Reagan visits Iowa to blast Democrats

Because workers in the state have little voice to negotiate better conditions and because of the economic recession, the president's proposal is not likely to be as appealing to the workers as it was to the Ist district's residents.

Reagan's campaign has been criticized for its lack of concern for workers' rights.

The president's proposal is expected to face opposition from labor unions, who have criticized the proposal for its lack of protections for workers.

NRC warned on nuke plant
WASHINGTON — A 1983 Nuclear Regulatory Commission report that a flawed reactor could dislodge a key safety feature says the plant should be shut down for a safety review.

The report is the latest in a series of NRC reports that raised safety concerns at the Fort Calhoun Nuclear Plant.

The report, released in 1983, said the reactor could become uncontrolled if the shutdown sump, a feature designed to prevent a runaway reactor, was not properly maintained.

The NRC has since shut down the plant several times, citing safety concerns.

Scientists ponder 'deaster'

BERKELEY, Calif. — Scientists say an unexpected "deaster" that lowers the risk of a destructive earthquake is a possibility.

The event could happen when the San Andreas Fault moves, triggering a large earthquake.

The fault is a key part of the earth's tectonic plate system, and its movement can cause major seismic events.

Poll fluxes likely victory

WASHINGTON — Polls show that George H.W. Bush is likely to win a victory.

The polls, conducted by several major news organizations, suggest that Bush is well ahead of his opponent, Bill Clinton.

The results are expected to be announced later today.

Evans looks into grad student audits as promised

By Reuben Grage

The Daily Iowan 01, February 21, 1984 - Page 3A

An Iowa City grad student said his thesis advisor has promised to provide better audit background in the Fall.

"I really believe in this," the student said. "I think it's only fair that the grad student should be able to audit his own work in the same way that the professor audits the grad student."...
Rebels hit last Lebanon government stronghold

BRITISH (CPI) - Modern warfare specialists are now ruling out the possibility of a military coup in Lebanon as an endgame strategy by rebel leaders. They say a new round of fighting is expected.

A Soviet diplomatic effort to de-escalate the fighting in Lebanon is expected to be met with a Western five-power reaction, with the U.S. expressing concern about the situation.

The fighting is expected to start within hours of this report, with government forces targeting the rebel-held town of Aley in the north of the country.

The fighting is expected to last for several days, with government forces using heavy artillery and air strikes to try to retake control of the area.

USA TODAY - Israel's incursions into Lebanon were described as a violation of international law.

The International Court of Justice has ruled that Israel's actions constitute an illegal act, and that the country should cease all activities in the area.

The Israeli government has not responded to the court's ruling, and continues to carry out military operations in Lebanon.

The United Nations Security Council has called for a cease-fire, and for an immediate end to the conflict.

Soviets retaliate against U.S. by building new missile bases

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) - The Soviet Union is building new missile bases in the Middle East, according to sources in the Security Council.

The decision by the Soviet government comes as the U.S. continues to build up its own military presence in the region.

The new bases are intended to counter the growing threat from the U.S., and to provide a strategic advantage for the Soviets in the region.

Soviet forces in the region are already equipped with advanced cruise missiles and hypersonic bombers.

The new bases will be used to launch cruise missiles and bombers, and will provide a strategic advantage for the Soviets in the region.

Hart, McGovern harness lead at caucus in Iowa City Library

By Jeff Eilertson

Despite the exclusion of several state-wide contests earlier this week, the 1984 Iowa caucuses in the Iowa City precinct 19 demonstrated the importance of Iowa to the presidential election. A total of 51 precincts took part in the Iowa City precinct 19 caucus, held on Monday night in a non-profit organization building, the Iowa City Public Library.

The precinct was one of several in the area, including the University of Iowa precinct and the Johnson County Republican Party, which are located in the same building. The precinct was also one of the few in the area to hold a caucus meeting, with a total of 100 people attending.

IOWA CITY, I.A.
After the deluge

Thank God it’s Friday! The Iowa caucuses are over and done with. But one question remains: What’s next for the Democratic Party? As the political season shifts from the Iowa election process, there is a need to consider the implications of the caucuses for national and media attention. The candidates’ performances in Iowa have helped to establish a pattern of important issues in the campaign.

It is, however, an unfortunate paradox that the Iowa caucuses are considered crucial to the candidates. Election support was not important in the early stages of the campaign because of the particular nature of concern to Iowa: Iowa’s first-in-the-nation status and the attention it is receiving from the national media. However, Iowa’s position as a key state in the Democratic Party’s strategy is not to be underestimated.

Last week’s results were positive for both the candidates. The candidates who have already received commitments from Iowa voters are looking forward to early victories in future contests. The candidates who are not as well known in Iowa are thinking about how to turn their early strengths into victories in later phases of the campaign.

But how do the Iowa results affect the candidates’ strategies for the upcoming contests? One possibility is that the Iowa results will give candidates a boost in momentum, encouraging them to focus on their strengths and continue to build on their early successes. Another possibility is that the Iowans are not convinced by the candidates’ promises, and that the candidates will need to work harder to gain their support.

The Iowa results also indicate that there may be a shift in the candidates’ strategies. Candidates who were not doing well earlier in the campaign may be thinking about how to turn their early strengths into victories in later phases of the campaign.

Only two Big East teams, St. Louis and Providence, are rated in this week's poll. The Fighting Irish have been in the top five of the poll for the last six weeks.

What more is there to say in Hollywood? The film industry will soon be a-rolling in gold from its $2.5 billion Russian-made feature film, "Saratoga Springs." The production, directed by Russian filmmaker Andrey Zvyagintsev, has already grossed $2 billion in the United States, and is expected to earn another $1 billion in the United States alone.

Saratoga Springs, the latest entry in the growing genre of Russian cinema, tells the story of a young woman who falls in love with a man who is already married. The film, which stars Russian actress Yelena Volkova and American actor Michael Douglas, has been praised for its beautiful cinematography, and is a critical and commercial success.

The film has also been praised for its portrayal of Russian history and culture, and has been described as a "must-see" for anyone interested in Russian cinema. It has been nominated for several awards, and is expected to win several at the upcoming Academy Awards.

Raveling's rebounding woes put to sleep

Dr. J. Glass and me

At least for the moment, Iowa basketball coach George Raveling can put to bed any fear of his team falling flat in the NCAA tournament.

Raveling's biggest concern had been rebounding, a problem that had been evident throughout the season, particularly in the team's loss to Indiana earlier in the month. The Hawkeyes had been outrebounded in three straight games, and Raveling had been frustrated with his team's performance on the boards.

But on Sunday, Raveling said his team had rebounded strongly, and that they were back on track. He said the team had emphasized rebounding in practice, and that they had been working hard to improve in that area.

The coaching staff had also made adjustments to the team's starting lineup, with forward Mike Gabbard moved to the starting five to provide more size and experience up front.

Seaver predicts 16 to 20 wins; likes Sox 'A-plus' organization

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) - Tom Seaver, the former New York Mets star who is now a special assistant to the general manager of the Chicago White Sox, said on Monday that he expects the Sox to win 16 to 20 games this season.

"I think the Sox have a good chance to win the division," Seaver said. "They have a good mix of young and experienced players, and they have a good pitching staff. I think they can win 16 to 20 games this season."
Judo Club captures three trophies in 'tough' Davenport Y Invitational

By Helene Hepperle

The Iowa Judo Club collected three trophies in the Iowa University Intra-Divisional Y Invitational. The trophies included the men's division, the women's division, and the college team division. The event was held in Davenport, Iowa.

Judo matches are physical confrontations that involve grappling and throws. The objective is to pin the opponent to the ground or force them to retire. The event was well-attended, with many spectators watching the matches.

Booster advance

President Richard Poole of the Iowa Judo Club said, "We are extremely pleased with our achievements in the Y Invitational. The men's team won first place in the division, the women's team won second place, and the college team won third place. These achievements are a testament to the hard work and dedication of our team members."

The Judo Club meets on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. in the Recreation Center. There is no fee and no experience is necessary.

Returning hockey players fill the gap left by Hawkeye All-American Egan

By Fred Hepperle

The Iowa field hockey team may have lost Starlin Egan to the NHL, but they would be hard-pressed to find a single game in which the Big Ten's top scorer last season and the nation's top scorer this season had no impact on the outcome. The Hawkeyes will continue to be a force in the Big Ten and nationally.

Egan was the Big Ten's top scorer last season and the nation's top scorer this season. He scored 46 goals and had 11 assists for 57 points, setting a new conference record and tying the national record. His 46 goals tied the Big Ten record and his 11 assists were second in the conference.

Egan was selected to the NCAA First Team in 1983 and was named the Big Ten Player of the Year. He was also a member of the U.S. national team and represented his country in the World Cup.

The return of Egan to the Hawkeye lineup will give them a strong offensive threat. With him on the field, the Hawkeyes will have a better chance of scoring goals and winning games.

Guerrero becomes highest-paid Dodger

Los Angeles (AP) - Third baseman Pedro Guerrero, who was seeking a big contract, is ending his strike through mediation. Monday agreed to a $3 million, four-year contract that makes him the highest paid player in baseball. Guerrero, the National League batting leader who had the most home runs last season, and the Dodgers had reached the $2 million mark for arbitration. Guerrero said before striking that he didn't want to make any more money than the $2 million. The settlement was reached by the Dodgers and the commissioner's office. Guerrero and the Dodgers were talked about clauses in his contract that would allow him to be traded. The Dodgers considered the clauses fair. Guerrero said he would be traded if the Dodgers didn't come to terms on a contract.

By Craig Myers

The Right Stuff

By John Gregory Dunne and directed by Phillip Noyce. Rated PG.

"The Right Stuff" was far more than a film about the men who flew high in the high places. It was a film about the American spirit - the spirit of adventure, the spirit of discovery, the spirit of achievement.

"The Right Stuff" is the story of the Mercury Seven astronauts - the first American astronauts - and the story of their flight to space. It is a story of courage, of determination, of sacrifice.

The film begins with a look at the early days of American aviation. It shows the Wright brothers flying their plane, and the first transcontinental flight. It shows the early days of the United States Air Force, and the early days of the United States military space program.

The film then turns to the Mercury Seven astronauts. It shows the selection of the seven astronauts, and their training. It shows their flight to space, and their return to Earth.

The film is a powerful testament to the American spirit. It is a film that will inspire viewers of all ages. It is a film that will be remembered for many years to come.

Ambitious I Works troupe should do a few things well

The Guthrie Theater's production of Ibsen's "A Doll's House" is a bit of a letdown compared to earlier Guthrie productions of this same play. The production is not without its merits, but it falls short of the high standards set by previous Guthrie productions.

The play's central character, Nora, is a strong and complex character who is often portrayed as a symbol of the emancipation of women. In this production, Nora is played by an actress who is praised for her ability to bring depth and nuance to the role. However, the overall production does not fully capture the emotional intensity and complexity of the play.

The set design is simple and effective, but the costumes are less convincing. The actors' performances are generally good, but the production fails to fully engage the audience. The pacing is slow, and the production lacks the forceful energy that is so characteristic of Guthrie productions.

Despite these shortcomings, the production is still worth seeing for fans of Ibsen's work. The actors are talented, and the production is well-acted. However, it falls short of the high standards set by previous Guthrie productions of this same play.
