Walace will not leave Poland.

Gianne, Poland — Lech Walesa said Thursday he will not leave Poland, a day after the Supreme Court upheld his election as president.

"I will not leave Poland," he said.

Walace, 40, the founder of the Solidarity trade union that has long sought to bring down the Communist regime, had given no indication before Wednesday that he would renounce his post to run.

"They have denied our request, and we have no other alternative but to fight," he said.

Walace, who is accompanied by his family, is expected to stay in Warsaw for the time being.

In Washington, President Reagan said the Solidarity victory was a "major step forward in the revolution in Eastern Europe.

"We must be constantly vigilant to keep this process moving forward," Reagan said.

Walace's victory is likely to lead to further tension between Poland and the Soviet Union.

In Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass reported that the Soviet government had decided not to recognize the new government.

Wilbur Cohen, the former secretary of North, Education and Welfare of the American Legion, said at a recent meeting that the Legion is looking forward to a strong start in the coming year with the re-organization of local posts.

At the Springfield, Ill., meeting, Cohen said, "We have made great progress in the past year. However, we must continue our efforts to increase membership and maintain our facilities." Cohen also expressed his appreciation for the work of the local posts and the support of the Legion members.

The Legion has been working to improve its public image and increase its membership. Cohen said, "We have a strong base of members who are committed to our cause. We must continue to work to attract new members and maintain our current membership." Cohen also said that the Legion is working to improve its financial situation.

For instance, Cohen said, "We have been working hard to increase our membership. We have had some success, but we still have a long way to go. We must continue our efforts to attract new members and maintain our current membership." Cohen also said that the Legion is working to improve its financial situation.

In conclusion, Cohen said, "We have made great progress in the past year. However, we must continue our efforts to increase membership and maintain our facilities." Cohen also expressed his appreciation for the work of the local posts and the support of the Legion members.
75 entries march in tonight's parade

Orwell's pull seen in Soviet acts

By Steve Sanders

The annual St. Boniface's Bandstand Parade, postponed until Saturday due to weather, will take place in downtown Sioux City at 1 p.m. all day today in p.m.

At President James E. Farrow's parade will be the only public event today.

The parade, which is expected to attract hundreds of spectators, will feature floats, bands, and other participants. Among the highlights will be the annual float competition, where local organizations and businesses will showcase their creativity and community spirit.

The parade will begin at the intersection of First and Prairie streets and proceed to the south to the main drag, where it will end at the St. Boniface Bandstand, the site of the annual St. Boniface Bandstand Parade.

Orwell's pull seen in Soviet acts

By Tom Ambrose

The Soviet Union's recent actions in the region have been interpreted as an attempt to assert its influence and expand its reach. The actions have included the annexation of Crimea, the occupation of Ukraine, and the incursion into eastern Europe.

The Soviet Union has been accused of violating international law and human rights, and its actions have been condemned by the international community. However, the Soviet Union has defended its actions, arguing that they are necessary to protect its national security and interests.

The Soviet Union's actions have sparked controversy and debate, with some calling for sanctions and others advocating for engagement and dialogue.

UI Hospital's directed to collect patient data

By Joan Tonne

At their weekly meeting today, the Iowa Legislative Council has decided to direct the UI Hospitals to collect patient data.

The council, which is the state's highest legislative body, decided to direct the hospitals to collect patient data in order to improve the quality of care provided to patients. The council's decision was based on a report from the Iowa Hospital Association, which found that the state's hospitals were not collecting enough data to effectively measure and improve the quality of care.

The council's decision was praised by the Iowa Hospital Association, which said that it would help improve the quality of care provided to patients.

Nursing a victory

Although the nursing staffs in the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics have won a significant victory in their fight for better working conditions, the battle is far from over.

The nursing staffs have been fighting for better working conditions for several years, and their victory is a testament to their determination and hard work. However, the nursing staffs are still fighting for better pay and benefits, and their struggle is far from over.

Apology education

The University of Iowa has launched a new program to educate students about the importance of apologizing.

The program, which is called "Apology Education," is designed to teach students the importance of apologizing and how to do it effectively.

"Apology Education" is being offered to all students, and it is mandatory for all students to complete the program.

Niger army foils attempted takeover

NANEY (Niger) - The coup plot that has been attempted in the strategic West African nation of Niger was foiled by President Sissako Kouyaté on Friday.

The coup attempt started at dawn on Friday when four battalions sent out at military camps on the western side of the capital were quickly restored.

President Sissako Kouyaté restored order.

The government responded quickly, surrounding the residence and government facilities with soldiers and posting guards at strategic points in the city.

The coup attempt has been labeled "a plot by certain people at the uranium mine... and government ministers who took part in the coup..."

The president has promised to bring those responsible to justice.

"Thanks to the vigilance and the action of the defence ministry, the situation is under control and normalcy is restored," the government said.

The president also said that the coup attempt is ongoing and that the situation is under control.

"We condemn this attempt and ask the public to remain calm and resume normal activities," he added.

The Ministry of Defence confirmed that the situation is under control and normalcy is restored.

The president also thanked his troops and said that the situation is under control.

The government has thanked the public for their support and has promised to bring those responsible to justice.

Senate puts USI fee on ballot

By Dan Hauser
Drew said the senate does not have a majority to pass a bill, which would have allowed the school to keep its fee. Secretary examines the bill and referred it to the appropriate committee. The bill was referred to the Senate Committee on Education and Public Welfare. The committee will meet to discuss the bill and make a recommendation to the Senate. The Senate will then vote on the bill. If the bill passes, it will then be sent to the House of Representatives for consideration. The House of Representatives will also vote on the bill. If the bill passes in the House, it will then be sent to Governor Price for approval. If Governor Price approves the bill, it will become law and USI will be required to pay the fee. If Governor Price vetoes the bill, it will be sent back to the legislature for further consideration. The legislature may then attempt to override Governor Price's veto. If the legislature overrides the veto, the bill will become law. If the legislature does not override the veto, the bill will not become law.

Immigration proposal stalled to avoid veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The White House attack on immigration reform legislation went to the Senate with a lot of noise, but not a lot of interest, Monday night

The move, aimed at matching the Senate's refusal to consider the bill, is expected to put pressure on Senate leaders to approve the legislation, a vote which could be the first test of the Senate's ability to act on the bill.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes, who had described Reagan's immigration bill as a "calm and reasonable" attempt to stem illegal immigration, said the White House had been "informed" that the Senate would not consider the bill.

The White House had already passed an immigration reform bill that would limit legal immigration to the U.S., but the Senate refused to consider it.

REAGAN'S REQUEST

Reagan, who has been in office for four years, asked Congress to pass a bill that would limit legal immigration to the U.S. to 250,000 a year.

But the Senate, which has control of the legislative process, refused to consider the bill, saying it was "too little, too late." The Senate had already passed a bill that would limit legal immigration to 250,000 a year, but the White House had refused to sign the bill.

Ex-Hawk Bodick shuts out Sox, 4-0

Baltimore, Conn. — Mike Bodick, an 8th-year reliever who calls Chicago home and is currently on strike against the White Sox, helped rescue Baltimore's beleaguered defense yesterday by pitching a complete game and a four-hitter to beat the Red Sox, 4-0. Bodick, who has a record of 0-2 against the Sox this season, faced 28 batters and allowed only one run on seven hits. The right-hander is expected to make another start for Baltimore on Wednesday.

Iowa's Fry wary of 'Cat quarterback

By Steve Bowers

Kirk Ferentz, whose No. 14 Hawkeyes will meet Iowa State this weekend, is wary of the Cyclones' quarterback, who he says is "a real threat." Ferentz said that despite the Cyclones' recent struggles, their quarterback is "very capable of making big plays on any given play." The Hawkeyes will look to contain him and disrupt his timing.

Kidd's development a plus for Wildcats

By Thomas N. Zieg

Coach Rick Venturi said that his team's development has been helped by the arrival of a new quarterback, who he said "has really stepped up and taken the job." Venturi said that the quarterback's presence has led to "great expectations" for the team's offense this year.

Oriole pitcher loses his touch

The White Sox, who have struggled all season, have lost six straight games, including a 9-2 loss to the Orioles on Thursday. The loss was the latest in a string of poor performances by the team's starting pitchers. The team's manager, who called the game "a disaster," said that the team needs to improve their pitching if they hope to turn things around.

Iowa Hawkeyes vs. Northwestern Wildcats

Despite the fact that Northwestern has been struggling all season, coach Pat Fitzgerald said that his team is "known as a big-time program" and is not afraid of the challenge.

"I don't see Northwestern as being a second-rate team," Fitzgerald said. "They're in the Big Ten for a reason." The Wildcats are looking to continue their winning streak as they face the Hawkeyes this weekend.

Kidd's development has been a key to the team's success this season. "He's really stepped up," Fitzgerald said. "He's been a big confidence booster for us." The coach said that Kidd's presence has helped "greatly" improve the team's performance on the field.

Spikers face test at Ohio State

By Robert Ryan

Iowa volleyball coach Sandy Stewart said late last week that most of her team were "buckled up" for the road.

That should make for an exciting and powerful contest when the Big Ten teams battle Saturday in Columbus, Ohio. Stewart's Buckeyes are confident heading into their conference clash with the West Virginia Mountaineers. Stewart was quoted as saying, "We're ready for this one." The Buckeyes are expected to win.

The Buckeyes are riding a two-game winning streak, and consistent setting of freshman Linda Lyseng and sophomore outside hitter Jenny Hines, according to Buckeye报表.

The Buckeyes are currently ranked No. 7 in the nation, and are the team to beat in the Big Ten.

They may be in for a surprise. "It's going to be a good test for us," said Stewart.

Although the Buckeyes are confident, fans should expect a tough battle.

Wednesday night, Stewart said Iowa was making too many unforced errors as a result of not being patient. "I think we handled it well," said Stewart.

The Buckeyes are expected to win, but fans should be prepared for a close game.

On the line

We are on The Daily Iowan's On The line radio show each week. This week guest on the show was Buffalo Bills wide receiver Mike Condon. He was asked to talk about his team's upcoming game with the Buffalo Bills. Condon said that the team is ready to face the Eagles and is looking forward to the game. He also talked about his experience playing in the NFL and how he got his start in the league.

NHL roundup

Slovakia, Dubai, and San Diego bad began their campaign for the title. The Slovaks have trained hard all week and are ready to compete. Dubai, on the other hand, is not as prepared and will have to work harder to make it to the final round. San Diego has been the most consistent team this year and is expected to be a strong contender.

We have kept ourselves more than halfway through our training camp here in Dubai. We got the best players in the world and we are looking forward to the game. I hope you don't watch us from behind.

Landy said he was not optimistic that we could win the Super Bowl this year. He said that the team has been working hard and is ready to face the challenges. However, he also said that they need to improve their defense to have a chance of winning.

In other NHL action, San Francisco will host the Los Angeles Rams. The Rams will be without their star quarterback, Steve Young, who is recovering from a shoulder injury. The 49ers are expected to be a strong contender in this game.

For Orlando, the game will be against the Atlanta Falcons. The Panthers are looking forward to the game and are hoping to continue their winning streak.

Last year, Wisconsin beat everyone but the conference. They look good on film.

"That's thebig thing that we did for us," said Michigan Coach George Perles. "If we can do it, we can do anything against them."

Illinois Coach Mike White said that Illinois' win over Michigan last year's conference championship game was a significant victory.

"It's a credit to the team that can't achieve. They played well," Wyche said. "But the hefty team that can't achieve. They played well, too."

Northwestern's bruised and battered "Wildcats" battled hard, but it wasn't enough to keep Michigan from winning.

Then you get the bitter-sweet and self-mortification of Silver Sugar, you could go with Trouble at Home. Trouble at Home is the second album release by the local band Silver Sugar, and it rivals that of their previous album "Good Vibrations." The band self-produced and self-released this album, which was recorded in their rehearsal studio in the basement of their band's manager's house. The album consists of ten tracks, each of which features the band's signature sound, a mix of rock and roll and country.

Though Tubes’ new disc is syrup, the stage show is sick burlesque

By Paul P. Soucek

Elvis made the 50's sexual. Paul McCartney tried to do the same thing, but the music industry has been caught between the same two forces. McCartney’s new album is an attempt to blend their styles, but it falls short in the end. The show, on the other hand, is a burlesque that is both entertaining and visually pleasing.

The Tubes are a band that has been around for a long time, and their latest album is no exception. However, the show is what really draws the audience. The performers are all dressed in colorful costumes and act out a story that is both amusing and entertaining. The music, while not groundbreaking, fits well with the overall theme of the show.

In summary, while the Tubes’ new album is lacking in creativity, the stage show is a fun and engaging experience. The performers are talented and the music is catchy, making it worth seeing for anyone who enjoys a good burlesque performance.

The music

The music is a mix of rock and roll and pop, with a few blues and country influences. The lead singer, Fee Waybill, is a talented performer who can hold his own on stage. The backup vocals are also strong, and the overall sound is enjoyable.

The show

The show is a burlesque performance, with a central theme of “the little girl next door.” The performers are all dressed in costumes that are both revealing and fun, and they act out a story that is both entertaining and visually pleasing.

The Tubes’ latest album is a disappointment, but the stage show is a must-see for anyone who enjoys a good burlesque performance.
Jazz innovators Brubeck, Mulligan to play Hancher

Homecomings past
Homecoming has changed a great deal since its beginnings at Iowa in 1912. Over the years, parades, rallies, fireworks, and special events and happenings have marked Hawkeye Homecoming weekends. A look at Homecomings of the past.
By Steve Batterson ................................. Page 4

Homecoming present
This year's Homecoming at Iowa has been a week-long affair. Pep rallies, essay sessions, and, of course, Saturday's big game with the Northwestern Wildcats highlight the spirit of the "Wildcatstrophe" Homecoming '83.

Concessions a big business
Ever wonder how many hot dogs, soft drinks and nachos are sold on a football Saturday in Kinnick Stadium? The number is quite large indeed. Ogden Food Services is in charge of the concessions and they have some interesting theories on what an average fan buys at a game.

Wildcat fans still apathetic
Despite last season's improvement on the football field, Northwestern still suffers from lack of publicity from the Chicago fans and media. Those who cover the Wildcats say it will take a Big Ten Conference contender to get the media — and more important, the fans — behind the program.
By Robert Ryser ................................. Page 10

Stopping Schwab the key
For the Hawkeyes to get back on the winning trail this week against Northwestern after last weekend's 33-24 skunking at Illinois, they must find a way to contain Wildcat sophomore quarterback Sandy Schwab, who broke or tied 15 NCAA records last season. On the other hand, Coach Dennis Green's defense must find a way to put a run on lowly quarterback Chuck Long.

Cats restore athletic excellence
By J.B. Glass
Staff Writer
Creating an institution with "the highest order of excellence" was the motto of the original members who established Northwestern University in 1851. Everything associated with the institution would try to fulfill this goal.
More than a century later, Northwestern still holds this attitude and is now trying to re-establish it among its athletic department.
In recent years, Northwestern found that its athletic teams were not bolding to that tradition and something had to be done.
The losing was becoming contagious and it was never more noticeable than on the Northwestern gridiron.

THE WILDCATS football team was in the midst of losing not only game after game but year after year, a total of 34 consecutive games were lost before a victory arrived.
Two-and-a-half years ago, in the middle of the disastrous streak, a new athletic director arrived in Evanston, Ill., Doug Single.
This Stanford graduate's mission was to install that "high order of excellence" in the entire athletic department.
And finally, the results are beginning to show. According to Single, the way to achieve this goal was to take a look at other institutions like Northwestern, ones with a high academic scale, and move in that direction.
Single had three major goals to get the enthusiasm back into the Wildcats which in turn would echo that feeling to Chicago and the nation.

THE FIRST, according to Single, was to gain a general acceptance as a competitive team in the Big Ten. That is followed by upgrading the financial commitment to the program and finally improving the teams on a whole.
Single wanted to do this without lowering the academic excellence which Northwestern is known for.
"We are starting to see improvements now," Single said, "and we've done this all without the lowering of admissions. We're moving in the right direction."
Single has been at the head of the class in covering a long list of improvements and has plans for future changes.
Already his enthusiasm for the challenge has been seen. For starters, all 24 Wildcat intercollegiate teams combined for a record of 205-104-5 last year, a winning percentage of over .600, the best ever in Northwestern history.

THE ATTENDANCE at these events has seen an increase of around 30 percent.
Financially, $8.5 million was raised and used for the remodeling of Northwestern's coaches' and athletic offices, training and locker rooms, the baseball and tennis facilities, as well as the renovation of McGraw Hall.
Future financial investments will go toward an $11 million multi-purpose sports complex.
Besides this, a television contract with Centenary Broadcasting was signed to promote Northwestern.

"Across the board there was a major campaign fund and everything from the promotions to the color purple were changed to enhance our image," Single said. "We've excited the ways things are going but we still have a way to go."

But how is Chicago land accepting the new Wildcats?

ACCORDING TO Larry Greybill, assistant sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, "I think there is more interest than there has been in the last few years, it's profile has improved."
But he also said that it is tough for Northwestern to compete in the Chicago market, because of the many professional sports teams as well as other schools such as Illinois and Notre Dame which are nearby.

Single sees being in a large city as an advantage: "We're lucky that we are in a population center of nearly seven million. When we're successful Northwestern has to find its niche."
Greybill also said that he thought that Northwestern was trying to incorporate the school's academic tradition when recruiting athletes and that there was an improvement in the coaching ranks.

JAMES R. LIDMAN of nearby Wilmette graduated from Northwestern in 1982 and completed his law degree in 1985. "I think the media has responded positively last year and this," he said. "They have received very favorable press."
The football season ticket holder believes that Northwestern is making a real effort to sell its product and that can be seen by the amount of dollars that is being pumped into the system.

Festivities favored frolicking fun

By Steve Batterson

T he Dixie Piccaninnies and Uncle Eben's Ebony Ethiopians, featuring the "world renowned 'Bo Peep' Morris dancing in her number 18 shoes" rolled into Iowa City one day in 1916. In all likelihood, they rolled out the next day — being one of many Homecoming traditions that has come and gone since the first celebration took place in 1912. Herbert M. Harwood, then-secretary of the UI Association, is credited with the idea.

The big show, featuring the Dixie Piccaninnies and Uncle Eben's Ebony Ethiopians, was a part of the "Hawkeye Hippodrome," a spectacle that preceded the Iowa-Nebraska Homecoming clash in 1896. The show also featured the Gold Dust Twins.

The parade has always been a part of Homecoming, joining the schedule of events in 1917. The 1921 parade featured more than 60 floats and the parade was moved from Saturday morning to its current Friday night time in 1949.

The pep rally that follows the parade has been a tradition since Homecoming's inception. The first few rallies were held indoors with campus organizations leading the festivities with skits and other such performances.

The 1924 show included a stunt show and a fireworks display that was seen by over 12,000 spectators. In 1918, the United States was participating in World War I and Homecoming activities that year reflected the war. Included in the schedule were a "Ceremony of Retreat" and a "real" doughboys meal, fittingly called mess. All that was only 30 cents.

The corn monument on the Pentacrest contained 60 bushels of corn and at that time, the tradition called for the monument to be burned after a Homecoming victory. Homecoming King and Queen. Other events included wheelbarrow races and hot air balloon rides.

"We wanted to have a big community event and a carnival was a perfect event to kick-off Homecoming this year," Homecoming Public Relations Director Steve Gilberg said. "And the response we received from the carnival was just overwhelming."

ON MONDAY, the Homecoming festivities were highlighted by the Homecoming kick-off at the Pentacrest. The Iowa cheerleaders and Herky the Hawk put on a show for the lunch time crowd.

Tuesday night at the Old Capital Center several Iowa athletes were on hand to sign autographs and talk to youngsters and the young at heart.

This year's Homecoming badge was designed by UI undergraduate Amy Krausstraar, whose design was selected over 30 entries, marked the second year in a row in which she has designed the Homecoming badge. The "Wildcatstravesty" badge was entered in a National Campus Programs designs contest where it received a first place award.

Iowa Coach Hayden Fry got things going at the pep rally last Wednesday night at the Pentacrest by talking to the crowd of mostly college students. Iowa co-captains Norm Graner, Dave Brubel and Joe Reith also added their support.

Another thing that kept the Iowa crown going was when Iowa kicker Tom Nichol kicked an autographed football into the crowd. There was also a mock funeral for the Northwestern Wildcats to give the Iowa fans attending a demonstration of how Saturday's game would turn out.

"It creates excitement," Gilberg said. "Extra little things like these help break the monotony of everyday school life."

Wednesday night's feature was a concert by the Tubes at Hancher Auditorium.

The parade will start off the weekend for the Hawkeye loyalists with an expected crowd of 25,000 on hand.

They provide a carnival-like atmosphere, selling popcorn, peanuts and hot dogs to over 60,000 fans on Saturday afternoons. And the man in charge of the 14 concession stands at Kinnick Stadium says Iowa football fans eat a lot.

Bill Maher has been the general manager of the concession stands, which are owned by Ogden Food Services Corp., for the past six years. According to Maher, Hawkeye fans love their food, no matter how the team is doing on the field.

The most popular item sold at the concession stands is soft drinks. Approximately half of the concession stand sales at each game is pop. Maher said at a game two years ago against Nebraska, Hawkeye football fans drank over 40,000 Cokes between 12 and 4 p.m.

NEXT TO SOFT drinks, the best selling item at the concession stands is the “Great American” hot dog. Iowa fans eat 12,000 hot dogs a game, including the super dog.

And fans who don’t like hot dogs buy four to five thousand boxes of popcorn at the games.

But none of those sound appetizing, the concession stands also sell peanuts and nachos.

I “don’t think tailgate parties affect the concession stands that much,” says Bill Maher, general manager of Ogden Food Services. “The fans eat in the morning at the tailgate parties and by game time or halftime they’re ready to eat again.”

OFF THE FIELD

Like most football fans, Iowa followers love their food. On game Saturdays, such as at the Iowa-Ohio State game last month, Hawkeye fans flock to concession stands at Kinnick Stadium. Officials of Ogden Food Service say that fans have downed as many as 40,000 cups of pop during a game.

For example, at the last home game during the 1983 season, a win over Wisconsin in frigid weather, the concession stands sold 17,000 hot chocolates and coffees compared to only 5,000 Cokes, Maher said.

“The weather is the only thing that affects how much 60,000 fans are going to eat, and it makes little difference whether the Hawkeyes are winning or losing — the fans are still going to eat,” Maher said.

EVEN THE tailgate parties before kickoff don’t hurt the fans appetites during the games. “I don’t think the tailgate parties affect the concession stands that much,” Maher said. “The fans eat in the morning at the tailgate parties and by game time or halftime they’re ready to eat again.”

For people who like to eat but can’t stand waiting in the long lines at the concession stands, Maher suggests buying your food when Iowa has possession of the ball.

“Don’t come at halftime; it’s a mob,” Maher said. “Close to half of our sales are done at halftime.”

At halftime, the concession stands serve between 20 and 30,000 people.

To serve the large number of fans better this year, the concession stands will be adjusting prices to 25 cent increments. “This will end the nickel and dime change and help speed up service,” Maher said.

THE OPPOSITION

Wildcat fans still showing apathy

By Robert Ryser
Staff Writer

This could be difficult to explain, because success in athletics is always deemed good and beneficial to those who achieve it. However, even after national recognition for their success in 1982, the Northwestern Wildcats aren't getting the full benefit of the celebrated good success — it's almost as if they were handed a cheaper grade.

A noticeable lacking ingredient is fan support. Athletic officials at Northwestern are faced with the seasonal problem of filling Dyche Stadium at least five times a year...and it isn't easy.

"THE ONLY TIME they ever sell out is when Notre Dame plays, and even then threequarters of the fans are from N.D.," said Grobstein of WLS Radio in Chicago. "They're expecting over 30,000 (in attendance for last Saturday's Wisconsin game) which is a State come."

Northwestern didn't start off the 1983 in a winning fashion, losing to Washington, 34-0, and Syracuse, 35-0.

"WE GOT OUR brains kicked in, but nobody panicked," said Deane Dow, who does the Wildcat play-by-play for WATF Radio in Chicago. "We went into Indiana a two-touchdown underdog and won."

"It was a comedy of errors," Grobstein said of Saturday's 10-8 contest, "both teams stunk...Indiana just stunk worse. I'm not taking anything away from (Northwestern Coach) Dennis Green, because I think he is doing a great job."

The immediate question that comes to the general opinion of fans, coaches and writers in the Chicago area, and few people doubt that Green will eventually bring a winner to Evanston — the question still remains, when? That question is a major reason Dyche Stadium hasn't seen a capacity crowd since 1974.

"WE'VE BEEN LED to believe they're gonna have a good team this year," said Johnny Morris of WBBM-TV in Chicago. "I think they've improved a lot under Green, but they're still going to be a losing team this year."

It's that popular opinion that has perhaps hurt Northwestern's image more than anything else. The Chicago press doesn't consider Wildcat football a newsworthy topic with respect to the other sports news in the metropolitan area, according to Morris.

"Everyone wants to jump on a winner," said Dow. "I'm the only guy on the air who talks about Northwestern football. If we would've beat Indiana after losing 46 straight games, it would've made the front page, but (Saturday's) win didn't even make the front page of the sports section."

"(THE INDIANA GAME) really got buried in the Sunday editions," Morris said. "It wasn't covered well by the overall Chicago press."

The immediate question that comes to mind is why? What could be more important to Northwestern fans than the Wildcats' first road-opener Big Ten victory since they beat Iowa 28-3 in 1971? The pennant-headed White Sox, the cellar-headquartered Hawks, the opening of the training camp for the Black Hawks all received more play than the Wildcats. In fact, Michigan State and Iowa's upsets over Notre Dame and Ohio State respectively took precedence over Northwestern in the Chicago papers and news telecasts, according to Morris.

We ran highlights of the game," Morris said. "We have our cameras at every game — in the beginning of the season, we did a feature on the (Northwestern) team...everybody had an (affection) for them as the 'lovable losers' just like the Cubs."

But Morris said if Northwestern starts to win three or four games a season, the media attention will be less and less as the Wildcats lose their novelty status.

"(Northwestern) either has to win all of their games or lose all of them," Morris said.

There is no room for mediocrity, according to Morris. Mediocrity might be termed by the competitive Chicago press as finishing fourth or fifth in the Big Ten — which would be a great improvement for the Wildcats over last year.

It's that paradox that Dow is trying to resolve with his radio program.

"If we can beat Wisconsin this week, we can go into Iowa tied for first place in the Big Ten with nothing to lose," Dow said. "It will be the first time we've had a two-game winning streak since 1975.

Iowa defense must stop Schwab

By Mike Condon
Assistant Sports Editor

When Dennis Green brought his Northwestern football team to Iowa City last season, it was pretty much a given fact that the Iowa Hawkeyes were the superior team. But the Wildcats had an impressive second half of the 1982 season. After a 47-0 loss to the Hawkeyes, Northwestern stunned Minnesota to gain its first Big Ten win since the final game of the 1977 season against Illinois. And if that wasn’t enough, the Wildcats went on to defeat Michigan State in East Lansing and nearly upset powerful Ohio State.

THE MAIN REASON for the improvement in the Northwestern attack was the play of quarterback Mike Schwab. If Iowa hopes to get back on the track after last week’s 33-14 drubbing at the hands of Illinois, the young Hawk eye defensive line will have to get to Schwab, who broke or tied 15 NCAA records in his freshman season. Schwab’s main weapon is his ability to scramble out of the pocket and make a gain out of a play that shouldn’t have made anything. He is a durable passer — he has the ability to take a beating and come right back and burn a defense.

The task for the Iowa defense is obvious — try and keep Schwab in the pocket and not allow him to get to the outside.

Northwestern is not known for its running game (only 735 yards in 11 games last season). The only real running threat, other than Schwab, is senior Ricky Edwards.

Wildcats

“If Northwestern could just find a major bowl bid, I think it would make a big difference for the fans. They’re out there, ready to come out, but they all say ‘well, it’s on the North Shore, and they’re losing’.”

DOW SAID PART of the image problem with the Wildcats is being solved by Green, who has developed a large student following on the Evanston campus.

“I haven’t heard one thing bad said about Denny Green,” Groebstein said. “But the problem of the Wildcats’ popularity in Chicago remains.”

“I remember 13 years ago it wasn’t in fashion to be a White Sox fan,” Dow said. “There were seats in (Comiskey Park) like there are in Dyche Stadium now. That was back when people still thought the Cubs could win. I don’t know where all of the White Sox fans are coming from now, but there sure is a lot of print on ‘em.”

Dow said with new promotions such as a family ticket rate, and a Pepsi Cola-sponsored purple flag-waving contest, Northwestern can start to consistently draw some of the eight million people in the Chicago area. “They’ve got to see that college football is every bit as exciting as the NFL or the White Sox,” he said. “If Northwestern ever flirts with a major bowl berth, the Chicago press will be flocking into Dyche stadium with their note pads and cameras just like they are at Iowa now.”
