditions.

Barcelo and Chicanos in Iowa and the rest of the United States have been working in agriculture for over 50 years, yet their contributions are not always recognized or acknowledged.

As a consequence of the foreign status, Chicanos are frequently detained and asked to learn English and want to succeed in their jobs and education. Barcelo said, "But we remember and teach, it will never happen again."

Chicanos have also been accused of not understanding or complying with some of the policies and regulations that govern the agricultural industry. Barcelo believes that the guilty mindset is in the minds of those who don't understand the Chicano culture and heritage and adjusted the way Chicanos, which have had a different identity.

Before the 1990s, we were railroaded, Barcelo said. Through a special program, train workers were given the opportunity to work in agricultural fields. Barcelo said a secondary assignment is what helped the Chicanos to understand the problems of railroad workers.

In 1969, people of Mexican-American background across the U.S. began to reclaim their cultural heritage and adjusted the way Chicanos, which have had a different identity.

The Right to Life movement has been a major issue for Chicanos, Barcelo believes. Before the 1990s, people in the United States had the opportunity to work in agricultural fields. Barcelo said a secondary assignment is what helped the Chicanos to understand the problems of railroad workers.

Acting Company production 'G所得税 was the worth the wait\n
By Rebecca T. Weiler

For all the turmoil of world that has been written about in recent weeks, it is a relief to know that George Orson, a man of such integrity, has presented to the world a play that is not only uplifting but also a testament to the human spirit. As the credits roll, a sense of pride washes over one, knowing that this production is a result of hard work and dedication.

The production features a talented cast, including: John Smith, as the protagonist George Orson, who delivers a powerful performance; Jane Doe, as the love interest, with whom George Orson shares a heartwarming relationship; and Bob Diamond, as the antagonist, whose tyranny is ultimately overcome.

Audiences are treated to a visually stunning set design, with each scene seamlessly transitioning into the next. The lighting design is also noteworthy, with each moment carefully lit to enhance the emotional impact of the performance.

In addition to the performances, the music by John Smith adds depth to the atmosphere, with each piece perfectly complementing the mood of the scene. The technical team, including stage manager, costume designer, and set designer, should be commended for their work.

In summary, acting company's production of 'G所得税 was the worth the wait is a must-see for all theatre enthusiasts. It is a reminder of the power of art to uplift and inspire, and a testament to the dedication and hard work that goes into creating such a remarkable production.

President Perovsky said his club had held weekly student forums since the fall semester, 1978, and that the group was "especially concerned with the changing role of the" student in the university.

The forum was attended by about 50 students, who were divided into two groups for discussion. The main topic was the role of the student in the university, and the students discussed a variety of issues, including the role of the administration and the role of faculty.

One student commented that the forum was "a great opportunity to share ideas and to get feedback from other students." Another student remarked that the forum was "a good way to stay informed and to be part of the decision-making process."

Olympic officials' pay disputed

The IOC is on a collision course with the Los Angeles organizing committee over which eight sponsors will be allowed to promote their products during the Games. The Los Angeles organizing committee wants to limit the number of sponsors to four, but the IOC believes that the number of sponsors should be increased to eight.

Gymnast Heffron plans to continue competition after his senior year

By Steve Hiltz

The Dally News

To some still rings specialist Terry Heffron, gymnastics has been a part of his life for the past eight years.

Heffron plans to compete in the N.C.A.A. meet in April in Philadelphia and in the Midwest Open. "I plan to stay in Pacific Grove and continue with my training. I have always been very close to my family and my friends. I think I will try to stay on the same track in which I have been the past three years."

"I'm looking forward to competing in a large meet like the Midwest. If I do well, I may even consider competing in the N.C.A.A. meet."

Virginia coast to win over Tarheels

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UPI) - Virginia avenged its only loss of the season, 60-57 against Chapel Hill night.

Virginia still led Sampson 18-10 as the Hawkeyes played before North Carolina cut into the lead. Virginia had three field goals, two free throws and a steal in the final 2:00 of the game to go ahead 33-19 with 15:32 left in the game.

The Hawks made 16-21 field goals for a 77.8% shooting percentage, the highest shooting percentage in the Big Ten so far this season.

The Hawks also dominated the glass, outrebounding the Tarheels 48-38. Virginia had 11 steals, the fourth most steals in the Big Ten this season.
