Winter warriors

An open field on the west side of Iowa City, above, provides a barren backdrop as cattle from the UI ROTC detachment jog through part of their afternoon "hooch march" last Friday afternoon. The cadets are led by Capt. Vivian Stringer, a new assistant professor in the ROTC program. Cadets jogged single-file through the single-digit temperatures and 40-degree below zero weather in a dash to train for an upcoming competition entitled the Ranger Challenge. The competition is to be held in Texas and the UI detachment will draw cadets from the University of Northern Iowa and Iowa State University. If cadets lose the event, they will advance to regionals and hopefully to the finals later in the spring. The challenge is a five event sport requiring a combination of leadership and individual skills with oriented tactics and physical challenge.

Full-time city attorney advocated

City Attorney John Hayek was the only member of the council who voted for the position to remain part-time. "There isn't any need for the job now," he said. "We don't have a budget. We have to cut back on what we do." He said the city should save money by not having a full-time attorney. However, a city official said there was no plan to cut back on the city's legal services.

JANSEN PAID $43,400

JANSEN, the city's assistant city attorney, was paid $43,400 for his work in fiscal year 1983. He received $43,400 for his work in fiscal year 1983. In addition, he received $1,200 for his work in fiscal year 1983.

JANSEN SAID:

JANSEN said at a recent council meeting that the city's legal department needs a full-time attorney. He said the city's legal department needs a full-time attorney. "We need a full-time attorney," he said. "We can't function without one.

Israel cancels Lebanon talks
TEL AVIV, Israel - Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin cancelled an important meeting with the Lebanese premier on Tuesday, apparently the result of a breakdown in the Lebanese leadership over what to do with the hundreds of thousands of refugees in the southern part of the country.

Rabin's decision was in line with Lebanon's refusal to agree to his offer of an official transference of the refugees to other Arab countries.

The meeting had been rescheduled for Tuesday, following a request by Lebanon for a delay until Friday because of the death of a Lebanon premier. But the Lebanese premier was unable to meet in person Tuesday.

Rabin was expected to reschedule the meeting for a later date.

The talks were expected to have been resumed Wednesday, if Lebanon had accepted Rabin's offer.

The talks were to have concentrated on the withdrawal of about 20,000 Lebanese refugees from southern Lebanon to areas controlled by the Lebanese army.

The issue is important to the Israeli prime minister, who has promised to find a solution within a year for the refugees. The Israeli government currently does not have the resources to absorb the refugees, who are posing a serious social and economic problem for the country.
Economy tops priority lists of local legislators

Plowing to make the revival of past years a reality, Iowans are enjoying the 74th General Assembly in Des Moines, a state that should be served, and where the people are friendly. The Iowa Senate and House are working on legislation that will benefit the state.

Iowa local legislators, Lloyd-Jones, was serving the 37th district, and he is for change in the state legislature. Before his election, he served as president pro-tem of the Senate, and he is a member of the Legislative Bureau.

According to Lloyd-Jones, the Iowa Senate and House agree on the entire committee votes on the legislation. It is a law passed by both the House and Senate.

State Rep. Minette Doderer, D-Oelwein, was serving four terms in the Iowa Senate and House. Her term was coming to an end.

Doderer was chairperson of the House Ways and Means Committee and also on the Legislative Bureau. She was also a majority leader of the Senate.

Doderer served two consecutive terms as a state senator from 1981-1986. During her time in the Senate, she was also chairperson of the Senate Finance Committee.

Lloyd-Jones, however, served as a member of the Iowa Senate and House. She served for four terms and was also a majority leader of the Senate.

The president pro-tem of the Iowa Senate, Terry Branstad, delivered his Condition of the State address during the session.

The state should not become dependent on the federal government for funding. This is predicted in the Iowa budget, which is a 5% increase in education funding.

In 1986, Doderer served two consecutive terms as a state senator from 1981-1986. During her time in the Senate, she was also chairperson of the Senate Finance Committee.

When entering into normal legislation in the Iowa Legislature in a time-consuming process, it is not a complicated procedure. It requires that both the Iowa Senate and House agree on the legislation.

In the Senate, it is written into a draft, usually by a member of the Legislative Service Bureau. The draft is, in fact, filed with the Chief Clerk of the Senate or the Secretary of the Senate, who introduces and assigns it to a committee, which may in turn assign it to a subcommittee.

The subcommittee files a report on the bill and the executive summary to the legislation. It is delivered to the House of the Senate, where it will be received.

In 1986, Doderer served two consecutive terms as a state senator from 1981-1986. During her time in the Senate, she was also chairperson of the Senate Finance Committee.

As governor, Branstad takes final action on all bills approved by the legislators. He may sign the bill into law, veto the legislation or allow the bill to become law without his signature.

The lieutenant governor is the presiding officer of the Senate and may vote to break ties and also on final passages of legislation. He has the responsibility to sign bills in accordance with the policies of the Senate or the House of Representatives.

Democrats hold majority in both the House and Senate. If approved, bills have gone by both chambers. The bill is passed for final consideration.

If concealed, it is delivered to the governor, who can sign it, veto it or allow it to become law without his signature.

Bills usually become law July 1 of the year in which they are approved in legislation, is approved, otherwise otherwise stipulated.

Mediator introduced into contract negotiations

By Charlene Lee

A mediator has been brought in to help with the Iowa City, Iowa, City County and Municipal Employee's contract negotiations. The mediator will help the two sides work out a new two-year contract.

The negotiations began last year when the city and employee union met in the summer months. The mediator was brought in this fall after talks broke down. The mediator, who will be here for two weeks, is to help find solutions for the contract that both sides can agree on.

Ul professor to escort Kim back to Korea

By Jerry Duncan

A UI professor will be among 28 persons who will escort exiled opposition leader Kim Jong-In back to South Korea Thursday. The professor, who is on the board of directors of the American Congress of Korean Americans, was chosen to represent the university in the event.

Professor DeProsse has been nominated to serve as the university's acting chancellor for the rest of the year. Professor DeProsse will be appointed as chancellor after the spring semester.

Lottery

Be a winner, meet a number of legislators.

Proposals to turn the lottery into a real-life lottery world would double the sales but increase the costs, a report by the Iowa Legislature. The report, "A New Era for Iowa," states that the lottery world would increase the sales but increase the costs.

Shuttle

Your ride to campus is too crowded? Take a shuttle to work.

The university has announced that shuttle service will be available to employees and students starting next week. The shuttle service will run from 6am to 9pm, Monday through Friday.

Conference

"Black student number and party politics" is the topic of the conference, which will be held on campus Friday and Saturday. The conference will feature several speakers, including advanced research being conducted by students.

The conference will be held in the morning and afternoon sessions. The morning session will be held in the morning and the afternoon session in the afternoon.

"The rule of the university is developing a community," said Professor Smith. "We should work to bring the reality of technological research to the private sector."
Academically fascinating but the death just west of Chicago, two men, a woman and a child, were gunned down by a police officer who was responding to a "suicide threat" call. The report says the officer was acting on information from a nearby university where a student had made similar threats. The university said it had not been aware of the situation.

Hawks alarm Yoder’s club with big win

By Steve Butterfield

The fire alarm went off in Carver-Hawkeye Arena Sunday afternoon. But if Steve Yoder would have had his way, it would have been at least a two-hour delay. At least until enough time to get the Hawkeyes in place to turn a 15-8 defeat by the Badgers.

No. 8 Wisconsin’s Coach George Roheing [sic] the Hawkeyes had to turn around their season to focus on winning their second straight game. At 1-2, Iowa was not at its best.

"If we had a few more shots here and there, we might have won," Yoder said. "I’ve seen enough of our guys to play well at times. But we need to show more consistency.

BY WALTER RAPPAPORT

It’s the upset of the Big Ten season. The last-place Wisconsin Badgers pulled off a 1-0 upset of the Hawkeyes in Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

The Badgers were coming off a loss to Michigan State in East Lansing, while Iowa had defeated Michigan in Ann Arbor.

In the first half, Iowa was able to use its height advantage on the boards, outrebounding Wisconsin 11-7. But in the second half, Wisconsin was able to outscore Iowa 13-8.

Badgers upset bid foiled by wrestlers

By J.R. Glass

Top-ranked Iowa trailed the unseeded Wisconsin wrestling team 15-14 after the first set, but the Hawkeyes came back to win the meet 21-18. The Hawkeyes were led by Junior Derek DAVIS, who won both the 134-pound and 167-pound matches. Davis took the lead with a 6-0 victory over Wisconsin’s Magnar Jensen in the 167-pound match.

"WISCONSIN CRACK Bases"

Buckets had been marking on the arm and in a subtle fashion in the first half. But at the half, Wisconsin had turned the tables and was up by two points.

Evert Lloyd hands Navratilova rare defeat

Evert Lloyd handed former world No. 1 Martina Navratilova a rare defeat Sunday when the American defeated the Czechoslovakian 6-3, 6-3 in the $72,000 World Tennis Invitational. Lloyd, playing her first match in more than a year because of a foot injury, was able to hold off Navratilova in the first set and defeat her in the second set. Navratilova, who has won 19 tournaments this year and is ranked second in the world, looked flat in her first match against another top player since she returned to the Tour from her foot injury in March. Lloyd, who has a 7-4 career mark against Navratilova, said she learned to be more patient and forceful against the Czechoslovakian. "I knew that I had to be patient and forceful, that I couldn't hit her down the middle all the time," Lloyd said. "I felt like I had a good edge, so I hit her down the middle and made her hit the ball up. I think it made her start to err and she started to lose concentration." Lloyd, who became world No. 1 in 1981, said the opponent's lack of form and concentration was key to her victory. "I think that's what it was. I was just hitting the ball well and my confidence is up. I've been playing on the Tour well and I've been able to come back well from injuries," Lloyd said. "I felt like I played really well in the first set and I think it made her start to err in the second set. I think I played well in both sets and I'm happy with my performance." Navratilova said she was disappointed with her performance and attributed her loss to her lack of concentration. "I lost my focus and I lost my concentration," Navratilova said. "I think I played well in the first set, but I didn't play well in the second set. I had a hard time getting my focus back and I was up two sets to love and then I lost." Navratilova, who has won 52 tournaments this year, said her goal for the rest of the year is to get back to the top of the rankings. "I want to get back to the top of the rankings," Navratilova said. "I want to get back to the top of the rankings and I want to win some more matches. I want to be the best player in the world and I want to win some more matches." Lloyd, who has won 41 tournaments this year, said she is happy to be back on the Tour and is looking forward to the rest of the year. "I'm happy to be back and I'm looking forward to the rest of the year," Lloyd said. "I'm happy to be back and I'm looking forward to the rest of the year." Sports

Gillespie takes pentathlon title

Good competition was the rule rather than the exception this weekend for the Iowa women's track team as it competed in the Big Ten Championships. The Hawkeye team finished second overall and earned a berth in the NCAA Championships.

"We had some good races today," said Coach W. Ross. "We had some good performances and we're happy with our results. We're happy with the way we competed." The Hawkeye team finished second overall with 112 points, four points behind Maryland and four points ahead of Michigan. The Hawkeye team finished first in the 5000-meter run and second in the 1500-meter run.

Swimmers displace Gophers

Bob McEwan, coach of the Iowa men's swimming team, said his team was "in awe" of the performance by Gophers' Tom Stein on Saturday. Stein, in winning the 400-yard freestyle, set a Big Ten Championship record of 3:38.53. Stein, who had a time of 3:39.25 at the Big Ten meet, said he was "in awe" of the performance by Gophers' Tom Stein. Stein set a Big Ten Championship record of 3:38.53.

Houghton ‘encouraged’ with play; depth holds key to Iowa fortunes

By Steve Borsellino

Cochise Dave Houghton said it is "encouraged" about Iowa's fortune this season in men's tennis after watching the Hawkeyes compete in the CCIW Championships at Champaign, Ill., last weekend.

"The competition was good," Houghton said. "The meet, which is really the Big Ten tournament, according to Houghton, that limited the Hawkeyes' chances for success.

"We got home really bad drawn," Houghton said. "In the first round, we played No. 1 seed and the No. 3 seed, and we played the No. 2 seed. So, it was tough. We lost at home with a first-round win over Marquette of Illinois, 6-3, 6-4, before losing to Minnesota's Matt Graue, the eventual champion, in the second round, 6-4, 6-4.

"We've had a good year," Houghton said. "We've had a good year, and we've been able to compete. But it's not like last year, so these are the spots," Houghton said. "Traditionally, our strength has been depth and this meet was for the Big Ten.

"Some of the Hawkeyes who played in the playbacks, Garlick defeated Michigan's Perry, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4. In the play-offs, Garlick defeated Michigan State's Paul Marburger, 6-2, 6-3, and Ohio State's Mike Monroe, the No. 4 seed, in the first competition.

"The competition was good," Houghton said. "The meet, which is really the Big Ten tournament, according to Houghton, that limited the Hawkeyes' chances for success.

"We got home really bad drawn," Houghton said. "In the first round, we played No. 1 seed and the No. 3 seed, and we played the No. 2 seed. So, it was tough. We lost at home with a first-round win over Marquette of Illinois, 6-3, 6-4, before losing to Minnesota's Matt Graue, the eventual champion, in the second round, 6-4, 6-4. We've had a good year," Houghton said. "We've had a good year, and we've been able to compete. But it's not like last year, so these are the spots," Houghton said. "Traditionally, our strength has been depth and this meet was for the Big Ten.

"Some of the Hawkeyes who played in the playbacks, Garlick defeated Michigan's Perry, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4. In the play-offs, Garlick defeated Michigan State's Paul Marburger, 6-2, 6-3, and Ohio State's Mike Monroe, the No. 4 seed, in the first competition.

Mumenshchanz redefines mime

The members of Mumenshchanz develop and construct the masks themselves, including masks for the full-body. "It's part of the creative process," Schurch said. "We don't need to be bound by what material is right for an image, we want to create, or what image is appropriate for the material. Then the audience can join in, create the fantasy," she said.

The masks that the group developed are meant to be abstract and communicate the image they want to create, or what material is right for an image. The members of Mumenshchanz are skilled at creating masks that can be understood by everyone, including ones for the full-body. Schurch attributes this to the group's use of masks that can be understood by all.

According to Schurch, the group's use of masks that can be understood by all is a result of the group's focus on creating masks that can be understood by everyone, including the audience. She said, "We don't need any special background or education to understand these materials." The masks that the group creates are meant to be abstract, and can be understood by everyone, including the audience. Schurch said, "We want to create a world where the audience can participate, we don't give away the image we want to create."
Broadway ‘Ladies’ offers all show biz

By Allen Haynor

The 1985 Tonys were filled with shoutouts—so much so that they shouldn’t have lived, because Broadway’s Ladies of the Night should have been poring over a bawdy, history-packed script. The show, which opened last week at the Hyatt Regency in Des Moines, is in fine voice, and the performers are having the time of their lives.

The show is based on the life of singer, actress, and author Mary Livingstone, who was married to the radio host Jack Benny. The show, which is a musical comedy, follows Mary’s career from her early days in vaudeville to her career as a Hollywood star. The show is directed by Jerry Zaks and choreographed by Tony Anselmo.

The cast is led by Stephanie J. Block as Mary Livingstone and Ben Savage as Jack Benny. The show also features a cast of Broadway veterans, including Bill Irwin, Karen Ziemba, and Michael McGrath.

The show is filled with songs and dances, all of which are performed by the cast. The show’s opening number is a parody of the famous “I Love Lucy” episode, “Lucy and Ricky.” The show’s finale is a medley of classic songs from the 1940s and 1950s, all of which are performed by the cast.

The show is filled with laughs, and the cast is well-received by the audience. The show’s success is due in part to the cast’s ability to keep the audience laughing throughout the performance.

Overall, the show is a fun, entertaining night at the theater. The cast is talented, the music is great, and the audience is having a great time. Highly recommended for anyone who enjoys a good musical comedy.
