Developing jobs has top priority, Branstad vows

By Mark Leonard

GREY BENNETT - Republic/Telegraph

Republican Tom Branstad, newly elected governor, is determined to make the state economy a top priority this year.

"We're going to have a thaw this year," said Mr. Branstad, who defeated Democratic Gov. Robert Ray in November's election. A former legislator and farmer, Mr. Branstad's new office in the Statehouse is his third major position in state government.

"We need to get a first-rate educational system in place," he said, "and we need to get the industries back." And, he added, "We need to take care of the people who have been out of work for a long time and get them back to work."

This is a major change for a state that fought hard to keep its factories open, even during the depression, and that has been a leader in the manufacturing sector.

ALREADY, MR. BRANSTAD has been working on the state's economic development plans, and he has already met with leaders from several large companies to discuss potential investments.

"We need to be competitive," he said, "and we need to be able to attract new businesses." And, he added, "We need to be able to retain the businesses we already have."

Committee approves Hilton proposal

By Mark Leonard

The Hilton proposal, if it goes well, a Denny Hilton will take its place in Iowa City's downtown skyline in 1982.

Whether Arntz's plan can obtain funding is a departmental challenge to the Hilton people. "We go to the Cedar Rapids-based hotel and give the Color Cedar-based hotel what we think it's going to take to get the hotel on the market," said a Hilton director.

Once Denny Hilton's corporation has assented, the plan will be presented to the City Council.

Lawrence Dean and Sistrunk said that he will begin the process, with consultant services to the city a year to a year and a half.

The project is seen as an "interesting opportunity," with an "important educational opportunity." The Hilton's $20 million price is the money necessary to begin the project.

The Hilton people simply had a better chance than any other area to provide Iowa City with a hotel and spa.

"From that standpoint, we feel a little bit more motivated that perhaps this hotel would have more of the City's attention," Sistrunk said.

The plan was submitted to the City Council for approval.

Pete Smith said that the hotel will proceed in sections of the Arntz's project in any case.

In the opinion of the City Council, the three segments of the Hilton project in Iowa City would come up with the money necessary to begin the project.

"We can't have it," Sistrunk said. "I need you." He said.

"We were with two other other proposals but we're not going to work on this project. We're not getting into a situation where we're total projects are a half a mile away."

Among the hotel's potential benefits to the city is the hotel's potential for being used as a "community hotel," as well as that it will bring revenue to the city.

"It's being designed in the form of a hotel and a spa," Sistrunk said.

New library security system ends need for searching patrons' packs

By Mary Teter
Staff Writer

A new library security system being installed at the UI Main Library this spring will do away with the practice of searching patrons' packs.

The new system, a $76,000 automatic detection and electronic lock system, will be installed in a new $200,000 security system at the UI Main Library. The system will be installed in the spring of 1982.

The security system will be installed in a room on the second floor of the library. The room will be used to store the sensitive information.

Local suspect charged in car theft

UI trustees established a campus police department on Wednesday as a warrant for the arrest of a 29-year-old man was issued.

The warrant was issued for the arrest of a man who is suspected of stealing a car from UI jurisdiction on Wednesday.

The suspect, 29-year-old John Jones, was arrested after a campus police officer observed him entering a parking lot at UI jurisdiction.

Assistant librarian Wayne Rawley said that the library has been using the new security system for several years.

The system has been installed in the library for several years, and it has been working well. We have had no problems with it, Rawley said.

The system uses electronic locks and a computerized detection system to prevent theft. It is designed to prevent theft from the library's collections.

The system was installed in the library in 1980, and it has been working well. We have had no problems with it, Rawley said.

The Air Force "should plan" to fully modernize in preparation for an "unprecedented" peacetime rearma-tion before the Soviet Union begins," according to Daily Texan correspondent Larry Ruvo, who has been investigating along with Iowa City newspaper editor Richard Kamps. Ruvo has been quoted in stories about the Air Force's plans to continue developing new weapons systems, and the possible implications for international security.

Kamps, in a recent article, noted that the Pentagon is "prepared to exceed" its budgeted spending for weapons development. He said that the Air Force is "ready to go" on a major weapons project, "even if it means spending more than we thought." Kamps's article, "The Air Force: Ready for War," was published in the December 1983 issue of The Sound, a student newspaper at the University of Iowa.

Abortion compromise?

To the editor: I read last week's importance of the abortion debate, and I was surprised to hear that students at the University of Iowa are being denied the right to express their views on this issue.

I believe that all students, regardless of their political or religious beliefs, should have the opportunity to participate in discussions on this important topic.

Sincerely,

Military misspending

After repeatedly asserting that no reduction in the planned fiscal 1986 defense budget would adversely affect national security, the Reagan administration has decided that $8 billion less would be tolerable. That is not a cut. It means that the defense budget will only increase by some $8 billion instead of about $80 billion.

The so-called "savings" are small and are, for the most part, being made in the wrong places. Although half of the $8 billion is coming from the limited inflation rebate, the other half is being achieved by small increases in military pay and by reductions in troop maintenance and training exercises.

If the volunteer service is to be successful in recruiting and retaining quality people and keeping morale high, then soldiers will have to be paid well, which they are not. If the military forces are to be effective they must be well trained, which they are not, and, if any money ought to be spent to increase the conventional weapons, spare parts maintenance, repair and training.

In my view, it is not new, the United States is asleep — perhaps superior to the Soviet Union in nuclear strength, but weekly inferior in civilian education, compared to the Soviets. The United States is in need of a clean-up, a renewal of its conventional weapons to a sound position.

Abortion compromise?

To the editor: As a student at the University of Iowa, I am writing to express my concerns regarding the recent budget cuts. I believe that these cuts will have a negative impact on the quality of education and research at the university.

I know that many students share my concerns and are working to find a solution. Let's hope that we can find a way to prevent these cuts from happening and to protect the future of our university.

Evans' detention was 'excessive'
By Tom Burnham

Although Iowa City police officer Roland Evans successfully negotiated a $250,000 insurance settlement for the 1982 beating that left a 13-year-old boy brain damaged, the justice system is still going through a lengthy appeal process.

The Iowa City Register recently learned that a new $300,000 settlement has been reached in this case, a new twist that will keep the dispute in the courts for at least another year.

The Register also learned that, pending another round of appeals, the case will be sent to a new trial court, the Iowa Supreme Court.

"We're at the beginning of the appeal process," said one legal source, who requested anonymity. "It's just the start of a long process that will likely take years to resolve."
Dallas awaits eager Redskins after 37-26 win

BY RAY WILDER

Washington Redskins, at least their fans, were yelling for the Dallas Com-boys to win back in October. And after an emocionally charged victory of the season at Boston last Sunday, it would be nice to see Dallas win in interesting places.

This ONE, the Cowboys will be looking for a team that is seeking revenge from its only loss of the season, a team Dallas has beaten three straight times and is a 10-point favorite. The game will be played at Texas Stadium in Irving, Texas.

Iowa and Illinois have reflected much of the conference’s usual double set of season and Iowa’s big enough to make sure.

Defensive coordinator Dennis Thurman's pressure stuck quarterback Ryan Gannon in the pocket several times ... he also had a difficult game against Iowa State. When he was forced to throw, he was intercepted twice by Iowa's star safety Kirk Kramer.

"Iowa didn't give us a chance to do anything," said Thurman. "Their defense is very good and they made it tough for us to play a good game.

NBC cancels soaps, adds new games

By Jeffrey Miler

ABC's Entertainment Lawyer

TNTV was told that it will pull the usual levels of new shows for soap operas and will be replaced by a high-tech game of Twister at 10 p.m. The move was made by NBC, which has a reputation for being one of the least creative networks. The game, called "Twister," is a combination of Twister and Jeopardy, and it will be hosted by Alex Trebek. The show will be taped in Boston and will premiere on July 4th. The network has been criticized for its lack of original programming, and many analysts believe that this move is a step in the right direction. However, some fans have expressed concern that the new show will not be as entertaining as the old ones. NBC's decision to cancel the soaps and replace them with a high-tech game show is a move that is likely to be welcomed by many viewers. The network has been struggling to keep up with the competition from other networks, and this move is a step in the right direction. It is hoped that the new show will be a hit and will help NBC to retain its audience.
