UI tenure probe reveals no wrongdoing

By Richard Bersten

The university’s investigation into the ethics of Secretary of the Interior James D. Watkins has concluded with no wrongdoing found.

The investigation, which was conducted by the U.S. Department of the Interior’s Office of Inspector General, found that Watkins did not violate any laws or ethical standards.

The investigation started in March 1983, after the university’s Board of Regents received a complaint alleging that Watkins had violated the Hatch Act, which prohibits federal employees from participating in political campaigns.

No further action is expected.

U.S. peace mission is risky diplomacy

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz said Tuesday the new peace mission he was leading to the Middle East aimed at removing Israeli settlements from Lebanese territory.

“I am confident an agreement can be reached within the framework of the Lebanese union,” Shultz said.

The new peace mission would be a substitute for the failed Shultz mission in early 1982.

The new mission would be led by Shultz, who resigned as Treasury secretary to take over from Alexander Haig. The new mission would be a diplomatic disaster for Shultz, if it were to fail.

The Israelis maintain the Lebanon is a substitute for their security needs in southern Lebanon and what the Lebanese consider their “security zone.”

The new mission would be aimed at removing Israeli settlements from Lebanese territory.

On the heels of Israel and Jordan’s agreement to the principle of removing Israeli settlements from Lebanese territory, Shultz said he was confident an agreement could be reached with the Lebanese.

Council considers injunction to stop building near airport

By Mark Leonard

In a last-ditch effort to save nearly $2 million in federal grant money, the Iowa City Council might have to consider an injunction to stop construction of a residential development near the Iowa City Airport. The city is also contemplating purchasing the land to prevent the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) from selling it to the construction firm.

Two weeks ago, the FAA informed the city that if the city did not obtain $30,000 in federal funding, the FAA would pay for renovations at the airport. The city, however, was informed earlier than expected because of funds it will receive from a five-month investigation into a report.

The FAA has called for a clarification of the city's statement on the development of the airport. The city is uncertain if the federal agency has the authority to prevent the city from constructing the airport.

The situation is becoming more critical for the city as FAA Administrator Edward Schmeiser said to the council Monday that Kenneth Ranshaw's development will be in place if it does not receive federal funding.

The city and FAA have not reached an agreement on the airport land. The city has decided to send a clarification to the FAA to prevent the construction firm from building the airport.

Another option is to try to save the airport for the city. The city could also file for an injunction to prevent the construction firm from building the airport.

The council will be in a tight schedule to consider the FAA's request and its options. The FAA has not given the city any information about the airport.

The city has decided to send a clarification to the FAA to prevent the construction firm from building the airport. The city will then have to decide what to do next.

Bill helps hospital finish projects

By Brian Griggs

Iowa City Veteran Administration Hospital will be able to finish two improvement projects rather than expected because of funds it will receive from a report.

The hospital had a May 1 deadline to receive $150,000 from the Iowa Society for Hospital Advancement to finish two projects. The city will allow the project to proceed without the society's funds.

The hospital is also considering purchasing the property for the city. If the city decides to purchase the property, it will have to give the property to the FAA.

ROOF REPAIR AND replacement for the main structure of the building will take place only if the funds are used for the roof. The second half will pay for renovation of the walls, including wall replacements, storage and decorative masonry.

Work on projects begins as early as this week.

The number of jobs to be done will depend largely on the contractor who receives the work. It has not been decided yet what the number of people is.

Employees learn how to keep fit

By Karin Harris

The Iowa City Personnel Director Anne Poulsen has an answer to the city's employee health crisis.

"I've noticed that many employees are beginning to take a break from their busy schedules and are making changes in their lifestyle," Poulsen said.

The term "wellness" implies "there's more to health than the obvious of disease," Poulsen said. A wellness program considers elements such as physical fitness, diet, and general awareness. "It looks at all those things and more and then it all comes together," she continued.

Poulsen attributes the program's success to "the fact that employees are willing to keep their personal health in mind," she said.

"It's the first time they've had the opportunity to participate," Poulsen said. "It's been available to county employees since the summer of 1984, but we didn't start in Iowa City until November.

The program began with a 30-day assessment of employees' physical fitness, which they could not do for themselves. "We said, 'Let's find an opportunity to do this,'" Poulsen said. "We took a look at the schedule and decided to see how fit they are.

Poulsen is countersuing the Grells for $7,725, and they are seeking the same amount from her company by the Grells, she said.

"I've been out of the company and of 'looting the bezzlement accusations and asks that the suit be dismissed,'" Poulsen said.

"This is not going to be a personal decision because it has been found that employees aren't being paid," Poulsen said.

In Poulsen's answer, he denies the fraud and asks the Legislature to intervene in the matter.

Iowa City residents will be able to quench their thirsts at the Casino Night, a fundraiser for the Johnson County Democratic Party. The fundraising event, which begins at 6 p.m., was the main topic of discussion at the party's Monday night meeting.

Chairman Jeffrey Cox emphasized that the success of Casino Night is dependent on the generosity of the attendees. "If the guests are generous, the evening will be a success. If not, we may have to postpone," Cox said. The budget for the event was set at $50,000, but Cox expects that the final budget will be lower. Issues concerning financing were discussed at the meeting.

Judge Robert Williams, a candidate for the U.S. Senate, was the high point of the meeting. "While Dr. Williams perhaps was not the most eloquent speaker, he was able to make his points clearly," Cox said. "He was able to make his points clearly," Cox said. "He was able to make his points clearly," Cox said. "He was able to make his points clearly," Cox said.

The Iowa City council will consider a proposal to prohibit the sale of alcohol at the event, but the decision will be made by the Iowa City council.

The Democratic Party of Iowa will hold a meeting at the event's main sponsor, the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce. "We are excited to have the Iowa City council as our sponsor," Cox said. "We hope that they will support our efforts."

The event will feature a raffle, an auction, and a variety of other activities. The raffle will feature a wide range of prizes, including tickets to local events, gift certificates, and other items. The auction will feature a variety of items, including art, furniture, and other collectibles.

The event will also feature a live band, a DJ, and a variety of other entertainment options. The Iowa City council will be on hand to support the event.

Compensation is due

Debates in the U.S. House of Representatives are scheduled this week to discuss a bill that would compensate Vietnam veterans with illnesses that may have been caused by Agent Orange. Although it has begun treating some conditions that may have been caused by Agent Orange, the VA has refused to pay any compensation to Vietnam veterans who believe their illnesses may be related to Agent Orange. The VA has insisted that the illnesses are not related to Agent Orange and that it has refused to pay any compensation.

The government argues that there is no proof that Agent Orange has caused any illnesses. However, many veterans believe that the VA is not being fair in its decision-making process. There are, in fact, efforts to limit care for Vietnam veterans. The government asserts there is no proof that Agent Orange, a chemical used in the Vietnam War, has caused any illnesses.

Some are more equal?

One of the great things about our American democratic system is that we are all equal. After all, this is the land of "one man - one vote" and "equal protection under the law," where everyone has the same opportunity to participate in our political process. However, is this the case? Is everyone treated equally by the government?

Here's what the government response to this question shows:

- The government response to this question shows that everyone is not treated equally by the government.
- There are efforts to limit care for Vietnam veterans, and the government asserts there is no proof that Agent Orange, a chemical used in the Vietnam War, has caused any illnesses.

EL SALVADOR army criticized as weak

VIENNA, Austria (UPI) - Austria's Social Democratic Party has rebuffed Chancellor Bruno Kreisky's offer to head a government of partnership and declared it will select its own prime minister.

Kreisky agreed to head the negotiations, due to start today with the main opposition conservative Peoples Party, but he said he would not agree to the remainder of the Social Democrats' list of conditions.

Socialists regain power in Portuguese elections

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) - Portugal's Socialists have returned to power after the Socialists, led by Prime Minister Mario Soares, won a surprising election victory among the right-wing electorate.

The Socialists won 46 of the 280 seats in Parliament and 37 percent of the vote, giving Soares a majority in the legislature.

The right-wing coalition of parties, led by Prime Minister aos Carlos Alberto dos Santos Silva, won 119 seats and 43 percent of the vote.

The election was a setback for the right-wing National Front, which had hoped to win a majority and form a government.

The Socialists, who had been in opposition for 13 years, won 37 percent of the vote, gaining 14 seats in Parliament.

The right-wing coalition, which had held power since 1974, lost 8 percent of the vote and 14 seats.

L-ake-rs may spell trouble for Portland

By Thomas W. Jorge

The chances of Boston losing one of the superstars who have made the Boston Bruins try to disrupt a dynasty are slim. But the Black Hawks are still a threat for the Black Hawks are still a threat for Portland.

Defense prevails in weekend wins for rugby club

By Jill Heslin
April 2, 2022

With strong defensive play, the Iowa City women’s rugby team defeated Western Illinois, 24-6, last weekend at the Backbone Drive Fields.

"We played a lot stronger game defensively this weekend, and most teams really admire that," Anderson said. "It’s definitely what we need to get things going." The Iowa City women’s Rugby Club defeated the University of Iowa, 19-15, in Iowa City last weekend, and scored their first shutout of the season, 32-0, in their second game.

"Our girls just seem to drive a little harder," Anderson said. "We had a lot of great new faces allowing us to challenge the game," Anderson said.

The Iowa City Women’s Rugby Club will face their next challenge this weekend. They will host their first tournament at 10 a.m. on Sunday. Eight teams from Missouri, Illinois, and Missouri will all participate.

Draft

Two players from last year’s team that are considered key players in the 2022 draft are offensive tackle Brett Miller and defensive back Cole Byun. Miller, who played one year for Iowa’s offensive line, is expected to be a top pick in the upcoming draft. Cole Byun was a key contributor last year, but is considered a long shot playing in the NFL because of his size and position. He is projected as a late-round pick, but has the potential to be a sleeper.

Reed's 'Legendary Hearts' is no silly love song

By Kevin Parks

DIRECTOR Thomas Schlamme brings the well-known love story of Helen Hayes and her famous actress lover, Garvey, to PBS' "American Playhouse," now airing on PBS. "Legendary Hearts" is the story of the most famous couple in the history of American theater and how their love affair, which lasted 25 years, transformed the lives of both people. The play is written by P.L. Travers and directed by Peter Hall.

The characters of Helen Hayes and Garvey are played by Jennifer Jones and Richard Burton, respectively, and the play is set in the U.S. and England. The production is funded by the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Reed is the lead character in the film, and he is portrayed by a man named Jack. Reed is a talented actor who has been nominated for an Academy Award four times for his performances in "Greed," "Tradition," "Endless," and "Breakdown." Reed's character in "Legendary Hearts" is based on the real-life character of John Reed, who was a leader in the Bolshevik Revolution and a key figure in the early stages of the Russian Revolution.

Reed's character in "Legendary Hearts" is a complex and controversial figure. He is shown as both a strong supporter of the revolution and a man who is often at odds with the ideas of his fellow Bolsheviks. Reed's character is also shown as a man who is constantly in conflict with his own desires and aspirations.

The film is directed by Edward Zwick, who is known for his work on films such as "Glory," "Good Night, and Good Luck," and "The Legend of Bagger Vance." Zwick's film is a powerful and moving story that explores the themes of love, commitment, and the power of the human spirit.

In "Legendary Hearts," Reed's character is shown as a man who is torn between his love for Helen Hayes and his desire to help bring about a new world through the revolution. Reed's character is also shown as a man who is constantly struggling with his own identity and the demands of the revolution.

The film is a powerful and moving story that explores the themes of love, commitment, and the power of the human spirit. It is a story that has been told many times before, but Reed's performance as Reed is a new and powerful take on a classic story. The film is a must-see for anyone interested in the history of the Russian Revolution and the lives of John Reed and Helen Hayes.
