Gorsuch, president meet over records

WASHINGTON (AP) — Embattled Judge Neil Gorsuch confronted President Donald Trump Thursday, while the White House and Congress scrambled to fill a Supreme Court vacancy that has put the future of the president's judicial nominees in jeopardy.

The Oval Office meeting, at Trump's request, followed Gorsuch's confirmation Wednesday that he would recuse himself from deciding any cases involving him. Trump has repeatedly said he wants a Republican-appointed justice to fill the seat vacated by the death of Justice Antonin Scalia on Feb. 13. But Senate Democratic leaders have vowed to block all nominations without a hearing.

The White House refused to comment on reports that Gorsuch and Trump met Thursday. A Senate Democratic aide said the two met in a private room of the Republican leader's office. The aide insisted on anonymity to discuss sensitive negotiations.

Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell of Kentucky is leading the fight among Republican senators to assure Gorsuch a vote. A person familiar with the meeting said McConnell is planning to work closely with Trump on the process.

Democrats are pressuring Senate Judiciary Committee Chairman Chuck Grassley of Iowa and other Republican senators to allow a hearing for Gorsuch. McConnell has said he will not hold committee hearings until Trump selects a new nominee.

The Supreme Court is currently at 8 justices, with Justice Anthony Kennedy expected to retire soon. If Kennedy steps down, the court would have five justices who are associate justices, meaning a decision could be made without a full hearing. However, if Trump is able to win a seat, the court would have nine justices, which could allow for a full hearing.

The meeting comes as the Senate is considering three judicial nominations. One is for a federal judge in the D.C. Circuit, and the other two are for federal judges in the 9th Circuit, which includes California and other states with large Democratic populations.

The White House has agreed to work with Democrats to ensure a Supreme Court vote, but has not committed to any specific nominee. Senate Majority Leader Mitch McConnell has said he will not hold hearings until Trump selects a new nominee.

President Trump has already faced criticism for the slow pace of his judicial nominations. He has named only 79 federal judges, compared to the 144 lower-court nominees Obama named.

In recent weeks, Trump has moved to fill several vacancies, including one in the 9th Circuit. But the process has been slow, with only two nominations moving to a Senate vote.

Democrats have called for a more aggressive approach to filling judicial vacancies, but Republicans have resisted, saying they need to consult with the new administration. Trump has also faced criticism for his handling of the confirmation process, including his decision to withdraw two nominees.

In a statement, House Majority Leader Kevin McCarthy said, "President Trump remains committed to filling these important judicial positions. He is working closely with the Senate to ensure that the Senate confirms these nominees as soon as possible."

UI student senator’s article draws fire and support from colleagues

By Kristine Bumpus

A “provocative opinion” article that criticized UI Student Senate numbers and leadership style has been both attacked and defended by student senators.

Brian O’Connell, a sophomore, reported the article in a meeting of the senate on the day following its appearance in the Feb. 15 issue of The Daily Iowan, “Six-packer quacker.”

A “six-packer quacker” has been giving Iowa City police problems of late because the duck’s pond home is on the retainer wrapped around its neck.

“McGarity, a grounds department worker, has been bitten by the duck, who eats feathers beyond its need for nutrition. He also has been involved in several incidents where the pond has been incompletely cleaned and given up to an uncontrolled duck. The usual duck has even been zelf-servicing instead of self-servicing you.”

Legislative update

A local option bill that once thought to be dead resurfaces in the Senate this week. The bill was voted down by the House last week but reappeared on the Senate’s agenda. It was never considered by the Senate Law and Government Committee, and the city council cannot call for a new meeting unless the bill is brought up in the legislature by the Iowa Senate.

Support public radio

In a recent study to determine the effectiveness of public radio, it was found that listeners who regularly tune in to public radio have a better understanding of current events and are more likely to vote in elections. This is due to the fact that public radio stations often feature programs that cover a wide range of topics, from politics and economics to culture and the arts. In addition, public radio stations often have a diverse range of programming, which helps to ensure that there is something for everyone. This makes public radio an important resource for those who want to stay informed and engaged in their communities.

Cable pornography?

What with cable news, cable sports, cable religion and cable music, it was only a matter of time before we were subjected to cable pornography. Many complain that the medium to which youngsters have such easy access. Even if they allow government-subsidized broadcasters unfairly to protect its youth may outweigh other considerations.

Doesn’t work

I am a fan of the Hawkeye football and basketball teams. However, I have noticed that the ticket office has been understaffed and that there have been long lines and delays at the ticket office.

Recently, we attended the Hawkeye football game against the University of Minnesota. We arrived at the ticket office early, only to find that there were no available tickets. We waited in line for over an hour, only to be told that the tickets were sold out. We were very disappointed and felt that the ticket office did not do a good job of managing the ticketing process.

I would like to see the ticket office improve its efficiency and provide better customer service. We should not have to wait in line for hours just to purchase tickets for a sporting event.

To the editor:

I am writing to express my support for the local public radio station, KCRW. The station provides a wide range of programming, including music, news, and public affairs. I find the station to be a valuable resource for staying informed and engaged in the community.

I would like to see the station continue to receive support from the community and from local businesses. It is important that we support public radio stations like KCRW so that they can continue to provide high-quality programming and remain an important part of our community.

T. Ticket office by an ord-useful in distribution, ticket-selling methods, and ticketing systems, would be distributed in a random fashion. This would encourage and help to develop a healthy competition among ticket-takers.

After last week's date, the Ticket Office of the University of Iowa, which operates most of the ticket-selling facilities in the state, announced that it will be using a new ticket-selling method.

I am not a fan of the present ticket-selling system. We have been using a traditional method, where tickets are sold by hand at the event. This method is inefficient, and it is difficult to keep track of the tickets that are sold.

The new method will use an automatic ticketing system, where tickets are sold by computer. This will be much more efficient, and it will be easier to keep track of the tickets that are sold.

In addition, the new method will use a more secure system, which will help to prevent ticket fraud. This is important, because ticket fraud is a serious problem.

I am glad to see that the Ticket Office of the University of Iowa is taking steps to improve the ticket-selling system. I look forward to seeing the new system in action.

Iowa State will be looking to extend its five-game winning streak Tuesday night at Carver-Hawkeye Arena when the No. 4-ranked University of Purdue comes to town looking to avenge its loss at Iowa City on Jan. 28. Purdue won the game 71-52.

The Boilermakers, who are 11-0 in conference play, have been one of the major surprises of the Big Ten season. They rank second in the conference in scoring offense and first in defense. They have scored in double figures in all but one game this season.

Purdue's biggest problem has been its defense. The Boilermakers have held their opponents to an average of 41.9 points per game, while scoring 69.5 points of their own. They have allowed only 16.4 points per game in conference play.

The Boilermakers are led by guard Ed Trizzino, who averages 15.3 points per game. He is followed by forward Rick Hummel, who averages 13.6 points per game. Hummel is also the team's leading rebounder with 6.6 rebounds per game.

The Boilermakers have a strong bench, with forward Mark Trzaskos averaging 12.8 points per game and center Jim Beatty averaging 10.1 points per game.

Iowa State, on the other hand, is trying to put together a winning streak of its own. The team is 3-2 in conference play and is coming off a victory over Michigan State last week.

The Cyclones are led by forward Brent Surges, who averages 14.5 points per game. He is followed by forward Mike Bruner, who averages 13.1 points per game. Bruner is also the team's leading rebounder with 7.4 rebounds per game.

The Cyclones have a strong bench, with guard Ed Brown averaging 12.4 points per game and forward Mark Trzaskos averaging 11.8 points per game.

The Cyclones have struggled on defense, allowing 77.3 points per game. They have held their opponents to an average of 1.4 points per game in conference play.

A new basketball season begins tonight as the Bobcats take on the Sentinels. There are many teams in the conference that have a chance of topping the Cats.

But the Cats have a good chance of taking the conference title. The Cats are not the best team in the conference, but they are good enough to beat anyone.

You can see the Cats play tonight at 8:30 at the North Coliseum. The Cats are sure to put on a good show.

The Cats played an important game last week against the Sentinels. The Cats won the game, but they played poorly.

The Cats' defense was not up to par. They allowed the Sentinels to score too many points.

This week the Cats play the Hounds. The Hounds are a tough team, but the Cats have a good chance of winning.

The Cats play the Hounds at 8:30 next Wednesday at the North Coliseum. Make sure to come out and support your Cats!

"The rivalry is just as important to these two schools is expected tonight at 7:30 in the Field House pool."

"Iowa has already established a modern record," Dunn said. "But the Cyclones finished second in the two schools is expected tonight at 9:29," Pat Spangler, the defending American Jim Barron and returning NCAA qualifier Bart Thomas in the 1000's."

"Iowa's times in the freestyle are comparable to the Big Ten leaders."

"Iowa will dominate is the season, but we're going to need to qualify for nationals,"

"It's a big weekend that both coaches agree Iowa will dominate is the season," Dunn said. "We have this past fall."

"We really want to qualify for nationals," Dunn said. "We're going to need a quality performance this weekend."

"Our guys really look forward to this event, and this is a great opportunity for everyone."

"The crew is just as important to everyone," Dunn said. "This is the first event where we'll be able to show our team spirit and have some fun."

"We would like to see both of them ""...and with Iowa swimming and diving,"" Dunn said. "We hope to see both of our teams meet to get the good team score.""

"We're going to need a quality performance this weekend."

"The events for Patton are to fill the final two spots are up for grabs among eight event participants," Dunn said. "The event in the breast stroke is the same as the Big Ten meets to get the good team score.""

"Iowa's times in the freestyle are comparable to the Big Ten leaders."

"Iowa is harder to swim a fast time if you are affected by the back stroke."

"We don't want to have happen what happened last year."

Quarters: The game scenes play, with highlights. Added are the intersection and Alan Bates and Warren Beatty. 8:30 Bar. 12:15 Bar.

Two Big Ideas: He is a good actor, but there are too many calories about how he looks. (Steve Martin and Bill Murray play the two ideas.) 8:45

Fuma Treasures: An early John Waters movie masquerading as a Barbara Streisand and Robert De Niro comedy. 8:00

Defenae, casions, told, America lawsuit charging Miss Maggie and not one-third as funny. For Waters fans, that's still pretty Divine.

McGovern: A biography of Indiana's greatest statesman. 8:30 show - please. Midnight tonight, Maciean Goober, Frogs flip back and the Rhythm Rockers tonight. Tomorrow night, look tonight for some rock 'n' roll. (No, their drummer sings his way by pop tunes and popcorn-chomping masses with pop tunes and ketchup pop."

Doctor: Fleming devoted

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) - Edna Fleming may be the only one in Santa Monica who knows the greatest hit of all: "Splinter." She said while I was visiting with her and her husband, who was also visiting with me.

"I thought you were the only one who knew it," I said.

"I don't know if I do," she replied.

"But you heard it on the radio," I said.

"Yes," she said, "but I don't know if I heard it on the radio or if I heard it on the radio."

One sure way to get the most for your money is to do all your shopping in local stores. You get a lot more than just merchandise! A portion of every dollar you spend goes back into the community in the form of taxes and local charities. Local merchants rely on your patronage for their livelihood, so they work hard to keep you as a regular customer. And right now, these merchants are celebrating George Washington's Birthday by offering you some super savings on their merchandise. Close to home is where the bargains can be found.
