Sewer usage rate increase concerns UI

By Karen Hargrave

Utility fees at the University of Iowa could increase 21 percent to $362,112,000 for fiscal year 1983-84. This is according to a proposal made by the Iowa City Department of Utilities. UI students would bear the brunt of the increased fee.

According to Tom Mackay, assistant director of special support services, "We think it would be hard for the students who are already paying their own way to pay increases denied year after year to state officials, and state officials to get their pay increases denied year after year." He added, "Any state raises are in line."

The University of Iowa gains and loses enrollment increases steadily. Partly cloudy and being with the 50s. Partly cloudy and being with the 50s.

Panel gives nod to gas tax

WASHINGTON — The House Ways and Means Committee Thursday tentatively approved a tax proposal that would increase highway and clean air taxes but would have little impact on the consumer. But the panel's action came after a long night of work on amendments before it could complete its work. A new revenue package and administration estimates would create more than $100 billion in revenue.

MX survives first vote

WASHINGTON — The MX missile family survived a first vote Thursday on the Appropriations Committee's version of the MX missile, even as a Senate committee opposed the missile to the point of death. The Senate's fate is not certain, though the Administration is expected to have more support in the Senate. The Administration wants $1 billion to develop the new weapon.

Heart patient improves

SALT LAKE CITY — Doctors rescued a 16-year-old, doctors said Thursday. The patient, who is believed to be the nation's first heart transplant recipient, is recovering at Memorial Hospital. He was operated on Wednesday. The patient is expected to remain in the hospital for at least one week.

Panels mull major changes

WASHINGTON — Police authorities are considering setting up a new police station to reduce the number of illegal activities in the city. The panels are also considering changes to the current police force to increase efficiency and reduce crime. The panels are expected to make a decision on the matter in the coming weeks.

More aid okayed for Israel

WASHINGTON — The Senate Appropriations Committee approved an $18 billion foreign aid package Thursday for Israel. The aid package is intended to support Israel's military efforts and to help the country gain new friends in the Middle East. The aid package is expected to pass the House of Representatives next week.

Policeman menaced by evicted resident

By Tom Hohn

The University of Iowa police department is investigating a possible incident involving a University of Iowa police officer and a student. The incident involved a resident of a dormitory who was confronted by a University of Iowa police officer who was stationed in the dormitory. The incident is under investigation by the University of Iowa police department.

Friday Events

The Student Senate will hold its monthly meeting at 7 p.m. in the Student Union. The meeting will be open to the public and will include a discussion of the budget and other issues.

Officials cite educational quality

Cronin said teachers talk to school principals and district super­visors about recent changes in the school system. When asked if there were any changes at her school, she said, "It's not just something we're changing overnight. Carmen said their objectives are not to maintain the quality of the programs already in place. The idea is to see what changes can be made to improve the quality of education in the near future."

Both Cronin and Thompson agree that the quality of education is raising the high standards. "There's a real thrust to improve the quality of education, and that's not the only way to maintain the quality of the programs already in place," said Cronin. "It's like scaling a program and starting over with a new one. It's something that we've been doing, trying new things and seeing what works best for our students."

Cronin said that the district employs a constant process of review and improvement, pointing out subject areas that are of current significance. "We've taken, for example, if we've had a chance to see what it takes to be a good teacher. The teachers have wanted for a long time," said Thompson. "It's our objective not to throw the programs out."

Cronin added that the Iowa high standards are toughening their curriculum. "It's our objective not to throw the programs out. It's our objective to stay with the programs. It's our objective to stay with the curriculum. We're really past the point where we're saying, 'Let's start over.'"

Tenants group coordinator finds her work challenging

By Jeff Beck

Cindy Geyer is just finishing her first full week as coordinator of the Patrons Association for Tenants, but it hasn’t taken her long to see the problems facing tenants in Iowa City.

In moving to Iowa City from Des Moines, she and her husband moved into a low-income apartment building before finding their present residence in Coralville.

“It’s really challenging,” she said, “and there’s a lot of work to do.”

A graduate of the UI in 1986, Geyer received her law degree from Drake University. Despite her legal experience, she said the PAT will continue to provide tenants with information only about their legal options — not legal advice.

She began her studies on Feb. 1, which coincides with this year’s first week in Iowa City. She and her husband moved into their new apartment in early March.

GRAY said he plans to remain at the UI to finish law school and continue work on a project he began during his second-year law student Pete Grady.

In moving to Iowa City, her husband left his job at an insurance company to open a law firm in Coralville.

National gymnasts face Hawks

By Steve Pettersen

Four members of the United States National team headed to Iowa City this weekend for the first Invitational Meet on the 12-member U.S. team to be held in the Field House. The event, a meet open to post graduate and professional athletes, will be held at 1:00-5:00 on Sun., Dec. 3. Admission will be $3 for adults, $2 for students and $1 for children under 12.

The meet will feature five events each day, and the four-day total score will be the basis for the U.S. national team in the 1983 World Championships in Japan. The meet will also be a qualifier for the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles.

Ray DiMaggio, navigator of the A team, and Pat Siverly, head coach of the U.S. team, will be among the top competitors at the meet.

The Iowa State Meet will feature six events in chance to work all 12 competitors for the first time in these new environments.

Jasper Breuer manager Joe Torre, right, enjoys a long dog on a sign while former Los Angeles Dodgers' roast picker Terry Moffett announces that he signed a three-year contract with the Braves Thursday.

New York (AP) - Ken Harrelson, hero of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, resigned Tuesday as the negotiator for baseball players and owners.

Harrelson, who gained considerable credit for baseball during the strike, left the Washington Office Thursday to be hired as a consultant for a pension fund on the West Coast.

Harrelson was credited with bringing about a settlement in January, but the strike was resumed.

Moffett, head baseball players association, will announce his resignation Monday.

LAST YEAR, Navy's guards led the ways in scoring andouth. "They're fast, they're quick," said Coach Paul Evans, "but we go a lot of pressure on them." The best defense this year is "you can't score on them," he said. The Navy team may not have a lot of height, but they do have a lot of speed. The Utah team has a lot of height, but they don't have the same level of speed. The Navy defense is a well-coordinated, well-disciplined basketball team that will give you a lot of trouble. They will come at you. They change up what they do to misdirect and disorient. They do a lot of things to make it difficult on you.

FEAR YEAH, the first for Pitt in the Big East Tournament. They have seen the last two Eastern Tournaments coming off its own tournament (the

Badgers

You'll start Scott Ruth, Gary Blackwell and Brad Sellers up front. Sellers and Blackwell were the best players this year, and they should be even better next year. "I'm looking forward to next year," Blackwell said. "I hope we can get some good (guards) to come back and help us out," he said. Scoring 20 or 30 points and 10 rebounds per game made them the top two players on the team. The Badgers are expected to be a dominant force again next season.

Sellers, who was last year's leading scorer, said he was excited about the upcoming season. "I'm ready to go," he said. "I'm ready to play." The Badgers have a strong core of returning players and are expected to be one of the top teams in the country.

The Badgers will be looking to build upon last year's success and continue their dominance in the Big Ten Conference. They will be led by Sellers, who showed great potential last season, and Blackwell, who was a key contributor. The Badgers will rely on their experience and teamwork to continue their success.

The Badgers have been a consistent team, finishing in the top five of the conference each of the past three seasons. They have a strong bench and depth, which will be crucial for their success this season. The team is also well-coached, with three assistant coaches who have been with the program for several years.

The Badgers are expected to be a force this season, and they will be looking to take the next step and compete for a Big Ten title. They have the talent, experience, and depth to make a run at the conference championship this year.

Remler style fuses traditional, new jazz

By John Widman

There's a delightful air of adventure in the jazz of the Remler band. There is a sense of freedom and adventurousness of Herb Ellis, her friend and mentor, as Remler nicely captures in her playing.

Remler, who performs all over the country, has come to Davis Center appropriately dressed as one of the jazz players alike, line up to render praise, her guitar style has been planted in the public eye: superb swing.

The 25-year-old Ellis is a long-time jazz performer, and the name of "Ellis" informs the traditions of New Orleans and contemporary tunes. When playing a Lennie Tristano style, Ellis has been heard playing in several Wednesday, including George Shearing's "Lennie's" and one of Remler's own compositions "Pilgrim". With the pick of the tunes, Ellis has a knack at handling the public with her guitar style.

But that doesn't change the fact that she is a highly skilled performer. Her ability to handle music with grace and elegance is often enhanced by the fact that she is a long-time jazz player.

She has come to Davis Center appropriately dressed as one of the jazz players alike, line up to render praise, her guitar style has been planted in the public eye: superb swing.

Hancher Auditorium is not just a show place. It is a community center where patrons find entertainment, recreation and performance opportunities. The atmosphere is one of friendliness and accessibility to patrons of all ages.

"The patrons are our friends," says Don Fluck, patron services assistant. Patrons come to the Center to enjoy an evening of entertainment, not just the show. The Hancher is a community center that is responsive to the needs of its patrons.

"It is always the patrons who are the reason why we are here," Fluck said. "The patrons are our friends and they are always asking for something more."
