Soviet President Brezhnev dies

Traditional mourning plans to be honored by Soviets

President Leonid Brezhnev, the aging head of the world's largest Communist state, died today of a heart attack. He was 75 years old.

His death, which was announced at Moscow's Red Square, will be followed by a period of mourning in the Soviet Union.

The Soviet government has announced that a week-long mourning period will begin immediately. The period will include a three-day period of state mourning, with flags flown at half-mast and funerals held in various parts of the country.

The government has also announced that a special ceremony will be held in Moscow to honor Brezhnev's contributions to the country.

The death of the Soviet Union's leader has sent shockwaves through the world, with leaders from all over the globe offering their condolences.

Brezhnev, who had been in power since 1964, was one of the most powerful men in the world during his time in office. He was known for his authoritarian rule and his strong stance against Western influence.

His death marks the end of an era for the Soviet Union, which has undergone significant changes in recent years.

Flebas take Salvador village
SALVADOR, El Salvador — More than 4,000 soldiers attacked leftist guerrillas holding a town in the war-torn north of the country, killing 64 people and wounding 150 others, officials said. The military said the attack was in revenge for an ambush that killed 14 soldiers.

The attack took place Thursday in the town of El Infierno, about 300 miles north of the capital of San Salvador. The rebels have been fighting a war against the military for more than two decades.

High-ranking army officers were in the area about noon Thursday when they saw four rebel ambushed in a village about 10 miles from the town. The army said the soldiers were ambushed by rebel fighters who had been hiding in the woods.

The soldiers attacked the rebels with artillery and tanks, killing 64 and wounding 150, officials said.

The rebels are suspected of being involved in the ambush, but no arrests have been made.

Most of the victims were civilians, including children and women, officials said.

The president of El Salvador, Oscar Arias, condemned the attack.

Volunteers clean up youth center
NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. — A group of young people began cleaning up a youth center here Thursday after a group of children had been attacked by armed men.

The center, called the Youth Center for the Homeless, was attacked by a group of armed men on Wednesday afternoon. The group of children, aged between 8 and 12, were having a playdate when the armed men attacked them.

The armed men entered the center and began shooting at the children, killing two and wounding five.

The children were rushed to a hospital, where they were treated for their injuries. The attackers fled the scene.

A volunteer group of young people, including high school students, came to the center to help clean up the area after the attack.

The center, which is run by the Youth Center for the Homeless, provides a safe space for children in the area to play and work on their education. The center has been under attack several times in the past, but this is the first time a group of armed men have attacked.

The volunteer group, called the Youth Force, has been cleaning up the area around the center since the attack.

They plan to continue cleaning up the area and helping the children who have been affected by the attack. The group is asking for donations to help them continue their work.

The Youth Force can be contacted at 818-555-5555.

Limits on student use of health library proposed

By Hillary Cappel

The Student Medical Council, which represents full-time students and full-time faculty, is proposing building a health library to limit the use of the library’s resources by both students and faculty. The proposal was presented at the Health Sciences Library Advisory Council meeting Wednesday.

Stan J. Stas, a specialist in cancer of the mouth at the University of Iowa Hospitals, said the trend toward smoking is increasing.

"I have no reason to believe that it is going to go through some period of time that it is not going to continue to go up," said Stas.

"If this is true, then the mouth cancer risk goes through a chronic chewing," said Stas.

The cancer can spread to the mouth, the cheeks, the gums, and the tongue.

"It is a chronic disease," said Stas.

The problem is that the health sciences library is not where those who use its materials should be.

"We should be doing a better job of implementing this," said Stas.

The proposal was also supported by several students.

"It is great news that the library is going to be closed," said Stas.

"I think it is a great idea that the library is going to be closed," said Stas.

The proposal also requires the library to implement a proposed policy that would limit the use of the library by students and faculty. The policy would include a ban on smoking and a ban on the use of tobacco products.

Miss Florida has drive to succeed sen . dancer . Earlier this fall , she was part of several other mall events and was driving . But the future hasn’t always looked so bright for the 22-year-old amateur dancer .

"I was driving my way through the streets when I heard the siren and the police yelling and said , ‘There must be something wrong .’ I looked in the rearview mirror and saw a police officer standing by my car . I got out of the car and the officer asked me what I was doing . I told him that I was just driving home . He said , ‘Well , you’re not driving .’

I was really stressed out and didn’t know what to do . I was thinking about something else when I’m driving ."

Brezhnev

In the statement, the late Soviet leader spoke about the desire for peace and better relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. He said, "The time had come for the two superpowers to put an end to the arms race, which was dragging down the whole world."

Brezhnev also made a statement about the necessity of the arms control negotiations. He said, "The talks must be held in good faith and with a view to achieving concrete results."

In conclusion, Brezhnev emphasized the importance of cooperation between the United States and the Soviet Union to ensure peace and stability in the world. He said, "We cannot afford to fall into the trap of the arms race. It will only lead to mutual destruction and5
DRINC funds allocation vetoed
By Katrina Streper

The president of the 47-member Republican Senate in Iowa City vetoed an additional $150,000 for the Iowa City school board because the amount was "simply taken out of our budget." Streper said.

The motion granted the additional $350,000 in funding for the school board, which requested it to support the Iowa City school board, during the curriculum meeting. The motion was not supported by the Senate, according to Senate Majority Leader's remarks to the motion.

The committee, which has traditionally recommended funding, allocated $350,000 to the Senate for student aid organizations, never saw the proposal for the $150,000 funding grant, during the discussion. The motion was not supported by the Senate, according to Senate Majority Leader's remarks to the motion.

The Senate voted down the Senate's motion to override Balmer's veto Thursday.

A senator has been in a lot of meetings in the United States in being informed by the United States.

The president was asked a single question Thursday when the topic discussed his last meeting with reporters in the Oval Office, the White House. The voting, which occurred on Thursday, resulted in the approval of 26 senators for and 26 senators against the Democratic mortgage of a six-year program.

But the question focused on three key topics — the change of power.

Death of Brezhnev

Reports of his impending demise have been circulating for so long that it seemed almost an anticlimax when Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev finally died.

And in a sense, the event was anticlimactic—the struggle over his succession in Brezhnev's court, which has evidently been raging just below the surface for months, now begins in earnest. But the new wrinkle in this rout of men will cause that impermeable surface to be broken.

The assassinations of men like Brezhnev are hard to come by. His supervision of the rise of the C.C.P. Staff, criminals will be caught first. He left the world much better order than he found it.
Shuttle flight is picture perfect so far in its commercial mission

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) - The space shuttle Columbia, carrying the nation's "miracle workers," reached orbit Thursday, launching the first of a series of unmanned flights by the new $100 billion space transportation system.

A Coast Guard plane buzzed the ship as it streaked across the Atlantic Ocean to a safe landing Friday and as the spacecraft passed over the Pacific Ocean.

Astronauts Vance Brand, Robert Crippen, John Fabian and William Pogue of the 13-1 mission carried with them $1.5 million worth of experiments that included a growing group of cancer cells, a strain of wheat and a pair of matches.

A second lesson would bring Columbia's total cargo to $3 million, and it would bring the commercial portion of the crew's five-day mission.

Although this first flight was a "learning" mission, with the crew on board to determine the ship's performance, its success was a necessary step toward putting the shuttle to work as a space taxi.

"We're very pleased with the flight," said Robert Crippen, Columbia's payload commander. "This is a successful mission.

"The experiment on growing cancerous cells was a success. And the first one was growing perfectly."

"It looks like we're not going to have any problems with the experiment," said Fabian, Columbia's pilot. "It's looking like it's doing well."

"We're really happy with the flight," said Pogue, Columbia's mission commander. "We're happy with the flight."

Iowa hockey team starts NCAA's against 10th ranked Massachusetts

By John Comfort

Saturday will be the season debut for Jack Dilanian and the Iowa hockey team. Dilanian and his teammates are ready for the season opener against No. 9 Massachusetts.

"I'm excited," Dilanian said. "I'm ready to go. It's been a long summer and I'm ready for the season to start."

The game is scheduled for 7:05 p.m. Saturday at the Greenhagen Arena in Iowa City.

Massachusetts and Iowa are both in the top 10 of the national rankings. The teams have faced each other in the past and have similar records.

"We have a lot of respect for their team," Dilanian said. "They have a good team and we know it's going to be a tough game."

The game will mark the start of a two-game series with Massachusetts. The teams will play again on Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Greenhagen Arena.

Hawkeye swimming squad to open home season with Wisconsin dual

By Tom Simpson

The Hawkeye swimming squad will open its home season with a dual meet against Wisconsin on Saturday at 3:15 p.m. at the Campus Recreation and Wellness Center.

The meet will feature men's and women's events. The Hawkeyes are coming off a successful season in which they won the Big Ten Conference Championship.

"We're excited about the meet," said coach Peter Kinney. "We have a lot of talent and we're looking forward to the challenge."

The meet will be part of a weekend-long event at the University of Iowa. The Iowa City Oval will host the meet and a number of other events.

The meet will be broadcast on the Iowa City Oval's website and on the university's radio station, AM 600.

Lindell Anderson, left, and Rod Anderson, junior members of the Iowa women's basketball team, were killed in a car crash outside the University of Iowa campus in Coralville, Iowa. The women's basketball team has expressed its support for the families of the two victims.

"Rocky Horror" veils morals well

By Craig Wirsig

T.G.I.F.

Movies on campus
M-Men Street, Merle Snyder, Harvey Kellogg, 7:30 p.m. -- "The World of Henry Orient" is a delightfully watchable 1964 romantic comedy in which a besotted Hollywood star finds that sex is more than just sex when he meets a girl from small-town Iowa. The movie is a rollicking gag fest for adults. Particularly amusing is the scene in which the hero of the film, an actor played by Peter O'Toole, combines principles of Greek philosophy with the songs of "East of the Sun and West of the Moon" to ponder the meaning of life. The show also features a number of well-known character actors, including Pat Hingle, Angela Lansbury and William Windom.

Movies in town
The 1984 movie "Die Hard" is set in the blink of an eye and the would-be hero finds himself in a gun battle in the city after a group of African-Americans try to rob a New York bank. The movie is a thrilling action-packed adventure that fans of the genre are sure to enjoy.

Music
The 1985 hit "Our Nig," by August Wilson, is a beautiful play about the lives of two African-American women who are separated by the Civil War and reunite after a long time. The play is performed by a talented cast and directed by a noted director.

Theater
The 1975 musical "Hair" is a classic rock opera that explores the counterculture movement of the 1960s. The show features a talented cast and directed by a noted director.
Joni's new effort keeps legend alive

By Tony Oeltjen

Joni Mitchell's early folk masterpieces - the intimate, fragile voice of her teenage years' - have long been at the forefront of the musician's career, and her latest album, "B effectively captures that essence. Mitchell's voice, still strong and clear, sings with emotion and depth, making her latest effort a must-listen for fans and newcomers alike.

Master Builder reaches past melodrama

By Robert J. Wurster

Special to The Daily Iowan

Reproach Sharon's realization has been long disputed, but there is a retroactive recognition of her efforts to come off nicely melodramatic. Simply, that is the new message delivered in this latest production of the Master Builder, which opened Wednesday night at the Old Market's CTK Theatre.

Director Robert Holley has skirted the traditional melodramatic path - heard repeatedly on stage - and instead created a character whose changes in mood and actions are often predictable. The result is that the play's energy is more focused in the drama, with less of the usual conflict-resolution formula. The production of Master Builder (Kevin Gordon) is a bit of a disappointment, however, in that it seems to lack the theatrical poignancy that Holley's prior work is known for.

As the title character, Gordon delivers a strong performance. He is able to convey the character's complexity and vulnerability, making the audience care about his fate. The supporting cast is also strong, with each actor bringing their own unique interpretation to their role.

Master Builder is stacked with memorable performances.

The steals of the show are undoubtedly the performances of the two guest stars, Lisa B. Fisk and Emma Ruffin. Fisk's portrayal of Hilde is a Study in Dignity, while Ruffin's performance as Anna is a Study in Laughter. Both actors bring a depth of emotion to their roles, making them stand out among the rest of the cast.

The production values are top-notch, with the set design and lighting creating a sense of realism that is rare in melodramatic productions. The costumes are also well-crafted, adding to the overall atmosphere.

In conclusion, "Master Builder" is a masterful production that has managed to keep the melodrama alive and well. Holley's direction and the performances of the cast make it a must-see for anyone interested in the genre.

Book festival looks at fantasy

By Sandy Philpott

Special to The Daily Iowan

We're in an age in which computer networks are "in," and a computer's telltale hum seems to fill the air. More and more, the fantasy genre seems to be gaining popularity, both in the written and visual forms. But what is fantasy, and why is it so appealing to so many?

Fantasy is a genre of literature, film, and other art forms that involve imaginary or supernatural elements. It can include magic, mythical creatures, and otherworldly events. Fantasy can be a way for authors and filmmakers to explore complex themes and ideas.

When it comes to fantasy, one of the most important things is that it is often a way for readers to escape reality. It allows them to step into a world that is different from their own, where they can experience something new and exciting.

For those interested in fantasy literature, there are many options available. From classic works like "The Lord of the Rings" to modern-day creations like "Game of Thrones," there is something for everyone. And with the rise of e-books and online publishing, it is easier than ever to find new stories to immerse yourself in.

In conclusion, fantasy is a genre that continues to appeal to readers around the world. Whether you're a long-time fan or just starting to explore it, there is sure to be something in this genre that will capture your imagination.
Rambert shows reason in dance

By Richard Barone

Most of us probably don't go to dance performances very often. But in this theater culture, America and Europe lead the way. We're in a look at dancers and choreography, where the weight is on the mind: a good deal of body shapes and technical virtuosity, less on the question of who we are or how to see. Perhaps in an age of social analysts like Alan Dershowitz, we have seen so much that it's hard to be sensitive to something more than an interest: our interest in dance as a medium for the communication of a particular vision.

At 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 20, Ballet Rambert's two entirely original ballets, "Nightflight" and "Rainbow Rings", presented Wednesday. In each we saw a restless movement and formal play in contexts that were not available to the choreographer's project as they were reevaluating new ways to stage imagery.

In "Nightflight," two Marionmanio Rambert's three house choreographers (Robert Runcie and a Christian Pilato) created a music-based duet. The choreographer's exuberant use of his willful, almost wished-to-be-rushed and jostling with his movement and its interaction will end.

Use of artificial turf is growing

By Mike Condon

IT WAS A COLD DAY in Iowa City with temperatures in the mid-20s, and the wind was howling. The sky was overcast, and the ground was wet from the recent rain. The stadium was empty, and the only sound was the wind and the occasional rumble of the stadium's heating system. The artificial turf looked dull and lifeless, a far cry from the vibrant green fields of spring and summer.

"The main advantage of the artificial surface is the fact that it is almost never wet," says Monsanto Public Relations Manager Donald Berns. "Other sports such as field hockey, soccer, rugby, and lacrosse are being played on football stadiums and a grass field cannot hold up under such a load."

1960s were glory days for Hawks

By Steve Rothfus.

U.NIKE FOOTBALL, the Big Ten Conference was the commuter league in the late 1950s and '60s. There were no glory days for the league and Iowa, under Coach
