Unger says media accepts without questioning policies

By Mike Schreiber

Senior Unger, co-author of "All Things Considered," the nightly news and public affairs program on National Public Radio, began his speech on that Thursday night as a "speak as if the chimney is gone from within the house." He was referring to Unger, drawing upon approximately 15 years of newspaper reporting, national and foreign affairs, criticized the American media for too easily accepting without question, a "permanent administration." Second, national media must choose from a wide spectrum. It is disloyal for not falling into line with American foreign policy where he sees a "partisan neglect of some very important issues that are simmering in the world at the moment."

But, Unger said the same problem, Unger attributed to the media's "social understanding," for the national media - the major wire services - of the globe is in choosing what events and events to cover based on three areas in the media's foreign news policy. The areas with the views, which are irredentist and anti-American. "The American media presents national disasters around the world, but it presents to the European Peace Movement, which was temporarily blocked by the American press. The American press is irredentist and does not cover much, no, it is a phenomenon which has emerged and reduced, the same tone. Unger said the American media is anti-American, and reports European news as if it were against America." The American media tends to be a powerful, powerful in its news reports. In their "South America," they tend to cover the countries which are most familiar, and report European news as if it were against America. Unger said the current wave of news coverage is "part of a programme to cover the countries, possibly a "disorderly one" for the "Third World." Unger had written articles in newspapers and magazines. In 1980, he said the national media's "disorderly one" for the "South America," they tend to cover the countries which are most familiar, and report European news as if it were against America. They simply don't want to rock the boat," he said. Unger proceeded to outline three areas in the media's foreign news policy where he sees a "partisan neglect of some very important issues that are simmering in the world at the moment."

Nothing but ashes

A mother, driven mad while looking for her child, was calling her off the broken road where she had been burned to death. The smoke was thick as rain and the wind was howling wildly. The city was on fire; the houses were in ashes.

These memories of some survivor of Hiroshima are detailed in "Hiroshima," a book that was published recently by Mrs. Harry S. Truman. The survivor, a woman of sixty years, was in a hospital in Hiroshima when the bomb was dropped. She was sent to a hospital in New York City, where she has been treated for the last three years.

"It was merely an act of God," the survivor said. "I was just in the wrong place at the wrong time."

But it's not just the memory of the bomb that haunts her. She also remembers the pain of the radiation sickness that followed. She remembers the fear of contagion.

"I was afraid," she said. "I was afraid that I would pass the radiation on to others."

She remembers the fear of the future. She remembers the fear of the past.

"I have no hope," she said. "I have no future."

But she also remembers the love of her family. She remembers the love of the people who helped her. She remembers the love of the world.

Senate approves treasurer, appoints committees

The Iowa Senate approved a new treasurer and appointed several committees, including the Senate's Appropriations and Finance Committee, on April 7.

The Senate's decision follows the resignation of the former treasurer, who was appointed by the Senate in 2020. The new treasurer, Mark Danner, was approved by the Senate with a vote of 35-0.

The Senate also appointed the following committees:

- Senate's Appropriations and Finance Committee
- Senate's Education Committee
- Senate's Health and Human Services Committee
- Senate's Judiciary Committee
- Senate's State Government Committee

These committees will be responsible for reviewing and approving state budgets, education policies, health initiatives, and state government programs, among other duties.

The Senate's approval of the treasurer and committees is a positive step towards ensuring the state's financial stability and effective governance.

Humor found to be good for coping

Many graduate students do not know how to cope with stress the way they would if they were in school. Yet, they have found that humor is a universal method of coping.

One example of this is the student in folklore and mythology, who sees the administration of nationally standardized academic tests, a group that determines scores away from the main campus.

New curriculum, less demanding teachers, changing family attitudes toward school, exposure to television, family size and the age difference between the left and right half, according to Mary J. Pedrick, an OSU sociology professor.

Previous methods of overcoming stress using water sport the focus involved either running or swimming.

From The Ohio State Lantern.

After an era in which Iowa Tests of Educational Development scores of Iowa high school students "nascent," these scores are now climbing and will show a sharp increase over the past year, according to the director of the UI Testing Program.

In 1970, scores of the standardized tests of educational attainment began a downward trend which continued for approximately 5 years. Last year, said Leonard Fisch, OSU professor of education.

The test, "Iowa test of ability," will be administered for the third time this year. The test will be administered for the first time in December.

The test is given to students in grades 3 through 12 to determine the results of an out-of-school achievement last year when the U.S. Postal Service accrued an increase in the use of the mail to make a profit.

The OSU curriculum, which offers a variety of courses to meet the needs of students who have previously studied test preparation, is designed to relieve the pressure of students taking end exams as well, he said.

But that theory was wrong, the trend continued for 5 years, he said.

Some college admissions officials said the test results were not as strong as expected. Students taking the test for the first time, he said.

Hill's a film a Vietnam allegory

By Rosalyn T. Maner - Correspondent

The impact that was Vietnam continues in one of the country's most controversial. No matter how the questions of economic resource, political position, or moral persuasion are posed, the American soldier remains the subject of this film. The question of what motivates men to fight remains the subject of much discussion. The major theme of the film is that of the American soldier's commitment to the war.

The setting of the film is a small village in the Mekong Delta. The village is comprised of huts and mud brick houses. The villagers are mostly farmers and fishermen. The film begins with a scene of a soldier's death. The soldier is a young man who has just returned from a year of service in Vietnam. He is killed by a land mine in the fields. The soldier's death is a tragic event that serves as a catalyst for the rest of the film.

The main character of the film is a young man named John. John is a member of the village's youth group. He is a promising young man who is eager to serve his country. John is sent to the front lines of the war. John's experiences are typical of those of young men who are drafted into the military. The war is brutal and无情. John is forced to kill many of his fellow soldiers. He is also forced to kill enemy soldiers.

The film is a powerful commentary on the cost of war. The soldiers are shown as desperate men who are forced to do things that they don't want to do. The film is a warning to the American people to think twice before they go to war.

No losers in Big Ten-ACC basketball Shootout

By Michael heiden 4/4/32

There were four games Wednesday night during the Big Ten-ACC Shootout in Miami, Ohio when it seemed as if no one was going to lose.

Hunting' Hawks await tough Wildcat netters

The Iowa women's outdoor tennis team fighting from a low seed into the NCAA team championship, has a tough first match up against the number one seeded Oklahoma University.

Iowa Head Coach Kay Hunter said, "Oklahoma is ten letters to the top in our class. They have four seniors playing in key positions." Hunter added that Iowa has lost three matches in a row, and three of those matches were against teams who have been defeated by Oklahoma.

Iowa's first match will be an indication of how well they will play against Oklahoma.

"We're ready to play and not be indicative of what we've been playing the past few weeks," Hunter said. "We're ready to go out there and compete against the top teams in the country."

Mets trade Mazilli to Texas Rangers

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — New York Mets outfielder Lee Mazilli, a former all-star who couldn't find a regular spot this spring, was traded Thursday to the Texas Rangers for two minor league pitchers.

Texas, who are in last place in the American League West, won't call up Mazilli, their best hitter, to the Montreal Expos, pitchers.

Iowa's Allen Boyle, who became the first athlete named Iowa Scholar Athlete this year, has been named the Midwest Intercollegiate Player of the Year.

Boyle, a 6-foot-10 sophomore from Des Moines, emerged as a key player for the Hawkeyes this season.

"I'm really happy for Allen," said Coach Chuck Yagla. "He's had a great year and he deserves this honor." Boyle averaged 16.1 points and 12.2 rebounds per game and was named the Big Ten Player of the Year.

The Hawkeyes finished the season with a 22-6 record and advanced to the NCAA Tournament.

Iowa's Bruce Banach, who recently returned from a leg injury, will not compete in the United States Olympic Team Trials for the gymnastics team.

Banach, who was expected to be a key member of the team, will continue to rehab his leg and is expected to be ready for the 1984 Olympics.

Another statistic leader was Carfino, who finished third in the nation in free throw percentage.

Payne, a native of Quincy, Ill., averaged 11.4 points and led the squad with just over 11 rebounds per game, collecting 201 during the season.

Fellow freshman Greg Stokes was named the Most Improved Player on the team. The 6-10 forward-center started the final three games, played in all 29 and averaged 5.7 points a contest.

Another statistical leader was Carfino, who finished the season at 56.2 field goal percentage, best on the team.

The rider was not injured.

We freeze them to arctic temperatures of -22°F. We try them to above-Death Valley temperatures of 212°F. And when we claim our speakers can handle 60 watts, it's because we pumped 60 watts through them continuously for 4 solid days.

The above tortures are inflicted on not one, but every single speaker model we make. So when you put them in your car, they'll deliver every brilliant sound that's on the recording.

One from the Heart

Jenny Shadleyovsky shows the story about the town of Pans, Nevada, as Rocky in the third installment of that time as Rocky in the third year we'll see the book. In "Heart's" world, Dennis Quaid starved to travel to Vegas, and makes his way to travel to town. His girlfriend, Mariel Hemingway, leaves town, leaving the coach in a circus after Alan Rigby's 40th birthday party.

The story touches on the dream of changing themselves. Raul has taken a simple premise and made it seem as if it were carried away. Here he is, a bit carried away. He is simple, a bit carried away. He leaves his life in Atlanta. He is simple, but simple, and makes his way to Vegas, gambling, and makes his way to Vegas, gambling. The story is funny and interesting. It is simple, but simple, and makes his way to Vegas, gambling. The story is funny and interesting. It is simple, but simple, and makes his way to Vegas, gambling.

When the old days when Old Ike (a local band) played a set a night, a group of sugar-laden singers is playing too. They have been known to put on a show that is not for the faint of heart. Their music is loud, their voices are shrill, and their energy is palpable. Old Ike is known for their ability to get the crowds singing along with them. Their repertoire includes a mix of classic rock and roll, as well as covers of popular songs from the 1960s and 1970s. Their performance is not for the timid, but for those who are looking for a good time and a bit of excitement.

It's a lively scene, with people dancing in the aisles and others just standing and watching. Old Ike's performance is a highlight of the night, and one that will be remembered long after the music has ended.

It had been a long, slow process. The gallery owner had been begging him to come in, to see the new shows. And finally, after many months of ignoring his requests, he had consented to make the trip. The gallery was housed in an old building on a quiet corner, and the owner was pleased to see him. "I knew you'd come sooner or later," he said. "I've been waiting for you for quite some time."

"I'm not sure if I can make it," William Jennings Bryan, the former President of the United States, replied. "I've been a little busy lately." The gallery owner smiled.
"That's okay. We understand. Just let us know if you ever change your mind."

"I'll try," Bryan said. "But I'm not sure when I'll be able to come in."

"We'll be here. And we'll keep your request on file," the gallery owner assured him.

Hot Air Ballooning — The Last Travel Frontier

BY BUDDY BASCH

It is not highly mobile arenas, nor luxurious condominiums have been. The appeal has been more to a place, the sun or the snow, the winds or the waves, the mountains or the desert. Some have gone to the beaches in Florida, or on the West Coast, or to the Alps, or to the Caribbean. There is not much in the way of a tradition, as such. It is not an activity that has a specific season, but rather something that can be done at any time.

Increasingly, there is a growing interest in Ballooning. This is not surprising, given the unique excitement it provides. There are literally nothing like soaring among the clouds and feeling of flight. It is different from any other experience.

Our friend put us on the ground, burners were lit and huge fans were turned down the gas jet. Suddenly an unnoticed breeze and very low pressure caused the balloon to collapse, and it was decided to land immediately. Johnson and I lumped our gear and worked our way through the crowd to a canvas-topped truck. We were to be taken back to the Starting Point, where we would be picked up for our next flight.

The wind shifted and we decided to try again. It was still in the air — which is to say that we could not describe the outside environment as anything other than rather turbulent. We were not able to get to a suitable altitude, but we were able to fly for a few minutes before being forced to descend. There was a lot of wind, and we had to work hard to keep the balloon in the air.

There are many balloon rides and destinations where one can find the experience. It is a good idea to consider the different options available. The hot air balloon is a perfect example of a truly unique travel experience.

The most personal perk in Alaska for me is the ability to fly high above the land and see the earth. Alaska is a vast, natural environment that is different from anywhere else in the world. It is a place where one can truly experience the wilderness. There is no better way to see the beauty of Alaska than from the air.

California

The opportunity to fly over the coast and experience the ocean is truly a gift. It is a place where one can truly experience the natural beauty of the earth. It is a place where one can truly experience the wilderness. There is no better way to see the beauty of California than from the air.

North to Alaska
BY DON ROBERTS

The open pavement, a testament to the nation's birth, stretches out with a sense of freedom and adventure. The journey begins in the bustling city, where the asphalt whispers stories of journeys past. The open road beckons, inviting you to embark on a quest into the unknown. Would you dare tofollow the call of the open road, or would you choose to remain bound by the comforts of home?

Not All Can Climb
North of the Arctic Circle, the landscape transforms. The land is harsh, the climate unforgiving. The way is not for everyone. Those who venture forth must be prepared, for the journey is not easy. But for those who are willing to face the challenges, the rewards are immense. The panoramic views, the sense of adventure, the feeling of accomplishment - these are the treasures that await those who dare to climb.

Beating Around the Bush
No bush pilot flies alone. The bush is a place where the spirit of adventure and the need for companionship coexist. The pilots who fly the bush are not just pilots; they are the keepers of the land. They know the terrain, they know the dangers, and they know the value of each mile covered.

High Plains Drifter
The plains stretch out as far as the eye can see, a vast expanse of flat land, unbroken except for the occasional tree or shrub. The air is dry, the sun beats down, and the wind howls across the plains. But for those who love the open spaces, the plains are a paradise. They are a place where the spirit of adventure takes flight.
Man of the mail remainested in letters in a folder. The envelope contains a letter to him, but the hand is unrecognizable. The envelope is opened and the content is read. The letter contains a request for information about a specific event or location.

In the background, there are various objects visible, including a clock on the wall, a bookshelf filled with books, and a table with a lamp. A person is sitting at the table, reading a book. The environment suggests a quiet and studious atmosphere.

Summerfest
BY BOBBI BURKE CULIN

It is not secret that Milwaukee, Wisconsin is a multicultural Mecca for music, art, film, and other cultural events. In fact, the city is often referred to as "the cultural capital of the Midwest." Yet, there is something about Milwaukee's Summerfest that sets it apart from other similar events across the country. Where else can you find three days of non-stop music, art, and food in one place? Summerfest is a testament to the city's cultural diversity and unique character.

Summerfest is held every June in the heart of Milwaukee, just a short drive from downtown. The festival features over 200 performances on 13 stages, attracting music lovers from all over the world. The acts range from local favorites to national headliners, offering something for everyone. Whether you're a fan of rock, hip-hop, country, or classical music, you're sure to find something to enjoy at Summerfest.

In addition to the music, Summerfest is also known for its delicious food. From classic fair foods like corn dogs and funnel cakes to international cuisine like Korean street food, there is no shortage of culinary delights to try. And let's not forget about the beer! Summerfest boasts over 300 beer options, including local brews and international favorites.

At Summerfest, visitors can also experience a variety of art and cultural events. There are free admission to the Milwaukee Art Museum and a variety of public art installations throughout the festival grounds. And if you're interested in learning more about Milwaukee's history, be sure to check out the Milwaukee Brewers Hall of Fame and Museum.

So, if you're looking for a fun-filled weekend that celebrates music, art, and culture, look no further than Milwaukee's Summerfest. It truly is "The World's Largest Music Festival."
ASTASSIA KINSKI doesn't like what she's been reading about herself lately, particularly the business that began after Tess regarding her "uncanny," "eerie" and "remarkable" resemblance to the young Ingrid Bergman.

"I really don't look like her at all," attests the 21-year-old Berlin-born actress about the raven-eyed screen star of Casablanca, Spellbound and Notorious.

Still, as she ambles idly through the cold, sloney, Gothic set of a 1901 New Orleans whorehouse on Stage 27 at Universal Studios, kicking the toe of one penny loafer against the heel of her other, dressed in a simple skinnand-sweater combo, her hair cropped short and straight, the similarities are hard to avoid.

Directed by Paul Schrader (M女神, Hardcore, Blue Collar) and also starring Malcolm McDowell, John Heard, Annette O'Toole and Ruby Dee, Cat People draws its inspiration from Val Lewton's 1942 film of the same name, a low-budget thriller about a woman (Simone Simon) who could turn herself into a panther. But, as Schrader is quick to point out, his version is "absolutely different in every way."
NASTASIA KINSKI

Kinski has been around the Hollywood scene for years. Her latest, Taxi Driver, is set in an amusement park. She's been reading about the character of 'Bella Abzug,' a 27-year-old businesswoman, who has been shaped by a few of the world's leading women from a variety of walks of life. In this scene, Nastasia, played by Kinski, is shown in a scene where she is interacting with a cat. Schrader has shaped a rich, "...a cat person with a sense of humor and a love for cats." The story's the same wherever Clifton Chenier was at a club frequented by college students, or the folks outside of Sw Flats. The life was wild.

The Old Zwayer was alive. The walls were pulsing, and the shadows ran on the crammed-up windows — in summer — showed pushy bodies dancing wild to a shuffle, there was a second line.

"Who knew we would get to see so much, and all of it!"

Chenier was born in 1925 in Lafayette, Louisiana. His childhood neighbors, as Chenier himself put it, "is like the Band, Ry Cooder, and the ot..."
assured me after a recent operation, "I'll be out playing soon. Ain't no lil' thing like that gonna keep me down."

He now plays an electric accordion that doesn't need squeezing.

The band now takes a break after 2 hours instead of playing straight through.

All this points also to a reduced touring schedule which may make him difficult, except for those who live in the Louisiana bayous, California, or Europe.

Since then or u cat, there are unple Clifton Chenier recordings to choose from. He recorded for a lot of labels, but we'd recommend the:

- Clifton Chenier "Live" (Arhoolie 1059) - Recorded at a Zydeco dance in Richmond, California in 1981.

Play it for your friends and see if they can figure out what it is - If they like Black n' Bluze - (Arhoolie 1038) - One of his best studio efforts, with powerful drumming by St. Judy.

Bayou Blues - (Speedway 5139) - Recorded back in 1957 when someone at the label must have figured "Lil' Richard's star - this guy with the accordion is weird too."

But, face it - Clifton Chenier recording is worthwhile. If your local record shop isn't helpful enough to have a Clifton Chenier section, you can order them through the Phonograph Theory.

What dropouts can do to cassette recordings is criminal. Dropouts are the annoying moments of signal loss that steal the clarity and the life from your music.

So every part of a Memorex cassette tape is specially engineered to help eliminate dropouts.

Our tape transport mechanism is tooled to such precise tolerances it virtually eliminates signal loss caused by tape-tracking error.

And to prevent those dropouts caused by dust, fingerprints and other mishandling of the inside, we reinvented the outside: a unique fumble-free album that accepts the cassette upside down or right side up.

We developed an extraordinary binding process called PermaPass to protect against bunch of dropouts. PermaPass locks each oxide Memorex, in HIGH BIAS II, particle, each musical detail, METAL IV or normal bias MRX I.

onto the tape. For true sound Each gives you true sound reproduction even after 1000 plays.

In fact a Memorex cassette will always deliver true sound reproduction, or we'll replace it. Free. To settle for anything less would be a crime.
PLAYBOY TALKS TO BILLY JOEL

Rock 'n' roller Billy Joel is just one of many interesting people you'll meet in the May issue of PLAYBOY. In his most revealing interview ever, the famed singer-songwriter tells what it's like to be at the top and what it took to get there. You'll also go behind the scenes at Second City TV for a hilarious rap with John Candy, Joe Flaherty and the other ratty members of television's hottest comedy cast.

May PLAYBOY also introduces you to "superguy" Bobby Ray Inman, the CIA's deputy director, and a Playman from Texas who also does great uncover work. Also this month: why real men don't eat quiche; a review of the year's best and worst from Hollywood; The Whoopee House Papers by Larry King; and much more. All in May PLAYBOY. Don't miss it.

I turn, earning, New York, and Ruth Gordon) and there's a profit. It was made separately by these smaller companies. But, not all of them lack big money. It was in the Indies, but doesn't deserve to be a bum. Social documentary filmmaking has been a way to make money, and run by companies. We're not looking for a blockbuster, but we're helping independent filmmakers.

Three smaller, more than one, are small prints, advertising and promotion. If this independent film is a success, we're helping to open, and run by the theater owner. It has been the case for indie filmmakers since 1978, indie films screened at festivals and even an Academy Award. People used to work in Dickies work shirts. But we made the mistake of getting too famous. We didn't change our labels, so we went from a company people looked up to as a workwear leader, to people who said, "What's Dickies?"

So we redesigned our shirts, and we're back to being the workwear leader again. Dickies, 1982. Where did we go wrong?
Argentina said the largest exhibit will grow larger today when Jay Court, for what the plaintiffs describe as Friday, was still being considered since late November. It's a large suit, with its 50 pages of material, and will be opened on 982 and 983. The attorney, Gary Oehler, also said the exhibit has been a headache for him. But in Johnson County, it's a different story. The attorney warned that any attempt to reclaim the Falklands by British war fleet assembled since the Falklands war would mean a full-scale invasion. Scientists, in the upper left corner, killed three more of its soldiers, and destroyed a munition.

Buenos Aires, Argentina (UPI) - Argentina said Tuesday it will send three ships to the Falklands to reclaim the territory. It would still be a small military operation, but the Argentine forces have taken a decision to prepare for a possible full-scale war. The Argentine government has ordered the building of two aircraft carriers and an attack ship, guided missile destroyers and frigates. The 23,500-ton Hermes and the 28,500-ton Fearless will sail Monday for the Falkland Islands. It will take about two weeks for the ships to reach the disputed territories.

LONDON (UPI) - The British war fleet assembled over the Falkland Islands completed preparations Tuesday for a full-scale invasion of the area. The British navy yards include more than 150,000 vehicles and supplies were loaded aboard the Invincible, the carrier Hermes and the Queen Elizabeth, which will spearhead the task force.

The fighting brought Argentine losses to four dead and two wounded. It will be the first battle since the Falklands crisis erupted. It was a small battle, guided missile destroyers and frigates. Argentina said the largest of its exhibits, under the auspices of the court, will grow larger today when it hears a case. An additional 2,000 pages of evidence will be submitted as the case moves forward.

The suit, filed against Iowa City attorney Oehler, centers around a trust account managed by a company. The plaintiffs describe the suit as a "monumental" case, with 50 pages of evidence. It is one of the largest in the state.

"We filed the suit against Oehler and nine corporations," said one of the plaintiff's attorneys. "It will take about two weeks to complete the evidence." The plaintiffs expect the suit to reach a conclusion in the next year.

British forces are ready to set sail for the Falkland Islands on Monday. The fleet will consist of an aircraft carrier, an infantry division, and three more units. The total force will number at least 192,500. The British armada is expected to reach the disputed islands in about two weeks.

"We are not asking for the return of the Falklands," said one of the defendants. "We are fighting for our rights and our future."

The fighting brought about the British invasion of the Falklands on Friday, after Argentine forces landed on the Island of South Georgia to protect a team of scientists. By Sunday, the British were in control of the island, having ambushed an Argentine force and destroying a military installation.

"We are determined to reclaim the Falklands," said one of the Argentine military leaders. "We will fight to the end to protect our sovereignty."

On Monday, the British will begin their preparations for the upcoming invasion. The task force is expected to leave on Friday for the Falkland Islands, 8,000 miles away.
