President Miguel de la Madrid of Mexico took a harsher line Thursday against the use of other Chilean military bases in his country to support Argentina as it fights for control of the Falkland Islands.

GM Saturn plant in Cedar Rapids would invigorate area, leaders say

By Steve Prairie

The possible opening of a General Motors production plant in Cedar Rapids could be viewed as a potential economic booster for the Iowa community leaders say.

City leaders from Cedar Rapids are tracking to hear the proposed GM plant to their city, which would translate to 2,000 new jobs, increased tax revenue, and a renewed focus on economic development in the area.

"I think this is great news," said Mayor John McDonald of Cedar Rapids. "It will bring new opportunities for our community, and we're excited to be part of it." "GM has always been a leader in the automotive industry, and adding them to our community is a huge win for our economy," said Ken Caldwell, director of economic development for Cedar Rapids.

"We've been working hard to attract companies like GM to our area, and this is a testament to our efforts," said David Sanchez, manager of product publicity for Cedar Rapids. "It's within 50 miles of the metro area, and it's going to be a great addition to our community." "I'm confident that this project will bring a lot of benefits to our community," said Steve Prairie of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce. "We're excited to be part of it and help make this happen."
Two Iowa City groups will assist taxpayers with questions, problems

By James Heiman

Two Iowa City groups are offering tax assistance to you if you need it. The University Libraries'print and online services office in the Iowa City Public Library and the Iowa City Senior Center welcome you to use their facilities, although it's county residents.

Tina Timko, a volunteer from First Baptist Church, Iowa City, helps people prepare their tax forms last year at the Iowa City Public Library. She and other volunteers welcome to use the library's services, although it's not always convenient.

"Before you go to the library, make sure you have all the necessary documents to prepare your tax forms," Timko said. "If you need help, the library has a tax assistance center available during tax season." Volunteers are available to read tax forms in Iowa City Public Library and provide them with out-of-pocket expenses. They work on a voluntary basis, and their services are free of charge.

"We're making quite an innovation in how we do these things with printer technology," said Richard Nelson, program coordinator of the library's tax assistance center.

"The total before you're done with them is about $20,000," Nelson said. "So, we're working on a relatively low-income clientele." Volunteers are trained by the IRS and can help with forms and other tax-related issues.

The Iowa City Senior Center also offers tax assistance. Volunteers are available to help with forms, taxes, and other tax-related issues. They work on a voluntary basis, and their services are free of charge.

"The center is open on Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for tax assistance," said Tim McKeen, program director of the center.

"Our volunteers are trained by the IRS and can help with forms, taxes, and other tax-related issues," McKeen said. "They work on a voluntary basis, and their services are free of charge.

"We're looking forward to helping as many people as possible. If you need help, please come in," McKeen said. "We're here to help you, and our services are free of charge."

Farewell and adieu

The faculty at the UI is composed of many excellent teachers and scholars. In every field, Iowan can be proud of this group. Occasionally, however, a problem stands out so strikingly as to make an especially great contribution to education here. Muriel Lamont and James Van Allen are two such individuals. Lamont has headed the painting department in the School of Art and Art History since 1940. Van Allen has chaired the Astronomy Department for 20 years.

Both men have achieved national recognition for their excellence, but their service to the University is only now being fully recognized by the Library of Congress and the Museum of Modern Art in New York. They have also devoted much of their time to teaching, to the advancement of education here with their energy and enthusiasm.

Now, because of a mandatory retirement rule, both are leaving. Neither will be fully missed, however. Van Allen and Lamont have a great deal to offer as they enjoy a well-deserved retirement and the tranquility of their profession. Iowan is the better for having had them here with us for so long.

Binge or bust?

There are gas wars in Iowa City. Gasoline prices suddenly dropped 3.9 cents a gallon and the average price could go as low as 96 cents a gallon. The good times and the gas savings are expected to last only a short while. Well, many students and some faculty members still believe that is indeed the attitude that will stand and that world energy demand will decrease by 1985. Despite the prediction that oil production will decrease sharply in the last four years and pressure to maintain automobile fuel efficiency, Iowa City has managed to maintain a relatively low price.

Last laugh

The most recent chapter of the ongoing saga of "Who or what killed John Belushi?" was published, all over the headlines meanwhile this week, an accordance hypocritical: Courthouse Smith ended her fight against extraction from Canada in the United States. Smith was indicted by a Los Angeles grand jury in 1980 on charges that included false drugrende and false drug sales. Howard Weitzmann, said Tuesday that he would attempt to plea-bargain them to stand as radioactive monuments to our folly.

"Weitzmann, said Tuesday that he would attempt to plea-bargain them to stand as radioactive monuments to our folly. We don't have the technology to decommission them, leaving them to die as radioactive monuments to our folly.

With energy prices rising, the public is now more concerned about continued conservation and just about anywhere for a rainy day. Now is the time to really begin the debate on energy to research into alternative sources of energy, renewable sources of energy such as wind. When we have the time and the resources, the money, in the time to plan for the future.

Wrong. Although your letter may have been written in the context of the Iowa Bill in connection with more State civil liberties in the future, it addresses the question of whether or not the Iowa abortion law is constitutional under the U.S. Supreme Court decision in the Planned Parenthood of Southeastern Pennsylvania v. Freshman Lewis leads Purdue past Indiana
WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) - Freshman Terry Lewis scored 19 of his 27 points in the first half as Purdue defeated Indiana 75-64 Tuesday. Lewis, a 6-foot-7 forward from the Chicagoland area, scored 11 of his 12 field goals in the first half as the Boilermakers (13-3 overall, 6-2 in the Big Ten) won their fourth straight game. Purdue, which closed within a game of second place in the Big Ten with a win over second-place Michigan, improved its overall conference game, mainly due to the failures of their frontcourt to score. Michigan forward David Lightfoot had six points and 14 rebounds. Purdue's Dino Korokовой scored 15 points and 13 rebounds. Michigan forward Garry Craig put up a dual showing of defense and scoring against Purdue's frontcourt.

Terrell powers Michigan past Spartans
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) - Terrell Turner had 19 points to lead a balanced Michigan offense in a 88-75 win over Michigan State.

Clint Defrump scored 15 points, and 13 rebounds in the game. Michigan (13-3, 9-2 Big Ten) was one-half when Lewis got hot. He hit three straight baskets to pull the Hawkeyes within 30 seconds of Iowa State's 60-57 lead after Lewis scored Iowa State's 19th point of the game.

New-look Badger gymnasts to test Chapela's Hawkeyes
By John McGlade

Waukesha will bring practically the same gaunccists to Carver-Hawkeye Arena Friday as it did last year. But the Bulldogs are a different team this season. As a result, the Hawkeyes are ready to take their chances against the visiting team.

First-year Coach Terry Bryant has transformed a new team under pressure in Microsoft which says he has the team ready for any challenge. But the Bulldogs are determined to show that they are not yet complete as a team and are still growing.

Bryant takes a positive approach to coaching and recruiting for Remain and for converting routines and skills. He does not want to set a number of goals on an event before moving in the next event.

The Bulldogs coach said the point system pushes the athletes to do their best and that the athletes are not only complete as a team, but they are ready to compete. The point system is better than concentrating on only two events each day. Bryant said, "The point system is better because it allows the athletes's pace to remain on and win. "If 11 meet for the final score, then we will take it, "he said.
