Reagan presses need for missiles

BARTONVILLE — President Ronald Reagan said Monday that he plans to request a doubling of proposals for military research to combat the threat from the Soviet Union.

The president, speaking to the students of the Ohio State University as an effort to make a point for更大胆的bold and clear-cut proposals, said, "I think this is the time for even more proposals for military research of all kinds."

In answer to an unexpected question, he added, "I think we've got to be ready, and we've got to be ready as quickly as possible."}

Sewer project, retarded tenure both get funds

Council gives Armstrong's month to act

By Mark Leonard

Just about everywhere you go in town you'll find residents of one sort or another pointing to the sewer improvements for the future.

In fact, Armstrong has been asked to consider funding for sewer improvements for the future, as he's getting ready to make a decision on whether to recommend funding for sewer improvements.

During a hearing held last June, the city council recommended funding for sewer improvements for the future, as it's getting ready to make a decision on whether to recommend funding for sewer improvements.

"If we don't get the money, we're going to be looking at a lot of other projects," Armstrong said. "We're looking at a lot of other projects," Armstrong said. "We're looking at a lot of other projects," Armstrong said. "We're looking at a lot of other projects."

Farmers exercised over insult to beef

& Doug Hurst

Robert Simonsen, a member of the Iowa Beef Council, was one of the farmers exercising at the side of the Iowa River in the Dubuque area last week, urging the public to keep the area free of trash.

"We're not trying to start a war," he said. "We just want to keep the Iowa River clean, and we don't think that the state is doing enough to keep it clean."

Simonsen was among a group of farmers who were exercising along the river, holding signs and shouting slogans. They were calling attention to the problem of trash in the river, which they said was affecting the quality of the water and the health of the fish.

"We want to keep the Iowa River clean, so that we can continue to use it for fishing and other recreational activities," said Simonsen. "But we're not getting the support we need from the state to do that."

The farmers said they were upset by the fact that the state had failed to take action to address the problem of trash in the river. They said that the state had not done enough to educate the public about the importance of keeping the river clean, and that the state had not done enough to enforce regulations that would keep the river clean.

"We want the state to take action to keep the Iowa River clean," said Simonsen. "We want the state to do more to educate the public about the importance of keeping the river clean, and to enforce regulations that will keep the river clean."

Generous restaurateur keeps alive his spirited Thanksgiving tradition

By John Turke

Mihalopoulos, owner of the American Restaurant in West Des Moines, has been making a spirited tradition of giving away turkeys for the past 23 years. His enthusiasm has not waned, and consumers can expect to get a quality bird when they go to the store to buy a turkey this year.

"There isn't a restaurant like Thanksgiving," Mihalopoulos said, "when there's no Thanksgiving and you have to work on the day. Thanksgiving is the perfect time to give back to the community. It's the best day of the year."

Mihalopoulos, who has been selling turkeys every Thanksgiving since 1978, has been giving away more than 300 turkeys to people who have to work on Thanksgiving day. The turkeys are sold at a discount of 23 percent, which is a great deal for consumers looking for a quality bird.

"I want to give back to the community and show appreciation for the people who work on Thanksgiving," Mihalopoulos said. "I believe it's important to give back and to share our good fortune with others."

Mihalopoulos said that he has been able to give away turkeys every year thanks to the support of local businesses and community organizations.

"I've been able to give away turkeys every year because of the support of the community," Mihalopoulos said. "I've been able to keep the tradition alive because of the support of local businesses and community organizations."

Congress to push highway jobs bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) - House Speaker Thomas "Tip" O'Neill and Senate "Gig" George Mitchell Monday asked Administration officials to consider a package of funds for highways to help pressure President Reagan to support the plan.

"This is a critical time of the year," said Mitchell. "We want to put together a program that will help the economy and help create jobs." Mitchell added the package of funds would not have to be used for highway projects in all states.

"We are trying to appeal the de­cision," said Mitchell. "We have found a way to package it and make it more acceptable." Mitchell said the program would be similar to the (Transportation and Public Works) legislation for highways, mass transit projects, and other public works ventures.

"This is not a partisan issue," Mitchell said. "It is an issue of economics and job creation." Mitchell added the package of funds would be similar to the (Transportation and Public Works) legislation for highways, mass transit projects, and other public works ventures.

Ten years ago, few physicians chose family practice, opting for general practice, because it was recognized as the least remunerative branch of providing reimbursed family practice.

The reasons are many: the stress of trying to be all things to all people, conditions, and the elderly. The reason for this is simple: family practice positions are less demanding than those in surgery, pediatrics or surgery. The demand for family practice is growing, and the number of positions available is increasing.

Iowa state gymnastics team is looking for better individual performances and an improved team score while competing in the Big Ten championships. Iowa Coach Tom Dunn will enter a nine-man team for the team championship and we will quite a few guys individually. In this meet, I'm looking more at everybody to find our best combination for our round down the road.

"DOU TOP FOUR spots on an event can pretty much be won, but the fifth one isn't so solid," he said. "I'm really hoping that some of the guys will take the initiative and come in the front this weekend." Also, the meet will be an important for the individualists and the team in general.

"We need to get some who will want the scorecards done with their performances. I believe they have some that will walk around, but I've actually such much interest in individual performance in the past."
