Poland plans to end martial law

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — General Wojciech Jaruzelski told Polish radio Tuesday that martial law, which has been imposed since December 13, 1981, will end no later than the end of the year. The announcement was made during the local New Year’s Eve news broadcast. Jaruzelski said that the end of martial law would be announced in late December, and that it would be implemented in early January.

In reaction to the announcement, housing activists and residents in Warsaw called for the immediate release of political prisoners and an end to the use of violence against civilians. Activists also called for the formation of a new government that would be more representative of the Polish people.

Jaruzelski said that the end of martial law would be accompanied by the release of all political prisoners and the abolition of all forms of censorship. He also said that the government would work to create a more democratic society, where the needs of the people would be prioritized.

The announcement was met with widespread celebration throughout Poland, as well as in other countries in Eastern Europe. However, some political analysts expressed concerns about the government’s ability to implement the changes promised.

Hearing before regents board denied to STAF

By Katerina Stormer

The University of Iowa’s conservative student organization has been denied an appearance before the Board of Regents because it has not applied for a permit to protest.

The organization, known as the Iowa Freedom Alliance, had requested a permit to speak at the regents’ meeting on the University of Iowa campus. However, the group was denied the permit because it had not met the requirements for a permit.

The University of Iowa’s regents denied the group’s request, stating that the organization had not met the requirements for a permit.

The decision was met with criticism from some members of the community, who argued that the university was denying the group’s right to free speech.

Groups urge housing rights plan

By Katerina Stormer

Residents and students across Iowa are calling for the passage of a housing rights plan that would protect tenants and homeowners from discrimination.

The plan includes provisions that would ensure fair housing practices, prevent discrimination based on race, gender, and sexual orientation, and protect tenants from illegal evictions.

The plan was introduced by State Representative Mary Jane Knick, who said that it was important to ensure that all Iowans have access to safe and affordable housing.

The plan has received support from a variety of organizations, including the Iowa Tenants Union and the Iowa Housing Council.

The plan is currently being reviewed by the Iowa House and Senate, and is expected to be voted on in the coming weeks.

Telephone hoax sets nation’s lines buzzing

By Katerina Stormer

A telephone hoax has set off a flurry of activity across the nation, as people try to determine the source of the disturbance.

The hoax involved a series of calls made to a landline phone number in Iowa, which resulted in a surge of traffic on the phone lines.

Telecom authorities are currently investigating the incident, and are working to determine the source of the disturbance.

The hoax is believed to have originated from a phone in Iowa, and is currently being investigated by state and federal authorities.

U.S. blamed for crash

MINNEAPOLIS, Minneapolis — Minneapolis officials and the United States Justice Department are prosecuting charges in the United States against four men accused of aiding and abetting the Hamas terrorist group in violation of the United States, for their involvement in the shooting down of an Israeli passenger jet.

The men, who are alleged to have been involved in the Hamas terrorist group, are being charged with a variety of crimes, including conspiracy to commit murder and attempted murder.

The charges were announced at a press conference this morning, where Minneapolis Police Chief Medved and city officials announced the arrest of the four men.

The men, identified as a private security firm, are accused of providing training and equipment to the Hamas terrorist group in violation of United States law.

The men were arrested after a federal search warrant was executed at their home in Minneapolis.

The men will be held in jail pending their arraignment.

End sought to tripoli clash

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Bush has called for an end to the current civil unrest in Tripoli, Libya, claiming that the situation is becoming unsustainable.

In a speech today, the president said that the current situation in Tripoli is unsustainable and that a new approach is needed.

The president said that it is unacceptable for the current situation to continue and that the government of Libya must make a clear commitment to end the crisis.

The president also noted that the current situation has led to an increase in violence andbloodshed.

He said, "We have seen a steady increase in the number of people killed and wounded as a result of this situation. We must act now to end this violence and to bring about a peaceful resolution to this conflict."
Life saver

The Johnson County Committee for Civilian CPR renewed its call for legislation that would require newspapers to carry equal advertisement space for CPR classes. Conservation Ron Weeman told a press conference that the "opportunity is now here because the interest is there from the community." (See story on page 4.)

City sets example

Iowa City is in the process of considering a new parking plan that would target eastern Iowa businesses and women-owned businesses for greater participation in city contracts. The city council may set aside parking spaces near entrances to eastern Iowa businesses under the plan's definition, including engineering and architectural firms, banks, legal services and construction companies.

The policy has generated generally favorable reaction. "It's a good idea and recognizes the principles of affirmative action," Ted Milhorn, president of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce said today. "But the city is just going..." he added, saying that no objections have been raised to the plan.

But within the limits of the city contract, I prevention would not be seen as a way out for the corporation. Action was taken to prevent similar situations in the future.

The level of business activity along a commercial corridor often has led to a variety of private interests. The city would develop a program that could be a powerful weapon in the effort to lure support for such businesses in the near future. The city would develop a program that could be a powerful weapon in the effort to lure support for such businesses in the near future.

The policy has a wide range of potential benefits, but there are conditions to be met. There is a concern over perception of loss of control and of unfairness in the process.

In view of the fact that millions of women in the United States are in control, there is no longer any question of unfairness in the process. The policy is not as controversial as it would have been had it been adopted by the city.

The policy and its goals deserve formal adoption by the city.

Said Assistant City Manager Dale Helling: "It's a step forward. But..." he added, explaining that the city is still working on a number of other policy changes.

Wellesley College president Richard Freierman today suggested that businesses targeted by the program be required to meet certain criteria, including having a majority of owners who are women and/or minorities. Ellsworth's Malone expected to sign with Iowa Wednesday

By Joie Chrestman

Leading up to Saturday's eligibility-based signing deadline, the star running back of Ellsworth Junior College, Billy Malone, was expected to sign with Iowa on Monday. The Packers had been in contact with Malone for several weeks, indicating a deal was in the works.

Coach Stadtman said, "Our goal is to keep Billy in our backfield, but if we can't make it work, we'll take his talent elsewhere and make Iowa a better team."

"He's a hard worker and he has a great chance of being a great football player," Stadtman added.

"I'm excited to see what Billy can do," said Malone. "I've been looking forward to this opportunity for a long time."

BLOW IT OFF!

It won't bother us if it is the last straw. If we lose, we lose. It won't bother us.

I believe in the program, in the team, in the coaches, and in the fans. I will continue to work hard to improve the team and to make it better for the future.

In baseball, the last place team is usually the one that has the most room for improvement. In basketball, the last place team is usually the one that has the most to gain.

It is important to remember that losing is a part of the game. Losing can be a learning experience. Losing can teach you how to win. Losing can teach you how to be a better player. Losing can teach you how to be a better person.

In baseball, the last place team is usually the one that has the most to gain. In basketball, the last place team is usually the one that has the most room for improvement.

Hawkeyes

We have never been completely out of the college basketball tournament. They deserve every bit of respect. They have never let us down.

We may disagree slightly on how we are ranked, but we are all convinced that the Hawkeyes are a legitimate Final Four contender.

Carlton (who finished with four points as a freshman) was the most controversial of the two. He was the most outspoken, the most opinionated, the most controversial.

The Hawkeyes have never been ranked as low as they are now. They have never been ranked below 25.

We believe this team has an outside shot at making the Final Four. We believe they can win the Final Four.

Hawkeyes

The team that has the most to gain is the one that has the most room for improvement. The team that has the most to gain is the one that has the most to lose.

'Airplane II' mirrors 'Airplane!' but offers audience fewer laughs

By Jeffery Miller

There are about a dozen good laughs in Airplane! II: The Sequel. The first-time screenwriter, originally from the original Airplane! in 1980, Stiller writer says, is exploring the meaning of the Holocaust.

Stiller's first solo film, 1979's The Toy, is a collection of novelist quotes and a piece of literature that has been compared to the novels of F. Scott Fitzgerald.

In the process of babysitting for this brat, Craig Bates (played by John Cusack) is expected to shell out three dollars for just the guest's groceries and charges him four dollars for his change. The guest is a new drunk, and you won't be disappointed.

In Coralville, Quiet Dust is a collection of novelist quotes and a piece of literature that has been compared to the novels of F. Scott Fitzgerald and the novels of John Updike.

In the process of babysitting for this brat, Craig Bates (played by John Cusack) is expected to shell out three dollars for just the guest's groceries and charges him four dollars for his change. The guest is a new drunk, and you won't be disappointed.

The Toy presents a miscellany of what we wanted for Christmas

By Greg Wrona

The Toy, instead of being the delight of an unassuming, middle-class family is a delight for a whole new audience.

In the process of babysitting for this brat, Craig Bates (played by John Cusack) is expected to shell out three dollars for just the guest's groceries and charges him four dollars for his change. The guest is a new drunk, and you won't be disappointed.

New book exhibits Styrone's values

By Tom Deithey

This Guest Fruit and Other Writings by William Styron, Doubleday, 1982, 344 pages.

The theme of the collection of poems by William Styron is the anguish of the modern hero. Styron's love of the Middle East is shown in his writing about his childhood in the Middle East.

In the process of babysitting for this brat, Craig Bates (played by John Cusack) is expected to shell out three dollars for just the guest's groceries and charges him four dollars for his change. The guest is a new drunk, and you won't be disappointed.

Iowa's new drunk driving law can be very accommodating.

Iowa's new drunk driving law is designed to accommodate the needs of two groups: drivers under the influence and the police.

In the process of babysitting for this brat, Craig Bates (played by John Cusack) is expected to shell out three dollars for just the guest's groceries and charges him four dollars for his change. The guest is a new drunk, and you won't be disappointed.

Local businesses display art work
By Vonesia Cayson
Space in the Iowa City area...

Art alumni who want to display their works in the community can do so in local businesses.

In larger cities, artists can show portfolios in galleries and on Main Street. A HI-FI Money Market Account offers you just that...high interest rates accessible funds.

Artists have to be an appropriate age, instead of 21 to participate. There are a good number of artists who want to show things...

The ART COUNCIL, sponsored "Art in Public Places" which displayed works of art in the Coon Cook and Johnson County Court House. But local businesses have to be interested, don't have to be.

A business that encourages artists to exhibit is the Davenport Art Center, where the manager, they have the lighting and other...are interested in exhibiting. The works have to be an appropriate age, instead of 21 to participate. There are a good number of artists who want to show things...

"IN THE SIX YEARS we've been exhibiting works, we've always had a display. There are photographs on exhibit in Riverfront Center, and on the cover, the manager said.

Lois Bero said the council now has a room for the piece, she added that about half of the people who sign up are visual artists -- graduates-students. However, she said, the response to show is limited to the first three shows. In 1982, according to President John Hughes. All artists who participate in the exhibit to submit their pieces, checks the piece out "just to make sure they'll be acceptable to the monthly.
