Compliance deal to pave way for airport funds

By Dawn Ummel
Chief Reporter

Iowa City officials and the Federal Aviation Administration have reached an agreement that will make Iowa City eligible for federal grants to improve the city's airport.

Before any federal funds can be channeled to the airport, the city will have to spend almost $800,000 in order to get back into compliance with FAA safety regulations. City Manager Neal Berlin said the city will fund the improvements through the sale of general obligation bonds.

"Our conclusion is that the Iowa City Municipal Airport could be given consideration for future federal funding after" relocating the airport's main runway, FAA spokesman Jack Sasser informed city officials.

IN 1983, the FAA told city officials Iowa City would not get $295,000 in federal grants to upgrade the airport's runways because the airport did not meet federal safety standards. The FAA decision came after the Iowa City Council allowed construction of a pair of two-story, 37-unit apartment complexes in the clear zone of the primary runway, Runway 17.

However, in July the council submitted a plan that required the city to pay the total cost — $793,000 — to purchase land to extend another runway and make it the airport's main runway.

"Obviously we're very pleased," Mayor John McDonald said Sunday. "We've been working on this for over a year."

McDonald said the council "made this commitment our No. 1 priority and would do what we have to get back into compliance."

Sasser, manager of the FAA's airports division in Kansas City, said the Iowa City Airport will meet federal safety standards if the city makes the airport improvements "without federal financial participation."

THE AIRPORT improvements include purchasing land to construct a 355-foot extension to Runway 6-24 to make it the airport's main runway.

The council will be asked at its meeting Tuesday to accept the FAA's letter of approval so the city's Airport Commission can take further action on the matter.

Berlin said Sunday that once the matter goes to the Airport Commission, "work will proceed expeditiously."

Paper chase

Curtis Short, a UI junior living in Currier Hall, speeds around Constance Messmer, a junior living in Stanley Hall, with a roll of toilet paper during the Associated Residence Halls' mini-olympics held Saturday afternoon at the Union field. The two were competing in the toilet-tissue wrap event in which one person had to wrap a complete roll of tissue paper around his partner. Short and Messmer won the event.

Loewenberg to stay on as dean

By Kirk Brown
Chief Reporter

When Gerhard Loewenberg became acting dean of the UI College of Liberal Arts in July, he stressed he was not interested in remaining in the position on a permanent basis. But Friday, after months of urging from UI colleagues, he agreed to do just that.

"He originally asked us to take his name out of consideration," said UI Foundation Professor Samuel Becker, chairman of the search committee for a new liberal arts dean to replace Howard Laster, who resigned July 1 because of health reasons.

But Becker said members of the search committee and faculty in the Liberal Arts College "kept urging him to change his mind."

The naming of Loewenberg as dean, ending a 10-month nationwide search by the committee, was announced Friday morning following a meeting between committee members and UI President James O. Freedman.

Gerhard Loewenberg

LOEWENBERG AGREED the "enormous support and encouragement" he received from the college's faculty was one of the reasons he decided to accept the deanship.

He said another factor that caused him to change his mind about continuing as the permanent dean was "being in that position for three months and seeing there were some very unusual opportunities for the College of Liberal Arts."

Reaction to Loewenberg's selection as dean — expected to be formally confirmed by the state Board of Regents in November — was extremely favorable among members of the UI community. Freedman said he believes Loewenberg will be a "superb dean of the College of Liberal Arts. His appointment ensures that the liberal education will have an effective leader and an eloquent spokesman at the University of Iowa."

UI VICE PRESIDENT for Academic Affairs Richard Remington also expressed satisfaction with Loewenberg's selection. "He is thoroughly familiar with the problems and the opportunities in the College of Liberal Arts, and thoroughly understands the academic enterprise in general."

Liberal Arts Students Association President Cecelia Ham, who also served on the search committee, called Loewenberg "the perfect candidate."

El Salvador recognizes peace plan

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — President Jose Napoleon Duarte said Sunday El Salvador will follow Nicaragua's lead in accepting a Central American peace plan proposed by the Contadora group.

Duarte, returning from a Latin American tour, also denied at an impromptu news conference outside Ilopango Air Base that he told Playboy magazine the United States directs his country's 5-year-old fight against leftist rebels.

"If the United States were to lead and take military decisions in El Salvador, I would leave the presidency. I would leave my position as commander of the armed forces," Duarte said.

"We are the ones responsible for all that the armed forces are doing in the effort to liberate the country from all the totalitarian forces led by the communists," said Duarte.

Defense Minister Carlos Eugenio Vides Casanova, an army general, stood behind the president as he spoke.

ADVANCED COPIES of the interview to be published in Playboy's November edition were distributed last week in Washington and quoted Duarte as saying American military advisers made combat decisions at Defense Ministry headquarters.

Duarte said El Salvador is ready to endorse the regional peace plan proposed by the states of the Contadora group. Nicaragua, in a surprise move, announced Saturday it already had signed the accord.

"We have publicly declared that we are in agreement with Contadora," Duarte said. "We are always prepared to fulfill our commitment."

Duarte returned from a trip to Venezuela, Colombia and Panama, which along with Mexico comprise the Contadora group, named after the Panamanian island where members first met. The group has been working for the past 21 months on negotiating a peace settlement in the troubled Central American region.

THE CONTADORA plan contains 21 points, including the removal of U.S., Cuban, Soviet and other foreign military advisers from Central American countries and the termination of support for guerrilla movements in other countries.

Daniel Ortega, head of Nicaragua's ruling Sandinista junta and the leading candidate for Nov. 4 presidential elections, Saturday said his government already had signed the accord, before the Oct. 15 deadline.

He challenged the United States, which has funded Nicaraguan rebels for two years and accuses Managua of supporting Salvadoran leftist guerrillas, to ratify the plan.

SINCE 1982 the United States through the CIA has pumped $55 million into the efforts of the Nicaraguan Democratic Force, known as the "contras," for their efforts to topple the Sandinista government.

Duarte told a news conference in Panama late Saturday his government would sign and observe the proposal, but he cautioned that the actions of Cuba in support of leftist revolutionary movements in Central America will have to be watched.

"Will Cuba remain peaceful and quiet simply because we sign a document that states 'We, Central American countries, will make an effort toward peace?'" he asked.

"Much more is needed than signatures on a document" to end violence in Central America, Duarte said.

Local merchants give student workers high marks

By Greg Philby
Staff Writer

Some Iowa business people may consider student employees to be deficient workers because of poor listening, reading and writing skills, but local officials say there is no problem with area student workers.

A survey conducted this summer by the Iowa Legislature's Excellence in Education Task Force studied more than 2,000 Iowa businesses and discovered that many business people consider student help to be of poor quality.

Although students were rated high on communications, computer and manual skills, employers said student workers need improvement in many areas.

These areas included, in order of importance: attendance, working well with others, cooperating with customers, accepting criticism, understanding job-related materials, accepting someone else's authority, maintaining an acceptable appearance and keeping the work area clean.

HOWEVER, Richard Remington, UI vice president for academic affairs, said area business people have few problems with UI student employees.

"I think it is awfully dangerous to generalize," he said. "Surveys of this sort are a lot of speculation. If you're talking about our students, we have a range of students."

Area business representatives said they have not observed the same problems found in the survey.

Rhonda Mettelmann, assistant manager of Hardee's at Plaza Centre One, 125 S. Dubuque St., said 95 percent of the employees at the restaurant are college and high school students and "we're pleased with the help we get."

Mettelmann added, however, that "a lot of times (students) need time off but they don't see our side of the business. It happens mostly when they get bogged down with mid-terms and finals" and on football weekends, she said.

MICHAEL McCUE, owner of Michael J's at the Old Capitol Center, said the majority of his workers are UI students, and he is satisfied with their work performance.

"Obviously, there are better people than others for any particular job, but our staff here is generally real good," he said. "We're very pleased. Most of our students are part-time, so when they are coming to work for only four hours a day, they bring with them an energizing of everybody that's working. We feel there's a great advantage to having the college student."

McCue said to avoid attendance problems he adjusts his employees' schedules to work around football weekends and classwork.

One problem he has is "we feel a lot of times the backgrounds employees have are not as strong as we would like them to be, so a great deal of correction and a great deal of guidance is given according to need."

JEFF BARR, assistant manager of Osco Drug at Old Capitol Center, said about 70 percent of the staff at Osco's is made up of students. Barr said he has had few problems with student employees.

"We don't have any problem with students showing up," he said. "It just is kind of hard to find workers during finals and when classes get heavy." Barr said the survey "sounds pretty biased. It sounds like the people in the survey weren't really careful about the

Police arrest 500 mourners

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Police Sunday arrested 500 mourners at a funeral in the township of Sebokeng and fired rubber bullets and tear gas to break up crowds throwing rocks in three other black ghettos.

The arrests were made because a local magistrate banned the funeral of Dursie Sithole, one of at least 56 people killed in gold mine violence and riots across the Transvaal province south of Johannesburg in the past month.

Israelis foil PLO mission

BEIRUT, Lebanon — An Israeli gunboat chased five guerrillas in a rubber dinghy onto a beach in southern Lebanon Sunday, setting off a firefight in which three guerrillas, including a woman, were killed, an Israeli spokesman said.

State-owned Israeli television identified the dead woman as a French citizen and said the guerrillas had been ordered on their undisclosed mission by Yasser Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization and head of its largest group, Fatah.

Peace plan set for Tripoli

TRIPOLI, Lebanon — Prime Minister Rashid Karami said Sunday a Syrian-backed security plan for Tripoli, where at least 500 inhabitants have died violently this year, is set to go into effect Tuesday.

"The security plan in Tripoli will start from 6 a.m. Lebanese police and municipal workers will start bringing down barricades in all parts of the town. Heavy weapons will be collected. A committee with representatives of the Lebanese army, police, the Syrian army and local factions will oversee the storehouses," Karami said.

Israel imposes new taxes

JERUSALEM — The Israeli government imposed new taxes and cut food subsidies Sunday in new austerity moves aimed at showing the United States it is willing to take tough action before asking for at least $750 million in additional aid.

Finance Minister Yitzhak Modai said the new government also was going ahead with its plan to trim $1 billion, or 4.5 percent, from the $22 billion national budget. Defense, which accounts for about 40 percent of the budget, will be cut by 8.5 percent, he said.

Volcano rocks Philippines

LEGASPI, Philippines — Glowing columns of ash and steam shot 9 miles into the air from Mayon Volcano and molten rock thundered down its slopes in a deafening eruption Sunday visible for more than 50 miles.

Less than an hour later an earthquake registering 6 on the Richter scale jolted Laoag city, 425 miles northwest of Mayon, slightly damaging some historical buildings in an area where an August 1983 quake killed 21 people. No casualties were reported in either incident.

Reagan meets with Gromyko

NEW YORK — President Reagan had a photogenic meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Sunday and, setting the tone for talks later this week, reaffirmed his desire for a "realistic, constructive, long-term relationship with the Soviet Union."

As photographers clicked away, Reagan, 73, and Gromyko, 75, shook hands vigorously at a reception for diplomats attending the 39th session of the U.N. General Assembly, which Reagan addresses Monday and Gromyko on Thursday.

Poll: Jepsen passes Harkin

DES MOINES — Republican incumbent Roger Jepsen reversed an earlier 17-point deficit and surpassed senatorial challenger Tom Harkin in the latest Iowa Poll, but Harkin staffers say they're not discouraged.

A Des Moines Register poll has Jepsen ahead 50-41 percent, his first lead in the Iowa Poll this campaign. In May, Harkin led the incumbent by 17 points, but that was whittled down to seven points last month.

Man cleared of sex abuse charge

By Nick Schrup
Special to The Daily Iowan

A Waterloo man was acquitted of third-degree sexual abuse Thursday by a Johnson County jury, according to documents filed in Johnson County District Court.

David Scott Anderson, 22, was charged in June following an alleged incident at a 23-year-old woman's eastside home.

Anderson's attorney fees will be paid by the state, court records indicate.

Anderson was arrested on June 9. He was released from custody June 10 on $15,000 bond.

An Iowa City man was sentenced in Johnson County District Court to five years in prison Friday for the attempted burglary of Hospers and Brother Printers, 709 S.

Clinton St., in June.

Randy K. Knotts, 25, 507 Ernest, Apt. 7, pleaded guilty Aug. 13 to the charge of attempted second-degree burglary.

Friday, Judge August Honsell formally committed Knotts to the custody of the Director of the Iowa Department of Corrections for an indeterminate term not to exceed five years.

Knotts was also ordered to pay court costs and $1,000 for his court-appointed attorney's fees.

According to court records, the printing business was entered June 26 or June 27 through a broken window.

An identification card belonging to Knotts and shoe prints, matching shoes that Knotts was wearing the day of the crime, were found at the scene, records state.

Karen Renee Rorex, 24, B6 Meadowbrook Estates, and Fred Stewart Moore, 20, West Branch, made initial appearances Friday in Johnson County District Court on charges of third-degree theft.

The two are accused of taking several plants from two stores in the Apple Court area early Friday morning. The plants, stolen from Drug Town, 521 Hollywood Blvd., and Jack's Discount, 1101 S. Riverside Drive, are valued at $12.88 each.

Both Rorex and Moore were released on their own recognizance. Arraignment on the charges is set for Oct. 4.

Bartlett Road Apt. 2a, was charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated by Iowa City police after she allegedly backed into a garbage dumpster in a parking lot at 2604 Bartlett Road.

OWI charge: Nolan Ralph Stutzman, 27, 1002 N. Summit St., was charged by Iowa City police with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Stutzman was also charged with failure to respond to a yellow light and operation of a motor vehicle without valid identification near Clinton and College streets Friday night.

Field campus lease approved by Regents

The UI's new lease with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for the 620 acre Macbride Field Campus received approval from the state Board of Regents Thursday.

The UI has leased the field campus for the past 25 years. During this time the abandoned farmland making up the bulk of the campus has been used for scientific research and educational and recreational purposes.

However, the terms of the new five-year lease agreement with the corps call for the UI to develop the field campus more fully for recreational use.

UI Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs Kenneth Moll said the UI plans to improve picnic areas, nature trails, archery facility and area around the boat dock.

Leadfoots beware!

Iowa City police will be monitoring specific streets during the upcoming week in an attempt to control speeding. However, police say that these locations do not preclude radar monitoring at other sites.

Today, police will scan 500 to 800 South

Dodge Street, Rocky Shore Drive, West Benton Street and 1800 Court Street.

On Tuesday, Sept. 25, police will be watching 1900 South Gilbert Street, 500 North Dodge Street and 1000 North Dubuque Street.

On Wednesday, Sept. 26, police will be keeping a eye out for speeders from 800 to 1000 Mormon Trek, 3000 Muscatine Avenue and North Governor Street.

On Thursday, Sept. 28, Melrose Avenue, 600 First Avenue and 1300 East College will be radar monitored.

On Friday, Sept. 28, 1700 Lower Muscatine Avenue, 1300 Sheridan Avenue and 1100 Sunset Street will be under surveillance.

And for Homecoming day, Saturday, Sept. 29, police say they will be paying close attention to unannounced locations in their effort to control speeding and traffic. So be careful out there.

UI Nursing conferences set for next week

The Continuing Nursing Education program is offering several conferences this week for nurses who wish to earn continuing education credits.

On Monday, for nurses who work with children, a conference called, "The Way

We Play," will focus on the methods specific age groups of children use to amuse themselves.

Tuesday's conference is for nurses who work with parents and is designed to help nurses guide parents through their child's development. Wednesday, the program will offer problem-solving approaches for night shift nurses in clinical areas and health screening for adults will be the topic of Thursday's conference.

Current state of economy justifies UI tuition hike, some faculty say

By Denny Pope
Staff Writer

While UI student leaders argued against tuition increase proposals at the state Board of Regents meeting last week, several UI administrators and faculty members believe a tuition hike is necessary to maintain "quality education" at the UI.

"I think some percentage increase is necessary, as we seem to have gotten locked into a bad state economy which prevents the (Iowa) Legislature from generating more funds to the university," said John Moore, UI director of admissions and financial aid. "We have to start looking elsewhere for support."

THE REGENTS discussed Board Executive Secretary R. Wayne Richey's proposed 6 percent increases for resident students and 12 percent increases for non-resident students at the board meeting Thursday. Student leaders from the regents universities proposed an alternative plan calling for a 4 percent increase for both resident and non-residents.

Last year UI tuition was raised 12 percent for residents and 25 percent for non-residents.

"I'm always distressed when one generation of students has a considerable tuition hike imposed on them," said UI Faculty Council member Peg Burke, chairwoman of physical education and dance. "But the students do obviously want a quality education and are going to have to bear a larger burden of the increasing costs that are associated with a quality education."

RICHARD REMINGTON, UI vice president for academic affairs, agreed a tuition hike is necessary to continue meeting increasing costs.

"Any tuition increase has the potential of limiting access to university services and is unfortunate," Remington said. "But realistically, with the cost of everything going up, it seems to me that some tuition increase is inevitable."

Remington added if Richey's proposal is accepted by the regents, it would amount to an additional $37 per resident student each semester.

Non-resident students would pay an additional 12 percent on top of the 25 percent hike last year, which Remington said "seems like a lot."

But he added, "Another way to look at it — which we haven't really done much of — is what does the state of Illinois, or Wisconsin or Minnesota charge Iowa students to attend their universities?"

REMINGTON SAID the UI is "right at the bottom (of Big Ten schools) in resident and non-resident tuition, even with these increases ... There's an equity problem if the state of Illinois puts that stiff a charge on Iowa residents to attend the University of Illinois or the University of Minnesota and so on."

Saying a "price or bidding war" involving tuition rates would be "terribly inappropriate," Remington said, "There is a certain question of fairness in there and I think that's what you get when the surrounding states charge so very much non-resident tuition for Iowa students."

Moore said he believes even if non-resident tuition were raised, it wouldn't have a substantial affect on the number of non-resident students attending the UI.

"In the past, it hasn't been obvious that increases have lowered the number of admitted students," Moore said. "Every time we have raised tuition, the other (out of state) schools have raised theirs because they're in the same boat as us."

"OUR NON-RESIDENT tuition is pretty near to what resident tuition is in some of the states where we draw students," he added.

Nicholas Colangelo, also a UI faculty counselor and associate professor of counselor education, said the fact that the UI has the lowest tuition in the Big Ten is an easy reason to say, "Look, we're at the bottom, so we can do it (raise tuition)."

"I'm not ashamed to be at the bottom," he said. "If we had to be at the bottom in something, I would like it to be tuition."

He added he believes it is easy for the UI to impose larger tuition increases for out-of-state students to "protect its own" resident students.

Although Colangelo said he believes, "We're in for a tuition hike whether we like it or not," he said he would prefer to see the money generated from somewhere other than students, such as state appropriations from taxes.

"My sense of school is that everybody gains," Colangelo said, noting he doesn't want to see attending a university become more of a "financial matter" than an educational matter.

Iowans retain lead in SAT scores despite four-point drop in composite

By Mary Boone
Staff Writer

Iowa students again lead the nation in average Scholastic Aptitude Test composite scores this year, according to statistics released last week, but their scores dropped four points from last year.

However, Iowa education officials still hailed a three-point rise in overall national scores as evidence that "recent attention focused on education is finally paying off."

"A lot of attention has been given to the failing public education system within the last 20 years," said John Martin, Iowa Department of Public Instruction director of instruction and curriculum. "That attention is finally paying off."

The College Board announced Wednesday that nationally, average math SAT scores were up three points to 471 this year, while average verbal scores rose one point from last year to 426. Math and verbal SAT tests are scored on a scale of 200 to 800, with 1,600 being the highest possible composite score.

WHILE IOWA STUDENTS' scores rank highest in the nation overall, their math scores — averaging 570 — dropped three points from the 1983 scores. Verbal skills dropped by one point to 519.

But Iowa's low rate of participation in the SAT tests may make Iowa's high ranking misleading, according to Louise Dockery, a College Board public affairs employee.

College Board officials pointed out only 3 percent of Iowa's high school graduates took the 1984 SAT exam. "The participation rate is a very important thing to consider when you begin to evaluate these scores," Dockery said.

"Generally, a lower participation rate results in higher test scores for that state. The 3 percent of Iowa high school students taking the SAT are most likely applying to very prestigious schools and are some of the state's brightest students," she said.

Martin agreed the scores may not be a true representation of Iowa students' intelligence.

"I DON'T THINK SAT scores are a true indicator of how intelligent students are," said Martin. "What the tests do indicate is how well students may perform in college and the changes in students over a period of time. Judging from this year's SAT's, those changes appear fairly positive."

Dockery added most high school graduates from the Midwest take the American College Test, instead of SAT. Colleges in the mid-Atlantic and New England regions most often require SAT scores rather than ACT scores, which are required at Iowa universities for admission consideration.

Dockery added following 20 years of nearly uninterrupted declines, scores on both math and verbal SAT's have leveled off during the past five years.

"Scores began declining about 20 years ago," she said. "In 1963 the national average verbal score was 478 and the math score was 502. We've still got a long way to go before we reach those standards again."

UI Homecoming kicks off with 'royal' ceremony

Iowa City Mayor John McDonald presented UI seniors Jean Gerk and Chris Knott with keys to Iowa City after the couple was selected as 1984 Homecoming Queen and King during the Homecoming kickoff celebration on the Pentacrest Sunday afternoon.

Gerk, 21, is an honors psychology student from Mason City, Iowa. Knott has a triple major in philosophy, honors english and honors linguistics. Knott, 21, is from Muscatine, Iowa.

Gerk is planning on a career in health administration after she finishes graduate school. Knott said he would like to be "involved in some kind of international law or government work" after he finishes law school. Both Gerk and Knott have applied for admission in their respective programs at the UI and several other schools.

THE POSITION of Homecoming Queen is an "honor," Gerk said, adding she expects to continue representing the UI after this week's Homecoming activities are over.

Knott said he has a personal stake involved in the football game capping this week's Homecoming festivities, because his brother is enrolled in a graduate program at the University of Illinois. Knott said his brother has always been competitive and that competition will include this weekend's game against the Fighting Illini.

The king and queen were nominated by members of the Homecoming Executive Council. Knott said they were chosen after the applications were narrowed to five other candidates.

Davis appointed senate executive

By Karen Burns
Special to The Daily Iowan

Organization and rapport with people are qualities Tracy Davis will bring to his new position as UI Student Senate Executive Associate, according to senate President Lawrence Kitsmiller.

Davis, who is also president of a new UI fraternity, voter registration chair for United Students of Iowa, state coordinator for Drinking Responsibly in College and a member of the Liberal Arts Student Association, moved up the ranks to fill the executive associate position last week. He is now being paid $300 a month to handle public relations for the senate.

Kitsmiller said the executive associate must be adept at handling delicate situations, citing as an example: "While Tracy Davis was speaking at a student senate state relations committee meeting, a very belligerent representative attacked him verbally. Tracy handled him with kid gloves."

IN ADDITION, recruiting human resources will be a big part of Davis' job, because he is responsible for the appointments committee, which sets up interviews to fill openings in Bijou Film Board, Homecoming, Riverfest, University Travel and eight other senate commissions, Kitsmiller said.

"I am responsible for getting people to do the interviews and sit in on many of them," Davis said. "There is not an existing appointments committee."

Davis will set the standards for the appointments committee will use in the interviews, as well as criteria for selection and interview etiquette.

One of his goals for the year is to set up consistent questions to be used in all interviews "as objective criteria for selecting the appointments," he said.

DAVIS SAID another goal he will work toward is to get more women and minority students involved in all the UI committees. He would like to take "affirmative action," he said.

This affirmative action will be in the form of letters and speeches to large minority organizations to get interested students involved, he said. He will also make interviewers of students for senate committees aware of this goal by giving them a copy of the affirmative action statement.

"I realize there has been a problem in the past with their involvement, but I don't want a quota system," he said.

Davis, a political science and English major at the UI, is only taking nine hours of classes this semester because of his "big push for practical as well as academic experience," he said.

"I've learned so much in dealing with people. I would not know the committee structure without first-hand involvement," he said.

Kidney machine project approved

By Rob Kincaid
Staff Writer

The state Board of Regents approved a $149,400 construction project at its meeting Thursday that will pave the way for the installation of a kidney lithotripter machine at UI Hospitals.

The $1.83 million device, which pulverizes a patient's kidney stones with directed shock waves while the patient is partially submerged in a tub of water, will be located in the UI Hospitals Department of Urology upon completion of the project by early 1985.

The lithotripter machine — one of only seven in the United States — will be operational by April 1985, according to Larry Baker, UI Hospitals assistant director of public information. UI Hospitals received permission in July from the State Health Facilities Council to purchase and install the lithotripter.

Baker said the remodeling project — located on the third floor of the Roy J. Carver Pavilion — will provide for installation of the extracorporeal shock wave kidney lithotripter, construction of a lithotripter treatment room, induction and recovery rooms, work-storage area and supporting functions.

THE REMODELING project in the pavilion will be completed before the arrival of the West German-made lithotripter. A crew of workers from West Germany will install the machine.

The lithotripter treatment will save patients with kidney stones from having a surgical incision and will decrease the time of a patient's in-hospital stay by half, according to Dr. David Culp, head of the Department of Urology at UI Hospitals.

"The main benefit (of the machine) is to the patient," said Culp, adding, "Patients using the lithotripter will be in the hospital four to five days," compared to a 10-12 day stay for patients requiring a surgical procedure.

Approximate costs to patients using the lithotripter will be around $1,000 per stone requiring treatment, said Culp, cautioning the lithotripter won't treat all kinds of kidney stones.

Students express confidence at regents meeting

By Karen Burns
Special to The Daily Iowan

The six UI students who presented an alternative tuition increase proposal to the state Board of Regents Thursday expressed relief and confidence Friday about their chances of reducing the proposed hikes.

"The regents were very positive and encouraging," said UI Liberal Arts Associate President Cecelia Ham.

Board Executive Secretary R. Wayne Richey has proposed the board implement tuition increases of 6 percent for residents and 12 percent for non-residents next year. The students presented the board with an alternative proposal calling for 4 percent increases for both residents and non-residents at preliminary discussion of tuition increases during Thursday's board meeting.

"I was very pleased they (the regents) were as responsive as they were. The presentation went better than we ever hoped for," Ham said.

UI COLLEGIATE Associations Council President Larry Lassiter agreed. "It went a lot better than anyone expected. A lot of people did their homework and it showed."

"I think we were careful to rehearse, practice and coordinate. The whole presentation flowed beautifully," he said.

UI Student Senate Treasurer Joel Mintzer said the students' presentation was very organized. "We were allotted 25 minutes in the regents meeting and it was 25 minutes on the dot."

"We didn't get a single bad comment from anyone," Mintzer said. "The three regents who spoke after our presentation seemed sympathetic. It doesn't mean they'll vote for us, but it is an indication there is hope if we get our act together over the next month."

THE REGENTS will vote on the proposed tuition increase at their October meeting in Des Moines.

CAC Vice President Jeff Devitt said all the student leaders from the three regents universities who coordinated the presentation were confident following the regents meeting.

"Everyone did a perfect job of their speech. You could just tell by the look on the regents' faces that they accepted it well," Devitt said.

"We have established excellent opening dialogue with the regents. You couldn't ask for more," said UI senate President Lawrence Kitsmiller.

"I think our advantage was that we went in there with facts and figures and did our homework. We didn't attack the board, we referred to policies and proposals," he said.

UNITED STUDENTS of Iowa acting Executive Director James Strohman, who helped coordinate the student leaders' presentations, said: "The great thing about the presentation was the regents' response, because it was very supportive and encouraging. In the past, regents have had an adversary role, but our approach was to work with them. The regents were impressed we took a different approach."

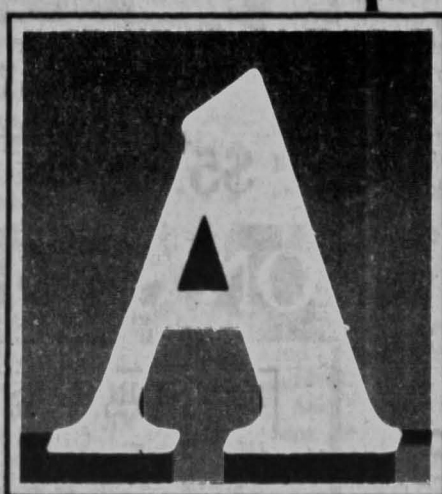

Strohman added before the regents meeting he tried to think of the best and worst scenarios for the students' presentation. "The presentation exceeded what I thought was the best case scenario."

Lassiter said he was relieved and confident after the regents meeting. "They could have laughed us out of the room, but some of them said they were in favor of it, in public."

Starck named head

Kenneth Starck, director of the UI School of Journalism and Mass Communication, has been elected president of the newly-formed Association of Schools in Journalism and Mass Communication, an organization of U.S. and Canadian colleges and universities.

The association, composed of accredited and non-accredited journalism schools, was organized to "improve education in our field by communicating to one another what the programs are doing and the challenges they face," Starck said.

Teacher union endorses Johnston, but splinter group supports Evans

By Colleen Kelly
Staff Writer

All in the local teacher's union has endorsed Democrat Joe Johnston, some teachers have formed a splinter group in order to campaign for Rep. Cooper Evans, R-3rd District.

The 3rd District Iowa State Education Association endorsed Johnston last week based on an interview and Johnston's record on educational issues in the Iowa Legislature. Johnston served in the legislature from 1968 to 1972.

"He was very knowledgeable about education issues," said Nancy Porter, vice president of the Iowa City Education Association. "Mr. Johnston had done his homework, and his answers were all positive for education."

Johnston, who has pledged to increase funding for education throughout his bid for Evans' congressional seat, said, "The ISEA was able to examine my record in the state legislature to see my commitment to education."

HOWEVER, SOME members of the ISEA have formed a group called "Teachers for Evans" because they feel the endorsement was based on the candidates' political affiliation and not educational issues.

"(Teachers) came to the endorsement session wearing their party labels, with their minds made up," said Norma Reimers, a member of the ISEA endorsement committee who will campaign for Evans.

Waterloo teacher Sandy Adkins agreed, "We felt the endorsement session for Cooper's opponent was very partisan."

Adkins said Evans' support of education was very strong, and that a committee of about 15 people were "now contacting other ISEA members and teachers who do not belong to ISEA to solicit their support for Cooper Evans."

"MR. EVANS HAS been quite open to educational issues, but he sees no way to increase our funds," Porter said. "He's been very responsive to a lot of our needs, but we're looking for the funding."

Evans has a 43 percent rating for support on education issues by the National Education Association, based on such issues as additional funding for education and the Equal Rights Amendment. "We'd like to at least see an 80 percent passing grade," said Porter.

Porter said the ISEA endorsement will not influence every teacher to vote for Johnston. "We encourage people to get to the polls, but we encourage people to make their own decisions," she said. "This is exactly the kind of group that will make its own decisions."

Johnston agreed that "these teachers will make their own decisions," although he said he is encouraged by the ISEA endorsement.

Harkin-Jepsen debate heats up most during discussion of federal deficit

DES MOINES (UPI) — Democratic Rep. Tom Harkin and incumbent Republican Roger Jepsen, facing off in the second debate of their U.S. Senate campaign, accused each other of being out of step with Iowans.

The charges came Saturday during a debate at the annual convention of the Iowa Newspaper Association and were televised statewide Saturday night by the Iowa Public Television Network.

Harkin accused Jepsen of being out of touch with the people by opposing a nuclear weapons freeze, supporting the MX missile and opposing the 1979 windfall profits tax on oil companies.

Jepsen accused Harkin of being out of touch with Iowans in his support for domestic content legislation, and in denouncing consumption of red meats that contain nitrates.

Their biggest argument came during discussion of federal deficits.

Jepsen said it is time for the Congress to pass a resolution mandating a balanced federal budget.

"IT WOULD SEND a signal to the financial community that the Congress is serious about reducing the deficits," Jepsen said. "It would have the effect of triggering an immediate reduction in both short and long-term interest rates."

Harkin countered that the proposed amendment amounts to "an election year gimmick."

"It's a gimmick — pure smoke and mirrors," Harkin said. "If the president wants a balanced budget, why doesn't he send us one?"

Jepsen replied that the present system has institutionalized deficit spending by the Congress.

"It's been like putting Dracula in charge of the blood bank," Jepsen said.

HARKIN SAID he would like to see action immediately to reduce the deficit, and called for an across-the-board federal spending freeze, and the adoption of a modified flat-rate federal income tax to close loopholes.

He said he disagrees with Democratic presidential nominee Walter Mondale's plan which calls for $30 billion in increased federal spending, coupled with tax increases for the wealthy.

Harkin also accused Jepsen of failing to use his position on the Senate Armed Services Committee to cut the amount of waste and abuse in military spending, and cited recent reports that the Pentagon has paid as much as $7,000 for coffee-makers and $450 for hammers.

"Roger, you've been like a kid in 'Toyland' throwing money at the Pentagon," Harkin said.

JEPSEN COUNTERED that his votes on military spending bills were aimed at restoring America's armed services to respectability.

"Talk is cheap," Jepsen said. "I make no apology for trying to raise the morale and bring our all-voluntary force to a solid and healthy force."

Harkin also attacked Jepsen for what he said were Jepsen's breaches of campaign promises he made in 1978, especially a promise that he would not vote to increase the national debt.

"You've voted to increase the debt four times," Harkin told his opponent.

The candidates offered mixed reactions on their performance, with Harkin claiming victory, and Jepsen saying he would let someone else be the judge.

City bus drivers seek guaranteed Saturday breaks

By Dawn Ummel
Chief Reporter

Several Iowa City bus drivers have asked the Iowa City Council to encourage city administrators to guarantee drivers will get meal breaks when they work shifts of eight or nine hours on Saturdays.

"As you may be aware, under the present union contract, Iowa City Transit drivers of full-time shifts do not receive lunch breaks on Saturday if a scheduled full-time shift driver calls in sick," John Soukup said in a letter to the council Friday.

"I can think of no other occupation where a person responsible for a $100,000-plus piece of equipment and millions of dollars worth of passenger liability is deprived of a break and a chance to get away from their job," Soukup said.

Seven other drivers voiced their concern in letters to the council.

"Granted, this is a negotiable issue," stated Frank DePirro, "but we've brought this issue to the bargaining table negotiation after negotiation, and still there remains the final problem of meal reliefs on Saturdays."

DEPIRRO SAID the transit service places one driver "on call" to relieve Saturday drivers who take meal breaks. But he said if a regular driver calls in sick, the on-call driver must replace him.

"Therefore, meal reliefs are not guaranteed on Saturdays," DePirro said. "They are contingent upon 100 percent attendance."

Iowa City Transit Manager Larry McGonagle said Sunday that approximately 16 full-time drivers operate the buses on Saturdays.

McGonagle said this was the first he had heard of the letters to the council and he declined to comment on the issue of guaranteed Saturday meal breaks for the drivers.

"It is an item for negotiation in the contracts, and the negotiations are beginning soon," he said.

McGonagle added that the guaranteed meal breaks have been brought up before, but "it has never been put in the contract."

MAYOR JOHN McDONALD said the council can probably do little about the drivers' request.

"It's a matter that will be addressed by the negotiating team appointed by the council," he said.

Driver Jim Surratt told the council in his letter, "The drivers are appreciative of having weekday meal breaks. But Saturday poses a problem."

"Management feels that Saturday, as a rule, is slower than the weekdays so drivers have it easier, and don't really need meal breaks," Surratt said.

The drivers also noted that a driver who is considered "calling in sick" often comes to work anyway because he or she feels guilty about taking away the meal breaks of other drivers.

"Drivers who are sick on Saturday often feel guilty about depriving their fellow drivers of meal breaks and force themselves to work anyway, despite being of diminished capabilities," Soukup stated.

A worker for peace

The state and the UI suffered a loss last week with the death of C. Maxwell Stanley. A UI alumnus and benefactor, Stanley came as close as one could to being a modern-day Renaissance man. Entrepreneur, engineer, student of world politics, peacemaker, art collector, writer and, above all, activist, Stanley established himself as one of Iowa's natural resources.

Stanley was born in Corning, Iowa and was graduated from the UI in 1926 with a bachelor's degree in engineering. He received his master's in hydraulic engineering from the UI in 1930.

As the founder of a furniture manufacturing business and of Stanley Consultants, Inc., one of the nation's largest engineering firms, Stanley amassed a substantial fortune. Unwilling to stop at business success, Stanley used that fortune to create The Stanley Foundation, an organization dedicated to studying and searching for world peace.

Stanley's philanthropy went beyond politics. He was a generous supporter of the UI. Stanley and his wife Betty funded the Committee on International and Comparative Studies and donated large amounts of money for many other UI programs. The collection of African art owned by the Stanleys is considered one of the world's best and will eventually belong to the UI Museum of Art.

C. Maxwell Stanley was much more than a successful industrialist. He devoted his energy and money to the most important issue of our time: world peace. The country and the world need more individuals like him — voices for reason over violence, educated discussion over armed forces.

By using his position to bring the ideal of peace closer to a reality, Stanley exemplified a commitment to the future that also inspires, at its best moments, the university he so enthusiastically served.

His life was one we are all proud of; his death is one we all mourn.

Decline in fall?

As the polls show President Reagan with a substantial lead over Walter Mondale, including an edge in the category of handling the economy, government statistics on the economy continue to signal a decline. The race is on between the politics of blind optimism and the reality of economic slowdown: Will the economy get bad enough before the election for voters to hold Reagan responsible for his policies?

Reagan has been remarkably successful in fooling the voters. He submits budgets that are wildly out of balance. He restructures taxes and the budget to put over $30 billion into the pockets of the wealthiest 20 percent of the population and to take almost $30 billion from the poorest. Yet the public believes him when he says he hasn't hurt the poor. It allows him to claim kinship with Franklin Roosevelt and John Kennedy.

He has been successful due to a combination of charm and luck. His charm makes the voters willing to ignore his failures. His luck has seen the economic cycle give him a recession at the beginning of his term and a temporary recovery at the end.

And while recent government figures indicate the huge budget deficits and extremely high real rates of interest are beginning to hurt the economy, it is unlikely the damage will be severe enough to hurt Reagan before the election.

But for the wary, the signs are there. After first soaring to levels that approached depression levels and then declining to the level that existed when Reagan took office, the unemployment rate has stopped dropping in the last couple of months. Moreover, considering the spectacular growth in the economy over the past 18 months, the unemployment rate has remained unusually high.

The government figures for August show the smallest gain in three months in personal income. New housing construction (a key indicator of the health of the economy) plunged 12.8 percent, back down to the level of December 1982. And the balance of trade deficit is also escalating.

If growth does drop dramatically, Reagan's hope of growing out of the deficits is impossible. And a public that listened to Reagan's sweet September song will be singing the blues in 1985.

No food for thought

With power comes responsibility. And also with wealth. But neither the government of Ethiopia nor the developed countries of the world have fulfilled their duty to alleviate the famine devastating that country.

In 1974 Ethiopia was struck with a famine that killed 200,000 people. This year deaths are expected to reach similar totals. Between April and September, 149,000 cattle died; even the camels are said to be dying of thirst. A protracted drought, poor agricultural and administrative policies and the lack of adequate transportation to isolated provinces are the main causes of the problem.

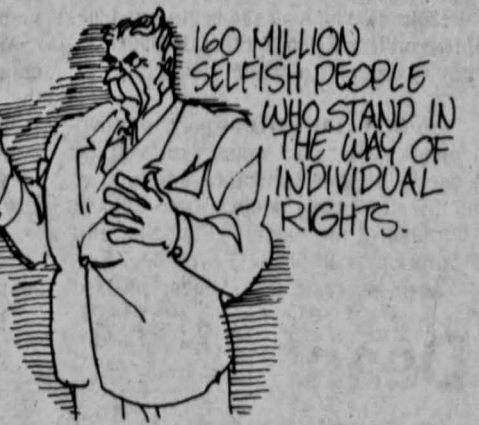

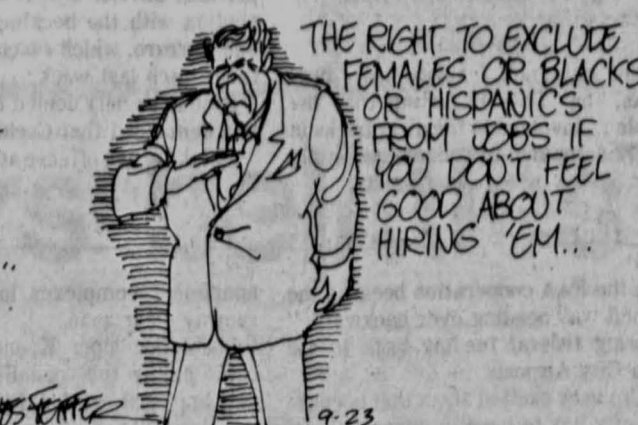

Developed countries have failed to provide assistance to the Marxist Ethiopian government, which has also made it difficult for relief to reach the affected areas — army trucks and other transports have not been mobilized to provide assistance in the distribution of food to remote areas.

The government of Mengistu Haile Mariam also recently spent an estimated $150 million to $200 million celebrating the 10th anniversary of its revolution. Evidently, saving the starving population is a less-than-urgent priority for both the developed countries and the Ethiopian rulers.

Poor crops this year will make the problem even worse in 1985. And the victims, as usual, will continue to be the poor and the powerless. Hypocritical ideological battles continue to take precedence over human lives.

But nothing can mask the pestilent reality of a world in which those who have it all will not yield an inch to those who have nothing.

Selling of the president, 1984

IN THE AFTERMATH of President Reagan's visit to Iowa last Thursday, it's instructive to take a look at an article that ran in last week's Village Voice.

Mark Hertsgaard's cover story on the Reagan administration's campaign to manipulate the media may be the most informative look at an American political propaganda machine since Joe McGinniss' 1968 classic, The Selling of the President.

Hertsgaard, whose story is largely based on extensive interviews with former White House Director of Communications David Gergen, reveals a group whose effort to control what "news" means is so detailed, so programmatic and so successful that it would inspire awe even in the most totalitarian society.

Gergen told Hertsgaard that one of his "guiding assumptions" during his three years with Reagan was that the administration would not govern well unless it could "get the right story out" through the "filter of the press."

TOWARD THAT END, Gergen and White House aides James Baker and Michael Deaver devised an eight-point plan centered on the questions: "What are we going to do today to enhance the image of the president? What do we want the press to report and how?"

That has included computer conferences feeding all members of the administration the "line of the day," targeting of "heartland journalists" unaccustomed to administration attention and using television to distort issues deliberately. White House advisers even went so far as to provide the president with toe marks for his well-publicized visit to the Korean demilitarized zone so that the sun would hit him at the proper heroic angle.

Hertsgaard's article should come as no surprise to anyone who has followed the interaction between government and the media in this country for any length of time. Many of the techniques used by the Reagan media SWAT team were derived from those used by administrations dating back to Dwight Eisenhower. The difference now is that they have a front man who knows all about staging, line readings and toe marks.

IT IS HELPFUL, however, to see how a "folksy" visit to an Iowa farm and church picnic is in reality about as folksy as a board meeting at General Motors. What was presented by many of Iowa's news sources as a spontaneous happy homecoming was thought out, planned and scripted long before the president arrived at Cedar Rapids Municipal Airport.

More importantly, the Voice article gives the lie to one of the great truisms circulating in the United States today: that the media is presenting a liberally biased version of the news and trying to restructure American society.

What we see, hear and read is shaped by a number of sources, of which TV, radio and newspapers are only the final "filters." More often than not, the first source is the most important and is liable to do all it can to see that later sources give the public what it puts out.

And, in the case of the Reagan administration, that first source has and uses the power to make sure that later sources, whether they realize it or not, present news stories in exactly the way it frames and shapes them.

NOWHERE HAS the president's media machine been more successful in the current campaign, however, than in redefining the demographic base of the Republican Party.

Reagan strategists managed to steal the Democrats' "party of the future" line for their own commercials, pitching to the yuppie audience they so dearly want to capture. And they have also moved to nab the Music Television vote in ways varying from the president's appearance last May with Michael Jackson to appropriating Ray Parker Jr.'s "Ghostbusters" for their "Fritzusters" campaign.

But President Reagan himself made the boldest appeal yet for the under-35 vote last week. At a New Jersey rally, the president told the crowd that his administration was trying to "build and restore the dreams" presented in the songs of one of the state's "great heroes" — Bruce Springsteen.

NOW, AS Daily Iowan Arts/entertainment Editor (and ardent Boss-for-President backer) Allen Hogg puts it, that's a fairly radical reinterpretation of Springsteen's work. Just how radical, we'll let you judge:

This whole world is out there just trying to score
I've seen enough, I don't want to see any more
Cover me
Come on and cover me...

Yeah, just sitting back trying to recapture
A little of the glory of, but time slips away
And leaves you with nothing, mister,
But boring stories of glory days...

Now Main Street's whitewashed windows and vacant stores seems like there ain't nobody wants to come down here no more They're closing down the textile mill across the railroad tracks
Foreman says these jobs are going boy and they ain't coming back

To your hometown...

Sweet dreams are made of this, eh, Ronnie?

TO GIVE THE president his due, it's a brilliant political stroke to enlist the headline act at the 1979 No Nukes concert as a campaign backer. And it also points out the glaring problem that Walter Mondale has had in connecting with a younger audience — voters who in the recent past were supposed to build the base of the new Democratic consensus.

If the effort to enlist new voters is going to boil down to who can name the most rock stars, then Mondale has a natural resource that neither he nor his advisers have tapped yet: Minnesota-born Prince.

Not only has Prince toppled the Jacksons, Parker and Springsteen from the top of the charts this summer, he has even recorded songs that speak directly to (or against) Reagan policies ("1999," "Controversy," "Ronnie, Talk to Russia").

Why Mondale strategists have yet to create a covert endorsement of Purple Rain's auteur is a mystery. All the Democratic candidate would have to do is mention a song lyric. Let MTV take care of the rest.

One thing is for certain: Unless the Mondale campaign begins to take notice of the Reagan youth blitz and fight it on its own terms, the only Prince song they'll have to sing against The Man Who Saved Grenada For Tourism is "When Doves Cry."

SWISS UPDATE: Dedicated followers of fashion noted last week that Louis Reard, the inventor of the bikini, passed away at the age of 88. What they may not have noticed was that M. Reard joined the ever-lengthening list of the rich and famous who have perished in Switzerland.

One can be fairly certain that Reard's tiny pieces of fabric netted him huge piles of francs. And what's going to happen to those francs now that he's gone? Once again, the big cheeses in Switzerland are silent.

Take note, you Swiss smarty-leaderhosen: There's only so much of this celebrity terrorism we're going to take. We can take one evil empire with no sweat; we can take you too, army knives and all.

Letters

Facts are bullets

To the editor:

Persons wishing to pose tough questions to controversial national figures like James Watt should be reminded that the UI has a library that contains information on these figures. It is possible to learn in advance how the national figure will fuzz the facts to respond to a given question. It is possible, then, to prepare in advance a follow-up question that might elicit some degree of truth from the speaker.

Wednesday evening Watt was dueling with unarmed men and women. He could say anything without fear of knowledgeable contradiction. To form an effective question to hurl at Watt, it is not enough to have read or heard somewhere that he did bad things to the environment. Facts are bullets.

Selective crusade

To the editor:

At the recent rally in memory of the Palestinians killed at Sabra and Shatila refugee camps, the Palestinian speaker made the excellent point that we should never forget massacres of all people — including the six million Jews who were killed in the Nazi Holocaust. If they were sincere in this belief, however, it was odd that the Palestinian group would associate themselves with the speaker for the African Student Association, who insinuated that the persecution and slaughter of the Jewish people throughout history might never have occurred at all.

In addition, Bob Hearst of New Wave claimed that anti-Zionism does not mean anti-Jewish. Why, then, did several of the speakers use the terms Zionists and Jews interchangeably in their accusations against Israel for dealing with Guatemala and South Africa. He failed to mention that the Palestine Liberation Organization is supplied with weapons by the Soviet Union. New Wave and the PLO must be rather selective in their crusade against human rights violations.

Protecting ecosystems

To the editor:

I read with interest Derek Maurer's editorial on barrier island development (Sept. 14). As a former resident of North Carolina's Outer Banks, I would like to venture a couple comments.

Facts being what they are, the fragile nature of barrier island ecosystems cannot be overstated, and the effects of overdevelopment will be evident in Diana's wake. But there are many coastal residents who understand the balances of nature in this area and try to protect them.

Several years ago North Carolina enacted the Coastal Resources Land Management Act to control the irresponsible development of wetlands. Unfortunately, the act lacks the teeth to do a complete job. In addition, the federal government has control of almost one-third of the length of North Carolina's Outer Banks. These areas have been enjoined from development. But management laws alone will not do the job.

Ironically, it will be up to well-informed local residents to stop island exploitation. Most of the year-round residents of these islands are now retirees. Many of these people have become educated in environmental issues and are taking responsibility for the sand they have adopted. Many town planning boards, until recently controlled by real estate interests, have been occupied by concerned citizens who have become activists in the cause of protection. These residents are the front line of defense against exploitation.

I applaud The Daily Iowan for being concerned about an ecosystem superficially so far from its own. There is much to do to preserve and protect this critical part of the world's ecosystem. Some of the credit for protecting it should, I believe, go to some of those who live there.

Democrat suggests 'dirty tricks'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A top Democratic campaign official charged Sunday that Reagan campaign officials are organizing the heckling of Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro and compared the practice to the "dirty tricks" of 1972.

The allegation was promptly denounced by the "outraged" head of the Reagan campaign, who demanded that proof be provided immediately.

Rep. Tony Coelho, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, said he is "absolutely" certain the turnout of disruptive protesters at appearances by the Democratic candidates is the result of planning by the Reagan-Bush reelection effort.

"Not only am I suggesting 'dirty tricks,' but I'm suggesting that the people ... involved in the dirty tricks in the '72 campaign are reinolved in the

'84 campaign — the same people," Coelho said.

COELHO NAMED Reagan campaign chief Edward Rollins and political adviser Lyn Nofziger in connection with the heckling of Mondale and Ferraro, which reached an almost fever pitch last week.

Rollins angrily denied the allegation and demanded that Coelho prove it.

"I take grave offense at Coelho's outrageous charges against me personally," Rollins said in a statement.

"If Mr. Coelho has any evidence to back up his statements, he should make that public. Immediately. Not after his distortions and non-truths have been allowed to fester, but now.

"Mondale must either immediately come forth with evidence, or he and his surrogate mud-slingers must desist," he said.

Airport

Iowa City Airport Manager Fred Zehr said FAA approval of the city's proposal is a "real step forward."

"It's been a long dry spell" without federal funding for airport improvements, he said.

Zehr said he hopes to begin construction on Runway 6-24 this fall and finish by spring or early summer.

McDONALD SAID airport improvements will "start quickly so that we can be eligible for future grants."

"We're finally seeing some light at the end of the tunnel," Councilor Bill Ambrisco said of the FAA's decision.

Ambrisco said he is "very pleased with the FAA cooperation because the council was bending over backwards" to bring federal funding back to the Iowa City Airport.

"I'm very excited about that because this city has to have an airport that's viable," he said.

Ambrisco noted that when he was campaigning last year to be elected to the council, he built his campaign around the need for economic development. He said the airport is a "very, very important selling feature" for the city.

IN THE FUTURE, the council will again hear from the developer of the apartment complexes located in the runway clear zone.

Local developer Kenneth Ranshaw came before the council in August to get approval to build office space, warehouses and storage facilities at 463 Highway 1 West.

The council deferred action on Ranshaw's recent request, which meets the city's zoning requirements, until the FAA had responded on the safety compliance issue.

Ranshaw wants to build a series of six small office spaces with adjoining warehouse space, a 4,455-square-foot warehouse building and 30 garage units for storage.

Sasser recommended in August the council not permit Ranshaw to develop the office-warehouse facility.

In the FAA letter released Friday, Sasser said: "Regarding clear zones, we wish to emphasize that FAA policy states that clear zones should be clear.

"In addition, the law requires that any applicant for an airport development grant must give written assurance that it will take all reasonable action to restrict the use of land adjacent to or in the immediate vicinity of the airport to activities and purposes compatible with normal airport operations, including landing and takeoff of aircraft."

Dean

"There were a couple of other candidates that were very good, but once we interviewed Loewenberg we knew he was the obvious choice," said Ham.

According to Becker, the search committee looked at about 150 candidates and 10 were eventually interviewed for the position. In addition to Loewenberg, Becker said one other UI faculty member was included in the final group of candidates.

"OUR MAJOR CONCERN was finding the very best person in the country," said Becker. "And we think we have found him."

Becker also said an additional advantage the Liberal Arts College will enjoy from Loewenberg's selection is the absence of a lengthy transition period in the dean's office.

"The transition has already taken place," Becker said, noting another candidate the search committee was considering "wouldn't have been able to come here for two years."

LOEWENBERG, former chair of the UI Political Science department and a scholar of politics in legislative institutions, said one of his major priorities for the remainder of the academic year will be "making some changes in the organization of the college that will permit the faculty to play a larger role in decision-making."

He also said the college will begin to address some of the problems that two recent reviews have pointed out.

The selection of the new dean for the UI's largest college follows the appointment of two associate deans in the Liberal Arts College during the last four months.

people they hired."

Anthony Titus, manager of Burger King, U.S. Highway 6 West in Coralville, said "The biggest problem we have is getting people to work. We don't have the aggressiveness and I have to be on their backs a little. But I really wouldn't point at (students). It's just the person in general."

Titus said, "The respect for the job is a little lower than I would like it to be, but I have less trouble with college students than with high school (workers)."

"I'M HAVING trouble breaking it into students and non-students," he said. "It is easier to break it into age groups. It's just the person in general. But sometimes I do feel that the younger kids feel they can get away with more than I felt I could get away with when I was younger."

George Herbert, general manager of the Union bookstore that usually employs 66 percent students, said, "My whole livelihood is based on having student employees. By far, the majority are good employees. You are going to run into a minority of people that are bad, and I don't care if it is full-time, part-time students or 50-year-olds. I don't think you can draw a line."

Remington said students at the UI are "serious" about schoolwork and about their part-time jobs, so attendance or denial of authority is not a problem.

THERE IS NO comparison between now and the late 1960s," he said. "Students are clearly, as a group, in the university to learn. And when they are in a learning environment, they are inherently taking criticism and authority."

Herbert said, "Students are here to study and participate in going to sporting events. We're in their world and we have to adjust to that."

Doug Goodner, an interviewer with the Iowa City Job Service of Iowa, said "the majority of (students) are quite realistic."

Goodner said attendance is not a problem with most student workers because the jobs are usually part-time "and the students know it is only a temporary job while they are in college."

MOST OF THE students are employed "in restaurants, bars and retail stores, and the owners and managers of all of those businesses rely heavily on students to do that work," Goodner said.

"I haven't gotten any comments from employers involving listening, reading or writing," the weak areas cited in the survey. "My impression from the employers I've worked with is that they are happy with the college student."

UI students are in high demand in the Iowa City area, Goodner said, "and many Iowa City employers couldn't do it without students working for them."

Students "do not have an extremely difficult time finding jobs," Goodner said. "As often as not, when I call students back to describe a job to them, they have already found one on their own. I'd say the success rate (in finding a job) is very high."

Magic number now one for Cubs

United Press International

The Chicago Cubs, led by the hitting of Gary Matthews, swept a doubleheader from the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday and reduced their magic number to one for clinching the National League East pennant.

The Cubs, who haven't won a pennant of any kind in 39 years, won the opener 8-2 behind three RBI by Matthews and took the nightcap 4-2 with the aid of a two-run homer by Matthews.

Chicago needs only another victory, or a loss by the New York Mets, to advance to the National League playoffs against the San Diego Padres.

IN THE NIGHTCAP, Dennis Eckersley, 9-8, went seven innings for the victory. He allowed two runs on six hits and struck out four. Lee Smith pitched the final two innings for his 33rd save.

Joaquin Andujar, 19-14, failed for the third time to become the majors' first 20-game winner. He gave up six hits in eight innings, striking out six and walking two.

In the opener, Matthews' three-run double sparked a six-run fourth inning and helped Steve Trout, 13-7, to the victory. Trout allowed seven hits, struck out one and walked one in notching his sixth complete game.

Keith Moreland went four for four for the Cubs, who tagged Rick Ownbey, 0-3, with the loss.

ELSEWHERE IN THE National League, New York beat Montreal 6-1, Pittsburgh trimmed Philadelphia 4-2, San Francisco downed Los Angeles 4-2 and San Diego edged Atlanta 2-1.

At New York, rookie Dwight Gooden won his 17th game and fanned nine to help the Mets complete a sweep of their three-game series. Gooden, starting his final home game of the season, allowed only five hits over eight innings and raised his major-league leading strikeout total to 278. It marked the first time in five starts that he failed to strike out 10 or more batters in a game.

At Pittsburgh, Johnny Ray singled in two runs and John Tudor and two relievers combined on a seven-hitter to pace the Pirates to their sixth consecutive victory. Jason Thompson went two for two and doubled in the last run in the Pirates' three-run third inning.

Buckeyes' Byars belittles Hawks

By Brad Zimanek
Staff Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio — A gutsy Iowa squad took the field at Ohio Stadium Saturday but all they could come away with was a 45-26 defeat at the hands of a powerful Ohio State Buckeye squad.

Iowa fought back from a 31-10 deficit to come within five points at 31-26 with four minutes, 56 seconds remaining in the third quarter on quarterback Chuck Long's fourth down, two-yard touchdown run.

"We slowed them down from time to time, but obviously we couldn't stop them," Iowa Coach Hayden Fry said. "The big run by (Keith) Byars and (his) halfback pass really gave them momentum and that first interception deflected by (Ronnie) Harmon, that really gave them a boost."

"I WAS AMAZED at how the Hawks were fighting back and making a game of it," Fry said.

Ohio State built that 31-10 lead by capitalizing on several key Iowa turnovers. With the score 17-10 in favor of Ohio State, Long faded back and was intercepted after having his pass tipped by Harmon. Larry Kolec picked off the ball and returned it for a 25-yard touchdown.

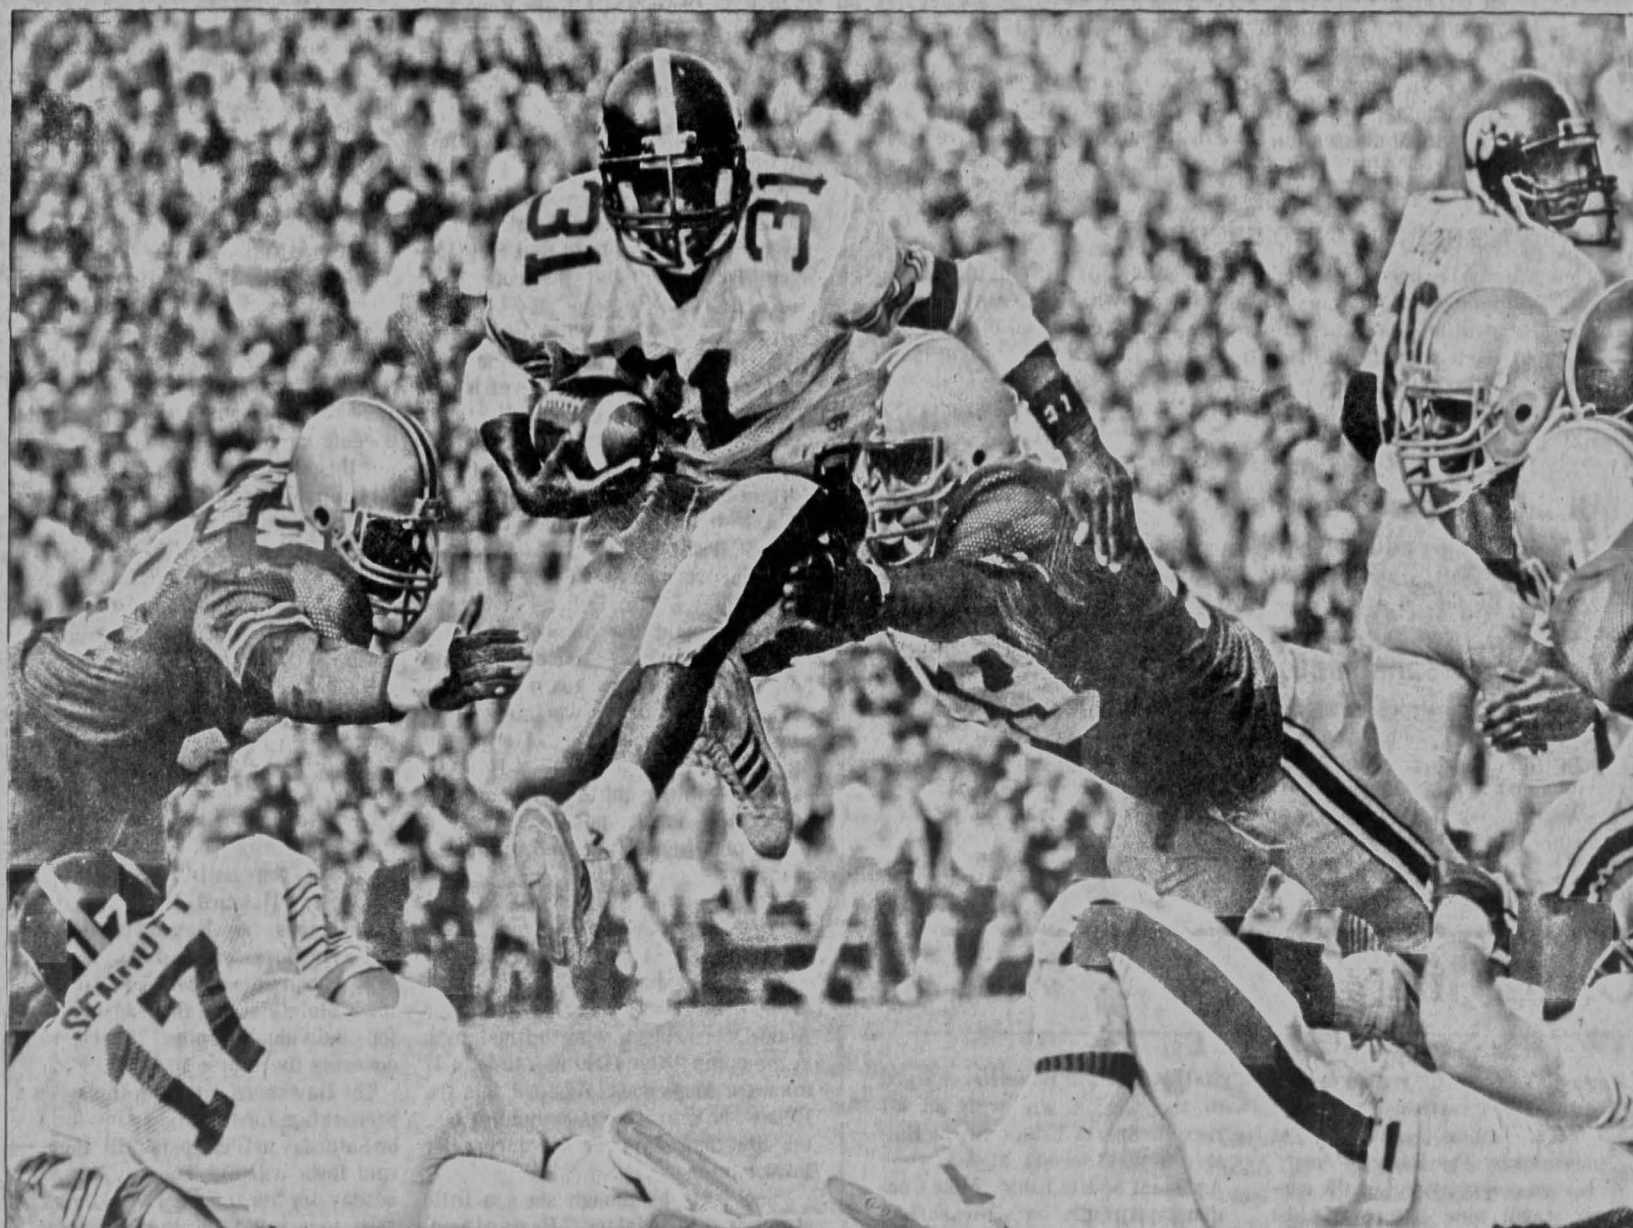

After the ensuing kickoff, Long fumbled the snap from center Mark Sindlinger and Ohio State recovered on their own 35-yard line. Then, self-proclaimed Heisman Trophy candidate Byars on the first play from the line of scrimmage, threw a touchdown pass to Mike Lanese.

"It looked like they were just going to run out of gas there for a minute," Fry said. "We just kept plugging away and closing the gap."

"I THOUGHT WE fought back pretty well," Long said. "We still thought we could get back in the game and give them a run for their money. We actually thought we could win the game when we scored early in the second half."

Then, as Ohio State's fans were preparing to see Iowa run out of the stadium, the Hawkeyes fought back to score 10 points in the remaining 7:40 in the second quarter.

"I really thought we could win it at Iowa Hawkeye tailback Ronnie Harmon goes airborne to avoid Ohio State linebackers Thomas Johnson (98) and Anthony Giuliani (59) during third quarter action of the Hawkeyes' 45-26 loss to the Buckeyes Saturday afternoon in Columbus. Harmon led all rushers with 132 yards, but it wasn't enough to counter the four turnovers committed by the Hawkeyes that lifted Ohio State to a 3-0 record. The Hawkeyes fell to 1-2, 0-1 in the Big Ten.

the half; we were moving the ball," Fry said. "We went about 50 yards to get three points right before the end of the half to get on the board and to cut it to 11 points. Then the first time they got the ball back, we stopped them. We had a shot at it then."

"THAT'S NO SLOUCH of a football team," Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce said. "They've got some players. It's a credit to our young men to play as well as they did."

After Iowa closed the gap to 31-26 and hushed the Buckeye crowd of 89,733, the second largest in Ohio Stadium history, Ohio State took the kickoff and with the aid of a personal foul, set up shop on the Iowa 49-yard line.

The Buckeyes then marched the 49 yards in nine plays which was capped off by a seven-yard touchdown run by Byars with 1:23 remaining in the third quarter.

"We have got to give credit to Ohio State," Fry said. "We got three major penalties and that really hurt us, Ohio State's a tremendous football team ... we just had too far to go. Our drives were too far away and we were playing catch-up. We just ran out of time."

AND THAT'S HOW it stayed until late in the fourth quarter when Lanese took a pitch around the right end to make the score 45-26.

Hawkeyes turnover victory to Ohio State

By Mike Condon
Assistant Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, Ohio — There is a trend beginning to haunt Hayden Fry and his Iowa football team and it isn't one that can continue much longer if the Hawkeyes intend to go to a fourth consecutive bowl game.

Turnovers, crucial, backbreaking turnovers!

In Saturday's 45-26 loss to Ohio State, Iowa was its own worst enemy. Four turnovers, two fumbles and two Chuck Long interceptions were without a doubt the turning point in the game, according to Fry.

"WHEN THEY intercepted the deflected pass from Chuck," Fry said following the game, "it was a real big play and it really changed some momentum."

The big play to which Fry refers occurred in the second quarter with the Buckeyes leading 17-10. Long faded and looked for Ronnie Harmon up the middle. The pass was behind Harmon who tipped it into the hands of Ohio State linebacker Larry Kolic. He then rambled 25 yards for the touchdown.

"The first interception was costly," Long said. "I was trying to get it over the line and I threw it kind of high." If the interception was costly, the Long fumble three plays following the kickoff was the deathblow. Long and center Mark Sindlinger missed communication on a snap from the Buckeye 35-yard line and linebacker Pepper Johnson pounced on the loose ball.

ON THE NEXT play, Ohio State's all-anything Keith Byars took a pitch, pulled up and threw a strike to a wide open Mike Lanese making the score 31-10. Iowa has now committed 13 turnovers in three games.

A statistic that has Long frustrated, "What can I say, turnovers hurt us," Long said. "I get kind of tired going out each Saturday. We outrushed them, we outpassed them and end up losing the game. The thing you look at there is the turnovers. They hurt us last week (against Penn State) and they hurt us this week. We just have to cut down on those turnovers."

But Long had no magic method to reduce the giveaways. "We just have to concentrate," he said. "There's nothing we can do different in practice. We just have to learn to hold on to the ball."

HOWEVER, LONG'S teammates weren't quite as concerned. "Turnovers just happen," Owen Gill, who was guilty of Iowa's other bobble, said. "We can't sit back and become tentative. Our offense has to be able to make big plays, not give them up."

Turnovers are just part of football," Harmon said. "As soon as we get rid of the turnovers here we'll be a good football team, we're not now. I just hope we can do it before Illinois."

Hawkeye receiver Bill Happel may have put the turnover problem in its proper light. "You know, a lot of breaks have went against us, we just have to keep working and things are bound to turn our way," Happel said. "We just can't let it get us down."

Iowa 'sweeps' to tourney crown

By Melissa Rapoport

The Iowa volleyball team slated a perfect 5-0 record, dropping only one game out of five matches in defending its own Hawkeye Invitational crown last weekend at the Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

The Hawkeyes defeated all of their foes in three straight games, with the exception of Bradley, who took Iowa to four games (15-10, 8-15, 15-9 and 15-12) during round-robin competition Friday night.

The Iowa squad faced Bradley again in the finals and although the Lady Braves capitalized on five Hawkeye missed serves in the second game, they were unable to hold on to the lead, dropping that game and the match 15-5, 15-13 and 15-7.

"WE WOULD HAVE liked to win," Bradley Coach Pam Stanek said. "We were disappointed in the last match because we let the second game get away from us. We have some rotations that are stronger than others and I don't think we had the rotations and there was a period when they didn't make any mistakes."

Despite the loss, Stanek said her team surprised her defensively. "We had some digs that looked like they were down, but we got them out," she said. "We were counting on our defense. When you play a big team like Iowa, you have to count on your defense."

In round-robin play, Iowa rolled over

Ellen Mullarkey

Volleyball

Western Illinois 15-7, 15-4 and 15-3 in 50 minutes and in the semifinals, the Hawkeyes faced the Westwinds again, defeating them 15-4, 15-5 and 17-15.

"WE WERE 0-9 coming into the tournament," Western Illinois assistant Coach Mike Sapienza said. "Our main concern is getting ready for our conference in October ... We beat UNI, but we lost to Bradley. We are really young; we have two freshmen starting and the juniors and seniors who start don't have very much experience.

"They can play," he said. "They have ability, but they can not keep up the intensity level to win. They always start out too slow. Then they start to play and it's too late."

In contrast to Western's problems, Iowa Coach Sandy Stewart said the Hawkeyes progressed throughout the tournament. "We improved every match," Stewart said. "They started out sloppy, but they got things going today (Saturday). The flow wasn't good last night (Friday). It took a while for the setters and hitters to get the flow."

PLAGUED WITH passing inconsistencies so far this season, the tournament was a turning point for the Hawkeyes. "Passing has come a long way," Stewart said. "We had a really balanced attack. That's a plus for us. We don't have to count on one person to put the ball down."

Senior Cathy Arsenault also said the diversity of plays attributed to Iowa's wins. "I think we started out a little slow, but we played more together than we did Wednesday night against UNI," she said. "We used a lot of different plays ... We played well together."

This particular tournament, Arsenault said, will be beneficial in helping the Iowa squad play at its potential against every team — not just against the better teams. "We didn't play well against Western and UNI," the Minneapolis native said, "but we played well against Bradley — a more competitive team."

"WE HAVE TO learn to play well against all teams, not just with the strong teams," she said. "But, I think that will also come with the season ... At times we had some mental lapses. We had to really work to keep the game at a fast pace. But I think once we started running our quicks (short sets) in the middle it helped us a lot."

Stewart, who had praise for the entire team, said freshman Ellen Mullarkey proved herself last weekend. "Ellen Mullarkey has really established herself this weekend," the Hawkeye coach said.

"Kathy (Greisheim) put up smart set selections," she said. "She got her rhythm back ... Kathy Arsenault played really well defensively and Dee Ann (Davidson) played the best tournament she has. Dee Ann didn't play well last night (Friday); she was frustrated. But today she was really aggressive."

Sapienza said this year's Iowa squad appears more experienced than last year's team. "They're making fewer errors," he said. "They're much more settled down. They have a couple great players, but, you see, everyone does their job."

Denis Watson wis PGA tourney

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Denis Watson shot a three-under-par 68 Sunday for a one-stroke victory over Andy Bean in a $1.1 million PGA tournament.

Watson and Bean were tied after 17 holes and Watson birdied the par-five, 524-yard 18th hole to win $162,000 first prize. Bean landed in a trap and scrambled for a par.

Watson, who has won three PGA tournaments the past seven weeks, had a 90-hole total of 15-under 341 with rounds of 69, 66, 68, 70 and 68.

Bean won $97,200 at the five-day tournament played at four Las Vegas courses. The final round was held at the Las Vegas Country Club. Bean's five-day totals were 69, 65, 69, 71, and 68 for a 342 total.

Evening exercise classes scheduled

The UI Division of Recreational Services has scheduled evening exercise classes this semester.

Classes are held Monday through Thursday from 5:30-6:30 p.m., and all workouts will be held in Halsey Gymnasium. The fee is $1.50 per class, or a punch card with 20 classes for $20 can be purchased. For more information, call 353-3494.

Swim team timers are needed

Interviews have been scheduled for those students that want to become Iowa Swimming Timettes for the Iowa men's swimming team. The interviews will be held Sept. 26-28 at the Field House pool office.

Timettes activities include lane timing for all men's swimming team home meets, assisting in team practice sessions and group social activities with the men's swimming team. For more information, call 353-5123.

UI ski club plans meeting

The UI ski club will hold its first meeting of the season on Tuesday, Sept. 25, at 6:30 p.m. in Room 121 of Shaeffer Hall. For more information, call Judy Blocker at 337-6649.

Gymnastics instructors sought

Gymnastics instructors with experience in working with children and young adults are being hired by the UI Division of Recreational Services. Instructors with teaching experience and a natural aptitude for working with youngsters are needed for both morning and evening classes.

Applications are being taken in room E216 of the Fieldhouse. For further information, call 353-3494.

On the line

Anita Kassel will be able to take the keg to her castle as the winner of this week's On the Line contest sponsored by The Daily Iowan.

Kassel correctly picked the winner of all nine games on last week's ballot. The Miles-Lane game was thrown out after the game was postponed — that's Division III football for you and we promise that the game won't be listed on this week's ballot.

Trust us, you can, you know. With her win, Kassel claims the prize in this week's contest, an eight-gallon keg of brew provided by R.T. Grunts at the corner of Benton and Dubuque, one of the best pool bars in Iowa City.

In the DI sports staff's battle,

Staff Writer Jill Hokinson charged to the week's win with an 8-1 record. Sports Editor Steve Batterson was second at 6-3 while Assistant Sports Editor Mike Condon, apparently on some sort of ego trip from last week's performance, finished last at 5-4.

Overall, Condon maintains a slim one-game edge of his co-workers. Condon sits at 20-9 while Batterson is 19-10 and Hokinson is one game behind at 18-11.

Beginning Tuesday, you will have the opportunity to win an eight-gallon keg of beer donated by Stonewalls as we kickoff Homecoming week with a bang.

Stay tuned for your chance to win.

Harriers team unity good for third place

By Steve Batterson
Sports Editor

In most sports, teamwork is crucial to success and the Iowa women's cross country team executed the idea to perfection last Saturday in a third-place finish at the 28-team Midwest Collegiate Championships in Kenosha, Wis.

"The team is starting to become exactly that, a team," Iowa Coach Jerry Hassard said. "It's very important for a team to perform as one in cross country."

The Hawkeyes, whose only other meet was a non-scoring triangular, responded well in a field that included over 200 runners on the course at Forest Park in Kenosha.

"THIS IS probably one of the best team performances we've ever had," Hassard said. "On the whole, the team demonstrated that it can run in a big meet situation. That will become important for the big meets in November."

"A 28-team meet is very different from a triangular (such as the Iowa Open the previous weekend)," Hassard said.

Hassard said the number of competitors can play a role in determining how an individual or a team performs. "It can be such an overwhelming situation for an athlete to have so many other runners participating," Hassard said. "It's important to get out quickly and get a good race position. You need to establish yourself at the front end of a pack."

"WHEN A RACE is so big, that's what you have to do and we did that well," Hassard said.

The Hawkeyes were led by senior Anne Dobrowski, who finished sixth in the competitive field in a time of 17 minutes, 40 seconds. Hassard said the Dewey, N.Y., native is competing better now than she ever has during her Iowa career.

"She feels as though she's a little stronger, a little faster," Hassard said.

Eastern teams unkind to struggling Hawks

By Jill Hokinson
Staff Writer

The Iowa field hockey team suffered through a tough weekend out East, losing two games and tying one.

The Hawkeyes lost their first game against Temple, 2-1, and then lost the second game Saturday against North Carolina, 2-1.

Iowa was able to salvage part of the weekend by tying Rutgers, 2-2 in double overtime.

Iowa's record now stands at 4-3-2 for the season. The team's third loss came last weekend on the West Coast against Stanford, 2-1.

The Hawkeyes took the early lead in the game against Rutgers when freshman Liz Tchou scored at 31 minutes, 31 seconds into the first half on a crosspass from Deb Brickey.

IOWA ADDED a second goal in the second half at 32:34 before allowing Rutgers to score.

"We came back with an unassisted goal," Rutgers Coach Anne Petracco said. "It looked like the Iowa defense let up then."

Rutgers' first goal came at 33:15 in the second half by Marybeth Dwyer, and less than two minutes later Chris Lacy scored again for Rutgers, tying the game at two apiece.

Neither team was able to score in the "Part of that is from her experience in outdoor track. She's maturing a little bit and that's increased her natural strength."

Iowa's next finisher was Jenny Spangler, who finished in 15th place in 17:56. Spangler's competition ends speculation that she may have redshirted this season to continue to nurse a foot injury she suffered last spring.

"SPANGLER'S BACK on the road to recovery," Hassard said, "and by having her compete, we have committed her to this season of collegiate competition."

Hawkeye freshman Laura Haggerty finished 17th in 18:01, Maribeth See took 42nd in 18:38 and Janet Wodek ended up in 51st place with an 18:44 clocking for Iowa.

"The team performed well in relation to our Big Ten competition and some of the better teams in the Midwest," Hassard said. Among the league foes the Hawkeyes defeated were Northwestern and Purdue.

Wisconsin took the team title and Iowa State's Paula Brackelsberg won top individual honors in the race, covering the course in 17:23.

The Hawkeyes will work this week in preparation for the Illinois Invitational on Saturday in Champaign, Ill. Hassard said Iowa will use Tuesday and Wednesday for its toughest workouts this week to be rested for the Illinois meet.

two overtimes. Rutgers had a total of 24 shots on goal during the game, 10 in the first half and 14 in the second half. The Hawkeyes took 20 shots on goal in regulation play, 10 in each half. In the two overtimes, Rutgers attempted nine shots on goal and Iowa had none.

"WE HELD THEM offensively to the very end of each half," Petracco said. "I felt Iowa passed the ball very well, and they played the surface better."

The Rutgers coach added she thought the play was "pretty even" between the two teams. "But, I felt Rutgers had dominated the game," she said "And, that was indicative by the shots we had on goal."

In the game against Temple, Monica Mills scored both of Temple's goals. Patti Wanner contributed the Hawkeyes' only goal with 30 seconds left in the game.

Tchou also scored the Hawkeyes' lone goal in their 2-1 loss to North Carolina.

The Hawkeyes will be on the road again this weekend as they travel to Evanston, Ill., to face Big Ten foe Northwestern on Saturday.

Thomason's team proves its point; takes second place at Minnesota

By J. Glass
Staff Writer

Iowa women's golf Coach Diane Thomason said she thought her team was better than Wisconsin.

And at the Minnesota Golden Gopher Invitational last weekend, Thomason's team backed her words. Iowa turned it on, finishing in second place behind host Minnesota and ahead of Northern Iowa and the Badgers in the rain shortened 36-hole tournament.

Minnesota, led by medalist Julie Godfrey (155) and runner-up Jocelyn Smith (158), shot a two-day total of 633. Iowa, led by a pair of juniors, Leawood, Kan., native Julie Edgar and Dyersville, Iowa, native Lynn Tauke, came in at 645 for second place.

THE PANTHERS WERE 15 strokes off the Hawkeyes' finish and Wisconsin shot a 664. Bemidji State placed last in the field with a 935 team score.

"I'm pleased," a content Thomason said. After 18 holes Saturday, Iowa was eight

1. Julie Godfrey, Minn., 79-76-155, 2. Jocelyn Smith, Minn., 79-79-158, 3. (tie) Julie Edgar, Iowa, 82-77-159, Lynn Tauke, Iowa, 82-77-159, Jodie Krafta, Minn., 83-76-159, Julie Kuhlman, Minn., 80-79-159.

Iowa results

Julie Edgar 82-77-159, Lynn Tauke 82-77-159, Amy Bubon 84-78-162, Lisa Masters 83-82-165, Mary Baecke 85-82-167, Megan Mowrey 89-85-174.

strokes off the Gopher's 323 pace. Also, Northern Iowa and Wisconsin trailed with a 334 and 335 respectively.

But the Hawkeyes set their sights on Minnesota and broke away from the pack.

"I felt like after the turn we could give Minnesota a run for it," Thomason said about the second day of play's first nine of 18 holes. "We just didn't lay down. We came back and played good golf today. It probably was the best we turned ever."

Edgar was again strong for the second consecutive week. "She was in contention to win," Thomason said.

EDGAR FINISHED WITH a 82 and 77 for a 159 total, good enough for a tie for third with teammate Tauke and two other Gopher golfers.

"They both played with a lot of composure," Thomason said.

Also Hawkeyes' Amy Bubon, Lisa Masters, Mary Baecke and Megan Mowrey had productive weekends.

Bubon shot a 162 total, as Masters came in at 165. Baecke shot a 167 and Mowrey shot a 174.

"It seems everybody will be getting together for the Lady Northern," Thomason said. Iowa competes in the UNI Invitational on Friday and Saturday.

Balance keys Hawkeyes to victory over Augustana in first meet, 27-30

By Jeff Stratton
Staff Writer

The Iowa men's cross country team opened its season with a 27-30 victory over Augustana of Rock Island, Ill., on the Vikings' home course in the Quad Cities.

The Hawkeyes took three of the first five places and eight of the top 12 positions in defeating the NCAA Division III powerhouse.

Shemi Sabag, Augustana's top runner, covered the four-mile course in 19 minutes, 33 seconds to win the race. Iowa's Danny Waters finished second to Sabag with a time of 19:41. Waters was followed by teammate John Dobbs who took third place in the meet with a time of 19:48 and Andy Wiese finished fifth for the Hawkeyes in 20:06.

IOWA RUNNERS also took the eighth through 12 positions in the race. Doug Selsor finished eighth with a time of 20:39, and was followed closely by teammate Bill Tieson who took ninth place in 20:40. John Meyer grabbed 10th place in 20:41 and Al Green finished 11th in 20:48. Brian Redman was the final place-winner, taking 12th place with a time of 20:51.

Hawkeye men's cross country Coach Ted Wheeler said, "We ran really well. I am certainly pleased with the result."

Wheeler said all of his runners ran personal bests in the race. "All of the Iowa runners had personal bests," Wheeler said.

Ted Wheeler

Cross country

"Selsor, Tieson and Meyer were truly outstanding. They all had personal records along the way at the two and three mile marks. So did Wiese."

SABAG, WHO WAS a NCAA Division III

all-American last year, is the leader of what Wheeler said was a "real fine team." Wheeler said Sabag was a member of Israel's Olympic team, running the 5,000 meters. However, Wheeler said the Iowa runners could have beaten Sabag.

"Our people, Danny (Waters) and John (Dobbs), could have competed against Sabag better," Wheeler said, "but overall our times were great."

The key to the meet, Wheeler said, was the Hawkeyes who finished from eighth to 12th. "Our eight to 12 finishers won the meet for us," Wheeler said. "They were bunched up in the back so they pushed Augustana's runners back," and out of the scoring.

WHEELER SAID his team, which is coming off a last-place finish in the Big Ten last year, is improved over last season's group and part of the reason is its training methods. "They are achieving in the sense of our training methods," Wheeler said. "We can now move on to speed and stamina training. I am really pleased with the team and I expect to have a better team this year."

Another reason for the Hawkeyes' improvement this year, Wheeler said, is his team's depth. "We now have eight people with good potential," Wheeler said. "These eight are doing extremely well, and this is encouraging and healthy for our team."

Iowa's next meet is at the Purdue Invitational Oct. 6 at West Lafayette, Ind.

Top-ranked Cornhuskers pound out 42-3 win using 'awesome' offense

United Press International

All week long, Terry Donahue expressed doubts that his UCLA team could handle top-ranked Nebraska's awesome offense but the Cornhuskers had to go and find out for themselves Saturday.

They quickly proved Donahue right, shredding the 10th-ranked Bruins for 468 yards and a 42-3 victory at Pasadena, Calif. "I was kind of surprised," Nebraska I-back Jeff Smith said after gaining 123 yards on 20 carries. "I thought they were going to give us a great effort. We were kind of surprised at their defense."

Nebraska improved to 3-0 with the win while UCLA lost for the first time after two unimpressive victories.

"THEY JUST KEPT pounding at us," Donahue said. "They beat us up pretty badly. We have several players hurt, and that indicates their physical superiority. They're an awesome offensive football team."

UCLA played without regular quarterback Steve Bono, who is out with an ankle injury. Junior Matt Stevens replaced him, but he brought little college experience into his first start. He completed 13 of 28 attempts for 119 yards and one interception.

Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne is reserving judgment on his team. "We're further along than we were last week, but the jury is still out on us," he said.

THE CORNHUSKERS took a 21-0

halftime lead on short touchdown runs by Smith, quarterback Craig Sundberg and Tom Rathman. Following a UCLA field goal in the third quarter, Nebraska turned the game into a rout with a 19-yard touchdown run by Shane Swanson, a dazzling 64-yard run by Doug DuBose and four-yard scamper by Paul Miles.

DuBose finished with 104 yards on eight carries. Smith, who has gained over 100 yards in each of his last four games going back to the Orange Bowl in January, sat out the second half with an ankle injury.

Also Saturday, Navy's Napoleon McCallum became the second Heisman Trophy candidate in two weeks to suffer a season-ending injury. McCallum broke his left ankle in the fourth quarter of Navy's 21-9 loss to Virginia after gaining 74 yards in the game.

A WEEK AGO, Auburn all-American running back Bo Jackson separated his shoulder in a loss against Texas.

Ohio State running back Keith Byars and Boston College quarterback Doug Flutie emerged as top Heisman candidates after Saturday's games.

At Foxboro, Mass., Flutie threw six touchdown passes to spark the seventh-ranked Eagles to a 52-20 pounding of North Carolina. Flutie hit 28 of 38 attempts for 354 yards and moved into sixth place on the all-time career passing list. His 8,063 career passing yards moves him ahead of Pittsburgh's Dan Marino with 7,905.

At Seattle, Danny Greene caught a 31-yard touchdown pass from Hugh Millen and returned a punt 50 yards to set up another score and lead the Huskies to victory.

IN OTHER GAMES involving top 10 teams, No. 3 Oklahoma whipped Baylor 34-15, No. 4 Brigham Young defeated Hawaii 18-13, No. 5 Penn State topped William & Mary 56-18, No. 8 Washington beat Houston 35-7 and No. 9 Miami (Fla.) lost to No. 13 Florida State 38-3.

At Norman, Okla., Danny Bradley threw touchdown passes to Derrick Shepard and Buster Rhymes to spark Oklahoma. Bradley connected with Shepard on a 20-yard touchdown early in the first quarter and hit Rhymes with a 19-yard touchdown toss less than three minutes into the second half.

AT HONOLULU, Robbie Bosco hooked up with Glen Kozlowski on a 25-yard scoring pass with 5:24 left and the Brigham Young defense turned in its second goal-line stand in the final seconds to enable the Cougars to pull out a Western Athletic Conference victory and raise its record to 4-0.

Elsewhere in the top 20, No. 11 Oklahoma State downed San Diego State 19-16, No. 12 Southern Methodist trounced North Texas State 24-6, No. 14 Michigan defeated Wisconsin 20-14, No. 16 Southern Cal shaded Arizona State 6-3, No. 17 Georgia edged Clemson 26-23, Maryland upset No. 17 West Virginia 20-17, Army played No. 19 Tennessee to a 24-24 tie and No. 20 Auburn belted Southern Mississippi 35-12.

Hawkeyes

The Daily Iowan/Doug Smith

Iowa Hawkeye defensive tackle Paul Hufford corals a fumble by Ohio State Buckeye quarterback Mike Tomczak as Iowa defensive end Mike Hooks looks on during first quarter action of the Hawkeyes' 45-26 loss to the Buckeyes Saturday afternoon. Iowa recovered two Ohio State miscues, but turned the ball over four times.

Pakistani team takes cage tourney title

By John Gilardi
Staff Writer

Players screaming at the referee about lousy calls, hot shots taking off from the free throw line for layups and players scrambling on the floor for loose balls — just like the kind of basketball you will find in America.

This basketball game was in America, but the players were not American. The Pakistani Association narrowly defeated the Malaysian Association, 57-56, in the championship game of the basketball tournament in the second annual International Sports Tournament, sponsored by the UI Union of International Students.

THE PAKISTANI led at halftime and stayed in the lead until there were four minutes, 30 seconds left in the second half. The Malaysians scored six points in a row to take the lead, 46-45.

But the Pakistani picked up the pace of the game, scoring 13 points in the last three minutes. The Malaysians were not out of it until the end, but two free throw shots fell short with five seconds left to secure a Pakistani victory.

"We played very well out there but I wish I didn't foul out in the last few minutes of the game," Tarun Chourdhry, a member of the Pakistani team, said. "It was just like playing over at the Field House where I learned to play. This game was a lot of fun and we did it as a team."

THE PAKISTANI made it to the final round after defeating the Chinese Association 66-55 in the semifinals and the Thai Association in the opening round. The Malaysians slipped by ADELA, the Latin American student association, 40-33 in the semifinals and downed the Vietnamese Association in the opening round.

There were some American players on the court also. One of those was Pat Welik, a senior from Britt, Iowa. There were two Americans playing for the Pakistani who are members of that association.

"My roommate is the president of ADELIA and he asked me to join the group even though I am an American. This is my first year in it and I wanted to get involved in something different. I'm really glad I joined," Welik said.

IN THE VOLLEYBALL tournament held on Saturday, the Chinese Association defeated the Arabian Association 15-12, 15-13 in the best-of-three series.

The overall winner of the tournament was a tie between the Malaysian and Arabian Associations.

total yards compared to Ohio State's 320 but they still took a 19-point defeat. Iowa also rushed for 225 yards without the help of fullback Fred Bush who failed to make the Columbus trip because of an injury, a statistic that shows improvement in the young Hawkeye offensive line.

Even cocky Buckeye back Byars, whose triple threat ability was evident Saturday, took a back seat to Harmon who out-rushed him 132-122 yards. The performance was Harmon's first 100-yard rushing game of his so-called tailback career. Gill finished with 69 yards in 10 carries.

"WE WERE LEADING in total offense, I'm not sure who was leading in rushing but I'm sure it was pretty close," Harmon said. "I think the turnovers and our mistakes really hurt us. Both of us (Gill and Harmon) were pretty close to 100 yards."

"I felt good about it because both of us ran real hard," Harmon said.

With Bush out, Gill and Harmon will now be appearing in the backfield together on a regular basis. "I practiced at fullback all week," Gill said. "And it doesn't really bother me which one I play. It kind of helps if you know all the plays."

"Gill and Harmon will be very definitely in the backfield because we don't know if Fred will be back or not," Fry said. "It gives me the opportunity to have both of them in the backfield and I think Owen did a real fine job in the backfield." Long also had an excellent game, he passed for 275 yards while completing 22 of 35 passes. "Turnovers hurt us, I kind of get tired of going out there when we outrush them and outpass them and we still lose the ballgame," Long said.

"To me the amazing thing isn't that we've lost to Ohio State and Penn State," Fry said. "The amazing thing to me is that we've still been able to average 436 yards and score the points we have. That's what's encouraging because we can correct the mistakes."

Fry added he was unconcerned about whether Iowa would be able to bounce back against Illinois on Saturday.

"We're going to eventually quit fumbling the football or throwing the interception," he added. "I have complete confidence that we'll do that. The thing I'm worried about is physically being healthy enough to play against a team like Illinois."

Long, Robert Smith and Harmon practiced only one day last week. Fry said Harmon was reinjured Saturday and was one of nine first-string players who couldn't work out Sunday morning.

He said as many as four or five starters may miss practice this week and a decision about knee surgery may have to be made for some of those players.

Iowa now has a 1-2 record, 0-1 in the Big Ten, as they prepare to face the Illini. Ohio State remains perfect at 3-0 and will make its first road trip of the year on Saturday when the Buckeyes visit Minnesota.

A's win scrambles A.L. West picture

United Press International

Rickey Henderson singled, doubled and home run drove in two runs and scored twice to help the Oakland Athletics win the American League West by leading the Oakland A's to a 5-1 victory Sunday over the Kansas City Royals.

The Minnesota Twins, who beat the Cleveland Indians 5-1, moved into a tie for first place with the Royals. The California Angels fell 2-1 in 10 innings to the Texas Rangers and remained in third place, one and one-half games back.

California has eight games left, and Minnesota and Kansas City seven apiece. The Angels and Twins will play all remaining games on the road.

THE ANGELS AND Royals begin a four-game series with a doubleheader in Royals Stadium Monday night.

Oakland reached starter Mike Jones, 2-3, for five runs in the first three innings to take a commanding 5-0 lead. Henderson opened the game with a double, stole third and came home on a sacrifice fly by Joe Morgan. A walk to Jim Essian and Henderson's 15th homer made it 3-0 in the second.

Dave Kingman opened the third with a walk and scored on a double by Dwayne Murphy, chasing Jones in favor of Frank Wills. Murphy took third on an error by Wills on a grounder in front of the plate by Mike Heath. Bruce Bochte's sacrifice fly made it 5-0.

Oakland starter Chris Codiroli scattered four hits over six and one-third innings to improve to 5-4. Bill Caudill picked up his 34th save.

JORGE ORTA GAVE Kansas City its run in the fourth with his ninth homer of the season. At Minneapolis, Randy Bush's two-run, tie-breaking homer in the sixth inning sparked the Twins. Rick Lysander, 4-3, picked up the victory in relief of starter Mike Smithson, who scattered three hits over five innings before leaving the game with a sore neck. Ron Davis pitched two innings for his 29th save.

At Anaheim, Calif., pinch hitter Marvis Foley drove a two-out single in the top of the 10th inning to drive in pinch-runner Billy Sample from third base, giving the pesky Rangers the victory. Dave Stewart, 6-14, pitched only his second complete game of the season in 26 starts, allowing only four hits. Jim Slaton, 7-9, was the loser.

ELSEWHERE, DETROIT topped New York 4-1, Milwaukee defeated Toronto 8-5, Boston downed Baltimore 6-2 and Chicago blanked Seattle 4-0.

At Detroit, Jack Morris and two relievers combined on a two-hitter to help Sparky Anderson become the first manager to win 100 games for two different teams. Morris, 19-11, allowed two hits over six innings in the Tigers' 100th triumph of the year.

At Toronto, Doug Loman belted his first two major-league homers to lead the Brewers. Jim Kern worked one and one-third innings of relief for the victory. Ray Searage pitched the final one and two-third innings for his sixth save. Roy Lee Jackson, 7-8, took the loss.

At Baltimore, Jim Rice and Tony Armas blasted two-run homers to lead the Red Sox. Armas, the major league's homerun leader, drilled his 42nd in the first inning after Rice had doubled off Dennis Martinez, 6-9. Rice's 28th homer came after a single by Wade Boggs in the fifth and touched off a three-run inning.

At Chicago, Britt Burns, 4-11, hurled a three-hitter over eight and two-third innings and Vance Law drove in two runs to guide the White Sox. The victory snapped a five-game Seattle winning streak and moved Chicago past the Mariners into fifth place in the American League West.

Riggins runs past Patriots; Vikings edge Detroit, 29-28

United Press International

John Riggins scored his 100th career touchdown and ran for 140 yards and Mark Moseley kicked four field goals Sunday to lead the Washington Redskins to a 26-10 victory over the New England Patriots.

Riggins became only the fifth player in NFL history to score 100 touchdowns as he drove over from 13 yards out in the first period for the game's first score. Riggins, bothered recently by a bad back, also became Washington's all-time career rushing leader, passing Larry Brown's 5,875-yard total by 22 yards.

Moseley hit field goals of 19, 42, 22 and 27 yards, plus two extra points to move ahead of the Patriots' Gino Cappelletti into seventh place on the all-time scoring list, with 1,136 points.

NEW ENGLAND, 2-2, trailed 10-0 at the half. Moseley's second field goal at six minutes, 24 seconds into the third quarter gave the Redskins, also 2-2, a 13-0 lead. Three plays later Tony Eason, the Patriots' new starting quarterback, was sacked and stripped of the ball by linebacker Monte Coleman on his 15. On the next play, Washington's Joe Theismann drilled a pass over the middle to Charlie Brown for the score and a 20-0 lead.

In other games Sunday, it was New Orleans 34, St. Louis 24; Atlanta 42, Houston 10; the Los Angeles Rams 24, Cincinnati 14; Minnesota 29, Detroit 28; the New York Jets 28, Buffalo 26; Cleveland 20, Pittsburgh 10; San Francisco 21, Philadelphia 9; Denver 21, Kansas City 0; Seattle 38, Chicago 9; Dallas 20, Green Bay 6; and Miami 44, Indianapolis 7. San Diego is at the Los Angeles Raiders Monday night.

MATT CAVANAUGH, subbing for the injured Joe Montana, fired three touchdown passes, including a 51-yarder to Dwight Clark, to lift unbeaten San Francisco over Philadelphia. Cavanaugh hit Roger Craig with a 35-yard touchdown pass in the first quarter and fired a two-yard touchdown strike to Freddie Solomon with 12 seconds left in the half to give San Francisco, 4-0, a 14-6 lead. After the Eagles drew to 14-9 in the third period on a 33-yard field goal by rookie Paul McFadden, his third of the game, the 49ers put it away on Cavanaugh's touchdown pass to Clark.

Reserve halfback Wayne Wilson caught a 30-yard touchdown pass from Richard Todd midway through the final period to carry New Orleans past St. Louis. Wilson also scored on a 34-yard option pass from Hokie Gajan. The other Saint scores were a 15-yard pass from Todd to Hoby Brenner and field goals of 25 and 29 yards by Morten Andersen. Frank Watterle returned a fumble 22 yards for a touchdown on the game's final play to give the Saints their 10-point winning margin.

PAUL McDONALD'S second touchdown pass of the game, a three-yarder to Duriel Harris 11 seconds into the fourth quarter, broke a 10-10 tie and Cleveland's three-game losing streak, as the Browns beat Pittsburgh. McDonald hit 15 of 28 for 293 yards, two touchdowns and one interception. Pittsburgh's David Woodley was only nine of 25 for 152 yards.

Pat Ryan threw three touchdown passes to Wesley Walker, including the 35-yard game winner in the fourth quarter, as the New York Jets beat winless Buffalo. The Jets' 21 point outburst in the second quarter gave them a 21-10 halftime lead after Buffalo led 10-0 in the first 15 minutes. Walker's touchdown catches were for 12, 44 and 35 yards.

Steve Bartkowski fattened his league-leading passing statistics by hitting 11 of 13 passes for 195 yards and three touchdowns while leading Atlanta to its rout of Houston. In addition, Gerald Riggs rushed for 120 yards and two touchdowns and Jeff Jackson scored on a 35-yard interception return to help the Falcons hand the Oilers their NFL record 20th consecutive road loss.

JEFF KEMP, MAKING his first NFL start, lofted a 52-yard touchdown pass to Olympic gold medalist Ron Brown late in the third quarter to snap a 7-7 tie and spark the Rams over winless Cincinnati. The Rams' victory was sealed when Mike Lansford kicked a 29-yard field goal with 4:15 left and Mike Guman ran back a desperation onside kickoff 43 yards for a score with only 1:43 to play.

Chris Martin scooped up a blocked punt return and ran eight yards for a score to back a five field goal day by 40-year-old Jan Stenerud and give Minnesota its victory over Detroit. Stenerud's fourth field goal, a 34-yarder with 13:29 left, gave Minnesota a 26-21 lead. His fifth field goal, a 19-yarder, made it 29-21. Gary Danielson had four touchdown passes for Detroit.

DAN MARINO THREW two touchdown passes to Mark Duper, including an 80-yard bomb, and unbeaten Miami rolled over Indianapolis. The 80-yarder came in the second period with the score tied 7-7 and the Dolphins were never challenged after that. Uwe von Schamann kicked his first field goal of the year — a 27-yarder — and Duper caught a five-yard touchdown pass to make the score 23-7 at the half.

Dave Krieg rolled three yards for one score and connected with Eric Lane on a 55-yard pass for another to key a third-quarter scoring burst by Seattle and lead the Seahawks to a romp over Chicago.

WALTER PAYTON PRODUCED most of the offense for the previously unbeaten Bears, rushing for 116 yards to push his career total to 12,091. With his third straight 100-yard game, Payton moved past Seattle's Franco Harris into second place on the NFL's career rushing list. Payton, now in his 10th year, is just 221 yards shy of Jim Brown's NFL record of 12,312 yards. Payton also figured in Chicago's only score, throwing a three-yard touchdown pass to Matt Suhey.

Everson Walls and Michael Downs highlighted a defensive effort that allowed Dallas to survive a bland offensive showing and defeat Green Bay. Walls intercepted two passes and Downs recorded two sacks and blocked an extra point attempt from his safety position in sparking the Cowboys to their third victory in four games.

LINEBACKER LAWRENCE TAYLOR led a strong defensive charge with four sacks and forced a fumble and Phil Simms fired two touchdown passes to lift the Giants over Tampa Bay. Taylor nailed Steve DeBerg for 33 yards in losses and set up a second-period touchdown when he sacked DeBerg and knocked the ball loose.

Tonight, the Los Angeles Raiders pit their phenomenal 20-2-1 record in Monday night games against passing wizard Dan Fouts and the San Diego Chargers, the last team to bump them off in a post-weekend battle, Monday night in the Coliseum.

Indiana's Tom Weidenbenner (98), Joe Fitzgerald (62) and Larry Luther (49) look on as Northwestern's Curtis Duncan (82) carries the ball on a 99-yard kickoff return — a new Wildcat record — for a touchdown in the third quarter Saturday of the Wildcats' 40-37 win over the Hoosiers in Evanston, Ill.

Buckeyes may be team to beat

United Press International

Ohio State has established itself as the team to beat in the Big Ten this year, while tailback Keith Byars has also put himself as a leading contender for the Heisman Trophy.

The Buckeyes, the lone unbeaten club in the Big Ten, romped past Big Ten contender Iowa, 45-28, Saturday in the key match-up of the day.

Michigan, which figures to challenge Ohio State and Iowa for the crown, disposed of a pesky Wisconsin team, 20-14, in its conference opener.

Illinois, ineligible for the Rose Bowl this year, remained atop the league with a 2-0 ledger following a 40-7 shellacking of Michigan State. Northwestern kept Indiana winless with a 40-37 win at Evanston while Purdue kept Minnesota on the skids in the league with a 34-10 triumph.

MICHIGAN COACH Bo Schembechler blasted his club one week ago after being upset by Washington. This week, he praised his team after the Wolverines forced five Wisconsin fumbles.

"We were good enough to beat 'em 20-14," Schembechler said. "I didn't see anybody being sorry for me when I turned it over five times against Washington last week."

Jamie Morris, younger brother of former Syracuse all-American Joe Morris, rushed for 138 yards and gained 45 more in receptions to lead the Michigan offense.

However, Larry Emery gained 185 yards including a 52-yard touchdown for Wisconsin but the Badgers could not overcome their turnovers.

"OUR DEFENSE played well and we moved the ball at times," said Wisconsin Coach Dave McClain, whose team lost for the first time after two wins. "But you just can't have five fumbles and one interception against Michigan. It's frustrating."

A "team" effort on offense and a strong defensive performance led Illinois to its win over the Spartans.

Four Illinois players scored touchdowns, three the result of Spartan fumbles. David Williams caught two Jack Trudeau touchdown passes, and Thomas Rooks, Jackie Johnson and Eric Wycoff each ran for one.

"I want to give credit to our defense," Illini Coach Mike White said. "They mixed up blitzes and coverages. Butler is a big man, he can run, Yarema can throw, and our defense showed we can do the job."

ILLINOIS, 3-1, led by only three at halftime but four scored consecutive touchdowns to break the game open in the second half.

"We played a terrible second half," Spartan Coach George Perles said. "Starting off the kickoff, we couldn't come up with it, then a sack fumble, then a pitch fumble."

The lead changed hands six times before Northwestern's Tracy Parsons scored a two-yard touchdown with 3:11 left to give the Wildcats their first win after three straight losses.

"That final drive was probably the best we've had since we beat Minnesota two years ago," Northwestern Coach Dennis Green said.

Parsons scored three touchdowns in a game that saw Curtis Duncan set a school record with a 99-yard kickoff return.

"WE GAVE AWAY two cheap touchdowns," said Indiana Coach Bill Mallory, still in search of his first win as the Hoosier coach. "Believe me, we earned all of our points. When you score 37 points, you should win."

Orlando Brown tied an Indiana mark with three touchdowns.

Purdue tailback Ray Wallace rushed for 158 yards and three touchdowns to give Purdue its second win in three games.

"It reminded me of when I used to run in high school," Wallace said.

Minnesota, 1-2 and 0-1 in the league, hasn't won in the conference since it beat Purdue two years ago.

Games this week find Illinois at Iowa, Michigan at Indiana, Purdue at Michigan State, Ohio State at Minnesota and Northwestern at Wisconsin.

Wilder's 'Woman in Red' lacks direction, comedy

By Merwyn Grote
Staff Writer

THERE IS only one thing wrong with Gene Wilder's new comedy, The Woman in Red — it's not very funny. And it's not very original. And it's not particularly well directed, or written, or acted. Actually, come to think of it, there are a lot of things wrong with Gene Wilder's new comedy, The Woman in Red.

Wilder plays Theodore Pierce, an upper-middle class San Francisco husband, father and bureaucrat. One day in the parking garage of his office building he spots a pretty young woman in a silky red dress. She steps on an air duct which causes her skirt to fly up, a la Marilyn Monroe in The Seven Year Itch. It is a pleasing sight, but hardly anything to get overheated about. But the woman, thinking that she is alone, steps back on the grating and abandons herself to a few moments of sensual pleasure as the rising air caresses her in all the right places.

Films

The Woman in Red

Written and directed by Gene Wilder. Produced by Victor Drai. Rated PG-13.

Theodore Pierce.....Gene Wilder
Joe.....Joseph Bologna
Buddy.....Charles Grodin
Charlotte.....Kelly La Brock
Ms. Milner.....Gilda Radner

Showing at the Cinema I.

HER LITTLE dance of private carnal enjoyment arouses Teddy's imagination, not to mention his lust, and the rest of the film deals with his ardent pursuit of the woman and his bumbling attempts to successfully commit adultery.

Wilder's film is based on a French film called Un Elephant Ca Trompe Enormement (a.k.a. An Elephant Can Be Extremely Deceptive, a.k.a. Pardon Mon Affaire), but in reality, it is obvious that the film is really based on Blake Edward's "10". On that scale, however, this film would be more properly referred to as "4½". The only real difference is that Dudley Moore was chasing after Bo Derek because he fantasized that she is virgin pure, while Wilder is after the woman in red because he suspects that she is anything but.

It is amazing how rapidly all of this has become so cliché. Men coming down with the middle age crazies and trying to fight off the depressions of male menopause by pursuing sexy young things are now a dime a dozen. And certainly The Woman in Red does nothing to give any new dimension to this mini-genre. Indeed, except for a few minor detours, Wilder's film follows the well-worn path with incredible faithfulness.

A COUPLE of these detours are provided by Teddy's drinking buddies, an obnoxious bunch who seem to be what the creeps in Bachelor Party will be like once they reach middle age. Joe (Joseph Bologna) is a philanderer, Buddy (Charles Grodin) is gay and Michael (Michael Huddleston) seems to be in the film only so he can get punched in the mouth whenever the contrived plot requires a cheap laugh. Joe, Buddy and Michael have problems that are suppose to comment on the dangers and miseries inherent in frivolous affairs, but instead they only provide dead weight to an already slow-moving story.

Also in the film is Gilda Radner as the office spinster who mistakenly believes that she is the object of Wilder's desires. The story puts her in several embarrassing situations, but none quite as embarrassing as the film itself. She is given little of any real importance to do and certainly nothing worthy of her comedic talents. And poor Gilda looks awful. I don't know if she has been sick, the victim of one of those horrible starvation diets or if Wilder made her look this bad on purpose, but the comedienne looks pathetically undernourished and twice her real age. Wilder and Radner recently wed; I only hope he treats her better as her husband than he does as her director.

MODEL KELLY LE BROCK is Charlotte, the woman in red. Le Brock certainly is gorgeous and it is understandable why Wilder's character would become obsessed with her. But Le Brock, like Bo Derek before her, is presented more as a symbol of feminine allure than as a real character, thus she never gets an opportunity to prove if she can act. Broadway actress Judith Ivey appears as Wilder's wife, but it is a thankless part that requires her to be little more than a typical TV-like housewife.

Wilder himself comes off only slightly better. Like a middle-aged cherub slightly past his prime, he exudes a ragged sort of loveable charm, but his usual volatile manicness, which made his past characters slightly dangerous and unpredictable, is missing. Without his usual hint of insanity, the character eventually slips into blandness. Charm can only carry an actor so far.

Had Wilder sensed how unsympathetic his character really is, he might have tried to make the film a parody, like his earlier films, The Adventure of Sherlock Holmes Smarter Brother and The World's Greatest Lover, comedies in the Mel Brooks mold. Instead he labors pointlessly to give his film undeserved pathos and to give the film a dramatic edge.

STEVIE WONDER contributes a pretty good musical score to the film, which he performs in duet with Dionne Warwick, but somehow Wonder's wonderful music seems noticeably inappropriate in a film about the petty sex problems of upper-middle class whites. This seems to be a new trend: films with little obvious appeal for black audiences make a weak attempt to broaden their audience with black-oriented music.

The Woman in Red isn't awful, it is just lame. Viewers seeking to satisfy their lust for a good movie, should look for a more vivacious lady than this.

Thomas Lux and Jane Miller, former students at the UI Writers' Workshop, will read from their poetry tonight at Phillips Hall, Room 100. Each has published several volumes of poetry; each has had work appear in numerous, prestigious literary publications.

Visiting writers Lux, Miller to give joint poetry reading

By Kathy S. Kyte
Special to The Daily Iowan

POETS THOMAS LUX and Jane Miller will give a joint reading of their work tonight at 8 p.m. in Phillips Auditorium.

Lux and Miller both attended the UI Writers' Workshop in the 1970s and have returned to the program this year as instructors. Lux is a visiting lecturer in the poetry workshop, and Miller, who was visiting lecturer during summer semester, is teaching in the English department.

Since their student days, Lux and Miller have each contributed to numerous periodicals and anthologies, and each has published several collections of poems.

Lux has been the recipient of two National Endowment for the Arts grants and has had poetry and essays in dozens of prestigious magazines and journals, including The Paris Review, Ploughshares and Antaeus. His poetry has twice been included in Pushcart Prize anthologies and has been recorded by Harvard University for the Woodberry Poetry Room Collection.

Lux's work is marked by a strong, sometimes ironic, voice. In the poem "Some Technicalities of Grief," from Lux's third book Sunday, the following list is made:

Some of the technicalities of grief are: a ratty shroud, one sardine for dinner, not living long enough to wear out a favorite pair of shoes...

Readings

These are minor but true

Lux continues to explore the "minor" truths that make up the fabric of life in his forthcoming book, Black Road Over Which Green Trees Grow.

Miller, a winner in the 1982 National Poetry Series, has published two books and has a third, Black Holes, Black Stockings, forthcoming from Wesleyan Press. Like Lux, her work has appeared in a number of noted journals as well as in several anthologies, including The Best of Intro 1984 and Feminist Poetics 1984. Her poetry has been recorded for the American Poetry Archive at the Poetry Center in San Francisco.

In Miller's poem "Green of Mildew and of Verdigris," from her 1983 book The Greater Leisures, the question is asked:

what was it
you said we couldn't be eternal about

Much of Miller's work explores the ephemeral-turning seasons, shifting relationships and the changing moods of love.

Tonight's poetry reading is free and open to the public.

Professor: Literature in Poland alive despite political oppression

By Kate Van Orden
Staff Writer

IN POLAND, a writer can step out for a cup of coffee and trip over a pile of his own books on the staircase, returned by readers angered by the writer's public espousal of the system. The attention and concern given to literature in Eastern Europe is exciting. Of course the official censorship is strict (so much so that in Czechoslovakia the word for censor has been censored out of the language), but this is a land in which not just the censors or the writers, but the people could say, "Yes, literature can change life here."

Poland is not such a popular news item as it was in the days of August 1980 when even Iowans were sporting Solidarity T-shirts, but all is not dead or lost, particularly in light of the amnesty granted to many political prisoners last July. Literature is very much alive there, that was the message brought to us by Stanisla Baranczak, professor of Polish languages and literature at Harvard University, in a lecture given Friday evening in 304 EPB.

BARANCZAK'S presentation Friday was entitled "Literature of Dissent in Poland" and included not only a thorough history of post-war literary Poland, but also a rich discussion afterward. One question raised concerned the possibility of a positive relationship between oppression and literature. This is where Baranczak will begin today with his talk, "Poems and Tanks: Polish Poetry Under Martial Law," to be given at 1:30 p.m. in 304 EPB.

A poet himself, and author of six books, Baranczak co-founded the Worker's Defense Committee, which figured heavily in the period before August 1980. He also edited Zapis and other uncensored journals. It was only in 1981 that he came to this country. This is quality literature from a small, pressured country, which could very well inform us about our future lives under the pressures of the modern world.

'Country' opens as benefit in Des Moines

DUNKERTON, Iowa (UPI) — Waterloo-area residents seeing the movie Country next month may see more of themselves on the screen than some famous actor or actress.

Country was filmed mostly on a Dunkerton farmstead and in nearby Readlyn with dozens of locals used as extras.

But the movie, about a contemporary Iowa farm couple who fight to save their land from foreclosure, also features some Iowans in prominent roles.

Levi Knebel of Dunkerton won the role as the son of Sam Shepard and Jessica Lange, who portray Gilbert and Jewell Ivy. Jon Ostercamp of Waterloo plays Cowboy, a mentally disabled son of the Ivys' neighbor and twins Stephanie and Stacie Poyner of Waterloo trade off as the toddler Missy Ivy.

The movie will be shown at the New York Film Festival this Friday and will open in Des Moines Oct. 4 for a special benefit showing for missing paperboys Eugene Martin and Johnny Gosch. The film will make its statewide debut on Oct. 12.

Country was filmed last fall and early winter and took 18 weeks to complete. The shooting interrupted the lives of some of the budding Iowa actors such as Knebel, who had to drop off the Dunkerton football team and take tutoring lessons to keep up with his studies.

The Readlyn blacksmith shop was turned into a feed store and the Chamber of Commerce building became a Farmers Home Administration office, but most of the town was used without makeup.

Arts and entertainment

Entertainment today

At the Bijou

Malcolm X. A 1972 documentary about the revolutionary black leader narrated by James Earl Jones. At 7 p.m.

Peeping Tom. A controversial 1960 film by Michael Powell about an insane photographer who kills women in order to capture their reactions to death on film. At 9 p.m.

Television

On the networks: CBS kicks off its season of mini-series with Judith Krantz's "Mistral's Daughter" (Part one at 7 p.m.), a glossy attempt to raise sex to an art form. Stacy Keach stars as "a swaggering artist" who divides his passions between his art and his models. William Shatner stars as a guy with a different passion — prostitutes — in "Secrets of a Married Man" (NBC at 8 p.m.). Cybil Shepherd also stars as one of the ladies in his sights.

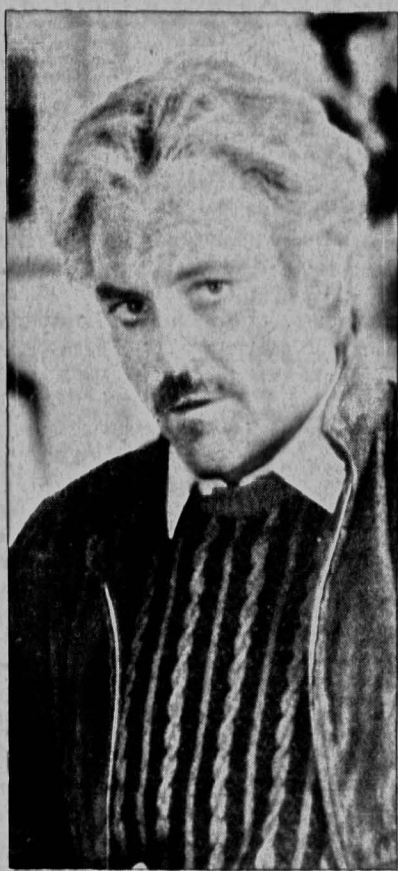

On cable: Burt Reynolds scored one of his biggest hits in Robert Aldrich's "The Longest Yard" (TBS-15 at 7:05 p.m.), about a prison football team. And William Friedkin's "Deal of the Century" (HBO-4 at 9 p.m.) is no bargain, but a raw deal selling Chevy Chase as a funny arms dealer.

Readings

Thomas Lux and Jane Miller will read their poetry at 8 p.m. in Phillips Auditorium. Lux is the author of "Memory's Handgrenade." The Glassblower's Breath and Sunday. Miller's works include "The Greater Leisures, Many Junipers, Heartbeats and the forthcoming Black Holes, Black Stockings."

Lectures

Stanislav Baranszak, a professor in the department of Slavic Languages and Literatures at Harvard University visiting the UI as a guest writer of the International Writing Program, will present the lecture "Poems and Tanks: Polish Poetry Under Martial Law" at 1:30 p.m. in EPB 304.

Nightlife

Student-radio KRUI (FM 89.7) and Miller Beer sponsor Trivia Fight night at Gabe's Oasis. A KRUI disc jockey will be playing music and a trivia contest will be held.
