Council will seek full-time city attorney

By Dean Lessen
Cedar Rapids

The Iowa City Council agreed Monday night to search for a full-time city attorney to replace outgoing City Attorney Robert Jones, who has held the position part-time for the city while operating a private practice. Iowa City's previous part-time attorney, appointed by former Mayor Marge Busken, responded to the council that it change the status of the city attorney position from part-time to full-time with a minimum annual salary of $42,000.

The council will now draft a job description for the full-time city attorney position, which will be approved by the council, and then the city will advertise for the position.

Many council members said they felt Jones had done an outstanding job during his part-time tenure, and would have liked him to remain in the position.

Gay rights clause needs more approval

By Andrew Lessen
Des Moines

The Human Rights Committee did pass the proposed gay rights clause by a narrow margin of 13-12 on a second reading at its meeting Thursday night, but the question of approval may go to the full council by next week.

The wording of the proposed addition, "Among the Freedom of Expression, Freedom of Religion, Freedom of Association, the Freedom of Assembly, the Freedom for Employment, the Freedom for Choice, the Freedom for Privacy and the Freedom for Education," was adopted by the council from those based on national standards.

But several council members, especially those from the conservative side of the council, disagreed with the council's approval of the addition, saying that the council should have voted no, and that approving the addition is not in accordance with the constitution.

The council will hold a public hearing on the proposed gay rights clause in the next meeting, and will consider whether the council should vote yes or no on the proposal.

Businesses say UI students offer some credit

By Greg Phillips

Most national businesses are currently offering to give UI opportunities to students who are majoring in a business-related field, and are planning to go into that field after graduation. The Iowa City Chamber of Commerce, for example, has extended its services to all students who are majoring in a business-related field, and are planning to go into that field after graduation.

"We have a lot of students who are majoring in business-related fields," said UI student Mike Rogan, "and we know that the vast majority of them will go into that field after graduation. We want to support them in doing that, and we think that's important."

UI, state officials express concern over Reagan loan proposal

By Jerry Durham
Special to The Daily Iowan

13 and state officials express concern over a proposal by the Reagan administration to cut off federal aid to state universities, which would amount to approximately $300 million per year for the state of Iowa, according to Rolland Varn, director of the Iowa College Loan and Loan Control Department.

The proposal, aimed at curbing the growth of federal student loans, would require state institutions to offer a lower interest rate on their loans or receive federal aid to cover the difference. This would amount to about $300 million per year, Varn said.

"We actually have fewer employees now than in 1981," says Rolland Gallagher, director of the state's Beer and Liquor Control Department. "No one seems overworked.

"I think the federal government does have a role to play in helping educate students — both in funding the schools and in helping students financially," says Rep. Rich Varn, D-Dubuque, and the proposal was approved. "It would not necessarily undermine public education in this country as a whole, but it would certainly affect the state," Varn added.

"Iowa's Beer and Liquor Control Department has submitted a proposal that would allow the department to receive federal aid for its operations. This would amount to about $300 million per year, Varn said.

EPA plan may speed waste cleanup efforts

WASHINGTON (UPI) - An internal EPA review of proposed regulations that would allow hazardous waste disposal companies to clean up the nation's worst toxic waste sites under the Superfund program.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Environmental Protection Agency Monday proposed regulatory changes to allow companies to clean up some hazardous waste sites under the Superfund program.

EPA is to take immediate action to press forward on the issue without waiting until the regulations are fully drafted, the agency said.

The regulations are part of a package of recommendations that will be published in the Federal Register on page 85,350.

Many of the recommendations would allow companies to clean up sites that are not considered hazardous waste sources, the agency said.

A State of Desperate Plaints

President Mary Louis Perryman five years ago. Since then, UI and State Board of Regents officials have issued numerous dire warnings about the decline in academic quality at the state universities due to funding. And each year they’ve watched their constituents’ support transformed into a logical lever for student and government and the Iowa Legislative.

The news is that this year things are looking up for the regents. Last week, Gov. Terry Branstad, sitting “educational excess” for the UI’s liberal arts bias, would receive in obtaining the increases through boasts that universities are now scrambling to prove which institution has the most to offer in this area.

Forgetting its roots...the UI’s liberal arts bias, would receive increases if the governor’s recommendations are adopted. The UI, lacking in much needed and technological improvements, can be expected to see its liberal arts base, would receive $2.1 million. Grassley presses farm debt issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, on Friday pressed the case of several farmers who are in debt trouble, saying the current rule requires their cash flow to be excellent if they are to receive feedback.

"The council must reconsider the current rule," Grassley said Friday in a meeting with the council Monday night. "It is contrary to the letter and the spirit of the legislation of 1985. It is contrary to the letter and spirit of the legislation of 1985."

The letter was written by Grassley, Senate Republican leader Bob Dole of Kansas, Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole of Kansas, and Sen. Henry Marsh of Missouri. It said the current rule requires the council's feedback to be excellent.

Pistons give Daly one-year extension

Detroit, MI (UPI) — The Detroit Pistons have extended a one-year contract Monday to point guard Dave Daly, who has led the team in scoring and assists each of the last two seasons. This means, he came to Detroit in the second season after serving as a broadcast analyst for the New York Knicks, for whom he was an assistant coach for more than four seasons.

The Pistons are currently enjoying an eight-game winning streak. A win against Boston would extend their record to 31-11, a season-high.

Wright leads Big Ten in field goal percentage

Iowa forward Gerry Wright leads the Big Ten in field goal percentage in Big Ten basketball statistics released Monday. Wright, who is shooting at a 61.4 percent clip, is also eighth in the league in scoring, averaging 14.3 points a game. During Thursday’s game in Iowa City, Wright shot 9-for-14 from the field for 23 points and eight rebounds as Iowa defeated Michigan State, 82-64.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Former Big Ten Basketball Coach of the Year Don Donnay Monday was named coach of the Indianapolis Colts, a struggling NFL franchise he hopes to turn into a playoff team in five years.

"I think it’s the spring to get yourself ready for the season, the spring to get yourself ready for the next year," Donnay said. "You look forward to a long relationship with the fans.

The choice of Donnay ended months of speculation about who would replace Frank Reich, who resigned one game left but mustered to take the job at catching with the NFL’s Arizona Cardinals.

Donnay, 53, spent a total of three years with the Cardinals, the Chicago Bears and the Los Angeles Raiders as an offensive coordinator. Donnay has been with the Bears since he signed a contract to coach the team in 1981. Donnay also spent a total of six years with the Los Angeles Raiders as an offensive coordinator and a player. The Cardinals coaching staff ranked in the top four in the NFL during a season in 1984.

COACHES generally were optimistic about Donnay’s selection, especially with his two years as an offensive coordinator.

With Donnay’s help, the Colts last season posted the best passing attack in the NFL and the second most productive offense in the NFL, averaging 19.4 points a game. The Cardinals coaching staff ranked in the top four in the NFL during a season in 1984.

Coach Dooley named coaches’ coach

Athens, GA (UPI) — University of Georgia coach Vince Dooley Monday was named college football’s coach of the year by The Sporting News. Dooley coaches and players were interviewed by The Sporting News. Dooley, who has led Georgia to a 10-1 record and a victory in the Sugar Bowl, has won three SEC championships in the last three years.

DOOLEY led his team to the Sugar Bowl and the national championship game last season. He also led his team to the SEC championship game in 1981.

"I am so proud of our team," Dooley said. "It’s hard to believe we won the national title and lost only one game."

Several former Georgia players who have gone on to play in the NFL were interviewed by The Sporting News. Dooley’s team has won two SEC championships in the last three years.

"The key to our success has been our defense," Dooley said. "We have the best defense in the SEC."

The BEST OF 84 RECORDS

The Top 40 puts excitement in the airwaves

By Allen Happ

A LTHOUGH TERMINALS like Paul Eluard's "Darwin's Lament" and John Lennon's "Imagine" have been as significant a hit this year as the heady anticipation of a warm weather, the most consistently entertaining development in recordings for 1984 seemed to have a certain amount in common. Nowhere was that more apparent than in the top-100 best-selling albums of the year. While there was definitely still a place for nostalgia, the easy-listening, babyboomer-of-the-70s songs of yesteryear, there was also a firm mandate for the now-genres, with a push-pulse lower key being applied to the level of quality and sophistication. And, while this was the case everywhere, the most consistently entertaining recordings of the year were those that successfully served as a bridge between the two.

The most eagerly awaited of these was the album of the year, Paul McCartney's "Give My Regards to Broad Street." The album was the best-selling of the year, with more than 5 million copies sold. It was a critical and commercial success, and it marked a return to form for McCartney, who had been struggling to find his footing since the breakup of the Beatles. His new album was a departure from the past, with a more experimental and electronic sound that appealed to a new generation of listeners.

The second most popular album of the year was "Purple Rain," by Prince. The album was a critical and commercial success, and it marked a new direction for Prince, who had been a superstar of the 1980s. His new album was a departure from the past, with a more experimental and electronic sound that appealed to a new generation of listeners.

The third most popular album of the year was "The Best of 84," by Various Artists. The album was a critical and commercial success, and it marked a new direction for Various Artists, who had been a superstar of the 1980s. His new album was a departure from the past, with a more experimental and electronic sound that appealed to a new generation of listeners.

The fourth most popular album of the year was "You're the One," by Missing Persons. The album was a critical and commercial success, and it marked a new direction for Missing Persons, who had been a superstar of the 1980s. His new album was a departure from the past, with a more experimental and electronic sound that appealed to a new generation of listeners.

The fifth most popular album of the year was "The Best of 84," by Various Artists. The album was a critical and commercial success, and it marked a new direction for Various Artists, who had been a superstar of the 1980s. His new album was a departure from the past, with a more experimental and electronic sound that appealed to a new generation of listeners.

The sixth most popular album of the year was "The Best of 84," by Various Artists. The album was a critical and commercial success, and it marked a new direction for Various Artists, who had been a superstar of the 1980s. His new album was a departure from the past, with a more experimental and electronic sound that appealed to a new generation of listeners.

The seventh most popular album of the year was "The Best of 84," by Various Artists. The album was a critical and commercial success, and it marked a new direction for Various Artists, who had been a superstar of the 1980s. His new album was a departure from the past, with a more experimental and electronic sound that appealed to a new generation of listeners.

The eighth most popular album of the year was "The Best of 84," by Various Artists. The album was a critical and commercial success, and it marked a new direction for Various Artists, who had been a superstar of the 1980s. His new album was a departure from the past, with a more experimental and electronic sound that appealed to a new generation of listeners.

The ninth most popular album of the year was "The Best of 84," by Various Artists. The album was a critical and commercial success, and it marked a new direction for Various Artists, who had been a superstar of the 1980s. His new album was a departure from the past, with a more experimental and electronic sound that appealed to a new generation of listeners.

The tenth most popular album of the year was "The Best of 84," by Various Artists. The album was a critical and commercial success, and it marked a new direction for Various Artists, who had been a superstar of the 1980s.
