Capabilities of civil defense plan argued

Schane Stewart

The Federal Bureau of Narcotics has taken the civil defense program with armfuls of suspicion. In a recent interview, FBI director J. Edgar Hoover said, "We have been informed that the government is planning to use the civil defense plan in the event of a nuclear attack. This is a grave concern to us." Hoover also stated that the FBI has been asked to provide manpower and resources to help implement the civil defense plan.

On the other hand, some civil defense leaders argue that the plan is necessary to protect citizens in the event of a nuclear attack. Fielder, former civil defense director of the Old Brick Peninsula, said, "The government must do everything in its power to protect its citizens. The civil defense plan is a vital component of this effort."

Fielder noted that the civil defense plan includes evacuation procedures and shelter provisions. "These plans are critical in ensuring the safety of our citizens," he said.

Crandall, director of the Iowa Office of Disaster Services, at the third and final segment of the Old Brick Forums, stressed the importance of his agency. "The civil defense plan is a vital tool in protecting our citizens."

Crandall said not only is a nuclear war extremely likely, but it is also possible that a nuclear attack could occur. "We must be prepared," he said.

The defensive capabilities of the civil defense plan are seen by some as limited. Fielder doubts these figures, since he believes the government's estimates of up to 180 million casualties in the event of such an attack are too high. "We need to reassess these figures," he said.

In summary, the civil defense plan is a complex and multifaceted effort to protect citizens in the event of a nuclear attack. The government has taken steps to implement the plan, but civil defense leaders argue that more needs to be done to ensure the safety of citizens.
Criminals may have to pay jail costs

Criminals in Johnson County may have to start paying for their stay in jail.

The number of investigations and the amount of narcotics seized rose dramatically in 1982 than ever before.

"With that new drunk driving law, you're going to see a lot more people in jail," says county Supervisor Richard Myers.

"It's a catch-22 situation," the 32-year-old co-owner says. "If you're going to be in jail, why spend money to purchase illegal drugs in the first place?"

Three people were sentenced Friday for their involvement in a gambling ring headquartered in Iowa City.

Mary Ann Kramer, 29, secretary at Iowa City, will report to court in 30 days and serve a year in prison at Cincinnati, Ohio. Kramer was charged with managing an illegal gambling operation.

Harry Kent, a 52-year-old demolition operator, will serve 10 years and pay a fine for his role in the operation.

Kenneth Knauer, 21, also was charged with managing an illegal gambling operation.

"It's a pretty classic arrangement," said county Supervisor Myers. "You pay for my or her stay, or she makes enough money to meet and send back to jail. But local board members say they will not agree to close circle counterparts. Although all members of the Johnson County Board of Supervisors said they have no objection to sending inmates back to jail, they also noted tighter budgets back would deter flooding.

Although the resolution was introduced by Supervisor Dennis Langenberg, he said, "It is a reason to help the jail budget. I think it is just one of those problems by sending prisoners back they don't have enough budget."

"It's a catch-22 situation," he said. "We need more people to start paying for their stay in jail."

"We will have to do that in the near future," he said. "I don't think we should be afraid to keep them in there some legal Catch-22," he said.

Senate eliminates budget clause that allows funding discretion

By Kristina Stenersen

Iowa and other states are one of this nation's special cases with budget provisions that offer a unique opportunity to limit fiscal discretion. The Iowa Senate has used this provision to limit the fiscal discretion of its governor and other state officials. The provision allows for the elimination of a budget that is not in compliance with the state's budgetary requirements.

The Senate Rights Committee felt that what we had done before was too lenient of a provision. They were concerned about the governor's ability to make changes to the budget without the approval of the legislature. The committee recommended that the provision be strengthened by requiring the governor to provide a written explanation of any changes made to the budget.

The constitutional necessity of the provision was questioned. What we wanted was a way to ensure that the governor was not making changes to the budget that were not in the best interests of the state. We wanted to ensure that the governor was making changes that were in line with the legislative intent.

Our recommendation is that the governor should provide a written explanation of any changes made to the budget. The explanation should include the reasons for the changes, the impact they will have on the state's finances, and how they align with the legislative intent.

KATHY REDD, a student senator and member of the senate budgeting committee, said even if the provision were strengthened, it would be difficult to determine what a group of people considered to be in the best interest of the state.

Readers will remember that the budget committee did not even look at the entire definition of the budget act when they determined their recommendations for funding the next year. In some cases, they made changes to the main portion of the budget without the consent of the committee, even though they were in line with the committee's recommendations.

President Bean announcing the governor's budget and then changing it is unacceptable to the people of the state. It is the role of the legislature to oversee the budget and ensure that it is in line with the people's interests.

We would like to see the provision strengthened to require the governor to provide a written explanation of any changes made to the budget. This will ensure that the governor is making changes that are in line with the legislative intent and the best interests of the state.

Getting Started

Muskie, a former congressman and governor, said, "This is an issue that has become increasingly relevant to the public. The question is, do people really want to see a buildup of arms?"

The Builder's Approach

In a speech before the audience, Muskie said, "We believe that the key to controlling the arms race is the so-called nuclear freeze proposal, which would require both the United States and the Soviet Union to freeze the buildup of arms for six months."

The Builder's Proposal

Muskie continued, "The nuclear freeze legislative framework is the only way to bring about a meaningful reduction in the arms race."

The Builder's Reaction

A strong reaction followed, with many people questioning the proposal. Joe may be an example of this trend."

The Builder's Conclusion

Muskie concluded, "I think the nuclear freeze legislation is currently under consideration in both houses of Congress but he said, "Let's make no mistake about it. There is a large segment of the population that favors a military freeze."

The Builder's Final Words

Muskie ended his speech, saying, "In conclusion, I would like to say that we are at a critical juncture in our arms control efforts."

Toys

Think, we should give those people in power some encouragement that, "said Muskie."

The Builder's Sources

The building industry, according to Muskie, is a major source of revenue for the government."

The Builder's Conclusion

Spring brings hope?

Long-anticipated warm temperatures broke through a long, dreary winter. People are happy and soon will be spending much more time outdoors. A few more days of snow, but soon everything will be blooming and growing. The waiting season is over, and fresh spring grass will soon be available.

New zoning ordinance

Juniata City's proposed new zoning ordinance is a cumbersome 177 pages long. It's long because it attempts to address every possible issue. But it's needed. The current law is nearly impossible to enforce, so the new ordinance is a big step forward. It tackles many issues, from parking to the location of businesses. The city council should be commended for its efforts to make the ordinance as comprehensive as possible.

THE OTHER PLAN is based on a program used in Vietnam to win the war. The government of South Vietnam is losing the war. The United States government has no plan to win the war. The government of South Vietnam is losing the war.

THE OTHER PLAN, in an effort to stabilize the South Vietnamese government, is as follows: The United States government should commit its entire economic and military aid to the government of South Vietnam. The United States government should work closely with the government of South Vietnam to stabilize the government of South Vietnam. The United States government should not withdraw its economic and military aid to the government of South Vietnam.

President Reagan is currently considering this plan. He is considering this plan because he believes it will stabilize the government of South Vietnam. He is considering this plan because he believes it will stabilize the government of South Vietnam.

The President has not yet decided on this plan. The President has not yet decided on this plan.

Is Baby Doe regulation defective?

WHEN THE REAGAN administration last spring proposed the "Baby Doe" regulation to the Supreme Court, the opponents of the regulation saw it as a direct assault on their position. They saw it as a direct assault on their position.

But just by the evolutionists' absence from the debate, we may be able to grasp the nature of the debate. The evolutionists, who are called "creationists," have been forced to deal with the issue of the regulation. The evolutionists are called "creationists" because they believe in the literal interpretation of the Bible. The creationists believe that the Bible is the word of God and that it contains the truth.

We have no idea what the baby is. But just by the evolutionists absence from the debate, we may be able to grasp the nature of the debate. The evolutionists, who are called "creationists," have been forced to deal with the issue of the regulation. The evolutionists believe that the Bible is the word of God and that it contains the truth.

What are the implications of this? The evolutionists believe that the Bible is the word of God and that it contains the truth. The creationists believe that the Bible is the word of God and that it contains the truth. The creationists believe that the Bible is the word of God and that it contains the truth. The creationists believe that the Bible is the word of God and that it contains the truth.

Shultz visit may convince Mideast to adopt peace plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan stepped up efforts to break the deadlock in negotiations in Lebanon by sending a new envoy, former Secretary of State George Shultz, to Beirut.

Shultz, with personal messages for key leaders, will travel to Israel to meet Prime Minister Menachem Begin, seeking an end to the Lebanon war. He would then travel to Cairo, Egypt, his first stop on the Israeli-Lebanon negotiations in trying to decide whether to make another visit to the region.

Reagan said in a Saturday radio address he wouldn't make his deal. The secretary of state, who is expected to arrive in Beirut today, is scheduled to meet with his Lebanese counterpart, Prime Minister Rashid al-Sleiman, and President Michel Aflaq.

"We have entered the era of the imperial presidency in the U.S.," Carter said in a radio address. "We have a president who is not bound by the Constitution or by the will of the people."

Carter, who has a total of about $713,200 in state and federal campaign money, said he would run in the general election as a "protest candidate" against the "imperial presidency."

"We have entered the era of the imperial presidency in the U.S.," Carter said in a radio address. "We have a president who is not bound by the Constitution or by the will of the people."

Carter, who has a total of about $713,200 in state and federal campaign money, said he would run in the general election as a "protest candidate" against the "imperial presidency."

The magazine found that Carter spent $96,000 in poor 1978 and $3.95 in poor 1979; Ford gets a total of about $3.50 in poor 1978 and $70,000 in poor 1979; and Nixon: $26,000 in poor 1978 and $18,000 in poor 1979.

Celtics end ‘biting’ mini-series against Atlanta

By Steve Batterson

United Press International.

In the first two games of their 10-game mini-series, the Hawks had made the Boston Celtics and their glorious past the butt of their jokes. But Boston coach Red Auerbach would have had a crooked smile on his face had he been watching the second game from the Boston Garden balcony. The Celtics today were the ones trying to laugh off the Hawks, and in the process, the Hawks were left flat on their backs. It was the same thing happening in Philadelphia and Portland. It had been a fight midway through the third period, as the Los Angeles Lakers and the New York Knicks split a four-game series in the NBA Western Conference semifinals Wednesday night. The Lakers won the opening game, 110-108, and the Knicks won the next two, 120-116 and 119-118. But today, the Lakers held off the Knicks, 106-98, and split the series. It was a fight midway through the third period.

The Hawks, who have played in games and covered nearly 1,000 miles in the last week, came into the game with a 5-5-1 record in the mini-series. But they were overwhelmed by the Hawks tonight.

The Hawks also received powerful hitting from Larry Bird and 14 in International baseball. The Hawks had not played as many games as the Hawks, and they had not played as many games as the Hawks.

Wisconsin sprinter hits high gear in relay as homeless drop close dual

By Steve King

Wisconsin sprinter Leroy Drummen runs like a cat with mile-ending speed. He was rated the top sprinter in the nation heading into the Iowa track meet. After his Milwaukee teammate, Steve Troup, set the pace in the 220, Drummen was followed by Wisconsin's Wayne Roby, who won the race. Drummen was leading a fleet of runners, just fast enough to win...

Iowa's Zwiener sees bright points through apparent gloom at Purdue

By Robert Ryker

The Iowa men's golf team finished last in their first Big Ten meet. Friday's first round was very bad. Drummen was a key member of the team.

Drummen said he was very disappointed. He said they had a good practice week, but they just didn't play well. He said they had a lot of trouble putting it all together.

Drummen said they had some bright spots, but they also had some trouble. They were close to winning the meet, but they just couldn't put it all together.

Women's track

The Iowa women's track team finished fourth in the NCAA meet. They were led by Mary Heidbreder, who won the 800-meter race. They also had a good showing in the relay events. Iowa's Mary Heidbreder won the meet with a time of 1:54.21.

Strong doubles play keys Iowa upset

By Mike Conlon

Iowa State Coach Steve North said he was "pleased, if not excited," because his team defeated No. 1-ranked Minnesota in the Big Ten title game.

"I'm not going to say we played our best," North said, "but we didn't play our worst."

The Hawkeyes won 6-1, 6-0 at No. 1, 7-6, 6-2 at No. 2, 6-2, 4-6, 6-2 at No. 3, 6-1, 6-2 at No. 4, 6-4, 6-2 at No. 5, 6-2, 6-0 at No. 6.

North said the team's win was crucial because it was the Hawkeyes' only victory in the Big Ten tournament.

"This is the first time we've won a conference title," North said. "We've had our chances, but we haven't been able to put it all together."

The Hawkeyes have been inconsistent all season, finishing with a 12-8 record.

North said the team's victory was important because it was the Hawkeyes' first victory over a ranked team.

"We've been close in a lot of matches," North said. "We just needed a little more consistency."

The Hawkeyes have won only four of their last 12 matches.

Hall and Oates gig is tight, but rushed

By Tom Butcher

D AVE, HALL, and John Oates are as close as you can get to the real thing. They do not just show up at a gig, they are there. If you want to see a live Oates gig, you have to see this one. The three musicians are not just a band, they are a tight unit. They work well together, and the energy they bring to the stage is contagious.

The band's performance is tight, and their music is as tight as it gets. Although they have been together for a long time, they still have the same level of energy and enthusiasm that they had when they first started playing together.

The setlist is classic, and it includes some of their biggest hits. The crowd is engaged, and they are all having a good time. The energy is high, and the music is just as good. Overall, it was a fantastic gig. If you get the chance to see them live, don't hesitate.

Artwork by De Minio stars as Rupert Pupkin, a stand-up comic determined to shake the void, in The King of Comedy.

‘King of Comedy’ tells about, but can’t explain, its hero’s obsession

Michael Penn

Rupert Pupkin, the hero of The King of Comedy, isn’t a question. It’s simply something he doesn’t understand.

Everything—his in-itself where passion, Iowa

The King of Comedy, now playing at the Iowa, might yet another collaboration for Robert De Niro, and Rupert Pupkin might yet another alter ego of the actor. De Niro has been directed for the many roles that he seems to have an equal amount of passion in. In New York, New York, De Niro, who is for many people the very definition of the star, in the most insane. In both performances, he seems to be a man who is not only passionate about his work, but who is truly passionate about the person he is playing.

The King of Comedy, De Niro's first film since the tragic death of director Martin Scorsese, is a tale of an audience in the world of Jerry Lewis, a Hollywood legend who has passed away. De Niro wasLetter, one of the few people who are passionate about the character they are playing. In the film, De Niro is a man who is not only passionate about his work, but who is truly passionate about the person he is playing.

In De Niro's earlier efforts, some say he doesn't like to be the cause of Pupkin's exploitation. That's because some people have it and some people don't. Rupert Pupkin, he ultimately, he kidnaps Jerry Lewis in order to appear on network TV. "Better to be a king for a night," Pupkin says at the end of the movie, but ultimately, he kidnaps Jerry Lewis in order to appear on network TV. "Better to be a king for a night," Pupkin says at the end of the movie, but ultimately, he kidnaps Jerry Lewis in order to appear on network TV. "Better to be a king for a night," Pupkin says at the end of the movie, but ultimately, he kidnaps Jerry Lewis in order to appear on network TV.

But it's also an examination. Art is the source of all the things we necessarily address. Robert De Niro's Pupkin, grand, neither does it ask, nor does it reach for the world, whether it be enough. It can't. This answer to the latter demand would depend upon the answer to the former. The King of Comedy raises some volatile issues. It's provocative, maybe even confusing. But these collaborations, it's memorable for its moments of insight into madness.

But because it can't adequately explain the character it creates, it's also not enough. At the end of The King of Comedy, Rupert Pupkin is aware of this, or any of the confrontations.

At the Bijou

Alfred E. Boucek's The Seven Samurai is one of the greatest films of all time. It is the 1962 release of a film that was released in the 1950s. The film follows the fate of seven farmers in a war-torn country, who wake up one day to find that their village has been destroyed by bandits. The farmers must band together to fight the bandits, and they are helped by a group of wandering samurai.

In addition to The Seven Samurai, there are several other films being shown at the Bijou. These include:

- The Magnificent Seven
- The Good Bad and Ugly
- A Fistful of Dollars
- For a Few Dollars More

These films are all part of the "Western" genre, and they are all popular classics among moviegoers.

Television

You'll have to wait until after prime time if you want to see the show on TV. First, ABC's "Nightline" episode of an hour, with Ted Koppel and the "hard news" as much as three hours later. The network's news and public affairs shows have been pushed back from their usual timeslots.

Nights are the most popular and innovative. If all TV news were like this, print critics would have to start writing their own copy, and newspaper editors would have to start writing their own stories. The newscasts are a step in the right direction, but they still fall short of the mark.

To watch the show, tune in at 11:30 p.m. on ABC.
