Report: Lack of sensitivity prompts faculty exodus

By Robyn Griggs Staff Writer

UI faculty members' frustration with low salaries may be inevitable, but a recent UI Faculty Welfare Committee report shows a perceived lack of inter-departmental sensitivity about the situation may be a bigger factor in the exodus of UI faculty.

Lack of sensitivity on the part of department executive officers, time for research and adequate salaries are the most common reasons UI faculty members leave campus, according to determine the reasons for their exodus. Of the 15 who responded, "one of the principal points of frustration ... was a lack of involvement by these individuals in the workings of the departments," the report states.

The welfare committee contacted 27 faculty members who left the UI between July 1983 and March 1984 to

Robert Brown, chairman of the welfare committee, emphasized to the UI Faculty Council Tuesday, "DEO's won't talk to faculty members."

THE REPORT STATES: "The DEO's do not discuss the problems of the department with the faculty. ... Lack of adequate salary is a relative thing, but if the DEO's would openly discuss departmental financing. this would relieve much of the

In addition, the report states: "Some of these individuals felt that promotions and salary increases depended entirely on research and that little or no time was allotted for this type of endeavor. Unfortunately, research, at least paper production, is much easier to quantitate than teaching or the amount of service work performed." Despite Brown's admission to the faculty council that the report "represents a small part of the faculty," a council member requested that he 'soften it up a bit" before distributing

U.S. Navy conducts maneuvers Inside to halt Nicaraguan arms running

Navy destroyers sailed close to Central America Wednesday for "coastal surveillance" exercises aimed at helping El Salvador and Honduras cut off Nicaraguan arms supplies to leftist in-surgents, Pentagon officials said.

The maneuvers, set to begin today and formally scheduled to run through May 5, will involve smaller ships of the londuran and Salvadoran navies from lases in the Gulf of Fonseca, the officials said.

Jury hears evidence on Egan beating proximately 2 a.m. when Egan came home and began to get ready for bed. Trial to focus on cause of Egan's death

Jealousy and anger triggered the where he "slapped and shoved" her fight between Benjamin Caldwell and and then grabbed her by the hair and Ellen Egan the morning of her death, "banged her head against the door." according to testimony given in Johnson County District Court Wednesday by a Coralville police detective. Detective Barry Bedford testified that during interviews with the 24year-old Caldwell the day Egan died, Caldwell told him he was "angry" with Egan and upset that she might be going out with someone else.

Caldwell is charged with seconddegree murder for Egan's death. An autopsy showed she died of a "blunt trauma" to the head Oct. 30. Prosecuting attorney Linda McGuire will attempt to prove that Egan, 21, died as a result of a beating she received from Caldwell in the early morning hours of Oct. 30. Defense attorney Leon F. Spies will argue that though Caldwell hit Egan, the evidence will not prove his blows caused her Bedford testified that Caldwell said he and Egan had an argument at a party they both attended at 191/2 S. Dubuque St., the evening of Oct. 29. Caldwell said he and Egan got "split up" at the party, and he thought Egan might have left. Bedford said Caldwell went home to the duplex he and Egan shared at 713 Fourth Ave. Place in Coralville, and went to bed.

Two of Egan's and Caldwell's friends testified that Egan was "very" intoxicated before she returned home that loud noise, like something hitting a night. John Albertson, Caldwell's best friend, said he saw Egan at a party at adjoined Caldwell's duplex at approxhis apartment on South Dubuque imately the time Caldwell said he and Street. He said Egan appeared "very intoxicated" and "distant."

BIANCA CARUSO testified she met Egan that night at Dooley's bar, 18-20 So. Clinton St., and said "her stance was very unstable ... Her speech was slurred, her sentences incoherent, and she didn't remember where she'd Bedford said he found a certificate in the apartment that showed Caldwell had earned a second-degree black belt in karate.

ACCORDING TO Bedford, Caldwell said he noticed blood coming from Egan's nose after he struck her the first time, but he believed he hit her on the left side of the face, not in the nose. Bedford testified that neither he nor other police officers found any blood stains in the bathroom when they checked the apartment for evidence. Bedford said Caldwell told him he followed Egan into the bedroom where he pushed her up against the wall; she then fell against a dresser.

"He said they were doing a lot of yelling and screaming," Bedford told the court. "He said that Ellen never hit him. She didn't want to be part of it (the fight). She just wanted to go to Caldwell told Bedford that after Egan hit the dresser, she got undressed and went to bed.

Claudia Spencer, who lived next door to Caldwell, testified that she heard "a door or a wall" through the wall that Egan were arguing. Spencer said she also heard yelling but could not make out what was being said. Spencer said the noise lasted about 45 minutes.

Bedford testified that Caldwell said he did not think he hit Egan very hard. He admitted to Bedford that he had hit Egan on five other occasions during their relationship, but never caused any bruises or injuries.

China stresses Soviet ties

PEKING - On the eve of President Reagan's visit, China stressed it also has good ties with Moscow by announcing the highest-ranking Soviet official to come to Peking in nearly 20 years will arrive next month for key trade talks.

A Foreign Ministry announcement said First Deputy Premier Ivan Arkhipov would visit China in May for talks that are expected to focus on expanding Sino-Soviet trade and technical cooperation.

London: Libya 'abused' status

LONDON - Britain charged Libya with "gross abuse" of diplomatic immunity Wednesday and said it may seek changes in international law that could let a policewoman's killer go free from the besieged Libyan Embassy.

In a statement to Parliament, Home Secretary Leon Brittan said Britain would "observe scrupulously" its obligations under the Vienna Convention regulating diplomatic immunity, but he attacked as a "barbaric outrage" the April 17 slaying of policewoman Yvonne Fletcher outside the embassy.

Kennedy found dead in hotel

PALM BEACH, Fla. - David Kennedy, 28, who turned to drugs after the assassination of his father, Robert Kennedy, was found dead on the floor of his hotel suite Wednesday and medical examiners said it was possible he died of a drug overdose. 'We are leaning toward natural or accidental death," said Rick Black, chief investigator for the Palm Beach County medical examiner's office, following an autopsy late Wednesday. "An accidental (drug) overdose is still a possibility."

Moynihan quits Senate panel

WASHINGTON - Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., rejecting pleas from Democratic colleagues, resigned as vice chairman of the Senate Intelligence committee Wednesday to protest a lack of information about CIA activities in Central America.

Moynihan announced his decision to resign after it was learned the CIA had directed the mining of Nicaraguan harbors. He complained the CIA had not briefed the committee on the operation, as it is required by law to do.

Landlords, renters confident about city's new human rights ordinance

Special to The Daily Iowan

The Iowa City Council's adoption of the revised Human Rights Ordinance has left initial opponents divided and supporters

The ordinance was adopted Tuesday following Monday night's approval by the council of a compromise to proposed revisions which would prohibit landlords from discriminating against families with children, homosexuals, or people receiving public aid. The compromise was intended to resolve sharp differences between landlords and renters which were first brought out at a March 12 public hearing.

Initiated by Mayor John McDonald, the compromise exempts landlords who own buildings where 75 percent or more of the residents are 55 years of age or older, or handicapped, senior citizen and handicapped oriented complexes, and existing buildings that are currently owneroccupied. Owner-occupied houses converted into four or less apartments are also ex-

The council was originally divided on the ordinance, however, the compromise satisfied several councilors who originally opposed the ordinance.

"I'M DELIGHTED. The compromise is sensational," said Geraldine Felton, a city Human Rights Commission member who served on the ad hoc committee set up to reach a compromise on the proposed

Reaction

Committee member Karen Kubby, who also serves on the city's Committee on Community Needs, was pleased as well. "It's really great that it was unanimous," said Kubby, who called the compromise "long overdue."

John Watson, co-chair of the ad hoc committee, said the compromise is a good one, "if a compromise is needed." Watson explained that he did not feel any changes should have been made in the ordinance.

Opponents of the ordinance had varied reactions. Former Housing Commission member Carol Karstens doubts whether the ordinance is needed and feels the "whole point" has been missed. "There have been no actual discrimination cases prosecuted," she said. The real problem, Karstens said, is the need for more lowincome housing in Iowa City.

NORMAN BAILEY, president of the Greater Iowa City Apartment Association, said with the addition of the compromise proposals made the ordinance "much more

But Iowa City property owner Margaret MacDonald feels the council overlooked the needs of college students. "There's a great mass of people who want to study and want to sleep as well as young professionals," MacDonald said. "And a child shouldn't be Ernest Lehman, president of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce, reiterated MacDonald's concern about children. "The majority of housing in Iowa City is not suitable for children," Lehman said. "Children need playground equipment, space for recreation, and all kinds of things that single people don't need.'

Karstens commended the council for the compromises which exempt current owneroccupied buildings and houses. Felton was also pleased with the council's efforts. "It gives evidence of how you'd expect rational human beings to deliberate."

The recent discovery of two viruses believed to cause acquired immune deficiency can be linked to years of research by numerous immunologists one such researcher said at the UI Wednes-

Dr. Max Cooper, who has spent 20 years researching immune disorders, visited the UI this week to teach and to consult with colleagues in the UI College of Medicine. Through his research Cooper, director of the Cellular Immunobiology Unit of the Tumor Institute at the University of Alabama-Birmingham, has helped "set the background" for the discovery of the viruses by Dr. Robert Gallo, a National Cancer Institute reseacher, and Dr. Luc Montagnier of the Pasteur Institute in Paris, France. Cooper said the discovery of the AIDS viruses is important in developing ways to prevent the disease, but it will not be able to cure those who now have it. "The most hopeful relationship (to a cure) is that one will be able to make a vaccine to immunize people against getting AIDS," he said.

AIDS IS AN often fatal, cancer-like disease, which primarily affects homosexual

The results of his discoveries have also led to treatments for bone marrow transplants for leukemia patients, and antibody injections for children born without the ability to make antibodies (substances in the blood which fight disease).

The fairly quick discovery of the AIDS viruses "says a lot about the system of medical science," Cooper said. The possibility of immunization just three years after AIDS was first recognized proves that research is important, he said,

Incomplete grade option buys time, but burdens student with extra work

UI students who are contemplating breaking an arm in order to postpone taking a final they're not prepared for should be aware UI administrators don't recommend using the "incomplete" grade option. Students can be granted "incomplete" grades if they don't finish their coursework during a semester, but Juliet Kaufmann, director of the UI Undergraduate Academic Advising Center said: "Getting an incomplete grade lengthens the agony in a sense. They don't get rid of the problem, they just buy a little time." Normally, incomplete grades are given to students who cannot complete their class work because of an injury or illness.

"Let's say finals week comes and you break your right hand, the one you write with. Then you rush into the professor and say you can't take the final," said Sherwood Tuttle, associate dean in the UI College of Liberal Arts. Tuttle said if the professor sees a student has been doing August to write the final.' Kaufmann said the center advises the approximately 6,700 students it handles a semester to either drop the course, "redouble their efforts to try to catch up on the work" or talk to the instructor before deciding to request an incomplete grade. She said the center tries not to "advocate any particular position." UI REGISTRAR Jerald Dallam said the incomplete grade is an "interim grade, an agreement between the professor and the student." He said whether or not an instructor gives a student the incomplete grade depends on the individual professor.

"Simply not being able to get the work done during the semester is no reason to take an incomplete. There have to be extenuating circumstances," Dallam said. Although the UI has not kept track of incomplete grades granted over the last few years, Dallam estimated less than 1 percent of UI students take incompletes. According to the UI Schedule of Courses, an incomplete grade is removed when the student makes up work not finished during the semester. This work must be "completed and submitted to the course instructor three and one-half weeks prior to the close of final exam week of the next ses-

"IT HAS TO BE cleared up within one semester or it's a failing grade," Dallam

One UI student, who asked not to be identified, said she asked for and got an incomplete grade from an art instructor because she "told him I missed classes because I went home, but I didn't." But she would not advise students to opt for incomplete grades because "it's a lot harder to make up the extra work." Howard Laster, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, said, "There needs to be enough clear evidence that the student has been working at the course."

Kaufmann said the advising center prefers students do everything they can to finish the course. Don't give yourself an extra burden next semester.'

the measure was defeated Friday because of legislative uncertainty over the proposal's effectiveness

"A lot of members of the legislature just weren't sure it was a guaranteed solution," said Rep. Minette Doderer, D-Iowa City. "Everybody that buys a six-pack is not going to drink and drive We spent a lot of time on the proposal; it's just that we didn't have enough votes.

Rep. Betty Hoffman-Bright, R-Muscatine, said late-night beer sales would "probably not" hinder the effectiveness of the drunken driving proposal being sent to Branstad for approval. "Sometimes we (legislators) can go too far. It's an emotional issue and sometimes public opinions get voiced quite loudly.

A Des Moines Register Iowa Poll conducted in December found that 62 Branstad also favored a bill to ban percent of all Iowans favored the ban

Several Iowa business groups successfully lobbied against the measure.

MIKE MARONE, district representative for QuikTrip Corp., said, "We as a company don't keep a lobbying representative, but the Iowa Retail Food Dealers Association does, and we simply called them.'

Marone said QuikTrip followed the legislative action "quite closely" and he thinks its lobbying had an effect on the proposal's demise

Russell Laird, chairman of Iowa Beer Wholesalers Commission said his organization lobbied against the proposal because, "There were absolutely no statistics which prove that accidents occurring after 10 p.m. are related to carry-out beer sales."

"There were no hard figures," Laird said, "and I checked with the Department of Public Safety.'

Freedman promotes global perspective

Civilized life cannot be preserved unless young people prepare for "world citizenship," UI President James O. Freedman told those attending a community forum on peace and security in Spencer, Iowa, Wednesday evening.

The event, sponsored by the American Association of University Women, featured Freedman's views on how a liberal education fosters world peace. Freedman has also demonstrated his expertise in this field by serving on the Governor's Task Force on Foreign Language Studies and International Education. 'We must take long-range views," Freedman said. "We must cultivate a global perspective. And we must begin exactly where we are, in this community, in Iowa.'

Freedman challenged young people to prepare for world citizenship, adding, "Young people must explore the ethical considerations of expedient political and technical decisions if they are to be truly civilized.

Lawyers for low-income clients will be honored

Area lawyers who have provided low-income clients with free legal services will be honored at an open house May 1.

The open house from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Iowa City Regional Office of the Legal Services Corporation of Iowa will be held in conjunction with Law Day, a day recognizing the important role the legal system plays in society. Lawvers from seven counties surrounding Johnson County will be honored for their work as part of the Volunteer Lawyers Project, a joint effort organized by the Iowa State Bar Association and the Legal Services Corporation of Iowa.

The project was created in 1982 to

Governor to name May Blood Pressure Month

The tension is building. Believe it or not, finals are coming up in less than two weeks. The blood clot is beginning to form in students' brains.

And what would be more appropriate than naming May High Blood Pressure

According to Bobbie Bishop, an employee of the Des Moines American Heart Association, May was picked to draw attention to the health threat 10 years ago by the National Heart. Blood, and Lung Institute and the commemoration has been held annually since.

She said on May 1 Gov. Terry Branstad will sign a proclamation encouraging all Iowans to have their blood pressure checked.

"We are trying to make people aware that high blood pressure has no symptoms," said Bishop. She said more than 37 million male American adults suffer from high blood pressure.

Property taxes in Iowa have resisted inflation

Iowans feeling the pinch from meeting the recent tax deadline may feel better knowing they are paying less per $1,000 of their personal income in Iowa property taxes than they did 10

According to the UI Institute of Public Affairs, property taxes as measured against personal income actually declined from 1972 to 1981. While Iowans paid $61 in property taxes for every $1,000 of their personal income in 1971, they paid $43 in 1981, the insitute

Administrators set $8.5 million limit on cost of Union remodeling plans

By Dawn Ummel

Pie-in-the-sky plans for remodeling the Union may be curtailed because the UI can afford only about $8.5 million instead of a $23 million scheme proposed earlier.

"The $23 million was kind of a wish list," said Jean Kendall, Union director. "We went in saying to people, 'You go in and sit with the architects and say what you think should be in the building.

Kendall said this initial meeting between the Union users and the architects was an "information gathering session" that produced a proposed spending plan of $10 million to $23 million.

But UI administrators said the spending limit must stay around $8.5 million. "It's hard to say how much we'll wind up spending," said Phillip Jones, UI dean of udent services. "It won't be $23 million." Jones said the remodeling project is "such a very unsettled situation. We're not guaranteed any sources of funds."

Kendall said the UI has now set spending priorities. She said the first consideration s additional space for student organizations. However, Kendall said before any specific plans can be finalized, repairs must be made to the roof and the heating, air and ventilation system.

KENDALL SAID the air circulation systems have suffered "because when we added on in the past we considered people and space first.

Other remodeling plans included in the priority list are better handicapped entrances and - "if it's a big renovation" improving the access from one end of the building to the other, Kendall said.

Kendall said about $5.4 million would be left for the construction budget after funds ranging from $500,000 for the roof repair to $1.5 million for "furnishings and refurbishing within" are subtracted from the $8.5 million plan.

Bill Graber, chairman of a Union advisory committee, said, the decreased funding proposal "doesn't allow us to go through with some basic improvements we've been considering." He said the committee had hoped to "use the river view more" by developing the area off the Wheelroom. He said the Union was built at three different times, and the north side was considered the back side - "nobody make the Union "more cohesive and aesthetic" to combat the inconsistency in design caused by the multiple construction

Kendall said funding for the Union remodeling will probably come from a Union improvement portion of mandatory student fees, revenue produced by the Union itself and possibly the portion of mandatory student fees that currently goes to Hancher Auditorium. She said bonds would be sold to cover the Hancher expenses.

"Nobody has any idea whether any of that will happen," Kendall said of the remodeling plans. "The architect (Bussard/Dikis Associates Ltd. of Des Moines) was given a charge and that's what we're working with now." She said the firm was given "the financial package that we need to work with and the priorities of the administration. They'll come back with their recommendation and present it to u

Jones said the architectural firm would meet with the UI in May, then studen groups would be contacted for input in June and finally the proposals would be taken t the state Board of Regents before fall.

Caldwell told Bedford that he woke up at about 5 a.m. and noticed Egan was lying on her side "partly on and partly off the foot of the bed." Caldwell said that when he tried to move her to a different position she did not respond. Caldwell told the detective that when he noticed there was mucus coming from Egan's mouth, he rolled her over and started mouthto-mouth resuscitation. When he could not revive her, Bedford said, Caldwell called an ambulance.

EGAN WAS TAKEN to the UI Hospitals where attempts were made to revive her. Egan did not respond to treatment and died at 6:30 a.m.

Under cross examination by Spies, Bedford said

He said his committee has been discussing the problem all year, adding, "I think it's a problem that's going to constantly exist in a sense because you're going to keep changing DEO's all the time and each individual has to be appraised of the problems and learn to deal with it.

Richard Remington, UI Vice President for Academic Affairs, agreed there may be a communication problem. "I think there is a feeling university-wide that we can do a bit better communicating with each other ... It's a problem that needs everyone's attention all the time.

However, Howard Laster, dean of the UI College of Liberal Arts, said he does not believe lack of DEO sensitivity and communication "is a significant issue" in his college.

"I think I've had information about most of the people leaving the College of Liberal Arts - though I don't want to be too complacent because it is a very large college - and the impression I have is that it is not a prime issue," he said.

"Other things, such as the total resources of the university, salary for individuals and also (work) overload people experience are more common

The Cedar Rapids school district gave a display of poor sportsmanship last week when it directed its junior varsity boys soccer team to leave the field after Iowa City West High coach George Zimmerman sent 16-year-old Amy Chu into the game.

U.S. District Court Judge William Stuart, however, penalized the Cedar Rapids district by ordering its soccer teams not to cancel any games with Iowa City through May 4, even though the three remaining games are on May 10, 15 and 24.

The order by Stuart was an expansion of his original injunction last week, which allowed Chu to participate in games on West High's junior varsity soccer team. Chu has been fighting a legal battle for the right to play soccer for West High, arguing that she is qualified to play and that refusal to let her play is a violation of her civil rights. West High has no girls soccer team at present.

Happily, the Iowa City School Board voted unanimously Tuesday to follow the court injunction and let Chu play. Unhappily, Cedar Rapids school officials are grumbling that their policy is not sexist and that sex-integrated teams will actually reduce the opportunity for girls to participate in sports.

The 1972 Title IX education amendments state that if a district cannot provide separate teams, it must either allow mixed teams or have no teams. In that spirit, the Cedar Rapids schools will belatedly announce today the formation of girls soccer teams in its schools for next year and the rest of this year. In fairness, Cedar Rapids has had a strong record of providing equal opportunities for girls in its athletic programs, and Judge Stuart sees "considerable merit" in the sex-segregated team system as the best way for girls to have an equitable chance to compete in

But if Cedar Rapids has a right to pursue its own school sports policy, it does not have the right to impose that policy on another school district by refusing to compete. Both districts must face the possibility of integrated teams if they're not willing to establish separate programs for boys and girls.

The Iowa City school district cooperated in the dispute after some less-than-friendly persuasion from Chu's attorney Philip Mears and Judge Stuart. Now the Cedar Rapids schools must show the same willingness to be good sports and play fair the rest of the

Terror, American-style

Last week the administration revealed that on April 3 President

Reagan had signed National Security Decision Directive 138, which approved measures designed to combat terrorism, particularly state-sponsored terrorism. The directive included such reasonable measures as increased intelligence gathering and sharing, but it also included approval for some measures that would depart from past U.S. policy, such as pre-emptive strikes

Pre-emptive strikes and reprisals ought not be part of U.S.

solutions except as a last resort and in an extraordinary situation, for several reasons. Such acts would sanction the use of terrorism and would violate U.S. principles. They would also be unlikely to work, but likely to increase terrorism, particularly involving the

To respond to terrorism with terrorism clearly says that it is not terrorism to which the United States objects, but rather to some countries or groups using terrorism against U.S. allies. Pre-emptive strikes and military reprisals are terrorism because in most cases it is impossible to be absolutely sure that the correct parties are being attacked and that no civilians will be victimized.

that it opposes only some kinds terrorism. The death squads in El Salvador and the repressive military in the Philippines and South Korea all operate with our de facto support. We don't stop military and economic assistance to the governments employing those tactics. Moreover, the contras in Nicaragua are using terroristic tactics to overthrow that government, and the United States

The United States violates it own principles — trial by jury, free political expression, free elections, the right to be safe and secure from the government as long as you violate no law, the prohibition of cruel and unusual punishment — when it supports governments that do not allow their own people those rights. And when it does, it loses any moral force it might have in criticizing governments

Futhermore, such acts will not work. Israel has been using the techniques of reprisal and pre-emptive strikes for decades, and it still suffers terrorist attacks. Since each group and government believes that its strikes or reprisals are justified, what happens is that strike and counterstrike, act and reprisal, become a way of waging the war. For the United States to join would serve to

Once that occurs, the incidence of terrorism is bound to increase. Up to now, the United States has not suffered much from terrorist acts. According to Risks International Inc., as reported in the New York Times, there were 2,838 terrorist incidents in 1983, but only 77 involved the United States. That will change if the

Instead, efforts should be made to find and support peaceful

Journal-ease is an occasional feature presenting commentary on a broad range of issues by local writers.

"Hitchhiking to Fort Lauderdale, eh?" he considered thoughtfully. Then more slowly: "Hitchhiking, to Fort Lauderdale?" he repeated stepping down hard on each syllable for emphasis. "Why, that's perfectly crazy. Why not just stay home and beat yourself over the head with a board?" he suggested politely.

We promised to take that under advisement, and then the trip began to pick up momentum.

OUR FIRST FREE ride was a Cambus packed with students on its way to the Mayflower. I started taking pulls of Schnapps from my boda bag. We staggered off the bus and walked to I-80 beginning a wild four-day journey consisting of 21 separate rides. We met a multitude of characters on the way: farmers, preachers, salesmen, police officers, servicemen and veterans, a psychologist (who almost convinced us that we needed professional help), a bodybuilder who gave Keller his ski gloves because he was cold and a chimney sweep who went to work in the traditional top hat and tails. Most important, we met Four-Finger Bob Doyle from Chattenooga, who picked us up in northern Georgia in his 18-wheeler and dropped us off in Fort Lauderdale before continuing on to Miami. Four-Finger Bob was a true Southerner. When he and said he never would have picked us up had seen it at first. Later, when Keller stretched out in the cab, he felt something hard digging into his back. He reached around and pulled out Bob's .44 magnum, which nearly gave the poor man a heart attack.

When Bob finally dropped us off after 16 hours, he said, "Ah dint know fer shore whether you was mentally irregulah or just a couple dum yankees. Now ah know. G' Luck y'all!" We made our way to Fort Lauder-dale's main strip and began looking for fellow Hawkeyes. After two hours of this, we gave up. Our packs were getting cumbersome, and we decided to dispose of them at once. We walked a block or so off the strip and began rummaging through the bushes of the Birch-Seville Motel, hoping to conceal our packs in the dense foliage. Suddenly, a female voice asked us what "in the Sam Hill" we were doing. We looked up and saw an attractive young woman in a bikini staring at us from her window. I gave her the abridged version of our journey thus far. She offered us cold beer as well as an invitation to rack on the floor for a couple of days if

Keller and I promptly had double coronary occlusions and accepted the offer. Having conquered the housing problem, we were free to engage in all manner of hedonistic pursuits and revelry with our hosts. One afternoon, we observed a peculiar native ritual. Our hosts inserted a brown leaflike substance into a round metal receptacle attached to a long cylindrical tube, purposely ignited it and inhaled

THE REST OF the trip we spent on the beach, in a bar, on a dance floor, under the water, in a contest, in awe or intoxicated. Friday came far too soon for us, and it was time to head home.

The return trip got off to a bad start when a Florida State trooper pulled over and wrote us a pair of warning tickets for hitchhiking. We returned to the highway as soon as his car drove out of sight. This really put the pressure on to get a good long ride out of Florida as soon as possible, because if John Law collared us again, we would be fined, perhaps jailed.

Fortunately, a big, red van saw our Jacksonville sign and decided to pull over. Over the next five hours, Bill and Judy shared a lot of beer and laughter

Our next ride we refer to as the ZZ Top ride. Three fully-bearded, hairy hooligans with sunglasses picked us up in a souped-up, fire-engine red pickup. When we jumped off after about 30 miles, we witnessed what seemed like a video in the making as all three turned in unison and gave us the ZZ Top wave before tearing back into traffic.

That night we slept in a pup tent in the Florida woods. The next morning we awoke stiff and grouchy with a bad case of "bed head." Within minutes it began to rain, and we took refuge in drink. We trudged on toward Atlanta soaked to the bone, drunk to the gills. A U-Haul took us to Nashville. Later we scored a ride to Kentucky and slept on the living room floor of Capt. Mark Cooper, Green Beret. On the third day out we bagged a ride all the way to the Windy City, where we stayed with friends. The following day we harvested a ride to Iowa City and arrived in front of Currier the same way we left - via Cambus. At 12:15 we caught Stroyan's Quant I lecture for the first time in 11 days.

With about 8,000 hitchhiking miles between us, we've accumulated our own list of do's and don'ts for road-

1. Do look neat and clean. Smile and be animated. Look like you're having a gas. If you're cold and miserable, on the other hand, look it, and go for the sympathy

2. Do have a sign. For long hauls, have one for the ultimate goal and several for major cities along the way

3. Do carry traveler's checks. 4. Do solicit rides from truckers outside truckstops. 5. Do carry positive I.D.

6. Do turn down a ride if the rider looks

1. Don't hitch at a curve in the road. Pick 2. Don't hitch at a place with a narrow or gravel-covered shoulder. It inhibits people from stopping because it endangers them.

3. Don't carry large amounts of cash. 4. Don't tell any of your rides how much cash you do have. 5. Don't wear an overcoat or poncho. Paranoid people might thing you've got a shotgun under it. 6. Oh, and above all, don't forget the Schnapps!

Subsidizing communists

To the editor:

Enough is enough. Even the funniest joke grows tiresome after it is told day after day for several weeks - and The Daily Iowan's "metric weather forecast bit" was never very funny in the first place.

I'm assuming that the metric forecast is a joke only because no responsible journalist could seriously print Celsius temperatures exclusively and blame it on a broken weather satellite. If you insist on maintaining that the DI does indeed own a weather satellite, and that this satellite spits out nothing but Celsius readings, I suggest that you find a metric conversion table in order to spare your readers the task of interpreting the figures for themselves.

The thought entered my mind that this metric forecast was intended to become a vehicle for subsidizing local communist political groups. Yeah, I can see it all now. In a few days you'll probably run a full-page ad: "Be One of the Few Privileged People on Campus Who Really Know the Temperature. Buy Your Own DI Metric Conversion Table, Only $1.99."

Don't try anything; I'm on to you like bees on honey.

Subtle, complex man

To the editor: I attended the forum Cooper Evans addressed at the First Christian Church. Your report of that event missed several important statements, thus presenting a less than accurate picture of his positions.

Cooper did say that the mining in Nicaragua was "an illegal and immoral act." While he noted that past presidents have authorized such acts, he specifically noted his opposition to the mining - opposition reflected in his vote to condemn the president's actions. The stand is also consistent with Evans' long-standing opposition to U.S. support of the contras.

Your report had the first two parts of position in this critical area of world

Evans' analysis but missed the last two, leaving open the possibility that Evans might condone such illegal and immoral acts when his opposition is

Your report focuses on chemical weapons. Again you correctly report several statements. But by speaking of "his endorsement of these weapons" you turn on its head his clear call for negotiated controls and the destruction of existing stockpiles. Together with the headline, this shows an inability to recognize Evans for the thoughtful and subtle congressman he is, rather than the doctrinaire and predictable politician you might wish him to be.

To me, one of the most interesting features of the discussion was the portion on world hunger. Evans is a leader on this problem and was recently appointed to the House Select Committee on Hunger in recognition of his deep involvement in this area. Indeed, he was able to answer a question on food shipments to Zimbabwe precisely because of meetings he held recently with officials from that country and because of travels to Africa this year to investigate the hunger problem first hunger with no fanfare and little recognition, and his quiet effectiveness is appreciated. We are being well

I do not expect The Daily Iowan to alter its obvious editorial orientation against Evans. As Monday's editorial makes clear, you are determined to find fault no matter what he does. We would be better served, however, if you would listen closely to what Evans says, rather than report what you think he ought to say to fit your preconceptions. He is rather more subtle and complex than your coverage would lead one to believe.

Cub reporters needed

In most newspapers it is customary in the sports section to put baseball standings in every day. I have noticed that in The Daily Iowan you leave out the standings some days.

As an avid Cub fan, I find it difficult to follow the Cubs to the pennant on a daily basis when the standings aren't put in every day. I'm sure other baseball fans feel the same way, especially Cub fans in this, "The Year of the Cubs."

Denying illegality, Mondale orders end to independent delegate panels

Walter Mondale ordered an end Wednesday to the 124 independent delegate committees his rivals accused him of using to circumvent the $24 million primary season

Mondale said there was nothing illegal being done by the committees, but that he is asking them to stop functioning because they are diverting attention from the crucial issues of the campaign.

The former vice president acted after The Washington Post reported "a striking pattern of apparent coordination" between the supposedly independent delegate committees and the national Mondale cam-

THE INDEPENDENT delegate committees mainly have been set up in the major states with late primaries - New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and California - to help elect delegates loyal to Mondale.

They have received money from special interest political action committees while Mondale has said his national campaign will not accept such funds.

Mondale is in a financial bind because he spent much of the legal limit of $24 million on the early primaries and caucuses when it was thought he would have no serious challenge for the nomination. He does not have enough money left to major states, especially California. Vermont's caucuses, held Tuesday night, and Jackson 15 percent. Another 6 percent were uncommitted.

Based on the incomplete vote, Hart would receive at least seven national convention delegates and Mondale four. The determination of the two other delegates at stake hinges on the remaining 7 percent not yet counted.

UTAH DEMOCRATS, meanwhile, held caucuses Wednesday, with Hart's hopes of victory threatened by a drive led by Gov. Scott Matheson to keep the state's delegation uncommitted.

"I would like to lead the delegation to the national convention and I would like the delegation to go down as uncommitted," Matheson said.

But Salt Lake City Mayor Ted Wilson, one of the state's most powerful Democrats and a staunch Hart supporter, said: "I believe a fellow Westerner would help Utah Democrats in the local races. I believe Utahans can relate better to Gary Hart than they can to Walter Mondale.

Government to list debtors for private credit agencies

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Starting in October, the federal government will give private credit agencies names of people who have failed to pay back government tuition, business and farm loans, officials said Wednesday.

The General Services Administration has signed contracts with three national credit reporting firms and is negotiating with another four, the officials said.

Under the agreements, government agencies will report unpaid debts to the private firms and in turn will be able to check the credit ratings of anyone applying for a new government loan of any kind.

The government began during the Carter administration to use private collection agencies to track down debtors, who now owe the government a total of $18 billion. About 40 percent of the debt is owed by individuals, the rest by com-the government will be entered into readily available credit histories of individuals and companies. The program starts in October, the start of the government's 1985 fiscal year.

"IF SOMEBODY is borrowing a million dollars and not paying, I think anybody should be able to know that," said Curt Prins, staff director of the House Consumer Affairs subcom-

Prins said he favors going further and allowing any government agency to disclose the names of anyone whose payments on a govern-ment loan are overdue. "We publish the list of delinquent tax people in the paper," he said.

Officials in the Office of Management and Budget said that the law requires a 60-day notice be given to a debtor before the government reports any problems to a private credit bureau. And, if a repayment schedule is agreed upon between the government agency and the debtor, "it doesn't have to be reported" to the credit agencies at all, the officials said.

Panel denies cleanup delay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Reagan administration is underestimating the cost of cleaning up the nation's worst toxic waste dumps to stall extension of the superfund program, a key congressman charged Wednesday.

Rep. James Florio, D-N.J., chairman of the Commerce Transportation and Tourism subcommittee of the Energy and Commerce Committee, leveled the charge as he released a draft report drawn up by the administration that estimates only $1.5 billion more of government money will be needed to clean up the most hazardous waste sites.

The study, by the Commerce Department's office of business analysis for the undersecretary for economic affairs, also assumes much of the money for the nationwide cleanup will come from states and the private sector.

Florio said the report's projections "fly in the face of every estimate my subcommittee has received ... concerning the true needs of the superfund program."

"The timing and content of the Commerce Department report document the true hidden agenda of this administration: stop the reauthorization of superfund at all costs before the upcoming national elections and either kill or cripple the program after the president has secured a second term," Florio

THE EPA HAD strong criticism for the Commerce Department's study.

"They did it with outdated information and incorrect assumptions," said agency spokesman Russ

The superfund will not expire until the end of 1985, but there are growing calls on Capitol Hill to extend it now, using election-year pressure to win administration support for a stronger, better-funded

EPA Administrator William Ruckelshaus said Congress should not reauthorize the law until next year to give the EPA more time to study it.

EPA Assistant Administrator Lee Thomas told the Senate Environment and Public Works Committee Wednesday that President Reagan wants to continue the program, due to expire on Sept. 30, 1985. But he said EPA would not be "in a position to draft the proposals the president seeks from us" until it completes a study of future needs asked for by Congress and due in December.

The Iowa Hawkeye baseball team fattened its batting averages on the way to sweeping a doubleheader at Wartburg College in Waverly, Iowa, Wednesday.

The Hawkeyes won, 14-5 and 27-1, or two touchdowns with extra points and four touchdowns and a missed extra point to one. The second game was mercifully called after five innings.

Wartburg was using freshmen pitchers, though, as the Knights lowa baseball

Indiana's McKinney is fired from post

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) - Indiana and a successor probably will be said Wednesday.

In announcing that the Pacers do not want McKinney to return next season, team President Bob Salvers told a Market Square Arena news conference that the move "was in the best interest of the team.'

"We felt we could accomplish our goals more quickly by making the change at this time," Salyers said.

A FACTOR IN THE Pacers' decision to let McKinney go was the team's performance during the 1983-84 season, he

Men's golf team looks to move into Buckeyes' neighborhood

Although it won't be renting any Ryder trucks this weekend, the Iowa men's golf team would like to do a little

Coach Chuck Zwiener's squad will travel to the 15-team Northern Intercollegiate in Ann Arbor, Mich., and Hawkeye golfer Mark Christensen said his team is ready to swing with the top finishers.

'We would like to be in the neighborhood of Ohio State," Christensen said, "in the high-rent districts. That will come.'

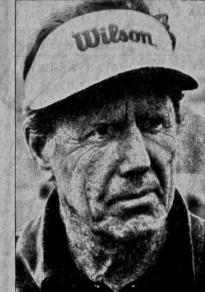

Ohio State, of course, is a perennial Big Ten power. The Buckeyes have won five-straight conference titles and were fourth-place finishers at the 1983 NCAA Championships.

IOWA HAS BEEN scoring well lately as the Hawkeyes tied for fourth at last weekend's Mid-American Invitational. Zwiener is encouraged by the fourthplace tie, but he isn't sure if the Hawkeyes are ready to challenge Ohio State in Ann Arbor

Although the field may be a bit smaller this weekend than at Iowa's other recent meets, Zwiener said this will be his team's toughest 54 holes of the year.

'This will be the best meet so far in terms of the field and the quality of the course," Zwiener said,

"The University of Michigan has an extremely difficult course," the 27thvear coach added. "It is long and the greens have severe breaks.'

The 6,872-yard Michigan course is sure to test the Hawkeyes, but Zwiener said that is what he wants.

'This is a great course," Zwiener said. "It's one of my favorites ... It's difficult, but I enjoy playing it.

"NONE OF OUR guys have ever played there," Zwiener said. "They are going to find that playing 36 holes on one day (Saturday) is going to be a test not only of their golfing ability but of their stamina as well.

Despite the tough course, Christensen said he is "looking forward" to playing at Michigan.

There's probably good reason for Christensen's attitude. The senior is coming off his best meet of the season last weekend.

Drake meet is attracting top athletes DES MOINES (UPI) - Steve Scott, the top U.S. bid for a 1984 gold medal in the 1,500-meter run, is among the Olympic hopefuls and returning champions registered for the 75th annual Drake Relays Friday and Saturday.

Calvin Smith, the world's fastest at the 100-meter dash, and three of the world's top four quarter-milers join Scott in what is forecast to be a cold, rainy meet a dozen weeks before the Summer Games.

Nebraska's Deb Clark, the Big Eight indoor pentathlon champ, said she dropped out of Drake's heptathlon Tuesday because the June 16 Olympic trials are too near, but she's the only late cancellation from a field of top

"I've been here the last 15 years and as far as the university and college teams are concerned, this is the best field we've ever had," Drake Relays director and track Coach Bob Ehrhart said Wednesday.

"THEY ALL HAVE some outstanding individuals so we should see some great performances," he said. Erhart, president of the U.S. Track Coaches of America Association, said as many as 15 Drake Relays participants could end up on some country's Olympic team. Nine of the top 18 teams in the NCAA indoor championships, including relay squads from Southern Illinois and Alabama, are scheduled to participate in the two-day event.

NCAA indoor pole vault champion Joe Dial of Oklahoma State and Texas high jumper James Lott also will tune up for the Olympic trials.

Scott, a University of California-Irvine product, will bring his No. 2 world-ranking into the special 1,500 at shortly before 5 p.m. Saturday.

SCOTT IS THE American record holder in four events - mile, 1,500, 2,000 and 3,000 - and one of only two atheltes to win three different events at the Drake Relays. Smith, who aided two of Alabama's five Drake Relay victories in 1983, will run Saturday in the special 100-meter and 200-meter events. He turned in a world-best of 9,93 seconds in the 100meter dash at last summer's National Sports Festival in Colorado Springs.

The quarter mile features the second- through fourth-ranked runners in the world, respectively - Indiana's Sunder Nix, Southern Illinois' Michael Franks and Iowa State's Sunday Uti. The three could meet in Saturday's 400meter special, but that decision won't be made until Friday night.

UTI HAS QUALIFIED for Nigeria's Olympic team. He is part of a strong Relay entry from Iowa State, which finished fourth in the NCAA Indoor Championships.

Other Cyclones include three-time All-American Joseph Kipsang in the 500-meter run and distance runner Yobes Ondieki of Kenya. Freshman Danny Harris, who improved his own junior record in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles at the Texas Relays, and sophomore high jumper Brian Tietjens round out ISU's list of stan-

Despite Clark's absence, defending national indoor champion Nebraska is expected to compete with Texas for the women's team honors.

The Cornhuskers claimed three titles last week at the Kansas Relays, including a meet record in the 440-yard relay, 45.08. Nebraska's Angela Thacker, who won the Kansas long jump, is a returning Drake Relays champion in the 100-meter dash.

Hawkeyes' Gillespie takes 2nd

By Melissa Rapoport

After leading her competitors into the final day of heptathlon competition at the Drake Relays in Des Moines, Iowa's Kathy Gillespie finished second behind defending champion Jill Lancaster of Team Kangaroos. Lancaster lead the competition by only six points going into 800meter run, the final event, and claimed the heptathlon title with 5,187 total points. Gillespie, who lost the lead after an eighth-place finish in the long jump, totaled 5,105 - a seasonal best. Following Gillespie was Donna Teigs of Lay Witnesses with 5,002 points. Going into Wednesday's competition with 3,034 points, the Iowa junior competed in the long jump, javelin and 800.

"KATHY LONG jumped 16 feet, three and one quarter inches for eighth place, threw the javelin 110-3 for third and in the 800, she ran two minutes, 23.81 seconds and was fourth," Iowa assistant Coach Bill Knoedel

In achieving the seasonal-best record, Gillespie and Knoedel were both pleased with her progress. "I can't be too disappointed," Gillespie said. "I'm improving with every meet, but I found that I'm lacking a little bit in some events - long jump, javelin and speed." "Overall, I was real pleased," the Iowa assistant coach said. "She improved by about 200 points. She did a real good job." AN EIGHTH-PLACE performance in the long jump competition, according to Knoedel, kept Gillespie from winning the event. "The thing that killed her was the long jump," he said. "If she had a good jump, she would have won the event. She just didn't have a real good jump."

Although Iowa Coach Jerry Hassard had not spoken to Gillespie or Knoedel at press time, Hassard thought, by reviewing Gillespies performances today, that she was not as competitive as she had been Tuesday.

"It appears the second day was not a very strong day for Kathy," Hassard said. "It wasn't all it could be. It seems like she must have been flat today. Still, there is still an improvement overall."

Being a Lamoni native, the Relays had a special meaning for Gillespie. "The Drake Relays are kind of like a home to me," she said. "I really enjoy competing here.' Because Gillespie competed well and improved by 200 points, she believes she's ready for the Big Ten Championships

Relays are lowa's strength; favorable results expected

Good competition brings out the best in an athlete, and this weekend, the Iowa men's track team will be able to test themselves against the best at the 75th annual Drake Relays in Des Moines

Iowa will be bringing a full squad to the relays this weekend and the Hawkeyes best chances are in the 4x100 and 4x400 relay events.

The Hawkeye 4x100 team consists of Gordon Beecham, Robert Smith, Victor Greer and Terrence Duckett, while the 4x400 team is made up of Greer, Duckett, Kenny Williams and Caesar Smith.

"YOU TAKE A look at our squad and our team highlights and they are the relay events — and the Drake Relays are mainly made up of relays," Iowa Coach Ted Wheeler said. "With our individuals in the 4x100 and the 4x400, we will be looking at some outstanding performances from people both in the relays and the individual events.

"We have a pretty good chance in those events," Duckett said. "Southern Illinois has a 4x400 team and either Georgia or Arizona have a real good 4x100

"Right now, I would just like to stay healthy and see if I can qualify for the Olympic trials at 400 meters. I'm confident that if I get in the right race

COMPETING IN THE individual events for Iowa are Kostrubala in the shot put and discus, Todd Wigginton in the pole vault, Norm Balke in the shot put and discus. Robert Smith in the 100-meter dash, Mike Lacy in the triple and high jumps and Paul Chepkwony in the intermediate hurdles.

Ronnie McCoy will also be back in action for the Hawkeyes, competing in the 110 high hurdles. McCoy has missed much of the outdoor season.

"If we get some good weather, I could do all right," Lacy said. "Last week was kind of a let down. I feel pretty good and I think I can do 50 (50feet triple jump) this weekend, and if not this weekend, I can do it by the end of the year.

"Iowa State has some people who can do at least 49 feet, and I'm sure there will be several people who can do more than 50," Lacy said. "I hope I can place, but I'm just not sure who else is going to be there.'

"I WANT TO DO better than I have done before," Kostrubala said. "I finished eighth last year in the discus and I would like to place higher than that.

"Last year, I didn't place in the shot put and I would like to do better than that. I'm not sure who's going to be there, but I'll just have to go down there and do my best," Kostrubala said.

Running in the 4x800 relay for the Hawkeyes will be Smith, Ricky McCoy, Chepkwony and Andy

Drake meet attracts the best; Hawks look to surpass goals

By Melissa Rapoport

Goals are set to be reached and surpassed, and this weekend at the 75th annual Drake Relays in Des Moines, several members of the Iowa women's track team will be looking to set personal-best records, winning their events and possibly qualifying for the Olympic trials.

"My ultimate goal is to win," high jumper Mary Mol said. "I don't really like setting specific goals, but if I were to set one, I'd have to say I want to qualify for the (Olympic) trials."

Mol has been unable to win the big meets, having to settle for the runner-up position at last year's Drake Relays, the indoor 1983 NCAA nationals, the Kansas Relays two weeks ago and at three Big Ten Championships.

"I'M SURE MARY Mol will be shooting for the Olympic trials and a win because she was runner-up last year," Iowa Coach Jerry Hassard said. "She gets a lot of runner-up honors but hasn't won a major

"In general, the goals for most of the Iowa participants at the Drake Relays will be to reach or get closer to the national and Olympic trials qualifying standards," Hassard said.

Hassard said he is optimistic that senior Penny O'Brien will set a personal best in her event. "I think Penny O'Brien can hit a personal best in the 1,500 meters," he said. "Four minutes, 26.6 seconds is the time to beat - she ran that her freshman year."

GAIL SMITH, a junior from Shirley, Ill., will compete in the shot put and the discus - the only Hawkeye to be accepted in two events. Smith has thrown a seasonal-best 45 feet, seven and three-quarters inches in the shot and 155-1/2 in the discus. Freshman walk-on Shelley Redies will also compete in the shot put. Redies, who is the defending Iowa high school champion in the event, has thrown

"I think the goal for Brenda Calhoun is to win," Hassard said,

One 100 meter entries have not been named as of yet, and the 800 sprint medley relay of Vivien McKenzie, Davera Taylor, Jackie Moore and Elaine Jones qualified for the Relays.

"IN THE 100 METERS, entries are still tentative," the Iowa coach said. "But it's likely we will get one or two entries in that event ... The 800-meter sprint medley relay has been invited, but no decision as of yet has been made as to whether we will run it

At least 50 teams will be represented at the 75th anniversary of the Drake Relays, and if there happens to be a scratch, the 4x100 relay has been chosen as the first alternate to step in and compete. In the 5,000, Anne Dobrowolski has also been invited as an

STUDENT FOOTBALL TICKET POLICY - 1984

A student may purchase one season ticket at the student price. An additional ticket may be purchased at the public price. The guest ticket, at the public price, will not be available after May 18, the deadline for student priority.

. Students will receive a priority based on the number of consecutive years they have purchased or applied for football tickets at the University of Iowa with no loss in priority for student exchange programs off campus or bona fide illness. An individual who misses two or more consecutive seasons for reasons other than the above will lose all priority.

3. Students, to receive their priority for football, must order sometime during the period from April 16 to May 18, 1984. These orders will be filled according to priority and will be available for pickup at fall registration. The student ID card and current registration must be presented at the time of pickup.

4. A University student may order season ticket for a group no larger than 8, provided he or she has the additional student credentials with him or her. Each student must pay for their own tickets and all students must pick up their own tickets and sign for them. All students must be currently registered and "in good standing" (University bill paid) by August 29. All students cancelled on that date will

5. The lowest priority within a group will determine the location of the entire block of tickets for that group. That is, all students within a group will carry the lowest priority

3. Student season tickets will continue on sale on a non-priority basis after May 18, and will reamain on sale through Wednesday, August 29, 1984, if available.

7. A Student ticket, to be valid, must be accompanied by ID card and a current registration certificate. A student ticket may be used by the original purchaser or any other University of Iowa student, but the original purchaser will be held liable for any violations of the student ticket policy. Islanders are searching for rally against young, powerful Canadiens

Once again, the New York Islanders must rally to the defense of their dynasty — this time against a young Montreal Canadiens team that's comin' on like gangbusters.

The four-time Stanley Cup champions of the National Hockey League have played fitfully during the last two seasons and again in the current playoffs. They often show only brief flashes of their overall skills, yet have so far been able to come through under pressure in pursuit of a record-tying fifth-consecutive Stanley Cup. This time they really may have their

The famous mystique of the Canadien franchise had nothing to do with the victory. The young Canadiens probably didn't give a hoot or a holler that the Islanders were attempting to equal a mark set by their predecessors in Montreal uniforms while they were in diapers in the late 1950s.

The Canadiens won simply because they outskated the Islanders on offense, outchecked them on defense and outdug them in the corners. And the first to admit it was Stanley Cup playoffs

Montreal's sensational rookie kicked out 24 shots to record his third shutout of this playoff season - one shy of the playoff record. Penney made several outstanding saves to keep the Habs in the game, particularly in the first period.

Players' bond enhances recital

OMRADESHIP tells on stage whether it's drama, ballet or music, when friends perform together there's a special bond of communication that transcends the professional norm.

UI School of Music faculty cellist Charles Wendt and Ida Beam Visiting Professor Stjepan Radic demonstrated this singular association in their joint recital Monday night in Clapp Recital Hall. Their ability to follow each other and for one to pick up where the other left off was comfortably enjoyable - it was the type of concert where one could put up one's feet and enjoy.

IT WAS WELL that Wendt and Radic enjoyed playing together and for the audience, for as regards other matters musical there were some problems, most of which had to do with balance. It wasn't until after intermission and the American premiere of Croatian composer Ivo Macek's Cello Sonata that Wendt could be heard in the entire range of his instrument. Prior to this his generally warm, clear tone was consistently swamped by Radic's enthusiastic "accompaniment." Only by hearing which way the cello line was going and extrapolating its part from there was I able to keep tabs on what Wendt was doing (that and my familiarity with the Brahms sonata, Op. 38, that opened the recital).

And I find it hard to believe that Macek, while undoubtedly a fine and distinctive composer (about which more in a moment), knows more about piano/cello balancing as a technique than Shostakovich or Brahms did. The fact that the cello part of Macek's sonata was edited by a cellist colleague of his has little to do with it; the strange fact remains that the Macek work was the first I could completely

WHAT EMERGED of the Brahms was rather nice, though - clean, fullbodied playing from Wendt and solid if somewhat sober playing from Radic. The Op. 38 sonata has never struck me as one of Brahms' more inspired works; the composer seems to be casting around for ideas, and most of the time whatever strengths the work has are all rhythmic - the melodies are very lackluster. But Wendt and Radic did their best with them, and the piece emerged smiling, if still slight.

Shostakovich's Cello Sonata bears an opus number (40) close to that assigned to his epic and popular Fifth Symphony apart: while the symphony is largescaled, expansive and generally intensely emotional, the sonata is intimate (which is, after all, appropriate for chamber music), very Romantic in style and almost sentimental in its emotional outlook. Indeed, the trademark Shostakovich (highly accented and short melodies generally sarcastic in tone) appears only in the finale, and only then as a commentary on the work as a whole.

THE TWO PERFORMERS quite literally threw themselves into the work - Wendt with hair and bow flying, Radic with his short-fingered agile hands rattling away the piano figures. Intensity wasn't lacking, certainly; I just wish I could have heard more of the total picture.

It's interesting to compare Wendtthe-quartet-cellist to Wendt-the-solorecitalist. While generally a restraining, lyrical influence on the Stradivari Quartet (often contributing the most neatly turned solos), in his recital garb Wendt turns up the flame several notches: he really works out, and the intensity of his concentration was seemingly on a different plane altogether. Note that this didn't affect his playing per se at all; in fact, his technical ability seemed greater than before - when I could hear him withdraw into "the (nearly) perfect accompanist" role as compared with his outgoing solo-recital persona; he seemed tentative and too neat Monday. There was none of the just-right emotionality he showed in his all-Chopin recital - there was instead a lot of supportive (and too-loud) notes. Admittedly he and Wendt played to each other marvellously; but Radic, at least, was too withdrawn from the audience emotionally to translate that into communication with us.

IVO MACEK'S Cello Sonata, written in 1951, is a beguiling work which oddly enough sounds more French than anything else: though the tone throughout is individual (strikingly so), influences of Ravel, Messaien and Poulenc could be heard at various places in the work - even the Impressionistic Celticness of Sir Arnold Bax made its appearance in the slow movement. Its four movements are well-developed, skillfully written and even tuneful (though the secondmovement Scherzo seems to run out of melodic gas after the Trio section) and it gives the impression of being contemporary without rubbing one's face in it. A worthy addition to the literature, and it was well thought-out and played by countryman Radic and by Wendt (who benefitted, by all accounts, by the revision of cello part).

Shatner breaks his Captain Kirk image

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Trivia quiz question: Who is the only contemporary actor starring concurrently in a TV series and movie

If you answered William Shatner, go to the head of the class. It's true. Shatner is the only actor today who has two media series going for him: "T.J. Hooker" and the "Star Trek Movie" skein.

Shatner plays the tough patrol car cop Sergeant Hooker on the tube and the noble Adm. James T. Kirk, skipper of the Starship Enterprise, in the soon-to-be released The Search for Spock, third film in the Star Trek films series. He hasn't had a day off, save weekends, in three years. Shatner's not complaining. His cup runneth over and no one is more pleased about it than Shatner himself. In 1969, at the end of his three-year run as Kirk in the "Star Trek" TV series, he was unemployable in Hollywood. 'It was a rough seven or eight years," he said. "I was divorced, I was broke and my father died. I spent two-thirds of every year on the road doing plays to earn a liv-

THEN ALONG CAME Star Trek, The Motion Picture. Shatner was undecided about renewing his identity as Kirk.

"When we did the first picture I was apprehensive about getting away from the Kirk image," he said. "But in that picture and subsequent ones we've seen Kirk age and the humanity of the character emerged.

The pictures have been hits, but thanks to Hooker, Shatner no longer is fixed in the public mind as the captain of the Enterprise.

'Hooker and Kirk share similar qualities, but there are differences too. Kirk has a thoughtful, analytical approach to problems. Hooker is an angry man who reacts to stress with action."

While Shatner is absorbed in both roles, his real obsession is horses. He breeds and sells American saddle-bred and quarter horses. He runs a herd of 30 quarter horses and a half dozen saddlebreds on his 67-acre ranch in the foothills of the Sierra.

Vegas boss says hotels slowing up strike talks leader of the International Culinary Union said Wednesday his lawyers are looking into alleged stalling tactics by negotiators for strikebound Las Vegas gambling resorts.

The 24-day strike by 17,000 culinary workers, bartenders, stagehands, musicians and bellhops is threatening one of the largest conventions of the year next week when more than 30,000 delegates convene for the National Association of Broadcasters meeting.

"This is the first time I've seen a multi-employer group structure them-

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) - The selves into individual groups under the guise of a multi-employer association," said union president Ed Hanley. "It's not legal and it's not ethical. We are talking to our attorneys."

He referred to the Nevada Resort Association, which represents 20 of the richest 29 struck hotel-casinos in collective bargaining. The association is insisting that strikers negotiate contracts with individual hotels as opposed to the blanket association agreements negotiated in the past. All negotiations were reportedly on

You be the landlord

Let us help you persuade your parents to take advantage of tax benefits by buying your campus housing instead of renting it. At Walden Ridge Townhomes, your parents can buy quality housing-two or three bedrooms-you become the landlord-they get the tax benefits. The results, usually "No Cost Housing..." And far, far better living.

David Gilmour, formerly guitarist for Pink Floyd, has released his second solo album, About Face. His new recording is uneven as it displays Gilmour's technical virtuosity employed for unconvincing results.

Pink Floyd guitarist falls flat on 'Face'

By Alex Wilding-White

About Face. David Gilmour. Columbia Records

HROUGHOUT THE years following the 1972 release of Dark Side of the Moon, guitarist David Gilmour provided the cutting edge in Pink Floyd's sound. This quality may have come about more out of necessity than individual artistic development, since the Floyd became a vehicle for the various Weltanschauungs of bassist Roger Waters - a sharp contrast from the well-integrated group approach of albums such as Atom Heart Mother, Ummagumma and Meddle.

As keyboardist Rick Wright and drummer Nick Mason began drifting farther and farther into the background, Gilmour seemed to be the only member left who insisted on making his voice heard amidst Waters' sprawling concepts. Perhaps because of this conflict, Gilmour began developing a more polished technique, a wider range of phrases and a crisp bite to his playing not evident in pre-Dark Side projects.

This advance in musical ability would promise great things where control over the artistic environment was possible. Gilmour's self-titled solo debut in 1978, however, fell short of expectations, as he didn't supply proper backup material to his sometimes in-

SADLY, THE SAME problems that plagued his first effort characterize About Face. This is made more of a shame in that, unlike the previous LP, Gilmour comes up with some genuinely good ideas here, only to squander them through lack of an overall focus.

The best example of this is "Murder." The song starts out as a wellphrased, well-metered 3/4 progression on acoustic guitar. The words, while not profound, convey through subtle imagery the twisted group psychology of people unable to help or even move at the scene of the crime: "Some of them standing, some were waiting in line/As if there something they thought they might find/Taking some strength from the feelings that always/were shared/And in the background, the eyes that just stared." The song modulates as it goes into a fretless bass solo which, while interesting in itself, seems a little out of place. This segues straight into a thundering electric section as Gilmour's lyrics descend into mundane cliches:

'But none of the tears that we cry in sorrow or rage/Can make any dif-ference or turn back the page." The song is then seen out on an uptempo shuffle played over a repeated five note figure.

IN THIS ONE song alone, there are three or four different ideas which, if singled out and more throughly developed, would have made for a great tune. The extant hodgepodge, however, shows little artistic vision and no coherence.

"Out of the Blue" and "Cruise" offer Gilmour's views on Europe in the Age of Nuclear Chess. The latter benefits from a tongue-in-cheek treatment, a

In the wake of the demise of Pink Floyd, whom Gilmour had been involved with for 14 years, it's easy to understand that finding his own musical identity might be a particularly difficult and drawn-out process.

whimsical, sing-song composition with words like, "Saving our children, saving our land/Protecting us from things we can't understand" and "Because if such close friends should ever fall out-/What would there be left worth fighting about?" The power of the former, however, is diluted considerably by an unconvincing musical backing.

"Let's Get Metaphysical" presents Gilmour playing a good electric feedback solo over an orchestral buildup and tutti, a combination used to far greater effect in the Jeff Beck-George Martin collaborations on Blow by Blow, as well as by Frank Zappa on many occasions. Too bad; cute title.

Pete Townshend contributes the lyrics for two songs, "Love on the Air" and "All Lovers Are Deranged." But compared to the deliciously ambiguous and near-poetic beauty of his work on All the Best Cowboys Have Chinese Eyes, these two are decided

THE TWO BEST tracks, oddly enough, are the first and last ones. "Until We Sleep", a song about living life to its fullest, rolls along on the strength of a great synthesizer figure and sparsely echoed guitar stylings. Conversely, "Near the End" is a poignant statement on aging. A lovely acoustic ballad, it shows what Gilmour can do when he decides not to clutter things up too much - the concluding solo blends from acoustic into electric with effortless grace.

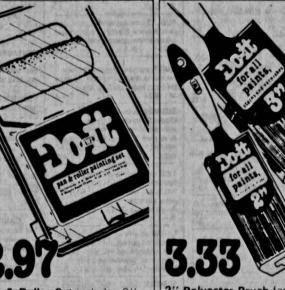

In the wake of the demise of Pink Floyd, with whom Gilmour had been involved for 14 years, it's easy to understand that finding his own musical identity might be a difficult, drawn-out process. The first solo LP was, in hindsight, clearly an effort to let off creative steam, but it's equally obvious that About Face was intended as the first step in establishing a new career. Given the phenomenal success of Pink Floyd, Gilmour certainly had the resources to bide his time and make sure this effort set him in the right direction. The few bright spots here show Gilmour has the talent, but now his next effort has the burden of overcoming a mediocre outing. How haste does make waste
