On Friday and Saturday, two U.S. warships off the Lebanese coast shelled targets in Syrian-controlled areas in response to the shelling of U.S. Embassy offices and the U.S. ambassador's residence.

In response, Syria warned it would retaliate against any attacks.

City

Two fight to protect downtown walkway

By Patricia Thorn

A suit was filed in Johnson County District Court Friday to stop construction already begun in Iowa City's downtown mall.

Old Capitol Hosts, a nonprofit corporation consisting of two Iowa City residents, is attempting to stop the City of Iowa City and Mid City Hotel Associates-Iowa City (MCHA-IC) from tearing up the mall area at the intersection of Dubuque Street and College Street, directly east of Bushnell's Turtle restaurant

The suit asks that the contract for sale of the land for private development be declared "illegal and void."

MCHA-IC had submitted a proposal to construct a hotel on a parcel of land that includes an area of the walking mall. On Sept. 13, Iowa City passed a resolution authorizing the filing of a Notice of Intention to Accept Urban Renewal Development Proposal that stated Iowa City and MCHA-IC had reached a tentative agreement on the terms of the re-development contract.

THE SUIT claims Section 403.1(2) of the Code of Iowa states that prior to accepting such a proposal, the municipality (Iowa City) must "consider the financial and legal ability of the person making such proposals to carry them out.'

The suit also states that MCHA-IC failed to provide detailed building plans, obtain necessary building permits and submit adequate financial information to permit Iowa City to accept it's proposal.

Robert P. Thompson and Eugene H. Mueller, the members of Old Capitol Hosts, also claim that under Section 403.1(2) of the state code, Iowa City is not authorized to accept MCHA-IC's proposal until Oct. 13. However, on Sept. 13 the city authorized MCHA-IC to begin construction of the hotel pro-

The suit states that on Sept. 15 Iowa City "obstructed and barricaded the portion of the public right of way" and 'has begun to remove costly improvements and to render the public right of way unfit for public use.

The state of Iowa still holds the title to the area, the suit claims, and Iowa City failed to obtain a patent from the state for the land. Therefore the city has no authority to permit construction of "structures or obstructions" in the

THOMPSON and Mueller said that 'as taxpayers and residents," they will be harmed by the "economic waste" of Iowa City if the existing improvements to the downtown walking mall are

Two Iowa City women also picketed the work already begun beside the barricaded area Friday.

"This is a damn shame that this is happening. And the saddest thing of all is that nobody knew. I think they (Iowa City and MCHA-IC) tried to keep a low profile so there would be no protest," said Linda Robinson, 38, a UI graduate student in sociology.

Robinson said city residents should have been allowed to vote on the decision because it affects an area that is 'supposed to belong to the people."

Gloria Williams, 33, the producer of a local television show, said, "This is a developer's town, and it's ruining the spirit of Iowa City. They're trying to destroy the small-town atmosphere that bigger cities are trying to Robinson said people she talked to 'don't like it, but they feel helpless. I saw those surveyors there this summer and I was afraid to ask what rotten thing they were doing. Then yesterday I saw them putting the fence up and I asked the city workers what was happening. This is just a token protest, now that it's too late."

Co-owners of mall face heavy lawsuit

By Carlos Trevino

Two part-owners of the Old Capitol Center filed a $1.55 million civil suit Thursday in Johnson County District Court against Center Investors for delaying a $3.2 million investment in the center.

The suit filed by Old Capitol Business Center and Old Capitol Limited Partnership, which own 50 percent of the mall, also seeks judgements for two other violations in its contract with Center Investors, which owns the other 50 percent of the mall.

Center Investors' general partners include Kenneth Albrecht, Robert G. Barker. Frank Boyd, Wayne Kempf, Metro Pavers Inc., Iowa City Ready Mix Inc. and Barker Development Co.

Old Capitol Business Center and Old Capitol Limited Partnership were formed in 1978 to conduct the development and operational needs of the center.

Meadow Link Inc., an Indiana firm, was responsible for finding funds for the facility until 1981.

Center Investors joined the two Old Capitol partners in late 1981 when the Old Capitol Center was facing "impending financial needs" due to "operation (cost) far greater ... than anticipated," and Meadow Link Inc. dropped out of the partnership at that time, the CENTER INVESTORS and its general partners had approached the two Old Capitol partners about making "a substantial infusion of additional capital," $3.2 million, the suit claims.

Following the signing of a contract between the Old Capitol partners and Center Investors, Center Investors "without just cause or excuse (delayed) actually vestment," and later asked for leasing fees of $55,000 while also "engaging in other conduct, making other demands, and exacting other promises and concessions ... that were overreaching and oppressive," the suit states.

The suit claims that withholding the $3.2 million investment was a lack of observance of a reasonable commercial standard of fair dealing and trade.

The suit also claims Center Investors breached their duty of money and property management to Old Capitol because it was "competing with plantiffs (Old Capitol partners) and with the shopping center by signing a lease of other property," with a prospective Old Capitol tenant.

THAT TENANT was Iowa Book and Supply Inc., which the suit states is "a most important prospective shopping center tenant." Iowa Book and Supply owner Peter Vanderhoef signed a lease for the Dey Building, owned by Kempf and Albrecht, two members of Center Investors.

The suit also claims Center Investors is requiring the other partners in the center to pay them $42,000 for the next 10 years and also agree to allow Center Investors the right "to compete directly and openly with Old

The two plantiffs are asking for $1 million in damages from Center Investors for leasing another property to Iowa Book and Supply, and are asking for $500,000 in damages for delaying the $3.2 million investment as well as an additional $55,000 for the lease payment the plaintiffs made in order to gain the major investment. Technigraphics Technigraphics

Leach lauds Reagan reply to Soviets over jet incident

Solving the infertility problem:

Representative Jim Leach, R-Iowa, spoke at a neeting of the Iowa City Foreign Relations Council Friday, praising President Reagan's response to the recent Soviet shooting of a Korean airliner.

that "Soviet society is capable of brutal behavior," Leach said we now have a "greater reason to understand the Soviet Union rather than isolate them," so that "incidents like this don't happen again."

Shifting his talk from the airliner to the nuclear freeze movement, Leach said the U.S. Congress should listen to the people supporting the freeze but Congress should not be the only group involved in making arms control policy. "Arms control is too important an issue to be left to a few politicians," he

One reason politicians have not supported the freeze is because they were "not sure if the freeze movement is a fad" or not, Leach said. But what Congress might have thought to be a fad, Leach said, 'Wasn't just a campus crusade." Rather, it is "a

The "single most mischievous political idea is that America is inferior to the Soviet Union in nuclear weapons," he said. More arms are not needed because the superpowers have the ability to blow up the world "10 times over, and a death is a death. Nobody can die more than once.'

In his conclusion, Leach said there is the potential for war in many parts of the world that could drag the superpowers into battle. What is needed, he said, are new international policies, so countries can handle disputes, such as the airliner incident and other policy questions in an effective international forum.

Sweets and Treats, an Iowa City candy store, voluntarily closed its doors Sept. 9 when the Johnson County Department of Health found low levels of hydrocarbons in some of its candy after the store's owner requested the department to investigate a pungent smell" in the store.

However, Graham Dameron, director of the health department, said, "There doesn't seem to be any health hazard at the present time.'

Earl Revell of the Iowa Department of Agriculture, which inspects and licenses the candy tore, said the owner of Sweets and Treats, Phil Shive, has been very cooperative with the department. "The proprietor will dispense of the candy and there is no action as far as condemning the store,"

THE PROBLEM stems from the owner using outdoor paint on the inside of the store, Dameron said. "The paint impregnated the chocolate and it caused a pungent odor. We were called in and went down there with the Department of Agriculture. We took some samples and asked them to voluntarily close Dameron said the toxicity level in the candy is "very low. You would have to eat a substantial amount of it" to be affected. "I don't think there was a significant amount of hydrocarbons in the candy.'

The candy's odor was the first indication of problems with it, Dameron said. "If your sense of smell tells you not to eat the candy, (that warning) will occur before any toxicity level could affect

The store will remain voluntarily closed until the results of tests on samples of the store's candy are in, Dameron said. The results will be sent to the store, he said. Shive would not comment on the

Who's out of touch?

It's the ultimate catch-22 for journalists: making an issue over whether to make an issue out of an issue.

Such a quandary for The Daily Iowan now centers around the handful, if that many, ultra-conservatives on the UI campus who reared their ugly heads last year and have been quite actively

The group euphemistically calls itself Students for Traditional American Freedoms. What it is, is an insult to students, traditions, America and freedom. In fact, it is even an insult to conservatism. But the local media is stuck with the question of whether to cover the group's outlandish antics or ignore them. The latter is not such an easy task. Flamboyant STAF former president Jerry Taylor says and does things so far to the right many consider them comic relief. The Hawkeye Review, the UI's conservative voice edited by Jeffrey Renander, presents what appears to be a caricature of right-wing

But others take STAF, or at least conservatism, seriously. So besides the humor the group offers, news value can be found simply in the novel alternative it offers to the constant flow of liberal views on a college campus.

But is the alternative a viable one? These ultra-conservatives' tactics teeter on the edge of lies and ludicrous smear campaigns.

When this fall's first issue of the Hawkeye Review appeared the lead story was offensive enough that its subject, a UI law professor, is considering suing the publication for libel.

A few days later the controversy over STAF's visiting lecturer Phyllis Schlafly popped into the news once again. STAF accused the Women's Resource and Action Center of making threats against Schlafly's safety. WRAC denies it.

So the DI reported it. Next the statewide media pick up on STAF's plan to discredit the record of U.S. Rep. Tom Harkin, D-5th District, probable challenger to incumbent U.S. Sen. Roger Jepsen in 1984.

Renander says Harkin is a "far-out radical" out of touch with the mainstream of Iowa politics. But when The Hawkeye Review ran a cartoon with an aborted fetus captioned "Vote Harkin, I did," was that sick representation a viable alternative?

Who's out of touch with mainstream politics? Should whatever these isolated right-wingers say be news?

The other half

Democratic presidential hopefuls like to paint President Reagan as the influence that most contributes to anti-Soviet hysteria and is most likely to commit U.S. armed forces to unwanted foreign conflicts. While there can be no doubt Reagan is bad news for the cause of peace, Congress - Democrats and Republicans alike did more last week to advance the cause of war than Reagan ever could achieve on his own.

In terms of concrete action, Congress sent to Reagan's desk the biggest defense authorization ever - $188 billion. After having talked tough earlier this year about limiting defense spending, lawmakers ended up giving the administration virtually everything it wanted for its military buildup, including $114 million for the first nerve gas production program since 1969 (a program Congress rejected in its previous vote on the subject); $407 million for 95 Pershing 2 missiles scheduled for deployment in West Germany later this year; $1.87 billion for 10 additional B1 bombers; and $4.8 billion for 21 MX missiles, a basing mode for which has yet to be established.

In terms of anti-Soviet hysteria, President Reagan has nothing on Rep. J. Marvin Leath, D-Texas, whose impassioned speech in favor of the newest defense budget accused the Soviets of being inhuman monsters "devoid of conscience." Such rhetoric is common on Capitol Hill lately, as congressmen fall all over themselves denouncing the Soviets' shooting of the Korean jetliner. That these sentiments are directly analogous to those that led the Soviets to their heinous act is a moral concept few of the lawmakers seem to have mastered.

As for committing U.S. troops to unwanted foreign conflicts, Reagan doesn't have to worry about Congress pulling the Marines out of Lebanon. While some legislators are making noise about invoking the War Powers Act, which would limit the time U.S. forces could remain stationed in that troubled Middle Eastern country without Congressional approval, it is clear they don't mean to bring anybody home. They simply want Congress to have a say in keeping the Marines in the position of being shot at and shelled by warring factions.

Reagan makes a good, and not inappropriate, target for those concerned about this country's war mentality. But the complicity and active encouragement of Congress in his tirades is the other half of this barbaric equation.

International perspective needed

HEN THE Governor's Task Force on Foreign Language Studies and International Education presented its report to Gov. Terry Branstad last June, most of the public response was focused upon its recommendations concerning foreign language instruction, and particularly the Task Force's strong recommendation that every Iowan have an opportunity to develop competence in at least one foreign language.

But the Task Force report placed equal emphasis on the closely related issue of international education. The Task Force noted the "vital, reciprocal, and supportive relationship" between foreign language studies and international studies, and it pointed out the importance of both to Iowa's effective participation in the world economy - especially in foreign trade and invest-

To enhance international education in the state, the Task Force urged, among other recommendations, the teaching of traditional courses from a global perspective and the development of international exchange programs to enable Iowans to "attain an informed appreciation of other cultures ... and become more responsive and responsible citizens of the

TWO ILLUMINATING experiences this summer have reinforced my own commitment to the importance of international education.

The first was my participation as a faculty member in the Salzburg Seminar in American Law and Legal Institutions during three weeks in July. The Seminar has met in Salzburg, Austria, every summer since 1947. It gathers a faculty of five American lawyers - this summer it consisted of Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor and four law professors and a student body of fifty European lawvers

During those three weeks, my faculty colleagues and I delivered a series of lectures on the fundamentals of American law. But we learned more than we taught.

The student lawyers - drawn from Great Britain and Greece, from Israel and Jordan, from Sweden and Bulgaria, from Germany and Italy responded to our lectures by describing the ways in which their respective legal systems differed from ours and from those of other countries.

The drama of law in Europe today centers on the efforts of fiercely independent countries, with different cultural and legal traditions, to form the European Community - to commit themselves to a common set of rules for the larger economic and social good of each of the member countries.

FROM AN AMERICAN point of view, these halting efforts call to mind the development of our federal system over the past 200 years. The student lawyers at Salzburg came to realize that Europeans can learn much from the American experiences with federalism, from the Constitutional Convention in 1787 to the present, as they build their own common legal

For those of us who served on the faculty, the discussions with our students helped us to see that foreign legal systems have responded to certain economic and social questions in very different ways than we have - ways

By bringing American and European lawyers together for an extended period of time, the Salzburg Seminar creates an interchange of ideas between faculty and students that will have long-lasting effects on the legal perspectives of both the American and the European participants.

MY SECOND international mission was to Indonesia as a representative of the Midwest Universities Consortium for International Assistance, a group of seven Big Ten universities dedicated to providing developing nations with assistance in a wide range of areas, including agriculture, education.

engineering, and public health. During the ten days that I spent in Indonesia, I met with officials in the Indonesian Ministry of Education in Jakarta and with the rectors of four universities: the University in Yogjakarta, a teacher training institute in Yogjakarta, and Udayana University in Denpasar.

The educational needs of Indonesia, as of most developing nations, are extensive. Library facilities are wholly inadequate for university level

Laboratories desperately need modern equipment. Research journals, by which knowledge might be shared, are not widely circulated among the nation's universities.

NEVERTHELESS, I was impressed by the efforts of the Indonesian government to improve the quality of its system of higher education. Indonesia regularly sends faculty members from its 43 universities to the United States for graduate education so they can return to Indonesia with the most sophisticated training available and create programs in Indonesia for educating new generations of faculty members and professionals. This year, 23 Indonesian students are enrolled at the University of Iowa.

Although Indonesians look to our educational system, along with those of several other nations, for suggestive models, they describe their efforts to adapt these models to an Asian environment as "a process of Indonesianization. . Indonesians are striving to create a system that will educate the business managers, economists, engineers, physicians, teachers, and computer experts they now need — but in ways compatible with their own distinctive customs and traditions.

An American who visits Indonesia comes to appreciate its rich and complex cultural heritage, a heritage that has nourished gamelan music, the classical legong dance, wayang puppet theater and some of the most beautiful batik and wood carving arts in the world. Yet the economic and social deprivations suffered by much of the population, along with reports of severe infringements of civil liberties, warn of deep-seated political Because Indonesia is a powerful nation in one of the fastest-developing areas of the world, the United States has a significant interest in strengthening its educational system and understanding its political, cultural, and social circumstances.

My two brief summer experiences one in Western Europe, one in Southeast Asia - demonstrated to me the importance of understanding nations with different cultural pasts, different deposits of historic values, different places in the world order.

They also deepened my sense that we in Iowa must work together to make similar opportunities available to other Iowans and to develop a climate in which international education can

By enlarging our understanding of other nations, we will enlarge the possibility of living with them cooperatively in a more peaceful

That is why the recommendations of the Governor's Task Force on Foreign Language Studies and International Education hold such promise and importance for Iowans.

Information would change Soviets

THE KOREAN airline GUEST tragedy has given the conservatives in government a field day for promoting hard-line policies concerning the Soviet Union. "We told you so" seems to be almost implicit in statements made by President Reagan, Sen. Jesse Helms, Secretary of State George Shultz and other right wingers. This tragedy calls for decisive action on our part and has given us the opportunity to change the world view of ourselves as well as the

There is bipartisan agreement on at least one issue, that this time we cannot simply send memos back and forth to Moscow telling the Russians they were naughty. This time the Soviet Union must face the music and admit to a very gross error in judgment, one that deeply affects the security and livelihood of the entire world. The United States, however, must act in a sensible and intelligent manner, something that appears to be almost extraneous in politics today.

THIS IS OUR chance to put thought into our actions. We talk about the dignity and freedom of the individual citizen and a government chosen and ruled by the people. We supposedly try to promote that in the world and this opinion situation, especially, warrants careful thought and action. We need to show the world that we not only understand this concept of freedom of choice, but we also adhere to it.

The problem is that the general public in Russia is largely unaware of what happened. On Sept. 3, ABC News quoted one Soviet civilian, when he was told by the American reporter that the Soviet Union had shot down a civilian plane plane loaded with passengers, that if this were true he would be ashamed to be a Russian. I have no doubt the vast majority of Soviet citizens would be appalled and aghast at learning the truth of this incident.

Therefore, why not concentrate our efforts on making certain the general public of the Soviet Union obtains the facts on this matter? Too many Americans, and especially politicians, believe that one bad Russian means they're all bad. In truth, one of the few things the world population as a whole would agree on is that peace and harmony on this planet are essential. The Soviets are no less aware of the necessity for world peace and incertain that it is the desire of all parents in the world that when their children grow up, the world will be a better place in which to live.

THE ONLY WAY the United States will be able to come through this crisis in a positive light is if the entire international community works together to isolate the Soviet Union from the free world, in everything except food. Heaven forbid that our government would try a grain embargo again. To deny food to innocent children, anywhere, is to act in a manner as barbaric as the Russians. Isolation would force the Soviets to ask questions and the Soviet government, eventually, would have to come up with some

If the people of the Soviet Union were to realize, in a very potent way, that they were being punished because of the actions and policies of their own leaders, they might well be motivated to encourage drastic changes in their

All this propaganda by the Soviet Politburo that United States officials are brutal warmongers will not carry much weight if the Soviet people are clearly shown what really happened. Jepsen seen as key to control of Senate

DES MOINES (UPI) - National Republican Chairman Frank Fahrenkopf told a group of Iowa GOP county leaders that Iowa Sen. Roger Jepsen's re-election in 1984 is critical to the party's plan to maintain control

"It's extremely important," Fahrenkopf said Saturday, noting that "Iowa will be a target state" of the GOP national committee to offset a similar effort by Democrats hoping to unseat the incumbent Iowa Republican

In an organizational pep talk to Iowa's "field forces" - 200 GOP leaders from 60 of the state's 99 counties - who attended Saturday's strategy meeting, Fahrenkopf said the outcome of the expected race between Jepsen and Rep. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, will rest in their hands.

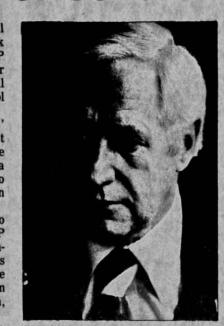

Harkin, a liberal 5th District congressman, has the backing of an exploratory committee and is expected to announce his senatorial candidacy in the next few months.

"I hope you won't let Tom Harkin forget his record. It is the most liberal record among Iowans in Congress. In fact, that record is perhaps one of the most liberal records in Congress in the country," said Fahrenkopf.

"His position on issues of defense and national security makes Jane Fonda look like a right-wing kook," he

"As the economy gets stronger, our 19 candidates get stronger,' Fahrenkopf said.

Iowa GOP Chairman Rolf Craft said the state party unveiled a strategy Saturday to identify and register Republicans in 14 months.

At the strategy meeting, Craft revealed that fundraising efforts since last November have doubled the number of GOP contributors and have turned the state party's $310,000 campaign debt to a $100,000 war chest for next

Expert gives Reagan a 'C' for education; U.S. students are not mastering English

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A school expert gave the Reagan administration "less than a C" Sunday for its education policies, but said most school would be available to high school students as problems are rooted at the community level and cannot be solved by the federal government.

Ernest Boyer said, however, the government can take steps to reverse the deterioration of schools and decline in quality of education.

Boyer is president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, a private "think tank," and was commissioner of education in the Carter administration.

Boyer headed the foundation's study on high schools. It involved 2,000 hours of observations and interviews in 15 selected schools.

In his recently released survey, "High Schools," Boyer said he and his staff spent more than 2,000 hours talking to parents, teachers and students. He said the greatest problem in American schools is that students are not mastering English, which he said should be stressed in the earliest grades and through the highest levels.

The report, like many recent studies on public education, recommended a host of reforms, including increased pay and training for teachers and a return to the basics. The study also addressed the problem of "youth malaise, suggesting ways to get students more involved in community affairs.

"I have no illusion the federal government can solve this problem," Boyer said on NBC's "Meet

"(BUT) THERE is a federal program that gives well," Boyer said.

"We have evidence it's working at the lower grades. I'd like to see it work at the higher grades. "We'd also urge a national teacher service program to attract able teachers who could serve for several years" and then return to private industry, he said.

He said a third program would be a loan fund for school "buildings and facilities at a national level, so schools could borrow at low interest."

"It has been estimated that $25 billion is needed to bring our buildings and labs up to snuff," he said. "Couldn't the federal government make low

Boyer said the Reagan administration cannot escape some blame for the deterioration.

"Stronger leadership is essential," he said. When pressed on a report card for the Reagan administration he said, "I'd say it's less than a C."

Boyer's sharpest criticism was reserved for parents, who he said have surrendered responsibility for the education of their children in the

"THE REPORT card on schools is a report card on the community as a whole. I believe if we want better schools, parents will and must find time. One has to point that out as part of the solution not something that will happen within the four walls of the school," he said.

Students should work in either the school or community, on such projects as checking out books in the library, caring for the aged in homes for the elderly or even tending to public parks.

"If you are to fix schools, you must have students who feel responsibly engaged. There is a youth malaise and we have to deal with it," Boyer

Boyer predicted the recommendation on student community involvement "will stir strong feelings pro and con. There will be those who really like it and those who feel it would put too much burden

Boyer said he would have been dubious himself if he had not seen it working in several schools in such cities as Detroit, Brunswick, N.J., and St.

"In the spirit of the proposal, we recommend that the students themselves be given responsiblity to organize and monitor student service activities and to work with school officials in seeing that credit is appropriately assigned, Boyer said."

Congressional and administration sources agree there will be a tax bill this year, but it will fall far short of the budget resolution's goals. Hawks explode past Penn State, 42-34

Records fall as Hawkeyes prove point

By Thomas W. Jargo Assistant Sports Editor

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. - Iowa football Coach Hayden Fry had a message to relate to the Eastern media that covered the Hawkeves' impressive 42-34 victory over the defending national champion Penn State Nittany Lions Saturday.

Fry, emerging from a boisterous Iowa locker room after the game, was confronted by a member of the Eastern media. The writer said to Fry, "Coach, you've come close to turning the program around...'

Immediately, Fry shot back, "Have...we have turned the program around with hard work and guts and sweat...I'm tired of all these rinky dink

INDEED, FRY HAS turned the program around. After 20 consecutive years of frustration, the Hawkeyes are enjoying the fruits of victory.

Saturday's explosive and tensionfilled win over the spirited Nittany Lions in front of a loud, paritsan crowd is finally bringing the respect Iowa has Numerous records were broken, including a Beaver Stadium record for combined yardage as both teams rolled up a devastating 1,089 yards total offense. Iowa racked up 587 yards in total offense, including a school record 345 yards passing by quarterback Chuck Long. Penn State added 492 yards to the offensive display.

"I feel like I've been playing," Fry said afterwards. "It was one of the longest (three-and-a-half hours) games I've seen. It was a heck of a good ballgame. It wasn't a pretty sight by the defense but we made the big plays when we had to."

The Hawkeyes did make the big plays as they continually had to come

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. - If nothing else is certain for Coach Joe Paterno and his struggling Penn State squad this year, at least they can be assured of playing before capacity crowds at Beaver Stadium - even after the Nittany Lions' worst start since

In fact, Penn State will play for capacity crowds in the future regardless of their season records, because they are part of a system that isn't found in other areas of the country. The Nittany Lions have become a part of a long-lasting seasonal tradition that few collegiate athletic teams share.

Saints nip Bears in overtime, 34-31

A couple of potential Hall of Famers squared off in New Orleans Sunday to stage a private Mardi Gras. The left arm of Saints' quarterback Ken Stabler finally prevailed over the legs - and right arm - of Chicago halfback Walter Payton as Morten Andersen kicked a 41yard field goal with 4:03 left in overtime to lift New Orleans to a 34-31 victory.

Payton threw two option touchdown passes to rookie Willie Gault and rushed for 161 yards on 28 carries, including a 49-yard touchdown run. Gault also caught an 8-yard scoring pass from Jim McMahon to go with his receptions of 56 and 21 yards from Payton.

The Bears sent the game into overtime on a 21-yard pass from Payton to Gault with 1:40 left in regulation. Cornerback Johnnie Poe had given the Saints a lead with a 31-yard interception return.

ELSEWHERE SUNDAY, Washington beat Kansas City 27-12, Green Bay edged the Los Angeles Rams 27-24, San Francisco downed St. Louis 42-27, Atlanta topped Detroit 30-14, Buffalo defeated Baltimore 28-23, New England upset the New York Jets 23-13, Pittsburgh whipped Houston 40-28, Dallas beat the New York Giants 28-13, Seattle outlasted San Diego 34-31, Philadelphia nipped Denver 10-7 and Minnesota topped Tampa Bay 19-16 in overtime.

Cleveland downed Cincinnati 17-7 Thursday night. Miami is at the Los Angeles Raiders tonight.

At Washington, Joe Theismann passed for two second-half touchdowns and the Redskins' defense limited Kansas City to just 34 total yards over the final two quarters. The Redskins, 2-1, trailed 12-0 at halftime as the Chiefs, 1-2, got four Nick Lowery field goals, including a 58-yarder.

At Milwaukee, the Packers capitalized on a fumble by Los Angeles rookie back Eric Dickerson to set up Jan Stenerud's 36yard field goal with one second left. Stenerud's winning kick came after Dickerson fumbled with 29 seconds remaining as the Rams were attempting to run out the regulation clock.

AT ST. LOUIS, Joe Montana passed for three touchdowns and Dwight Hicks and Tim Collier returned interceptions for scores to power the resurgent 49ers over the winless Cardinals.

At Pontiac, Mich., Steve Bartkowski threw three touchdown passes, two to Alfred Jackson, and William Andrews set a club record with 32 rushing attempts to lead Atlanta. Bartkowski completed scoring passes of 54 and 36 yards to Jackson sandwiched around an 11yard touchdown pass to Ben

At Houston, Cliff Stoudt led the Steelers on touchdown drives of 90 and 80 yards in the third quarter to hand the Oilers their 10th consecutive loss. Gary Anderson kicked four field goals in the first half for Pittsburgh.

At Irving, Texas, a 68-yard intereception return by Dextor Clinkscale and a 10-yard fumble return by Michael Downs, both going for touchdowns, sealed the Cowboys' triumph as Dallas emerged the only undefeated club in the NFC.

At Seattle, Steve Largent caught touchdown passes of 41 and 5 yards from Jim Zorn and rookie Curt Warner rushed for 109 yards to pace Seattle's ball-control offense.

At Tampa, Fla., Benny Ricardo kicked four field goals, including a game-saving 38-yarder and a game-winning 42-yarder 9:27 into overtime, to lift the Vikings. Ricardo had sent the game into overtime with a 38-yard field goal.

Hawkeye Field Hockey Coach Judith Davidson became the second coach in two weeks to reach her 100th career win at Iowa as her squad defeated Northern Illinois 5-1 on Sunday at Kin-

Win No. 99 came on Friday as the Ball State fell, 5-1. Last week, tennis coach Cathy Ballard passed the 100 win plateau with a win over Iowa State. The members of Davidson's squad celebrated the milestone win with champagne after the Northern Illinois win and presented her with a plaque. About reaching the 100-victory plateau, Davidson said, "It's really nice; the team was really great to do this season, the Hawkeyes have increased that record to 100-32-8. "I was very pleased with the game," Davidson said. "We were on top of the game and really dominated the game." Iowa took the early lead against Ball State when Sarah Fanjul scored on a penalty corner at only 30 seconds into the first half.

"Sarah played an excellent first half," Davidson said. "You could tell she was really ready to go.

Within the next 15 minutes of play, the Hawkeyes tallied twice more on goals by sophomores Mary Koboldt and Marcia Pankratz.

SENIOR FORWARD Ellen Egan scored one more time for Iowa in the first half and Ball State's June Lenher scored their only goal of the game.

Ball State only allowed the Hawkeyes to score one more time in the second half. Egan, assisted by Lee Ann Detwiler, scored for Iowa.

'We were overwhelmed by Iowa in the first half." Ball State Coach Karen Fitzpatrick said. "But, in the second half we put things together and only let them score once.'

Ball State also challenged Iowa's defensive in the game. "Our defense was tested but it's still shaky," Davidson said. "We still need to polish it up a win over Northern Illinois, Coach Judith Davidson's 100th victory.

What a difference a year - and a couple of very good new players — makes for Iowa volleyball Coach Sandy

Stewart and her squad.

The new-look Hawkeyes endured hrough five matches without a loss to capture the title at the Hawkeye Invitational last weekend in Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

Iowa now sports a 7-2 record for the season — not bad considering the fact the Hawkeyes were only able to win 10 matches all of last season. The Hawks are also riding a seven-match winning streak, a school record.

The two new players keying Iowa's good fortune of late are freshman setter Kathy Greisheim and junior hitter Julie Michelleti. "Kathy has a lot of poise for a freshman," Stewart said, and Julie has so much experience

BUT DON'T THINK Greisheim and Michelleti are the whole story though. Veterans Dee Ann Davidson and Sally Harrington had strong performances during the two-day tournament.

In Friday's round-robin match-up with Eastern Illinois, Davidson had a remarkable 70 digs while in Saturday's first match with Northern Iowa, Harrington came off the bench to take advantage of 62 percent of her attack opportunities.

Harrington felt the Hawkeyes were in a little better shape than their opposition in the tournament. "I think we've been working real hard this year," she said after Saturday's 15-9, 15-13, 15-10 win over Eastern Illinois in the championship match. "Personally, I don't even feel tired. IN THE FINALS, the Hawkeyes jumped out to big leads in all three games only to see a pesky Eastern squad peck away each time. But the Hawkeyes bent but never broke, taking the match and the championship in three straight games.

Eastern Coach Betty Ralston had a simple explination for Iowa's success against her squad. "They just got too many balls through our blocks," she said. "For us to be successful, we have to set our blocks up and Iowa didn't allow us to do that. The highs seemed to be very high and the lows seemed to be very low as the Big Ten Conference ended its second and final week of non-conference action with an even split of its games.

The Big Ten went 5-5 against outside foes, winning some games it didn't expect to and dropping some contests it figured to win. The win gave the conference a 12-8 mark against outside foes heading into next week's opening weekend of league action.

The biggest shocker was the Michigan State 28-23 upset at Notre Dame, giving new Coach George Perles his second consecutive win. Ohio State outlasted No. 2 ranked Oklahoma 24-14 while No. 12 Iowa outgunned Penn State 42-34 at University Park.

WISCONSIN EDGED Missouri of the Big Eight 21-20 while Illinois handed Stanford a 17-7 setback.

So much for the good news. There were some disappointments. Washington beat Michigan 25-24 on a two-point conversion with 10 seconds left after scoring a touchdown in the final minute. Kentucky handed rival Indiana a 24-13 defeat while two clubs, Northwestern and Purdue, were shut out. The Wildcats were blanked 35-0 by Syrcause while Purdue was shut out by Miami of Florida 35-0. The worst defeat of the day came at the hands of topranked Nebraska, which humiliated Minnesota 84-13.

Iowa Coach Jerry Hassard was once again happy with the performance of his top two runners. "They handled the field pretty well and were not too pressed," Hassard said, including that, "it was pretty clear that they were the top two runners in the Senior Jodi Hershberger finished third for the Hawkeyes as she crossed the finish line in a time of 18:01, good for ninth place. Anne Doborowolski was right behind Hershberger, placing 11th in 18:07.

THE OTHER IOWA runner to score Saturday was Maribeth See, she finished 19th with a time of 19:01.

Despite winning the invitational title, Hassard was not to pleased with most of his runners' perfor-

the weeks ahead to improve on that." Hassard believes his No. 3-5 runners need to stay closer to the front if Iowa is to be "effective" in the

"We were trying to group people and suggested that our 3-5 people get in front from the start because they are strong runners," Hassard said.

THE IOWA COACH added that, "there was a great distance between the first pack and our 3-5 runners (on Saturday), those great gaps hurt seriously in the big meets and there's no way we can do that and

On the other hand, Hassard was happy with the showing of Jenny Hayden (19:14), Janet Wodek (19:25), Sherri Suppelsa (19:41) and Lynn Davis (19:56) because all four runners improved their times over last week.

One surprise at the meet was the second place finish by Northwestern who have been perennial bottom finishers in the conference championships.

Hassard, though, says that the Wildcats may be a team to look out for in this year's Big Ten meet. "Northwestern is a much improved team," Hassard said. "We may see them as more of a power

A strong field is expected for this meet as Nebraska, Western Illinois, Minnesota, Drake, Wisconsin-LaCrosse and Central College of Pella, Iowa, will all be making the trip to Finkbine, while Arkansas may also compete in the Open.

lowa golfers' third place finish at tourney pleases Thomason

After letting it sink in for a day, Iowa women's golf Coach Diane Thomason said she was "feeling pretty good" about the Hawkeyes' third place finish in the Minnesota Invitational last weekend.

The host school won the tournament, with the Gophers shooting a 54-hole total of 960. Illinois State was second with a 974 and the Hawkeyes shot a 988 to finish third. Northern Iowa, Wisconsin, Iowa State, Minnesota II and Wisconsin-Whitewater rounded out the tourney field.

"We beat Wisconsin, a team we got beat by last weekend, by 31 strokes, so I'm pretty pleased," Thomason said. However, she was disappointed that lowa failed to make a run for second place during aturday's final 18 holes

"DURING THE FIRST two rounds, the scoring was pretty high, but we had pretty consistent scorng," Thomason said. "On that day, an 82 was a good score. We needed to pick up five strokes on Illinois State Saturday to take over second but we just Minnesota's Nancy Harris took medalist honors with a 233. Hawkeye Lynn Tauke finished sixth with a tournament total of 238. Senior Cookie Rosine, thanks in part to some improved putting, finished in eighth place with a 244.

"We're beginning to get a grouping towards three good scores rather than two so we are moving in the ight direction," Thomason said. "We've been getting good, solid performances from Lynn and Cookie played with consistency this week - her putting was a lot better this week as well. Generally, everybody on the team did some good things and there are still areas we can improve on.'

Rain cost Iowa much of its practice round on Thursday, which Thomason said could have been a reason for the generally high team scores in Friday's 36-hole scores for all eight teams. Thomason said the Hawkeyes need to work on im-

Iowa has next weekend off in preparation for hosting the Lady Northern Intercollegiate Sept. 30-Oct. 2 at Finkbine Golf Course. Thomason said her team will spend the next two weeks putting the finishing touches on its game. "We're still working on improving our putting and our short irons," she said. "We've been pretty accurate off the tee, so we'll continue to work on the finesse sort of things."

No, John Davidson didn't wander into The Daily lowan newsroom. That was the exclamation of Brad Cohen when he was told he had just won the grand prize in the DI football contest, On the Line.

Cohen, who says he just "picked the winners blindly" was the only contestant to miss only one game he picked Georgia to defeat Clemson in a game that ended in a 16-16 tie.

As a result of his efforts, Cohen will take home an eight-gallon keg of brew, compliments of R.T. Grunts, one of Iowa City's exciting little night spots, located on the corner of Benton Street and South

The competition between staff members took a turn this week as Assistant Sports Editor Mike Condon went 7-3 to raise his record to 16-4 on the year. Sports Editor Steve Batterson had a 6-4 week and is one game back at 15-5. Assistant Sports Editor Thomas W. Jargo, apparently thrilled by his journey to Penn State, slumped to a 5-5 mark after going 10-0 during the first week. Jargo is also a game behind Condon with a 15-5 mark.

Even if you didn't win On the Line this week, you have another chance beginning tomorrow when this week's games are announced. This week, the Fieldhouse in downtown Iowa City, will provide the

Jazz muses help MJQ triumph

By John Voland

THE PARTICULAR MUSE that governs the creative and recreative affairs of iazz must have been born under the astrological sign of Libra, the Scales, for never was there an art form that depended so much on balance for its cumulative impact.

That musing was amply demonstrated by Friday evening's per-formance by the legendary Modern Jazz Quartet at Hancher Auditorium: Here is an ensemble so finely balanced in its craft that it has no equal among groupings of its kind.

Both in its unique sound — basically all percussion - and in its flexibility of format and dynamics, the MJQ is supremely level-headed and smooth in execution. With passionate vibraharpist Milt Jackson and "cool" pianist John Lewis forming the front line, and jovial bassist Percy Heath and serene percussionist Connie Kay providing the propulsion, here is a meeting of many disciplines that blends, almost magically and totally without strain, into jazz at which to marvel.

THE FIRST work (I hesitate to use the words "tune" or "number," and Music Jackson's term "composition" sounds much too studied for such spontaneous music-making), a suite from a recent film score titled "Odds Against Tomorrow," revived memories of the Swiss-watch-caliber precision of the group, and yet this was new music played, by Lewis especially, with the fresh heat of a brand-new band, not one with the 28-year history the MJQ brings to bear.

At no point during the concert did I get the impression that the group was resting on its considerable laurels. For instance, when it worked its way into the title work from one of the later albums, The Legendary Profile, the almost computerized rendition on the album was fashioned into a bouncy, fast shuffle at the concert. Lewis flew into his solo with all ten fingers and both feet, and he spurred Jackson into a furious response wherein it seemed as if the vibist's arms would take leave of their sockets.

As has been alluded to, it appeared that the group's nine-year "rest" (as Jackson put it) has benefitted Lewis prissily precise, along came Percy to

JACKSON IS and remains the premier vibist of the "traditional" jazz world (a case could be made, on purely technical grounds, for Gary Burton, but his style is completely different from "Bags'"), and his electrifying playing Friday was a sight and sound to behold. When he took over center stage on a vibes-only version of "Nature Boy," the whole house was utterly hushed as, silhouetted by an amber spotlight, Jackson simply blew the roof off the place with his demonical, yet at the same time hushed, artistry. Here is honest-to-God bop that hasn't lost any of its impact in the almost 40 years of

AND DRUMMER Connie Kay was solid, unflappable and yet seemingly everywhere at once - here having a dialogue with Heath, there underlining, reminding the audience of the chorus during a solo. During the subtly polyrhythmic work "The Walking Stump," Kay kept up three separate and distinct beats, and his soloing during the dissonant march-step of "Sascha's March" was powerful in its creative use of percussive melody and dynamics - was there ever a drummer who sounded so good playing quietly as Kay does? I've never heard

I'm glad that a group with such a history as the MJQ can retain those elements of its sound that are unique the intelligence, the subtlety, the grace - and infuse that with new qualities that manage to make every performance special.

It's a question of balance, and it's one the MJQ answers very, very well.

'Anti-terrorists" storm the U.S. Embassy in a scene from The Final Option

'Option' revels in violence

By Craig Wyrick

HE FINAL OPTION is the flip-side of WarGames in the nuclear arms debate. Advertised as an action-adventure flick, The Final Option has all of the prerequisites of a fun-loving adventure film, except that this one is downright manipulative.

Lewis Collins stars as Peter Skellen, one brutal sonofabitch and a top man in Britain's SAS (an antiterrorist group). His mission is to infiltrate a "radical chic" group, The People's Lobby, and thwart whatever radical plans they may have.

While The Final Option purports to be a serious film, some of the stereotypes are so broad they're laughable. The Iowa City audience wasn't laughing. Skellen has no problem infiltrating The People's Lobby - he beds the female co-leader, Frankie (Judy Davis), with a few simple pick-up lines. Frankie immediately trusts Skellen completely (just like she trusts the Russkies, eh?!).

Not only that, we find out that anti-nuclear activists are conniving, publicity-hungry Marxists. A rock concert benefit is broken up by some skinhead punkers just to bring the press to the scene. And finally, Skellen discovers their ultimate plan — sack the American ambassador's residence when the U.S. secretary of state is there. Naturally, Frankie wants to take Skellen along, so he has no problem in thwarting their plans by the end.

A NUMBER of gaping plot holes are left here. But they're covered over with a slick varnish. The Final Option is stylish — frighteningly stylish, in the way of Leni Riefenstahl's pro-Nazi documentary Triumph of the Will. The editing is slick and so are the images. Just when the funky soundtrack score seems to be heralding the arrival of Shaft, the antiterrorists start swinging out of helicopters and blowing away all of the radicals - and no "good guys" get hurt. It's Dirty Harry with a nuclear-weapons

The Final Option wouldn't be so repugnant if it stuck to its "guns" instead of broad generalizations about nuclear disarmament groups. By the end of the film, an innocent babe would believe that the antinuclear groups were run by the KGB and its members are mindless twits who don't realize the "real"

But I hardly think this film (or WarGames) will change anyone's mind: Those who went in disliking anti-nuclear groups will revel in the violence (if they like this sort of thing), and those who are antinuclear will be repulsed by the manipulation taking place on the screen. It might just help reinforce those in the middle. THE ARGUMENTS of the film are set forth by the secretary of state (Richard Widmark), who tries to reason with the terrorists. The irony of Frankie's statement to the press that violence is necessary "in the name of peace," is repeated by an incredulous Widmark. You see, Frankie wants the military to drop a nuclear bomb on an arms base in Scotland to show the world the power of nuclear destruction. The woman is a rather naive radical — when the secretary questions her methods and motives, she goes into another room and tells a fellow terrorist that maybe they've made a mistake. Frankie makes a snide remark about Truman's dropping of the bomb, and the secretary brings up the standard argument that Truman wanted to save American lives. The secretary notes that Frankie wants the Western democracies to disarm first - a naive belief to which even staunch members of the Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament (a group seen throughout the

But The Final Option goes farther than this. It revels in violence, glorifies militarism, delights in death. That might be enjoyable, if, as in The Road Warrior, they weren't trying to make a heavyhanded political message.

The film wants to show the hypocrisy of radicals who want peace and yet advocate violence to that end. At least it's no hypocrite — it enjoys violence and hates radicals (and even liberals). The Final Option made like a two-hour-long Army commercial. .. all that you can kill.'
