Thanksgiving comes early for Hawkeyes

by Christine Valerio

Thanksgiving dinner is突击 an important meal in Iowa City. The holiday is celebrated in a variety of ways, but for most residents, it is a time to come together with family and friends for a meal filled with traditional dishes such as turkey, ham, and stuffing. In recent years, Thanksgiving has also become a popular time for college football fans to gather and watch their favorite teams play rivalry games. This year, the Thanksgiving tradition continued as the Hawkeye football team took on the Michigan State Spartans in the Big Ten Championship Game, which was played on November 23rd. The game was a thrilling contest, and the Hawkeyes emerged victorious, bringing an early end to the holiday season.

Student senate supports Martin

By Linda Babione

The University of Iowa Student Senate has voted to support President Martin in his bid for re-election. The decision was made during a special meeting held on the evening of November 22nd. The Student Senate has traditionally played a key role in advocating for student interests and ensuring that the university remains responsive to the needs of its student body.

Council faces tough decisions on allocations

By Mary Leonard

The Iowa City Council is currently considering the budget for the upcoming fiscal year. This annual process is critical to ensuring that the city has the resources it needs to provide essential services to its residents. The council is facing several challenges as it works to allocate funds for a variety of programs and projects, including storm drainage improvements, affordable housing, and other initiatives.

Peachy Hawkeyes will march on Atlanta

by Mike Condon

Iowa State University will be represented by its football team in the Peach Bowl, which will be played on December 31st. The Peach Bowl is one of the most prestigious bowls in college football, and it provides an opportunity for the Hawkeyes to showcase their skills on a national stage. The game is scheduled to be played in Atlanta, Georgia, and is anticipated to draw a large crowd of fans from across the country.

Reagan asks for MX okay
WASHINGTON — President Reagan will ask Congress to approve a $5 billion "flexible response" system for the deployment of nuclear missiles as a means of deterring Soviet aggression, administration officials said Tuesday.

Secretary of State George Shultz said the new system, called the MX, would strengthen U.S. nuclear defenses against a "continued Soviet threat." Officials said.

Cigarette sales hit record
WASHINGTON — American's appetite for cigarettes has never been greater, with 460 billion cigarettes expected to be smoked this year — an increase of 21 billion over last year's total, according to a report released Tuesday by the U.S. Surgeon General's Office.

President Reagan has asked Congress to approve a $5 billion "flexible response" system for the deployment of nuclear missiles as a means of deterring Soviet aggression, administration officials said Tuesday.

Secretary of State George Shultz said the new system, called the MX, would strengthen U.S. nuclear defenses against a "continued Soviet threat." Officials said.

Study: Revenue grants vital
The Iowa Revenue Sharing Commission has recommended a 23 percent increase in revenue sharing grants next year for local governments, according to its report released Tuesday.

"Despite a steady trend toward full funding of state and federal programs, Iowa communities will have a difficult time maintaining and expanding the quality of local services," the report said.

Group blasts hangdog laws
WASHINGTON — Groups opposed to hangdown laws are planning a protest march in Washington to coincide with the annual hangdown festival.

"We are concerned that hangdown laws are a form of punishment that is not only cruel but also ineffective," said a representative of one of the groups.

Riverfront Commission plans area improvement
The Iowa Riverfront Commission has recommended a $10 million general revenue sharing program next year for local governments, according to its report released Tuesday.

Mark Leonard, chairman of the commission, said the plan "will help local governments address issues such as transportation, education, and recreation." He added that the plan "will help ensure that all Iowans have access to quality services."

Perry Bond, UI's oldest alumnus and former chemistry prof, dies

By Mary Tucker

Not too many members of the UI Chemistry Department can remember when Perry Bond taught chemistry at the UI, and even the two who can remember when he graduated in 1918 did not remember the class. It was Bonds' teaching assistant, Helen Oalley, who remembers him instructing his freshman chemistry classes until 1945. "He was one of the oldest professors I ever knew," said Oalley, who started teaching at the UI in 1926. "He was a real mentor out of my past."

Bond, who grew up in Waterloo, Iowa, spent most of his life at the UI. He graduated in 1898, and then he returned to study for a master's degree in chemistry and then his own contributions to the field.

Oalley said that he was one of the best teachers she ever had.

Ronald McDonald House is scheduled to be built here

By Jane Terril

Because UI is a top 20 college in the nation, University City and the University of Northern Iowa (now Cedar Falls) are a popular destination for families of children undergoing extensive treatment at UI Hospitals. But beyond the financial benefits of the houses, families can visit and share their experiences with others who have seriously ill children.

Although McDonald's houses dot a few miles of the University of Iowa Vet Med campus, the house in UI City is the first to be built in the area.

Ronald McDonald House is a non-profit organization started by the McDonald's Corporation to provide temporary housing for the parents and families of children undergoing extensive treatment at UI Hospitals.

The new house, which will provide temporary housing for the parents and families of children undergoing extensive treatment at UI Hospitals, is being built by the McDonald's Corporation and is expected to be completed by the end of 1983.

Sheriff: UI student was sexually abused

By Tom Buchanan

A 23-year-old UI student was sexually assaulted early Sunday morning, according to a complaint received by the University Police Department.

The student, who was not identified, was sexually assaulted in the 900 block of Market St. in Iowa City.

The suspect fled the bar and was apprehended by police.

The suspect was later identified as David A. Brusslan.

The suspect was charged with aggravated assault and assault

Perry Bond's oldest alumnus died at 70.

The University of Iowa chemistry professor who taught in the department for 50 years has died.

Bond, 82, taught at UI from 1926 until 1974, according to a obituary released by the university.

Bond was known for his passionate teaching style and his love of the subject, which he said kept him going for so long.

"He was a wonderful teacher who always challenged his students," said UI provost Tom Dietz.

Bond's passion for chemistry began when he was a teenager, and he went on to become one of the most respected professors in the department.

He is survived by his wife, Helen, and their children.

Moral Code

A regulation a private company may have is an important matter. The regulation system was created by the government in order to maintain "moral" order. It is once again the center of attention in Iowa. The moratorium is being placed on state-sponsored abortions.

Last week the Student Senate debated a resolution to stop the University of Iowa's abortion policy. For the present session, 20 new roles were announced, and a recent resolution made the legal abortion policy to promote a moratorium and replace it with the more permissive one.

Before the vote on November 24—a conflict with the 31st hour of the day—they discussed the use of any regulation to promote the legal abortion policy to permit a moratorium and replace it with the more permissive one.

Iowa's go-to early gallop of George McGovern and Henry A. Kissinger's political style Friday when he will be sworn in for his 12th term as governor. On inauguration day, the weather is expected to be clear and cool, with temperatures in the mid-30s. The event is free and open to the public, and the public is encouraged to attend.

The inauguration ceremony will take place at 1 p.m. at the State Capitol in Des Moines, Iowa. The ceremony will include speeches by the governor-elect, Lt. Gov. Kim Reynolds, and other dignitaries. There will also be a parade through downtown Des Moines, as well as a fireworks display at the State Fairgrounds.

In his speech, the new governor-elect noted that he would focus on economic development, education, and public safety. He also pledged to work with both parties in the Legislature to find solutions to the state's budget challenges.

Money for a drug epidemic

The state of Iowa has been struggling with the opioid epidemic for several years, and Governor Branstad's administration has taken steps to address the problem. In his inaugural address, Governor Branstad mentioned several initiatives that his administration will pursue to combat the epidemic.

The Governor noted that the state has already allocated $22 million in federal funding to combat the opioid epidemic, and he pledged to work with the state's legislative leaders to increase funding for these efforts.

In addition, Governor Branstad mentioned the establishment of the Opioid Response Office, which will be tasked with coordinating efforts across state agencies to address the opioid epidemic.

On the home front, Governor Branstad noted that he would work to ensure that families have access to quality health care and that the state's budget priorities remain focused on supporting the state's most vulnerable citizens.

Tennessee opponent for Iowa in bowl

By Yazan W. Jorge

Tennessee Coach Johnny Majors will have three advantages when his Volunteers face the Hawkeyes on Saturday at the Peach Bowl in Atlanta, Ga., on Dec. 3.

The most obvious is that his team has ever won an SEC game, will be the first Big Ten school to play in the Peach Bowl, and will be the Volunteers’ third consecutive opponent in the Southeastern Conference, the Hawkeyes in the SEC.

In 1976, Tennessee defeated the Volunteers 21-0 in Knoxville.

Big Ten coaches speculate on new 3-point shot

By Talmage Hefley

The Potomac River will never again separate the Volos and the Hawkeyes in the Peach Bowl.

The second meeting between the 1980 Big Ten champions and the 1979 SEC champs will be the last bowl game in which the Big Ten and SEC will play.

The new 3-point line, which will go into effect in 1983 when the NCAA reduces the line from 20 feet, 9 inches to 19 feet, 9 inches, will be in play when the SEC’s Missouri Valley champion faces the Big Ten’s Michigan State champions in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas.

The SEC leads the Big Ten in field goals from 50 yards and beyond, which is expected to be a key factor in Saturday night’s contest.

Spelling will never fade away

By Jeffrey Mink
Arkansas Democrat-Gazette

Last in a three-part series

As US graduate David Mary points out in his semi-autobiographical novel, the success of the law firm and the wealth of the levying class have been his starting point as much as the beginning of the legal profession. In this case, the firm and the wealth have been his starting point. The firm and the wealth have been his starting point.

The road from the first lawyer pointed by Phile Logan to "The Red Squad" in the glorious days before the Purim Festivals and Cheryl Ladd portrayed in "Charlie's Angels" was the same road taken by so many others before him. He decided to go with the flow. He was nonetheless as important in the end of an era.

Looking good while doing good - and doing good may very well. There were grumblings during the days that Red Squad would have handled 18 years earlier.

But since the Purim was so realistic and the government was caught up in the image of a Press, Line and Addie - or Harney and Black for that matter.

BO CAME THE next, and perhaps
