FAA dashes hopes for airport's grant

By Mark Leonard

The Federal Aviation Administration has announced that a $295,322 grant to improve the North Liberty Regional Airport will not be made.

The FAA has announced that it will not provide the grant to the city of North Liberty.

The grant was to be used to develop a master plan for the airport.

The city of North Liberty had applied for the grant in 2013, but was unsuccessful in its application.

The FAA announced that it would not fund the project due to the city's lack of a comprehensive development plan for the airport.

The announcement was made on the same day that the city council approved a resolution to seek funding for other airport improvements.

The city council had approved a resolution to seek funding for a new runway and other improvements at the airport.

The resolution was approved on a 4-1 vote, with Councilman Dan Kauffman opposed.

"I don't think we should be giving money to another facility," Kauffman said.

The FAA's decision comes after the city had repeatedly requested funding for the airport.

In 2013, the city had applied for a grant to improve the airport's runway.

The grant application was denied, and the city had to seek funding from other sources.

The city had also applied for a grant to improve the airport's air traffic control tower.

That application was also denied.

Out of control

Iowa City megadeveloper Jim Clark would like to clean up the second largest apartment complex in Iowa City in less than three years — by putting an apartment building on top of it.

If that sounds too good to be true, The Dally Iowan is here to tell you the city accepted Clark’s rezoning request. And if they don’t, surely Clark should remember his plan with an 18-story public health. And if he doesn’t, and they don’t, neighborhood residents will just have to remember their property taxes and their potential liability in the possibility of homes falling on their starvations.

For Clark to be permitted to build a containment apartment in 36 K. Gilbert St., there is a debate question mark before the public health. No matter how much the city council in the editorial that The Public Technology Inc., the consulting firm that reviewed Clark’s plan for the city, is not certain it will work. In fact, their recommendation to the city was that the land not be used for residential living. Developing accommodations at the site could result in long-term exposure to composts that still may be present, whereas commercial or industrial facilities would not invite that possibility, representatives said.

The firm also argues that if the city accepts Clark’s rezoning request, it should find some way of protecting itself from law suits.

Sandy city officials should be concerned, too, to deny the rezoning request. And if they don’t, surely Clark should remember his plan with an 18-story public health. Sambo's eats profit and takes a plunge

I T'S A CRUNCH of the business world that businesses have to deal with. In one storm, there is a sudden increase in demand for a product, which the company cannot fulfill. For example, the demand for videocassettes has shot up so high that companies cannot keep up with the demand. This is called a "plunge." The company that makes videocassettes, Black & White, has a problem because they cannot keep up with the demand.

Milton Moskowitz

In 1988, Sambo's paid its workers a bonus to celebrate the company's success. The bonus was a share of the company's profits. However, the bonus was not given for the company's success, but for the workers' hard work. The workers were upset because they felt like they were not being rewarded for their success, but for the company's success.

The workers who were upset included the managers, the cooks, the waiters, and the janitors. The managers were the ones who were upset the most because they felt like they were not being paid for their work. The cooks were the ones who were upset the second most because they felt like they were not being paid for their work. The waiters were the ones who were upset the third most because they felt like they were not being paid for their work. The janitors were the ones who were upset the fourth most because they felt like they were not being paid for their work.

Films

In 1958, with Norman Bates released from a mental institution and returning to the Bates Motel, there was a lot of interest in the film. In fact, the film was a hit. The film was so successful that it was made into a sequel. The sequel was called Psycho II. The film was made to capture the same motivation that the first film had. Morale piled up, and the restaurant was now the talk of the town.

Another film that was released in 1958 was Return of the Jedi. This film was a sequel to the original Star Wars film. The film was a hit and generated a lot of revenue for the parent company. The film was so successful that it was made into a sequel. The sequel was called Star Wars: Episode IV - A New Hope.

MOVEMENT with Borg (Tennis Pro)

By Steve Batterton

Sports

Executive Director Bob Sharm Carnally confirmed Saturday morning that George Lutz was not included in the list of names submitted by the tennis pro for the posters and tables that will be on display at the Iowa Memorial Coliseum in February for the 1984-85 class "for players." The former Iowa and Minnesota head coach said the list is an all-time "for-name" list of tennis players who have been named to the University of Iowa Alumni Association's "All-Illini" tennis team. The list will be displayed through the end of the football season at the Coliseum.

OLYMPIC COMMITTEE

By Steve Batterton

Sports

In the November issue of the magazine "Olympics," the Enquirer's Steve Batterton was interviewed by an editor about the Olympic Committee. Batterton said the Committee is not a government entity, but rather a private organization that is responsible for organizing and coordinating the Olympic games. The Committee is made up of representatives from around the world and is headquartered in Lausanne, Switzerland. Batterton said the Committee is responsible for selecting the host city for the Olympic games, as well as for setting the rules and regulations for the games.
