Residents react to ‘no-kids’ ordinance

By Carla Towse

A standing-room-only crowd of Iowa City residents, including families, teachers, students, and community leaders, gathered Monday night for a public hearing on proposed "no-kids" language in a section of the city's code of ordinances.

Two options were presented for discussion: one would prevent unmarried couples from living together; the other would prohibit the use of city services, such as public housing, for families with children.

"This community believes a family is an important part of community life and we do not want to exclude children," said Iowa City Manager Larry Ballenger.

"I am concerned about the safety and protection of children," said Iowa City Councilor Bob Soderberg.

Some attendees expressed concern over the potential for discrimination against families with children. Others were concerned about the impact on the city's economy and the cost of providing services to children.

"We need to be careful about how we approach this issue," said Iowa City Councilor Mary Gentry.

"I believe we should be supporting families and their children," said Iowa City Councilor John Friesen.

The council will consider the proposed ordinance at its next meeting, scheduled for next month.

---

Fashion outlook

---

Florida, Texas lure students during break

By Susan Yager

Although the phrase "hot spot" and "cold spot" haven't been commonly used in academia, there are certain regions that attract students during breaks.

In Florida, the beaches of the Gulf Coast are popular with students from northern states. Florida State University is one of the most popular destinations, with its warm weather and vibrant nightlife.

In Texas, the University of Texas at Austin is a popular choice, with its diverse student body and excellent academic programs.

However, students from northern states also flock to Texas and Florida to escape the cold weather. However, these regions are also known for their high cost of living and potential safety concerns.

"It's important for students to consider both the academic and cultural aspects of their decision," said Siri Singh, a guidance counselor at Florida State University.

---

Inside

Photo-billings

A new study on long-distance phone companies found that many customers are being charged for photo-billings, which are not authorized by the company.

The study, conducted by the Federal Communications Commission, found that 20% of customers were charged for photo-billings, which are not authorized by the company.

"We believe it's important to protect customers from unauthorized charges," said FCC Commissioner Robert McDowell.

---

Weather

We hope everyone stays safe as the schools reopen. It's important to follow local weather conditions, especially as severe weather is possible.
City

Lawsuit filed against Mondale committee

By Patricia Reuter

The Democratic presidential candidate left Iowa after the Feb. 12 forum and headed to the Northeast. The committee to support Jimmy Carter asked for a meeting with the Iowa National Guard, but the governor decided not to call out the Iowa National Guard, at least according to a Cordova resident manager. The Iowa National Guard, on the other hand, has not been asked to furnish any services to the Iowa National Guard, at least according to a Cordova resident manager. The Iowa National Guard, on the other hand, has not been asked to furnish any services to the Iowa National Guard, at least according to a Cordova resident manager. The Iowa National Guard, on the other hand, has not been asked to furnish any services to the Iowa National Guard, at least according to a Cordova resident manager.

Corrections

Due to a scheduling error, the name was misspelled in the previous issue's article about the class reunion. The correction is as follows:

- The class reunion was held on Oct. 12, 1984, not Oct. 22.

Postscripts

Events

- The University of Iowa College of Health and Human Sciences Department and the College of Human Sciences Department will host a workshop titled "Health Education: Some New Approaches" on Oct. 20, 1984. The workshop will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Room 104 of the University of Iowa College of Health and Human Sciences Building.

- The University Club will present a luncheon meeting on Oct. 18, 1984, at 11 a.m. in the Iowa Memorial Union. The luncheon will feature a presentation by Dr. William J. Spanielski, a professor of nutrition at the University of Iowa College of Health and Human Sciences.

- The Iowa City Chamber of Commerce will host a meeting on Oct. 17, 1984, at 7 p.m. in the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce Building. The meeting will feature a presentation by Dr. John E. McPhee, a professor of economics at the University of Iowa College of Business.

- The Iowa City Community Foundation will host a meeting on Oct. 16, 1984, at 7 p.m. in the Iowa City Community Foundation Building. The meeting will feature a presentation by Dr. John E. McPhee, a professor of economics at the University of Iowa College of Business.

- The Iowa City Democratic Club will host a meeting on Oct. 15, 1984, at 7 p.m. in the Iowa City Community Foundation Building. The meeting will feature a presentation by Dr. John E. McPhee, a professor of economics at the University of Iowa College of Business.

- The Iowa City YWCA will host a meeting on Oct. 14, 1984, at 7 p.m. in the Iowa City YWCA Building. The meeting will feature a presentation by Dr. John E. McPhee, a professor of economics at the University of Iowa College of Business.

- The Iowa City Kiwanis Club will host a meeting on Oct. 13, 1984, at 7 p.m. in the Iowa City Kiwanis Club Building. The meeting will feature a presentation by Dr. John E. McPhee, a professor of economics at the University of Iowa College of Business.

- The Iowa City Rotary Club will host a meeting on Oct. 12, 1984, at 7 p.m. in the Iowa City Rotary Club Building. The meeting will feature a presentation by Dr. John E. McPhee, a professor of economics at the University of Iowa College of Business.

- The Iowa City Chamber of Commerce will host a meeting on Oct. 11, 1984, at 7 p.m. in the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce Building. The meeting will feature a presentation by Dr. John E. McPhee, a professor of economics at the University of Iowa College of Business.

- The Iowa City Young Republicans will host a meeting on Oct. 10, 1984, at 7 p.m. in the Iowa City Young Republicans Building. The meeting will feature a presentation by Dr. John E. McPhee, a professor of economics at the University of Iowa College of Business.

- The Iowa City YWCA will host a meeting on Oct. 9, 1984, at 7 p.m. in the Iowa City YWCA Building. The meeting will feature a presentation by Dr. John E. McPhee, a professor of economics at the University of Iowa College of Business.

- The Iowa City Kiwanis Club will host a meeting on Oct. 8, 1984, at 7 p.m. in the Iowa City Kiwanis Club Building. The meeting will feature a presentation by Dr. John E. McPhee, a professor of economics at the University of Iowa College of Business.

- The Iowa City Rotary Club will host a meeting on Oct. 7, 1984, at 7 p.m. in the Iowa City Rotary Club Building. The meeting will feature a presentation by Dr. John E. McPhee, a professor of economics at the University of Iowa College of Business.
Police warn of credit card crooks

By Jeff Miller

Iowa City, Iowa

Tuesday,

Is CBN, the nation's leading direct mail "seminar" company, claiming to provide a direct mail is matched with a sheet brought to your home. I was told I'd take home an LCD color television, headphones, portable televisions, watches, 35 mm cameras, and a vacation package. The seminar was part of a large gift the company was giving to student buyers. It didn't occur frequently in the student buyer's lifestyle, but I didn't walk out of a Friday seminar with the thought, "I'm going to take the course just for the gift!"

The seminar, led by Charles A. Bentley, just came to see what type of free coverage people have and what type of information people want. The seminar was designed to make people aware of the credit card industry and its potential for abuse.

During the seminar, Bentley discussed various types of credit cards and how they work. He also talked about how crooks can use credit cards to commit fraud. The seminar included information on how to prevent credit card fraud and how to protect yourself from credit card crooks.

Bentley said the seminar was designed to help people understand the credit card industry and how to use it wisely. He emphasized the importance of being knowledgeable about credit cards and how to avoid becoming a victim of credit card fraud.

The seminar was well-received by the audience, who seemed to be interested in the information provided. Bentley said he was pleased with the turnout and hoped to continue offering similar seminars in the future.

In conclusion, I would recommend attending the seminar to anyone who wants to learn more about the credit card industry and how to protect themselves from credit card fraud. It was a informative and enlightening seminar that I enjoyed attending.
Gulf war hits new low

In many ways it resembles a World War I conflict: Ground troops leave less, artillery shells crisscross the landscape, and trenches line the front. But the Nativity scene, which the Iraqis have threatened to use chemical weapons against, has been spared.

The Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, have been spared.

Even so, Iran's expression of outrage to the international community evokes little sympathy, considering that country's troops line trenches, week in the seemingly endless war between Iran and Iraq.

The fastest way Iranians could stop the Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, has been spared.

In many ways it resembles a World War I conflict: Ground troops leave less, artillery shells crisscross the landscape, and trenches line the front. But the Nativity scene, which the Iraqis have threatened to use chemical weapons against, has been spared.

The Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, have been spared.

Even so, Iran's expression of outrage to the international community evokes little sympathy, considering that country's troops line trenches, week in the seemingly endless war between Iran and Iraq.

The fastest way Iranians could stop the Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, has been spared.

In many ways it resembles a World War I conflict: Ground troops leave less, artillery shells crisscross the landscape, and trenches line the front. But the Nativity scene, which the Iraqis have threatened to use chemical weapons against, has been spared.

The Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, have been spared.

Even so, Iran's expression of outrage to the international community evokes little sympathy, considering that country's troops line trenches, week in the seemingly endless war between Iran and Iraq.

The fastest way Iranians could stop the Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, has been spared.

In many ways it resembles a World War I conflict: Ground troops leave less, artillery shells crisscross the landscape, and trenches line the front. But the Nativity scene, which the Iraqis have threatened to use chemical weapons against, has been spared.

The Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, have been spared.

Even so, Iran's expression of outrage to the international community evokes little sympathy, considering that country's troops line trenches, week in the seemingly endless war between Iran and Iraq.

The fastest way Iranians could stop the Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, has been spared.

In many ways it resembles a World War I conflict: Ground troops leave less, artillery shells crisscross the landscape, and trenches line the front. But the Nativity scene, which the Iraqis have threatened to use chemical weapons against, has been spared.

The Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, have been spared.

Even so, Iran's expression of outrage to the international community evokes little sympathy, considering that country's troops line trenches, week in the seemingly endless war between Iran and Iraq.

The fastest way Iranians could stop the Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, has been spared.

In many ways it resembles a World War I conflict: Ground troops leave less, artillery shells crisscross the landscape, and trenches line the front. But the Nativity scene, which the Iraqis have threatened to use chemical weapons against, has been spared.

The Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, have been spared.

Even so, Iran's expression of outrage to the international community evokes little sympathy, considering that country's troops line trenches, week in the seemingly endless war between Iran and Iraq.

The fastest way Iranians could stop the Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, has been spared.

In many ways it resembles a World War I conflict: Ground troops leave less, artillery shells crisscross the landscape, and trenches line the front. But the Nativity scene, which the Iraqis have threatened to use chemical weapons against, has been spared.

The Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, have been spared.

Even so, Iran's expression of outrage to the international community evokes little sympathy, considering that country's troops line trenches, week in the seemingly endless war between Iran and Iraq.

The fastest way Iranians could stop the Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, has been spared.

In many ways it resembles a World War I conflict: Ground troops leave less, artillery shells crisscross the landscape, and trenches line the front. But the Nativity scene, which the Iraqis have threatened to use chemical weapons against, has been spared.

The Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, have been spared.

Even so, Iran's expression of outrage to the international community evokes little sympathy, considering that country's troops line trenches, week in the seemingly endless war between Iran and Iraq.

The fastest way Iranians could stop the Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, has been spared.

In many ways it resembles a World War I conflict: Ground troops leave less, artillery shells crisscross the landscape, and trenches line the front. But the Nativity scene, which the Iraqis have threatened to use chemical weapons against, has been spared.

The Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, have been spared.

Even so, Iran's expression of outrage to the international community evokes little sympathy, considering that country's troops line trenches, week in the seemingly endless war between Iran and Iraq.

The fastest way Iranians could stop the Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, has been spared.

In many ways it resembles a World War I conflict: Ground troops leave less, artillery shells crisscross the landscape, and trenches line the front. But the Nativity scene, which the Iraqis have threatened to use chemical weapons against, has been spared.

The Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, have been spared.

Even so, Iran's expression of outrage to the international community evokes little sympathy, considering that country's troops line trenches, week in the seemingly endless war between Iran and Iraq.

The fastest way Iranians could stop the Iraqis, who have threatened to use chemical weapons against the Nativity scene, has been spared.
Brown proposes amendment to bill on school finance

By Dave Smith

The UI Finance Committee on Monday approved a resolution to amend the school finance bill. The amendment would make changes to the funding for the state's general fund for the school improvement project. That money is currently being used to fund the project.

The amendment proposed by UI Finance Chairwoman Lois Ball needed funds for his improvements. The Finance Committee approved the amendment, which will be filed as an amendment to a bill that is currently pending in the legislature.

The amendment would provide additional funding for the improvements project. The estimated cost of the improvements project is $27.7 million statewide.

The amendment would also provide additional funding for extracurricular activities. The estimated cost of the extracurricular activities is $5.7 million statewide.

The amendment would also provide additional funding for the university's student lobby group. The estimated cost of the student lobby group is $3.5 million statewide.

The amendment would also provide additional funding for the university's journalism program. The estimated cost of the journalism program is $2.5 million statewide.

The amendment would also provide additional funding for the university's computer science program. The estimated cost of the computer science program is $2.0 million statewide.
Tenants

Iowa City, Iowa
Tuesday, March 15, 1984

"Many people out here can't afford to live with children."

Zoning

Tsuflure said the county drew up the new ordinance because of community concern over development in the area. "But the county didn't provide for the review of development requests," he said. "The county's zoning committees were just too large, with too many meetings, and the development was comparably unreviewed." The new ordinance was designed to make sure that land usages are compatible with the county's "growth control" policies.

"We could have made two zones here, but we couldn't get them," said Doug Fllor, financial director. "We have areas where new zones aren't possible."

After the first meeting in the traditional "on-campus" location, the Dental School was willing to negotiate, but has no plans to move the center to their "off-campus" location.

"A lot of them were upset," said Diane Jillett. "But the possibility of "political decisions" means a lot to us."

President Mondale went out of his way to address the issue. "It's a fair and just" way to handle the problem, he said. The new ordinance is unusual to have zoning plans that would accept children.

People talk. "It's not to say that they don't have a right to do the same," said Dick Meyers. "People have children and they want to be able to do it."

"We have the right to substitute different spaces for new development," Tsuflure said. "Suppose there is no zoning plan to exist, there will be no enforcement."

In Missouri, the county draws up the city ordinances. He said the new ordinance is not unusual to have zoning plans that would accept children. "We have areas where new zones aren't possible."

"We could have made two zones here, but we couldn't get them," said Doug Fllor, financial director. "We have areas where new zones aren't possible."

After the first meeting in the traditional "on-campus" location, the Dental School was willing to negotiate, but has no plans to move the center to their "off-campus" location.

"A lot of them were upset," said Diane Jillett. "But the possibility of "political decisions" means a lot to us."

President Mondale went out of his way to address the issue. "It's a fair and just" way to handle the problem, he said. The new ordinance is unusual to have zoning plans that would accept children.

People talk. "It's not to say that they don't have a right to do the same," said Dick Meyers. "People have children and they want to be able to do it."

"We have the right to substitute different spaces for new development," Tsuflure said. "Suppose there is no zoning plan to exist, there will be no enforcement."

In Missouri, the county draws up the city ordinances. He said the new ordinance is not unusual to have zoning plans that would accept children. "We have areas where new zones aren't possible."

"We could have made two zones here, but we couldn't get them," said Doug Fllor, financial director. "We have areas where new zones aren't possible."

After the first meeting in the traditional "on-campus" location, the Dental School was willing to negotiate, but has no plans to move the center to their "off-campus" location.

"A lot of them were upset," said Diane Jillett. "But the possibility of "political decisions" means a lot to us."

President Mondale went out of his way to address the issue. "It's a fair and just" way to handle the problem, he said. The new ordinance is unusual to have zoning plans that would accept children.

People talk. "It's not to say that they don't have a right to do the same," said Dick Meyers. "People have children and they want to be able to do it."

"We have the right to substitute different spaces for new development," Tsuflure said. "Suppose there is no zoning plan to exist, there will be no enforcement."

In Missouri, the county draws up the city ordinances. He said the new ordinance is not unusual to have zoning plans that would accept children. "We have areas where new zones aren't possible."

"We could have made two zones here, but we couldn't get them," said Doug Fllor, financial director. "We have areas where new zones aren't possible."

After the first meeting in the traditional "on-campus" location, the Dental School was willing to negotiate, but has no plans to move the center to their "off-campus" location.

"A lot of them were upset," said Diane Jillett. "But the possibility of "political decisions" means a lot to us."

President Mondale went out of his way to address the issue. "It's a fair and just" way to handle the problem, he said. The new ordinance is unusual to have zoning plans that would accept children. "We have areas where new zones aren't possible."

"We could have made two zones here, but we couldn't get them," said Doug Fllor, financial director. "We have areas where new zones aren't possible."

After the first meeting in the traditional "on-campus" location, the Dental School was willing to negotiate, but has no plans to move the center to their "off-campus" location.

"A lot of them were upset," said Diane Jillett. "But the possibility of "political decisions" means a lot to us."

President Mondale went out of his way to address the issue. "It's a fair and just" way to handle the problem, he said. The new ordinance is unusual to have zoning plans that would accept children. "We have areas where new zones aren't possible."

"We could have made two zones here, but we couldn't get them," said Doug Fllor, financial director. "We have areas where new zones aren't possible."

After the first meeting in the traditional "on-campus" location, the Dental School was willing to negotiate, but has no plans to move the center to their "off-campus" location.

"A lot of them were upset," said Diane Jillett. "But the possibility of "political decisions" means a lot to us."

President Mondale went out of his way to address the issue. "It's a fair and just" way to handle the problem, he said. The new ordinance is unusual to have zoning plans that would accept children. "We have areas where new zones aren't possible."

"We could have made two zones here, but we couldn't get them," said Doug Fllor, financial director. "We have areas where new zones aren't possible."

After the first meeting in the traditional "on-campus" location, the Dental School was willing to negotiate, but has no plans to move the center to their "off-campus" location.
Group asks drug program funds

THE DAILY IOWAN needs a full-time DISPLAY ADVERTISING SALESPERSON

$59.95 AT LAST, A BOAT SHOE THAT PERFORMS AS WELL AS YOUR BOAT.

The Timberland® boat that has a long-wearing, non-slip, superpig skin sole, while Vibram®® shoes are impervious to water and all wet abrasion; will keep the boat in the water and tough enough to wear when fishing. Expect the need for more than one, it's built to give you maximum performance.

Evers MENS STORE
SECOND FLOOR SHOE DEPARTMENT

CAPTURE THIS SPRING BREAK WITH KODAK FILM

COLOR FILM:

- DISC CVR 13 / KODAMATIC INSTANT FILM
- KODACOLOR 11 C110 - CG130 (4000 - 126)
- 35MM PRINT / KODACOLOR VR 100, 200, 400, 1000 ASA

SLIDE FILM:

- EKTACHROME ED 200, EL 400
- 160 TONGSTON & OTHERS

BLACK & WHITE:

- 35MM FPX, TX - 24 and 36 exposures
- RULÉ 50 - PLYX, 50 & 90 R ROLLS
- PLUS! DARKROOM CHEMICALS & KODAK PAPER

DISCOUNTED MUNICIPAL FORMS

- DISCOUNTS for churches, clubs, town organizations
- PUBLIC RELATIONS, CLUB PROGRAMS, EDUCATIONAL SEMINARS, BUSINESS MEETINGS, TOURS, MEDICAL ETC.

THE DAILY IOWAN

- 280 N. Clinton
- Des Moines, IA 50309
- 515/224-4211
- Fax: 515/224-4283

THE DAILY IOWAN Classifieds Ad

- MARCH 13
- Classiﬁed Rate: $30
- Congressional Rate: $60 per line

STAFF

- JACQUELINE SHERMAN
- Editor
- LINDA MURPHY
- Assistant Editor
- KERRY COOK
- Production Coordinator

THE DAILY IOWAN Classifieds Ad

SPRING BREAK TRIVIA CONTEST

WIN A $50 OR $25 AT ALPOM shopping spree at the IMU Bookstore

Q. What famous triangle is named after a Carribean island?

Answer: Name:

- Spring Break?

Before you go, stop by our FLORIDA ROOM to pick up your TRAVELER'S CHECKS

Everyone who buys their checks in our FLORIDA ROOM will be automatically registered for a drawing to win $50 in Traveler's Checks.

Stop in Today through Friday 9:00 to 3:00 Main Bank
1501 South 14th Street

IOWA MEMORIAL UNION

bookstore

DIED MONEYS (DUPE, P.R.nEnter.

Natalie M. D. O'Meara and William J. O'Meara, both 74, were killed in a car crash in western Iowa. The couple, who had been married 56 years, were driving on an interstate highway when their car collided with another vehicle.

The couple had been on a vacation trip to see their children and grandchildren in Colorado. They were returning to their home in Council Bluffs.

Family members said the couple had been looking forward to spending time with their family and enjoying the warm weather.

They had recently celebrated their wedding anniversary and had been active in their local church, where they had been members for many years.

The couple had two children and five grandchildren.

The funeral service will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday at St. Patrick Catholic Church, 2501 16th Avenue North, Council Bluffs. Burial will be in St. Patrick Cemetery.

The family requests that in lieu of flowers, memorial contributions be made to the St. Patrick Catholic Church.

The family also requests that in lieu of flowers, memorial contributions be made to the St. Patrick Catholic Church.

The family also requests that in lieu of flowers, memorial contributions be made to the St. Patrick Catholic Church.
Iowa's riverbanks were once so broad. They were so beautiful and so impressive for their length. They were more than just an extension of the Mississippi River. They were a symbol of Iowa's history and culture. They were a place where Iowa's people could gather and celebrate. They were a place where Iowa's history was made.

So, let's not take them for granted. Let's cherish them and protect them for future generations. Let's work together to ensure that Iowa's riverbanks remain as beautiful and as impressive as they once were.
Swimmers take on nation’s best

By Mike Condon

The Iowa Hawkeyes were invited to the NCAA meet. They were expected to do well. They were considered one of the top teams in the nation. They were looking for a chance to win the national championship.

The meet was held in Iowa City, Iowa. It was a huge event, attracting swimmers from all over the country. Many people were excited to see the best swimmers in the country compete.

The meet began with preliminary heats. The swimmers were divided into heats based on their seed times. The heats were run in a separate pool, and the top swimmers advanced to the finals.

The finals were held on the same day, with the top swimmers from each heat competing for the national championship. The swimmers were in incredible shape, pushing themselves to the limit.

The Iowa Hawkeyes had a strong presence at the meet. They had several swimmers who were expected to do well. They were confident that they could win the championship.

The meet was a great experience for the swimmers. It was a chance to compete against the best in the country and to see how they measured up. It was a great opportunity to learn and grow as swimmers.
Michigan bypassed by NCAA; Big Ten coaches are stunned

CHICAGO (UPI) — Several Big Ten coaches Monday expressed surprise and criticism at the NCAA's decision to forgo a post-NBA season tournament.

Terry Donnelly, Illinois coach, said the coaches were left out of the decision-making process.

"It's a shame," Donnelly said. "If we could have been more involved in the decision-making process, we might have been able to influence the outcome."

Neil Keady, Iowa coach, said the NCAA decision was "a slap in the face" to the Big Ten.

"I think the Big Ten should have been more involved," Keady said. "We have a lot of good teams and we deserve to be in the NCAA playoffs."

However, Michigan coach John Beilein said he was not surprised by the NCAA's decision.

"I think the NCAA made the right decision," Beilein said. "We have a lot of good teams, but we also have a lot of bad teams."

Michigan's absence from the NCAA playoffs has left the Big Ten coaches feeling frustrated and disappointed.

"This is a big embarrassment for the Big Ten," Keady said. "We have a lot of good teams, but we don't have enough good teams."

Others on the Big Ten coaching staff echoed Keady's sentiments.

Big Ten round-up

Illinois coach John Beilein, whose team lost to Michigan in the final game, said he was disappointed with the NCAA's decision.

"I think the NCAA made the right decision," Beilein said. "We have a lot of good teams, but we also have a lot of bad teams."

Keady said he was disappointed with the NCAA's decision.

"I think the NCAA made the right decision," Keady said. "We have a lot of good teams, but we also have a lot of bad teams."

Michigan's absence from the NCAA playoffs has left the Big Ten coaches feeling frustrated and disappointed.

"This is a big embarrassment for the Big Ten," Keady said. "We have a lot of good teams, but we don't have enough good teams."

Others on the Big Ten coaching staff echoed Keady's sentiments.

North Carolina still No. 1 despite losing ACC tourney

NEW YORK (UPI) — Despite losing in the ACC tournament, North Carolina remains the No. 1 team in the country.

"I think we're still the best team in the country," coach Roy Williams said. "We have a lot of good players, and we have a lot of experience."

Williams said his team's performance in the tournament was disappointing, but he also said his team's performance in the regular season was disappointing.

"We had a lot of ups and downs during the season," Williams said. "We had some games where we played well, and we had some games where we played poorly."

Despite the loss in the ACC tournament, North Carolina is still expected to receive a high seed in the NCAA tournament.

"We're still the best team in the country," Williams said. "We have a lot of good players, and we have a lot of experience."

Williams said his team's performance in the tournament was disappointing, but he also said his team's performance in the regular season was disappointing.

"We had a lot of ups and downs during the season," Williams said. "We had some games where we played well, and we had some games where we played poorly."

Despite the loss in the ACC tournament, North Carolina is still expected to receive a high seed in the NCAA tournament.

"We're still the best team in the country," Williams said. "We have a lot of good players, and we have a lot of experience."

Williams said his team's performance in the tournament was disappointing, but he also said his team's performance in the regular season was disappointing.

"We had a lot of ups and downs during the season," Williams said. "We had some games where we played well, and we had some games where we played poorly."

Despite the loss in the ACC tournament, North Carolina is still expected to receive a high seed in the NCAA tournament.

"We're still the best team in the country," Williams said. "We have a lot of good players, and we have a lot of experience."
Iowa not picked for NIT; Stringer unconfirmed

By Thomas W. Jaray, Associated Press

The Iowa women's basketball team did not receive an invitation to the National Women's Invitation Tournament and women's NCAA Basketball Invitational.

The decision was made by the NCAA Selection Committee, which announced the selection of the tournament field on Monday.

Iowa and Maryland were two of the teams that were not selected by the NCAA Selection Committee, according to the women's basketball chairman, Porter Stringer.

The Calihan-National Invitational Tournament, Tentennial Champions, presented by...