Gas rupture kills hundreds, injures thousands in India

By Dawn Ummel

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A gas pipeline explosion spread over a 12-kilometer (7.5-mile) stretch Monday, injuring at least 145 people and trapping more than 200 others in one of the worst industrial accidents in India in memory.

The blast at a chemical plant in the southern state of Tamil Nadu killed at least 17 people and injured more than 100 others, officials said.

The blast came just a few days after another major explosion in Mumbai, a city of more than 12 million people, that left one person dead and caused widespread panic among residents.

The accident is the latest in a series of industrial accidents in India that have claimed dozens of lives and injured hundreds more in recent years.

The gas pipeline explosion occurred at the CCL plant in Chennai, a major industrial hub in Tamil Nadu.

A nearby residential area was evacuated after the blast, but the cause of the explosion was not immediately clear.

The blast left a large crater in the ground and sent flames shooting into the air.

Firefighters battled to control the blaze as smoke and flames rose into the sky.

The incident has sparked anger among residents who say they have been living in fear of further accidents.

The government has ordered an investigation into the cause of the blast, but officials said they were still trying to determine what caused it.

The blast came just weeks after another explosion at a gas pipeline in Mumbai that killed one person and injured dozens more.

The Indian government has been under pressure to improve safety standards at industrial plants following a string of accidents in recent years.

The accident in Chennai is likely to further fuel criticism of the government's record on safety.

Five injured as after car strikes pole

By Greg Miller

An Iowa City man lost control of his car and hit a utility pole on South Effington Street in downtown Iowa City on Sunday, causing five people to be injured. The accident occurred at the intersection of South Effington Street and South Young Street. According to police, the man was driving a single-engine propeller plane when he lost control of the aircraft and hit the utility pole. The man was transported to Mercy Hospital where he is reported to be in stable condition.

Iran jets attack super tanker

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Iran’s Revolutionary Guard said yesterday it shot down an Airbus A300 carrying a team of foreign diplomats to Syria after the plane landed safely in Iraq. The plane was carrying a group of foreign nationals who were traveling to Damascus, the capital of Syria. According to the Iranian military, the plane had been operating in violation of international law and was therefore a target for Iranian forces.

Republican plans for social welfare

WASHINGTON — Republicans in Congress have proposed a series of cuts to social welfare programs. The proposed cuts include reductions in funding for food stamps, Medicaid, and federal housing assistance. The moves have been criticized by Democrats who argue that they would hurt low-income Americans.

Israel under attack in Gaza

Gaza City, Gaza Strip — Hamas fighters fired rockets at several locations across Israel overnight, including Beersheba and Ashdod. The attacks come amid ongoing tensions between Israel and Hamas over the recent Israeli-Palestinian cease-fire agreement.

Russian study at UI grows in wake of Reagan policies

By Andrew Laverne Fairfield

Iowa Republican Representative Chuck Grassley of Buena Vista has been one of the leading figures in the study of Russian at the University of Iowa in recent years. Grassley, who was a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee in the late 1970s, is known for his commitment to foreign policy issues. In recent years, he has been a strong advocate for increased funding for Russian studies at the University of Iowa.

Grassley has been a vocal supporter of the study of Russian at the University of Iowa, and he has encouraged his colleagues to support similar programs at other institutions. In a statement earlier this year, Grassley said, "Iowa has a long history of excellence in the study of Russian, and I am delighted to see this tradition continue. We must do everything we can to ensure that our students have the opportunity to study this important language and culture."
Army agents secretly sprayed bacteria in airport

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Army agents secretly sprayed bacteria at Washington's National Airport and at Chicago's O'Hare Airport in 1982 as part of a secret military project in an attempt to evaluate the effects of biological warfare agents. The project was conducted in cooperation with the U.S. Army Biological Laboratories at Fort Detrick, Maryland.

The experiments were part of a broader military project to evaluate the effects of biological warfare agents. The experiments were conducted under the supervision of the U.S. Army Biological Laboratories at Fort Detrick, Maryland.

Guerrilla assault kills 43 soldiers in El Salvador

El Salvador (UPI) - The guerrillas of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front (FMLN) said they killed 43 soldiers in an assault on a U.S.-manned base Thursday.

FMLN spokesman said around 150 guerrillas in a small column surprised the soldiers, who were on guard duty. A FMLN soldier was killed and two others wounded during the battle.

The attack is the fourth major clash between the FMLN and the Salvadoran government military in recent days.

The FMLN has been fighting for a decade to overthrow the military government of President José Napoleón Duarte.

In another incident, officials said a roadside bomb was exploded near a U.S. military base in the capital.

The bomb was detonated near a U.S.-made M117 tank at the base, but no one was hurt.

The FMLN has been blamed for many of the attacks in the country.

The U.S. government has been supplying military aid to the Salvadoran government to help fight the guerrillas.

WOMEN IN SEARCH OF UTOPIA

Mavericks and Mythmakers

This is a cross-cultural anthology inspired by myths of the ancient past—the Sumerians, the Egyptians, the Greeks, their legendary heroes and heroines. In 40 of these stories, a contemporary writer, or mythmaker, has added his unique vision and voice to the tale—absurd, satirical, romantic, a frame from which to explore a parable of daily life as it pertains to the human being.

Spoiling a heritage

The Heritage Foundation, a conservative think-tank that has been an important leader behind American culture wars, has just published a report on the "LSC's Performance and the Need for Reform." The report criticizes the Legal Services Corporation (LSC), a federal agency that provides legal aid to low-income people, and argues that the LSC is a waste of taxpayer money and should be abolished.

The report claims that the LSC is "a massive failure" and that it provides "ungovernable" legal aid to "disadvantaged" groups. The report also claims that the LSC is "rife with corruption and inefficiency," and that it has "a long history of fraud and abuse." The report suggests that the LSC should be abolished and its funds should be used to support other, more effective, programs.

The report is the latest in a series of attacks on the LSC by conservative organizations. In recent years, the LSC has come under fire from a number of conservative groups, including the Heritage Foundation, the American Enterprise Institute, and the Competitive Enterprise Institute.

The Heritage Foundation report is likely to be used by conservative lawmakers and policymakers as a justification for cutting funding for the LSC or eliminating it altogether. The report is also likely to be used by conservative organizations as a means of attacking the LSC and its supporters.

The report is a clear example of the use of conservative think-tanks as weapons against liberal organizations and policies. The Heritage Foundation, like many other conservative think-tanks, is dedicated to promoting the conservative agenda and attacking the liberal agenda. The report on the LSC is just one example of this.

TERREBUTCH is a dancer in the theater. It's a fairly new form; there aren't many of them and there aren't any in our area. Some of the performers feel that they need to get their style of performance off the ground. They want to create a new form of expression that is different from the traditional theater. The audience can be really impressed by their performance and it can be very rewarding for the performers. But it's a fairly new form and there isn't a lot of precedent or structure to it. PERFORMANCE does take place in New York. There are very few of them and it's a very special event. It's a very special way of expressing oneself. There are no restrictions and it's a way to bring out your innermost feelings and desires. But it has to be effective. Terrebuch has been very effective and very good at this. She has a very special relationship with Anthony Porfirio, who is the director of the show. They have a very good rapport and they work together very well. The show is a very special event and it has been very successful. It has been well-received by the audience and it has been very rewarding for the performers.
