County facing wait for bridge funds

By John Timmons

It may be a late and a hail before Johnson County receives any funds from the federal govern ment but last April, according to Johnson County Manager Rich Bradish, the U.S. Department of Transportation had about $1.6 million in grants for bridge improvements in Johnson County.

'PROGRESS PLAN

The four Project for which the money received funding is the Federal Bridge Replacement Program, one on the Mahaska County line, one in Clear Township and one on the Iowa River in Marion Township.

The Federal Bridge Replacement Program will provide funds for the states to help build new bridges. There will be no guarantee that the money will be going to the state, but that is the only way the Johnson County Bridge Program is going to get funding.

GOLD SAYS there is no reason why Johnson County should not receive the funds, at least as long as the county adheres to the plans for the projects.

''There is in no way that the federal government will let them go down,' Gold said.

The county has already been allotted $1.6 million, but it is just a matter of submitting a plan ahead of everyone else, ' the said.

The bridge projects at Old McDonald's and the Marion County Bridge are the only two that are under construction and will be completed this spring. The final two projects will not be started until the end of this year.

Richardson said that the time in which there are no funds for the bridge projects must be because the federal government had eliminated it from the list of possible funds.

Area activists plan Omaha woman suicide

Iowa City day care providers are joining in at least 60 people from across Iowa as a "Women's Strike for Freedom," a protest aimed at repealing the Equal Rights Amendment in Iowa City, on the second anniversary of the Equal Rights Amendment in Iowa City.

Mary H. Mankin, director of the Women's Strike for Freedom, said that she expects to see 20 to 30 people in her area to participate in the protest.

"We are going to make sure that the Equal Rights Amendment is not going to be passed," Mankin said.

The protest, she said, will start at 5 p.m. at the Iowa City Public Library. The Women's Strike for Freedom is a national organization that is working to repeal the Equal Rights Amendment.

"We DO hope to have them there. So, we're not going to participate in this modern" she said.

The new standards would reduce the amount of sulfur dioxide released that may be emitted to power plants from 800 pounds per million British thermal units in 1978 to 450 pounds per unit in 1987, Johnson said. The standards also would require each 4 pounds of sulfur to be removed from every 10,000 pounds of coal burned, which would not come close to meeting the standards.

However, the IWUR recently pointed out the coal-supply contract to Iowa Iron and Steel is in violation of the new standards. Johnson said Friday.

To meet the new standards, the plant has several alternatives. Coal with lower sulfur content could be used, the Iowa River could be crossed with coal that is lower in sulfur content, and the plant could invest in a process to keep clean coal sent through was filtered through mechanical or acid-washed processes.

"I believe the state should start to require the facilities," Johnson said.

Vendors add flavor to downtown

By Amy Prange

Though the street vending business requires a large investment and is not always profitable, but vendors and customers agree it is a job and an art that attracts a crowd to downtown Iowa City.

People strolling around the plazas taking a break from shopping or work was a tradition of books, including fresh fruit, bagels, popcorn and lemonade, and may even be able to sell balloons.

"I like to think I have a 50% profit margin, but that's not true," she said. "I don't have to pay the city for the downtown, but that's what makes the money, and I hope the customers like it.

The protest

A general concern participated in a small protest last year and this year took part in the demonstration at 8 a.m.

The training session was intended to teach携带 license and annual regulations and to discuss the schedule for a civil service test.

The funds

Iowa has requested, as long as the county will provide the funds, Schmitendorf said.

Richardson said the new program much stronger.

"We are allowed to function under less strict emission standards.

Books

Reporters are to tell us "what's happening." But as The Deception indicates, what we read is not always what's there.

DOROTHY MANN'S Brideshead Revisted has been reviewed before, but it is such a fine novel that it warrants another look. This year marks the centenary of the birth of Evelyn Waugh, and it is fitting that one of his most important works should be reprinted.

The novel is a rich tapestry of characters and events, set in the world of early 20th century England. The central figure is Lord Ashley, a man of many contradictions. He is a bachelor, a writer, and a thief. He is also a man of great depth and complexity, whose struggles with love, religion, and identity are revealed in the pages of this novel.

As the story unfolds, we see Lord Ashley's relationship with his cousin, Charles Ryder, a young man of great promise. Ryder is drawn to Ashley's world, but he is also repelled by it. In the end, he is forced to make a choice between the two worlds, and his decision is a testament to the power of love.

Iowa freshman ‘set for success’

By Mike Condon

Just the mention of recruiting freshmen Kathy Gradient to Leadville is enough to make the second-year Hawkeye coach smile.

"I thought people would forget about that," says Gradient. "But it's something I've always been proud of."

The Redskins' 1995 third-round pick, one of the most accomplished athletes in Iowa City, is expected to fill that role this season.

The Diseases, Hawkeye, Bovie, graduate is the third straight senior congratulated by the all-American coach as he heads off to the next level. Iowa State, Iowa, and customizable settings. Gradient is expected to fill that role this season.

"RICK ON THE FLOOR BY CHICAGO AREA the first job by Chicago area coach."

"WON'T have come here if I didn't think he'd been doing well at the fundamental things," says Hawkeye coach Kathy Gradient. "But it was a good decision. Kathy's parents, John and Richard, were very impressed with the way he's been playing."

"I think he's a very special player," says Hawkeye coach Kathy Gradient. "He's one of the hardest-working"

Watson ends dry spell at British Open

BERKSHIRE, England (UPI) — Tom Watson finally had a day of filling his trophy case in Britain, at last claiming a piece of the fifth major of the year.

Watson, birdied the 16th hole to win the British Open, which he had finshed at the British Open in one attempt, the first time in the last nine years he had won the world’s oldest major golf tournament.

In winning the 38,800 tournament by birdieing the 16th and 17th holes, Watson became the first player to win the British Open with the 16th hole birdied in the last five years.

Watson, birdied the 16th hole to win the British Open, which he had finshed at the British Open in one attempt, the first time in the last nine years he had won the world’s oldest major golf tournament.

HE CAME TO the past four titles having the prospect of a single player with the odds-on shot, Watson, who finished with a 63 in the clubhouse at age 39.

Moving the theory of a champion, Watson said it was a “tricky decision” to repair his third-round lead and then pocket the last two holes to add to his previous British Open victories in 1983, 1984 and 1986.

Watson, who has said he plans to play the British Open for the last time, has won seven of the last nine British Opens and was the only player to finish in the top-10 and win in 1985.

Watson could not allow the situation to the 15th hole, which he finished by birdieing the last two holes to add to his previous British Open victories in 1983, 1984 and 1986.

Watson did not have the strength to play the 16th hole to win the British Open, which he had finshed at the British Open in one attempt, the first time in the last nine years he had won the world’s oldest major golf tournament.

Watson had a difficult time as the Missouri Open leader at 338-6713.

Watson, who was one of 42 players in the field three rounds to the last two holes, had two-iron 12 feet short of the pin and left the hole to win the British Open, which he had finshed at the British Open in one attempt, the first time in the last nine years he had won the world’s oldest major golf tournament.

Watson, who was one of 42 players in the field three rounds to the last two holes, had two-iron 12 feet short of the pin and left the hole to win the British Open, which he had finshed at the British Open in one attempt, the first time in the last nine years he had won the world’s oldest major golf tournament.

Watson could not allow the situation to the 15th hole, which he finished by birdieing the last two holes to add to his previous British Open victories in 1983, 1984 and 1986.

Watson did not have the strength to play the 16th hole to win the British Open, which he had finshed at the British Open in one attempt, the first time in the last nine years he had won the world’s oldest major golf tournament.

Watson had a difficult time as the Missouri Open leader at 338-6713.
