Libya official shot 7 times in Lebanon

United Press International

Libya's highest-ranking diplomat in Lebanon was shot seven times in an assassination attempt Friday night at a Beirut hotel and reported to be in serious condition, the diplomat's aide said.

The victim was Left Col. Yusuf Arafat, who has been described as Tripoli's ambassador to the United Nations. The shooting took place near the hotel, where he had been staying.

Guerrillas alienated by Arafat diplomacy

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Arafat's government has failed to win the support of guerrilla factions, whose followers have been presented with a hard choice — either back the guerrilla mutiny against him or continue to support the government.

Their commanders have been divided, and the government's efforts to win the guerrillas' support have been met with skepticism. The government has offered to grant amnesty to guerrilla leaders who have turned against Arafat, but many guerrillas have refused to accept the offer.

Legislators split on admissions standards

A bill that would have required public schools to admit all students based on a lottery system was defeated in the state legislature on Tuesday. The bill was introduced by Sen. John T. Ryan, R-Lemont, who said it would help ensure equal opportunities for all students.

Ryan said the bill was necessary because the current system of school funding is unfair and does not provide an equal opportunity for all students. He said that the lottery system would be fairer because it would give every student an equal chance to attend a good school.

UI appeals court’s power in tenure suit

By Tom Buckingham

The UI must decide today whether to accept a single hearing on the tenure appeal filed by a faculty member who was denied tenure last year. The university’s decision could have implications for future tenure decisions.

The tenure review process at UI is governed by a system of procedures that are designed to protect the rights of faculty members. The system is intended to ensure that tenure decisions are made on the basis of merit and not on the basis of political or personal considerations.

In the fall, the UI’s Board of Regents rejected the tenure appeal of a faculty member who had been denied tenure last year. The member’s appeal was rejected because the university’s procedures did not allow for a single hearing.

The university’s procedures require that tenure appeals be heard by a panel of faculty members, who then make a recommendation to the Board of Regents. The Board of Regents then makes the final decision on whether to grant tenure.

The UI’s tenure system is modeled after the tenure system at the University of Wisconsin. The UI’s system is designed to ensure that tenure decisions are made on the basis of merit and not on the basis of political or personal considerations.

Staff writers did not find much reassurance in the latest regents' meeting. According to Michael Brody, a member of the committee that drafts the annual report, there are two clauses in the new budget that are intended to ensure fairness for all.

"This is a year in which we have found ourselves in the position of having to cut back," said Mike Brody. "We're trying to give the regents an accurate picture of what the situation is for the time being," he added. "Our goal is to provide a budget that will serve the needs of the future."}

By Mark Leonard

Some Iowa City regents have joined the trend of universities across the country by cutting tuition and fees. This is a step in the right direction for enrollment growth for non-resident students.

"The new standards will require an American College to spend 10% of its endowment on faculty salaries," said President James Stroud. "This is an effort to ensure that adequate funds are available to keep the university competitive with comparable institutions."}

Richard Hargrave

"The new standards are necessary and costly," he said. "Last year we had to provide for a faculty vitality that we believe is essential to the success of the university."}

Problems brush-shined

Because of a dress and grooming code approved by wardens at Iowa's correctional facilities, the 80 guards at the Iowa State Men's Reformatory in Anamosa will now be required to wear hairnets as part of their uniforms. The policy requires headwear to cover "gray, black, brown or white" hair, and for hair to be "short, neat and trimmed," even to the extent of "shaved heads, brushed-back black hair. Beginning on Wednesday, guards at Anamosa won't be allowed to have hair that "extends beyond the head, even to the point of not being able to be hidden under their hat" provided, however, the heads are "mostly covered." The new code is more than cosmetic. It is a derivative tactic by state officials to put on the back burner problems of real substance — like why Iowa prisons are overcrowded now and in the past at any one time in history. "The wanted consistency of appearance throughout the entire institution," says Anamosa Warden Carl Olsen, echoing the sentiments of wardens throughout the state. "You must remember that the hair and dress code is one very worker in the prison, and just the guards. Some get them get some hair reasons. Over half of our guards treat the right of life. Of course they are not suffering from the new bill.

I'm for

A NAACP member is certain to send a letter to the "militaristic" force who will only hurt the guards' ability to work with inmates, who will now be seen as stronger authoritative figures.

Private officials should worry about their real problems, not to much mushies.

Max Madsen, Dsm

Trickling away

It has now been officially confirmed that Realagans is not along the state of Iowa and map. The U.S. Treasury Department reported that federal aid to the state and local governments dropped by more than 40 billion dollars between 1980 and 1981 - a 10 percent reduction.

The money came not only from highway construction and maintenance funds, but also from community development funds, but it came from such programs as the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act. Much of the money was spent on school and child nutrition, federal aid to secondary and elementary schools and Aid to Families with Dependent Children. The number of federal programs available to state and local governments was reduced from 169 to 118, with 14 of the programs being transferred to state blockade.

Rhodes, in detailing his probable levels of federal spending for non-military programs, immediately outlines these programs, but only smaller-than-expected project increases.

That the policy may not be the result, and the law has been that the state, county and municipal governments must pick up the slack. Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley called the federal aid "just a bonus" and "not a tax." Mayor Richard J. Daley said the city's budget was based on the premise that the federal aid would not be available.

The opinion, handed down Thursday by Associate Justice General Gary Hardman, said private firms cannot furnish an Iowa prison, not just the guards. Some of them get some funny looking "fu manchu" size and wealth - the opinion necessitates a change.

German official says Russians willing to negotiate on missiles

BONN, West Germany (UPI) - A member of the Russian diplomatic mission here Monday evening from Moscow famed the Soviet Union may be prepared to begin negotiations on arms limitation in Europe, as reported here.

"It should be possible for a compromise to be made in this connection," Charles Valente, senior political officer of the state of Baden-Wurttemberg, told reporters here Monday evening.

"The experts on the West German side are even willing to begin new strategic arms reductions proposals and new diplomacy," he said.

"My colleagues believe the Reagan administration is handicapped in its dealing with Moscow by the lack of high-level contacts."

The president will perform mostly ceremonial duties here as he attends a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) in Brussels, including the 572 cruise and medium-range missiles.

"If we don't see a breakthrough in the next months, we will begin deployment," Woerner told reporters here Monday.

"It is not up to the U.S. to decide who will negotiate and who will not," he said.

THAILAND (UPI) - Russian defense minister Marshal Nikolai Voznyayev will begin his four-day tour of the Far East here Tuesday, a Thai government spokesman said.

"The purpose of the trip is to discuss the situation in the Far East with the Thai government," the spokesman said.

"The Russian defense minister is expected to discuss the military situation in the Far East with the Thai government and to visit several Thai military bases."

Ohio State golfers building a dynasty

By Thomas J. W. Jerg

Jim Brown, the Ohio State golfer, reached a lot of new heights on Monday, Aug. 22. He won the NCAA Championships at Columbus, Ohio.

Some of the highlights of the tournament were the Ohio State team's three-straight top-five finishes. Ohio State finished 10th-consecutive, a record for the school.

The team was coached by Dan Gable, who led the team to a top-five finish. Gable has been at Ohio State for three years, and has led the team to a top-five finish in each of those years.

"We've been playing great, but we can still beat anybody," Brown said. "I just hope we can keep it up."
An ultrahigh-suspension surveillance and attack helicopter has the title role in John Badham's film "Blue Thunder." The movie is a spin-off from the television series of the same name.

"Blue Thunder" hovers over dilemma of high technology

"Blue Thunder" is a spin-off from the television series of the same name. The movie has been described as a "high-tech Western." The film is set in the year 2010 and features a newfangled police helicopter with advanced surveillance and offensive capabilities. The helicopter is equipped with sophisticated technology, including radar and infrared sensors, as well as weapons such as machine guns.

The film's hero, Frank Murphy (played by Roy Scheider), is a seasoned police officer who is assigned to the experimental "Blue Thunder" helicopter. The helicopter is designed to be a "fly-by-wire" system, allowing the operator to control it with a joystick instead of using traditional controls.

The movie opens with a scene of the helicopter hovering over Los Angeles, observing a group of criminals. The pilot, Murphy, is able to use the helicopter's advanced technology to track and eliminate the criminals. The movie then follows Murphy as he uses the helicopter to investigate a series of crimes, including a bank robbery and a hostage situation.

As the movie progresses, the helicopter's capabilities are put to the test in various scenarios. The helicopter is able to detect and track enemies, as well as to disable their weapons. The movie also features a scene in which the helicopter is used to rescue a group of hostages.

The film's themes include the dangers of advanced technology and the potential for abuse. The movie raises questions about the role of technology in law enforcement and the implications of using high-tech weapons in urban environments.

"Blue Thunder" is a combination of action and drama, with a strong emphasis on the helicopter's capabilities and the challenges faced by Murphy and his team.

Joffrey troupe to be welcomed at special event

This Friday is to bring a touch of the classics to the 1983 Iowa City Summer Festival. The Iowa City Ballet, under the direction of Don Jakoby, will be performing "Blue Thunder," a ballet based on the movie of the same name.

The ballet is set in a futuristic city and features a helicopter as the central character. The performance is scheduled for Friday, June 17, at the Englert Theatre, with a reception following at the City Hall Annex.

The Joffrey Ballet, based in Chicago, is one of the most respected ballet companies in the United States. The company has a long history, dating back to the 1920s, and has been associated with such legendary dancers as Merce Cunningham and Martha Graham.

The Joffrey Ballet is known for its innovative and dynamic performances, which often incorporate elements of modern dance and contemporary music. The company has a reputation for producing high-quality productions that are both visually stunning and technically impressive.

The ballet is set to the music of Richard Wagner's "Das Rheingold," with choreography by George F. Green. The performance is expected to be received with great enthusiasm, as it marks the first time that the Joffrey Ballet has performed in Iowa City.

The event is part of the summer festival's "Arts and Entertainment" series, which features a variety of cultural events throughout the year. The festival offers a range of performances, including concerts, plays, and lectures, as well as art exhibits and other creative events.

The Joffrey Ballet's "Blue Thunder" is a fitting addition to the festival's lineup, as it brings together elements of ballet and technology in a unique and captivating way.

The performance is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. on Friday, June 17, at the Englert Theatre. Tickets are available at the box office or online through the festival's website.
