Sessions help students to sort out foibles, follies of being freshmen

By Janet Marie Smith

The orientation programs help incoming freshmen prepare for the next step in their education and for the sometimes scary transition from high school to college. And for as far as the truth of it, "new student problems," the UI orientation programs have been popular with the new students.

Later, they attend academic-planning workshops and attend a talk on Greek life at the UI or take a walking tour of the UI campus. "The last day students choose their fall classes, build their class schedules and learn a lot about college life in the afternoon," Raper said.

Many of the students, particularly newcomers to the UI for the orientation programs but a few who are more experienced, attended the UI's orientation programs together, the parents and get into smaller groups," Raper said.

The parents attend workshops that cover registration, housing and attending the UI visit and talk with the deans of the various colleges, hear the campus and view other performances by members of the UI Council of Department and Campus Ministry. The skills aimed at parents usually deal with what treatments can be done from college to high school. The parent's goal of the four or five small groups would be the decision of whether to go to church or not," Raper said. "All I would suggest is that parents need to be sensitive to the children's needs and let the children have their own lives."

The incoming students spend the first day of their career with their students attending the UI's first day of classes, and not safe for parking. Thompson said.

Computer programs simulate what most of the beach areas should be safe for parking. Thompson said.

"It's dangerous to make rules and have to obey them," he said, "but heavy rains would alter proposals." The swimming beaches have not caused much of a stir in the school, though a few parents park cars, but it has remained "very..." Thompson said, "it has caused the areas that have remained "very..."

To handle the overflow, the Limmer Point concerned has been closed in-county, but not safe for parking. Thompson said.

"We always start out other than here," he said, "but now we're ready for the fall."
Barbarism revisited

Dwight D. Eisenhower, British architect Sir John Laing, and American civil rights leader John Lewis have spoken out against the use of torture in the war on terrorism. In a recent interview, Eisenhower said, "We are fighting a war of civilization against barbarism, and we must use all means available to us to defeat it." Laing added, "Torture is an act of barbarism, and it must be condemned." Lewis stated, "We must not allow our fight for democracy to become a tool of barbarism."

"The World's a funny kind of place," Joseph Conrad once said. "If your head is in front of your feet, you may be a little bit higher. If you're going to change the world, you might as well be a little bit higher than yourself."

At the funeral of the late President John F. Kennedy, John F. Kennedy Jr. gave the eulogy. "He was a leader, a statesman, a hero," Kennedy said. "He was a man who gave his life for his country."

Radio control

The Iowa City Transit System may soon implement its bus drivers with a requirement that a meeting be held on the bus depot. According to the system, this meeting would be "a think tank" for drivers and passengers to discuss concerns about the service. The meeting would be open to all bus drivers and passengers.

"Should the driver fail to do so, he or she would run the risk of "getting written up,"" a spokesperson for the transit system said.

Secret Service

In response to John R. Walter's guest column (July 8), it seems to me that when Walter wrote, "lawnmower in the White House," he either did not have the Secret Service to protect him or he did not care. The Secret Service is not just a group of men - they are a part of the government and are expected to protect the president from harm.

President Richard Nixon often joked about his "lawnmower in the White House" nickname. He stated, "If I was a lawnmower, I'd have been a pretty good one." Nixon's humor was often at the expense of his image as a lawman.

Tour rookie Byrum blazes to lead at Quad-Cities Open

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (UPI) - PGA tour rookie Curt Byrum opened with a 6-under-par 66 Thursday to take a two-shot lead after the first round of the Kmart Quad-Cities Open.

The 26-year-old Byrum fired his record-low round at the Quad-Cities Country Club and set an assult that saw 10 players share par or better on the 4,710-yard course.

"I had a real nice day," Byrum said. "I had a couple of close calls today. But overall, it was a real good round." Byrum, who has six top-25 finishes in his 10 PGA Tour starts, put three birdies in a row for a 34 on the opening nine holes.

Byrum, who tied for 11th in the 1982 NCAA Championship, settled for a 41 on the back nine.

Daytona Beach's Mark O'Meara was two shots behind Byrum after his 68 on the course where the 1988 US Open was played.

"I played a little bit better today than I did yesterday," O'Meara said. "Today I played more consistent. I made some birdies on both nines." O'Meara, the defending champion in the event, tied for 17th place in the 1982-83 season with a pair of top-10 finishes.

John Mahaffey Jr., who tied for 11th in the 1982-83 season with a pair of top-10 finishes, flamed with a 3-under-par 69 on his opening round.

Another 10 players were at par after the first round. The list included defending champion Payne Stewart and former champions D.A. Weibrich, Craig Parson, Dennis Hadley and Alan Miller were also tied for second at 68.

Stars must stop Panther big plays

DENVER (UPI) - The ability to stop the Denver Broncos' big-play offense could be a big difference between the Philadelphia Stars and playoff teams.

The Philadelphia Stars scored two touchdowns on deep passes against the Denver Broncos in an 11-7 win Sunday at Mile High Stadium.

"You have to take that away from them," said Mike Woodson, who was named the Stars' defensive coordinator Tuesday. "You have to take that away from a team when you have a big-play offense. And it's quick ... that can be devastating.

"So you have to take that away from them. The second thing you have to do is stop them after you get the ball back. That's kind of what we did last year. That's kind of what we're doing now."

Gymnastics clinic scheduled

The U.S. Department of Recreation Services is offering a five-day gymnastics mini-clinic the week of Aug. 15.

The clinic, which are available for boys and girls, are scheduled for 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the U.S. Department of Recreation Services office in Allentown.

UNI baseball coach reinstated

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (UPI) - University of Northern Iowa review committee has reinstated baseball coach W.D. Arnold, who was officially suspended March 17, for violations of the federal and state laws.

The committee, which included Coach Arnold, said it has reinstated the coach "notwithstanding the conclusion of the spring season due to the identified problems within the baseball program."

A source, who was not aware of the reinstatement, said it was unanimous among the committee members.

"I understand you are just doing your job," said the coach. "I didn't do anything."

Smith says he received tickets, cash

DALLAS (UPI) - Future Iowa football player Robert Smith received free transportation, tickets and cash from a corporation involved in Southern Methodist University football recruiting, a newspaper reported Friday.

The actions would violate NCAA rules if proved by a representative of a school's athletic department. Smith said the funds and other gifts came from Neil Brown, an information services aide for the city of Dallas. Brown was recently promoted to the freshman assistant coach at SMU.

SMITH SAYS Brown handed him money and tickets, and Smith had another man transfer a check for $200 to the SMU athletic office, according to the Dallas Morning News.

Smith, who said he was a former NFL intern, denied giving money or tickets Brown said he received. The SMU athletic office did not return telephone calls Thursday seeking comment.

SMITH, WHO was recruiting because of Iowa, said he would provide the SMU athletic office with any information about the situation.

Season football tickets are sold

By Robert Rysar

Even with the $100-plus surcharge added to Knicks tickets this season, fans for the 1984-85 season have had no trouble selling their season tickets, according to John Lake with The Ticket Manager Inc., which sells Knicks tickets.

In fact, the ticket office, selling tickets to registering fans, as season orders continue, are so flush with fans, they have had to put a $10 discount on the $100 surcharge to that date.

Lake said that more than 5,000 season tickets have been sold already. The first-round tickets, which were sold $100, will be the last tickets bought under the surcharge. The Knicks season tickets are not expected to be sold out before the N.B.A. season begins.

Stadler puts to three-shot lead at British Open

By James H. Dunn

BURCHESTLE, England (UPI) - Craig Stadler shot a seven-under-par 66 Thursday, the lowest first-round score ever recorded at the British Open since 1950, to take a three-stroke lead.

Stadler's 66, which included a birdie on the 720-yard, par-five 18th hole, was the first 66 since 1977 when Severiano Ballesteros and Scotland's David Duval tied for the low score.

With only one round played, Stadler was at 14-under-par 198 with American Mark Hayes and Japanese Isao Aoki, who both shot 69.

Poland law to restrain union

WARSZAWA, Poland (UPI) - The new Polish government has prepared a draft law to restrict the activities of labor federations, particularly Solidarnosc, a trade union tied to the Soviet-favored United Workers' Party.

The draft law, which was adopted by the new government in a meeting Wednesday, would ban Solidarnosc from organizing strikes, paralyzing economic activities or interfering with the governmental apparatus of the sector.

THE LAW would also make it a criminal offense to散布 political material - that is, to distribute or publish political material that incites revolution or that promotes the overthrow of the government.
