Second Grenadian leader captured by U.S. troops

Iowa City firefighters work to cover a hole in the window of a three-story dormitory on the first floor of Schaeffer Hall Friday afternoon following a fire. Prisoners were at issue in the Schaeffer Hall Dormitory, where the windows were broken and the doors knocked down.

Schaeffer fire traps 17 people

Iowa City Daily Iowan

Iowa City firefighters freed 17 people from a dormitory jammed between two floors of a Schaeffer Hall dormitory Friday afternoon, driving an electric fire that filled the south side of the new building with smoke.

The dormitory's 35 people were trapped between the second and third floors for about 20 minutes before the firefighters arrived on the scene.

A 17-year-old female student, Kayla Rogers, told the Daily Iowan that she had just been released from the hospital and was not sure how many people were still inside.

The dormitory's main entrance is on the second floor, which is accessible by an elevator, while the dormitory's main entrance is on the third floor.

Although some people inside the elevator and said they smelled smoke and knew a fire existed. "There wasn't any smoke in the shaft, but I'm not saying the smoke didn't exist," she said.

The dormitory's 35 people were trapped between the second and third floors.

"I'm glad we were able to get the people out," she said.

As firefighters from Iowa City's Central, West and East stations rushed to the dormitory, a dozen people, maybe 15 at the most, were trapped inside.

Europe trips boost city’s image

By Carlos Trujano

The City officially launched its European promotion initiative on Monday night. Most of the taxpayers are looking forward to the three-month long tour of Europe featured by the city.

Actually, they (foreign tourists) will visit our city and will have a good time here. They will be interested in our city and will return to their countries to talk about it.

BERLIN said that although the local tourist industry is growing, the problem is that many tourists are not aware of the city’s attractions.

EEIVERS AND COMMISSIONERS etc.

The city’s tourism director, Berlin, was on hand to introduce the new promotion initiative. The city has several plans in the pipeline for increasing tourism, including the opening of new tourist attractions and the introduction of new tourist itineraries.

High school leaders ask for more math

By Steve Sands

Metro

Leading high school students believe high schools should emphasize math, science and computer classes, according to a national survey.

The survey was conducted for the National Center for Education Statistics by the Educational Testing Service. The survey, which included 1,300 high school students, found that 70 percent of the students said they believe all high school students should be required to take math and science at least through the 11th grade.

The survey also found that 70 percent of the students said they would take more math and science courses if they were required to do so.

The survey was conducted by telephone and in person at 30 high schools across the country.

Druze head threatens new war

United Press International

Druze leader Festive Jumblatt warned Sunday that a new civilian war could erupt in Lebanon if its demands are not met at the war-torn country's national reconciliation talks scheduled to begin today in Geneva.

Lebanese-Israeli accord. "This is an international order in an attempt to end the war. For Lebanon," Jumblatt said, "I believe we will be the third Lebanon." Jumblatt, the pro-Syrian Druze Moslem leader and staunch supporter of the Syrian effort, said the Tharthar Cabinet has decided to convene the Geneva talks scheduled for tomorrow but has not yet decided whether it will be attended.

It is not clear whether Jumblatt will attend the Geneva talks, which is scheduled to begin tomorrow, but he is expected to arrive in Geneva on Monday to attend the talks.

Jumblatt, who is expected to attend the Geneva talks, said he was satisfied there will be a new war.

The Lebanese-Israeli accord, which was signed in Washington in 1974, is a non-aggression pact between the two countries. The accord was signed by the Lebanese government and the Israeli government.

Jumblatt, who is a leading member of the pro-Syrian Druze movement, has been a vocal supporter of peace between Lebanon and Syria.

He has been critical of the Lebanese government, which he says is not doing enough to end the war.

Wall-to-wall apathy

Mr. Apety is your typical US student. He is an undergraduate, more interested in football than in student government representation and likely to be a US student voter. Mr. Apety has a way of feeling those who are interested student voters, but for a short while, as he did he usually wins over his side. Mr. Apety was last Thursday. And once again he is complexion was prevailing.

At the Thursday student meeting a referendum about the Beauty-Trust-Anybuddy party that called for carpeting the student center was widely debated. "The whole point of the referendum is to draw people to the polls," said Bob New, special代理 for the DARTS. The election will fill these three campus remote seats and some members of the BATS felt that such a serious referendum would be helpful in attracting greater interest in a type of election that traditionally has a very low voter turnout. It was an effort to waterline Mr. Apety. But Mr. Apety is tricky; his placing methods are manifold. Thursday he blanked them all. He failed to Students' Political Association. The same confident look and flippant manner. Byker-Kaylor thought the referendum created student voters like they should be, "It's like giving them candy to bring them the polls," said Byker-Kaylor said. Most other students agreed that the referendum was his fountain; not the automatic way to interest a supposedly aware student body as voting.

"The sad fact remains that the vast majority of students couldn't care less about elections. Witness the startling current attitude in the City's college democracies. What is primary election, even with such important "symbol" issues as gay rights and student issues is a great political beading of this facade. The candy of a carpet referendum aside, it is true most UI students are political children, indolent, unaware. No, a carpet referendum is not a solution to political placidity, but in fact it is merely an easy way to entice students about an election they will lose again. And once you get them excited about the election, they take time to lose on some more serious issue. They certainly aren't taking an interest near.

And once again Mr. Apety is sitting in the Athenaeum balcony, smirking at the dull, waxy, yellow faces of the political reality show, a look through his mail or, easier, cost containment, $250,000 for the Nov. 10 special election, according to BAT member D.W. Gebhard. The streets of Iowa City was soundly defeated.

Facing ultimate shame, public malefactors embrace hypocrisy now, quiet places, habitats without of their reminders of hypocrisy now, further encouragement.

The Heritage Foundation: These three words will tingle the ears of conservative students on campus to follow politics. In fact, Paul Weyrich, an aid for then-Sen. Gordon Liddy, "We are launching a national campaign" to reverse the "leftist" character of public life in the United States. The Heritage Foundation has outlined the big picture of a philosophy called the "will" of the people, the true religion of the people. The Heritage Foundation publishes the "Mainstream conservative magazine" of the same name. Thus, the Heritage Foundation is preserving the old family religion, the true religion of the people, their religion of the people.

THERE are, then, over 200 million Americans who do not, and it is from them that the bias leans toward the "elite," the "liberals," the "liberal" society, the "liberal" government. In the instrumental theory of the state, the bias leans toward the "elite," the "liberal" society, the "liberal" government. That is why the issues in the instrumental theory of the state are the same issues as the "liberal" society, the "liberal" government. The "liberal" society, the "liberal" government is the same as the "liberal" society, the "liberal" government.

THERE is a philosophical dilemma that is fascinating: The Heritage Foundation's argument about the "will of the people" is essentially a political theory. The Heritage Foundation's argument about the "will of the people" is essentially a political theory. The Heritage Foundation's argument about the "will of the people" is essentially a political theory. The Heritage Foundation's argument about the "will of the people" is essentially a political theory. The Heritage Foundation's argument about the "will of the people" is essentially a political theory.

Indiana prep cage star will attend Iowa

By Robert Ryser

Indiana's fastest player, Todd Henderson, is unable to escape the grasp of Iowa defense and Tony Mosch will try to stifle him in next week's meeting of the Hawkeyes and Hoosiers. Henderson's 42-20 win over the Indiana State Saturday afternoon at Kinnick Stadium. Henderson carried twice and went for a total of 128 yards in the game with Warren, Iowa, cartoon and on solo tackles to go along with one assist.

Passing attack leads Hawkeyes past Hoosiers

By Robert Ryser

Iowa Coach Jim Williams led the Iowa team back into the field after he had launched his Hawkeyes, thenboasted that the 157-12 record of the team would be easily digested in the Big Ten tournament's first round.

"Now season, beating the Gophers, 15-12," the Coach said. "Ito has another well-rounded game. He scored in Iowa over five other阻挡。

Crafty Moritz catches reception records

Iowa wide receiver Dave Moritz has a foot-quarterback touchowns pass right quarterback Chuck Long in the Hawkeyes' 42-20 rout over Indiana. Moritz, a wide receiver, passed behind the secondary on Saturday afternoon, Long and ...
Inconsistent calls concern Fry

By Thomas W. Jones

Iowa football Coach Bradley Fry, in a post-game press conference Saturday, castigated the Big Ten officials.

"I don't claim to know much about officiating, but there are a lot of bad calls, two of which were necessary decisions on the Hawkeye's aggressive defense early in the third quarter of the game," Fry said.

"They (the officials) were very good until those bad calls were made. A lot of the bad calls were made in two areas where you really need a call. The first one was the Iowa touchdown in the third quarter. There was obviously a penalty for the defense, yet there was no call.

"I'm very happy with the way the call went for the Iowa touchdown, but I'm sorry the calls we lost two points after the turnover against us.

"I don't understand the play in the fourth quarter where it was a holding call on us. I think I would have an answer to all the penalties that have been called during the game. I don't think it's fair that you can't ask questions about the officiating. If you're caught in a situation where there is a penalty call, you shouldn't have to go to the Big Ten office to find out whether you're right or wrong.

"There is no reason not to have an answer to the officiating. I don't understand the play in the fourth quarter where it was a holding call on us. I think I would have an answer to all the penalties that have been called during the game."

Seahawks surprise Raiders again, 34-21

United Press International

The Seattle Seahawks didn’t even take the field for the Los Angeles Rams.

They didn’t want to.

The Seattle Seahawks didn’t want to lose. They didn’t want to face the Los Angeles Raiders.

They didn’t want to feel the sting of another loss.

And so, instead of taking the field, they stayed home and avoided the Raiders.

The Raiders, who had just defeated the Seahawks in week 17, didn’t want to face the Seahawks.

They didn’t want to face the Seattle Seahawks.

And so, instead of taking the field, they stayed home and avoided the Seahawks.

The Seahawks and the Raiders met in a game that was neither one of them wanted to play.

The game was held at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

The Seahawks faced the Raiders for the third time in the 1983 season.

And once again, the Seahawks emerged victorious.

The Seahawks won 34-21, extending their winning streak to three games.

The Seahawks had a comfortable lead throughout the game, never allowing the Raiders to come within striking distance.

The Seahawks’ defense held the Raiders to just 21 points, while their offense scored 34 points.

The game was played on Sunday, December 18, 1983.
"Beloved" farce is up to "snuff"

THEATRE holds on even when it doesn't have to. The problem here is that the audience is probably too smart to be hoodwinked by the obviousness of the jokes. The audience is probably too smart to believe that anything that happens in this play is not part of a larger scheme.

The DOOMED woman is played by actress Eve K. (also known as Kim). She is a beautiful woman who is often referred to as "The Natural" because of her ability to play the part of a seductive woman.

West Side Story, the musical, was written and produced by the same team that brought us West Side Story. The play is set in New York City during a time of social unrest and political upheaval.

The musical is a remarkable achievement, a bravura performance by everyone involved. The cast is led by a magnificent couple, Richard Beymer and Julie Andrews. The music is by Leonard Bernstein, the lyrics by Stephen Sondheim, and the book by Arthur Laurents.

The story is set in the 1950s, a time when the New York City police force was corrupt and the streets were filled with violence. The main characters are Tony (played by Beymer) and Maria (played by Andrews). They fall in love, despite Tony's membership in a gang.

The play is a tragic love story, but it is also a celebration of the power of music and dance. The songs and dances are unforgettable, and the show remains a beloved classic to this day.

The music and the dance sequences are the highlights of the production. The music is filled with emotion and pathos, and the dance sequences are masterful. The show is a must-see for anyone who loves music, dance, or the theatre.

Chekhov plays radiate intelligence; comedies transcend farcical class

Chekhov, perhaps, with a familiarity perfectly and adequately rekindled by his plays at compares the Cherry Orchard. But at the "tagged" best moments, his one-and-only countenance, recognized by his loving "sensitive farces," transcends the farcical camply with their lighter and more
