Big UI enrollment jump predicted

By Caroline Craig

Iowa City is preparing to handle a jump in student population. The UI will welcome 26,000 students in the fall, or an increase of 2,000 students from last year, according to UI President Donald J. Ball.

"It's a huge jump in the number of students that we're bringing in," said UI Vice President for Administration and Treasurer Derek Bartlett.

Bartlett said the university expects to see a similar increase in the number of students enrolled in the fall of 2023.

UI enrollment has been growing steadily over the past several years, and this year's increase is being attributed to several factors, including the strong economy and the university's efforts to increase access to higher education.

"We've been working hard to make sure that we're providing the best possible education for our students," said Bartlett. "And we're excited to welcome these new students to the University of Iowa family."
Figures indicate July jobless rate steady in Iowa

IOWA CITY (UP) - Small increases in two employment sectors helped Iowa's unemployment rate to hold steady at 4.4 percent, the same as last year, according to July figures reported Thursday by Iowa officials and Thursday.

The Iowa Employment and Training Commission said the unemployment rate was 4.4 percent in July, up slightly from 4.3 percent in June and the same as July 1981.

The July figures show the state overall lost 2,900 jobs, a decrease of 0.2 percent from one month earlier, but increases were seen in the construction and financial service sectors.

The number of Iowans out of work declined by 1,400, or 0.1 percent, in the July report, the commission said.

The decline represented about one-tenth of 1 percent of the state's non-agricultural labor force, commission figures show.

Construction job losses came primarily in the tri-county peacekeeping force in Bosnia. The peacekeeping force had more than 10,000 military personnel in the field, but many have been sent home in recent weeks, according to a commission official.

The construction sector lost 400 jobs, the commission said.

The construction sector also lost 200 jobs, a decrease of 0.2 percent, in the July report, the commission said.

UI's Smith honored by Hall of Fame

By Paul Boyer

Dr. Earnestine Smith, associate professor of medicine at UI, will be honored for her work to establish and develop the Iowa Cancer Research Center. The event will be held on June 22, 2003.

Dr. Smith, who was inducted into the American Cancer Society Hall of Fame in 1994, has dedicated her career to research and treatment of cancer. She has made significant contributions to the understanding of the molecular basis of cancer and has had a profound impact on the field of cancer research.

Elderly substance abuse often goes unnoticed

By Joe Fedewa
Staff Writer

Drug and alcohol abuse are significant problems among the nation's elderly and Iowa City, in attempts to combat such substance abuse concerns, has made a lot of strides in the field.

"It is a growing concern," said a spokesperson for Retired Families Services, a counseling center in Cedar Rapids. The spokesperson went on to say that the problem is especially prevalent among the elderly population, leading to more cases of substance abuse.

As the elderly population grows, so does the need for substance abuse prevention programs. The Iowa Lions Cornea Foundation, among other organizations, have programs aimed at helping the elderly who may be struggling with substance abuse.

But where are eye donors?

The cornea is the clear, circular, protruding portion of the eye. A corneal transplant may be used for various eye conditions, including corneal blindness, trauma, and degenerative diseases.

However, the Iowa Lions Cornea Foundation, in cooperation with the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics, is facing a shortage of eye donors. According to the spokesperson, the shortage is due to a lack of awareness about the importance of eye donation.

"But now as executive director of the Iowa Lions Cornea Foundation, I see the importance of eye donation," said the spokesperson.

Bea Stagg, the medical director of the cornea center, said that the success rate of the program is very high.

"The 40-year-old surgeon said that 10 years ago, full recovery takes time," Krachmer said. "It is more important to be patient in weaning people off alcohol and other substances.

Reese said that it is more important to be patient in weaning people off alcohol and other substances. However, the spokesperson admitted that it is more difficult to identify the problem, since elderly people often don't seek help either because often they don't know the problem or don't want to admit it.

"And then there are the people who are drinking alone," Reese said. "They often don't seek help either because often they don't know the problem or don't want to admit it."

"We have a new Mass schedule," said Tom Mitchell, the director of the Newman Center. The center, which is located in the basement of the Catholic Chapel, serves as a gathering place for students and members of the community.

"We have a new Mass schedule: Sunday Mass at 6:00 a.m., 7:00 a.m., and 8:00 a.m. from January 1 to January 31," Mitchell said.

The Newman Center is one of the few places and groups where people can be found every day, 8:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m.

Organizations and public schools already have when a child is in a private school. Parents who do not have the opportunity to send their children to the schools they chose, said.

The Speakerwoman also said parents have the right to have their children educated in private schools to the fullest potential.

Even if modifications on the proposal are made, parents would still have to pay tuition. The cost would increase for parents who receive financial aid.

Kennedy and the polls

As in virtually the case this time of year, George Gallup's poll shows that Sen. Edward Kennedy is again the front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination. For reliable in Kennedy's efforts to pre-electan Democrats that he has been in a position of early political dominance in each of the last four election campaigns. No less reliable, however, is Kennedy's ability to fade in the predictions about who will be standing in the polls.

This leads to the question of the value of political polls. Is there any possible use in giving an actor a role if he's going to act on the stage? Is it really true in polling actors against, grain and state against state oil? Yes, the free market does tend to provide lead actors with the wherewithal to survive economically, and if they fail we all have to suffer.

Resister Sasway held without bail following non-registration conviction

CEDAR FALLS, Iowa (UPI) - Thurdsay's conviction and the judge's refusal to grant bail. Bumer said he would appeal both the conviction and the judge's refusal to grant bail.

The political science and philosophy major at the University of Northern Iowa who is in his second term as student body president, said he knew the consequences.

"I was one of a handful of men whom the government tried to get everyone whipped up for the registration drive on campus to fight back. That's how I got up in the student government," he said.

When the young man did was stand up on his hind legs and look the government in the eye, "What the young man did was stand up and look the government in the face," Bumer said.

"I wish it we had more people who looked the government in the face and said, 'No thanks, I'm not going to register,'" said the former student body president.

Fry hawks his defense to report

By Jay Christensen

Coach Ray Fry, the man who has big shoes to fill at OSU, didn't hold his breath Thursday when being quoted by the Associated Press. "It's a little difficult to say right now, but when you take over a program that's done well, only time will tell. We're going to have to work hard. I have some individual defense, but I have to be a solid team."

Fry also said that the team is not going to have to lose four or five starters as was predicted by some before spring practice. "We're going to have a solid group of players and a solid defense this year."

DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR Frank Gullikson was also quoted on the same AP story. "Our defense will need to be a solid effort to make our team successful."

When asked to comment on Fry's recruiting efforts, Gullikson said, "We have a solid group of players that will need to work hard to maintain our solid defense."
Arizona linebacker Hunley takes All-American in stride

By Mike Condon

Before he began playing football at the University of Arizona, sophomore linebacker Charles Hunley was being compared to some of the greatest players in the history of the sport. Hunley was considered one of the nation's top recruiting prospects and was expected to bring a high level of skill and talent to the Wildcats defense.

Hunley's performance on the field has lived up to expectations, as he was named a consensus All-American and First Team All-Pac-10 Conference. His defensive prowess has been a key factor in the Wildcats' success this season.

Hunley's hard work and dedication to his craft have earned him the respect of his teammates and coaches alike. His leadership on and off the field has been instrumental in the Wildcats' rise to the top of the Pac-10.

With Hunley leading the way, the Wildcats are poised for a deep run in the conference and beyond. The future looks bright for this talented young man and his team.

"Indecent Exposure" makes waves for movie industry

By Stephen Bier

Indecent Exposure: A True Story of Hollywood

In a scene from the film, an older man (played by Michael Douglas) confronts an older woman (played by Jessica Lange) in a fitting filled with clothing.

Widescreen's actions enough to warrant major player in McClintock's

The week before the telethon, a major player in the film industry, Begelman, was rumored to be considering leaving his position as president of the company. The rumors were fueled by reports that Begelman's plans to launch a new studio had been balked by corporate officials, and that he had been dismissed from his current position.

Widescreen's latest film, "Indecent Exposure," was released to mixed reviews. While some critics praised the film for its realistic portrayal of the entertainment industry, others slammed it as a superficial examination of the subject.

One of the most controversial aspects of the film is the depiction of the character of Patricia, played by Jessica Lange. Some have criticized the character for being too one-dimensional and for not being a strong enough role model for women in the industry.

Despite the mixed reviews, "Indecent Exposure" has been a box office success, grossing over $50 million in its opening weekend.

Satirical ‘Polyester’ a fresh family affair

By Jeff Schlicht
Art Editor

The denouement of John Waters’ latest film, ‘Polyester’ (Paramount), must remind us of the peculiar allureability needed in American cinema during the ’70s. Waters’ love of the grotesque, cretinous, perverted, and even the dead is something he has yet to outgrow. ‘Polyester’ is a case in point.

The film, which was not released until two years after its shooting, concerns the story of a family in a suburban Baltimore home. The owner of the family, Nene, is a 300-pound philanderer who lives up to his name in his performance. The family is a mere caricature, but the film has a solid core that is worth seeing. The stinging wit of the script is a real plus.

The film is based on the life of Hemy, the owner of the family, who was born in 1917. His films, in the end, were less anarchic than his later work, and the film has a certain charm that is worth seeing.
